First Temperature Went to 16, Then Fell Back to

LINCOLN, NEB., March 2.-Two March temperature records were broken in Nebraska to-day. At 1 o'elock this afternoon in Lincoln, the weather bureau thermometer indicated 79 degrees, the highest tempera-ture for March of which there is record. One hour later it had fallen twenty degrees and at 7 o'clock to-right the reading was 16 above zero, a fall in six hours of 63 degrees, a descent likewise without precedent

Throughout the afternoon and night a tremendous gale has been blowing from the northwest.

On Thursday evening Feb. 25th while Barnes Armor,a '9 year old boy, was on the street near the postoffice he was attacked and thrown to the ground by a strange dog. Men standing near drove the dog away and later shot him. The heavy overcoat worn by the boy saved him from serious injury.

Mrs. George McGinley fell down stairs Monday morning breaking her right arm, also sustaining other injuries. She was taken to the Lock Haven hospital for treatment.

On Tuesday morning about 2 o'clock Mitchel Weaver awoke and found that his meat house was on fire. With the aid of several neighbors he soon extinguished the flames. His meat was slightly damaged.

At a meeting of the Howard hose company Monday evening the following officers were elected: President, Wm. Weber; secretary, D. A. Irvin; assistant secretary, A. A. Pletcher; treasurer, John Weber; foreman. J. W. Mayes; assistants, Ward V. Schenck and Walter Jenkins.

tents bears such names as Max Nordau, Edmun Gosse, Cyrus Townsend Brady, H. G. Wells and Clara Monris. In the leading article the editor Mr. Walker, deals in a striking and prophetic manner with the question of aerial flight, predicting that within a year the airship will be a practical success, and that within a quarter of a century aerial navigation will be the safest means of transportation. The illustrations form a pictorial history of the development of balloons and flying-machines. Max Nordau contributes a paper on "Socialism in Europe," and Edmund Gosse a delightful essay on "Immortality and Fame." Gertrude Lynch discusses the "Art of Coquetry," and William R. Stewart contributes an illustrated article on public banquets; Clara-Morris gives her reminiscences of the late Jus-tice Lamar. Fietion is contributed by H. G. Wells, Howard Mankle Hoke, Clinton Danger-field and Cosmo Hamilton. The popular Captains of Industry series is continued with W. K. Vanderbilt and Peter Cooper Hewitt.

Although, Mr. Burrell is a member of the organization, so well was it kept a secret, that he had not the remotest idea that such a visit, was in contemplation. It was a surprise party in every sense of the word. Besides the members of the order, quite a large numberiof his relatives and friends were present. An elegant and substantial supper had been quietly provided to which all did ample justice. An evening of extreme pleasure and enjoyment followed. Professor C. E.
