

-Most of us are land poor. There are thousands of money making farms in this country of less than ten acres each. As a rule the small farms make the most money. Look at the prosperous truck gardeners. Intense cultivation does it.

-One of the best manures for the garden is made by mixing two bushels of fine bone with a wagonload of stable manure and allowing the mixture to stand. The bone makes the manure heat more quickly, and the manure softens or dissolves the particles of bone.

stand. Spend your energy in patiently making the animal understand instead of spending it in whipping him.

-Corn ground should be plowed, if possible, as soon as the weather permits, as the action of the frost will render it fine and save much of the labor of perparation later in the season. One mistake usually made with corn is that of not thoroughly pulverizing the soil previous to putting in the seed.

-If you work for high accomplishment, twelve hours a day will not weary you as much as eight hours' drudgery simply for the hire alone. In the one case, too, you may round out a century with all the faculties alert and intact, but in the other, you will be a feeble old man at fifty, and will never live to see three-score years.

-Some of the best-paying farms in the United States consist of almost pure-white sand, but they are devoted to fruits and poultry, thus economizing labor and space. The success of a farmer does not depend so much upon the quality of the soil as upon the kind of crops and mode of manage ment.

-Hot-beds should be well aired, by raising the sash on warm days, but they should be well covered and protected at night. The temperature can be kept to. within a few degrees of the point required by keeping a close watch and giving care to the bot-beds. Fresh borse manure is the best to use for creating warmth. It is more rationally. White, as always, is the not too soon to make the frames and have everything ready for beginning the hot-

-Strawberries do well on a great va riety of soils, but succeed best on soils that have some clay in them. Any land that will grow good timothy will grow good strawberries. By planting early varieties on sandy land, sloping to the south, very early berries can be grown, and by planting late varieties on a northern slope of clay land late berries can be secured. By this means we may have berries somewhat later than is usually the case.

-When growing cacambers for pickles it is necessary to pick off the cucumbers before they exceed two inches in length. Should the vines be permitted to fulfill their mission-growing seed-they will cease to be productive, hence not a single cucumber on a vine should be allowed to As long as the small cucumbers mature. are picked off it will increase the number, as the vine will continue to supply others in their place in the effort to mature them. All one piece frocks are fashionable both for girls and boys, with the Russian blouse a great favorite. Pleated skirts with blouses arc in vogue and cloth, serge and wash materials are used for both these models. The long waist and short skirt design still holds its own, but in many cases is so exaggerated that it is more upt to go out of favor than if it were treated The leather belt is still exclusively used for children's blouses.

Although all may not have regular or classic features it is possible for every one to have a good complexion and that counts many points in a beauty contest. Every baby has a skin like satin and a roseleaf complexion and it certainly is not a car-dinal sin or an indication of weak character to wish to preserve what we were given. But no one can have a good complexion who is not healthy.

The theory that it is necessary to take some medicine in the spring has been superseded by a new oue, -- take more exer-cise and eat less food. One cannot eat too much spinach. lettuce, watercress, dandelion and carrots; they are guaranteed com-plexion beautifiers. If girls would eat more fruit and less meat, their skins would grow velvety. And besides more fruit, more water is needed to wash the impurities from the system. Every grown person should drink not less than three pints of water aday. Coffee and tea taken in moderation will hurt no one; but there is food for reflection in the vegetarian's statement that these beverages will in time

Some years ago the walnut trees were cut down in great numbers, and the timbers used for various purposes by many of the farmers for building fences. But instead of cutting them down now, they are cultivating them largely, especially in the East. In some districts the people leave their routine work and gather walnuts when they are ripe, and although the reward is not great, yet it more than pays for the time and trouble spent. Many farmers deal directly with commission merchants in the large cities, and send to them either the kernels already picked out or the whole nut. The thing enormous and is steadily increasing. The cracking and extracting of the kernels of English walnuts, almonds, pecans and filberts has become quite a business in many of the large jobbing houses, where they are prepared for the fancy grocer and confectioner. It is found that the best way to crack a nut, in order to obtain the kernel whole, is to strike the nut on the stem end, otherwise the kernel will most likely be broken.

old fruit cans or small boxes, and if well cared for they will grow fast and be of fair air without fear of danger should the nights ecome cold. The same plan may be pursned with many other vegetables.

-When trees are planted the roots should have a fine, mellow bed of soil, which should be pressed firmly in contact with every fibre, leaving no air space around them, and all should be spread out in natural positions. The soil should be pressed very firmly around all the roots, so that the new roots will be encouraged to make rapid growth. If the soil in which the tree is planted is the same as the one from which it was taken the tree should be set the same depth as it was before it was removed. If the soil is heavier the tree should be shallower, or if lighter it should be placed deeper. The surface of the soil over the roots should be fine and light, because the capillary tubes are then broken up and the moisture cannot escape.

--The trimming of grape vines should be done in the spring of the year, before the sap ascends. To trim them after the san ing," The latter is what every grape grower wants to avoid, because it de-teriorates the vines; draws away their and spoils the eyes. Certainly if hot wastrength, and will result in the reduction of at least one-half of their bearing capacity for that year. The time generally selected for cutting these vines is from the middle of February to the middle of March. This year, however, the time will be extended to April 1st. The reason why grape vines are not trimmed in the fall of the year is that if the winter should happen to be severe, the tender wood of the vines would he frozen, and the cutting would have to he repeated.

-There are three early crops that should be given attention almost before winter is over—onions, asparagns and rhubarb. Onions will stand considerable frost, and are frequently put out in March, if the weather moderates, but April is more favorable. The ground cannot be too rich, and for a small plot the sets are used. The ground should he deep, plenty of well-rotted manure applied and the sets kept free from grass and weeds until the crop gets well under way. Asparagus and rhu-barb should now receive a heavy coating of manure, so that the liquid portions may be carried down by the rains. ter is used to clean the face (as is frequent-ly necessary), it should be followed by the tonic cold bath and no unpleasant results will follow. If one has to go out of doors soon after the face cleaning, the superfluous cream should be wiped off with a soft old linen or silk handkerchief and a good toilet powder lightly dusted over.

Why so many people protest against the use of toilet powder is a mystery since it is considered indispensable for a baby's toilet and if the soft roseleaf complexion of the little one is not injured how can there be harm to an older person? Many people imagine that powder clogs the pores; but if such were really the case, is it not better that pure vegetable powder rather than microbe bearing gritty dust be carried about on oue's face? An excellent formula for a harmless face powder is : four ounces starch powder, one and oue-half ounces of rice powder, half an ounce of orris powder with half a dram of jasmine extract. Ten siftings through a hair sieve are not too many.

Exercise ont of doors every day, breathing keeply, walking with head erect and chest raised; do not eat when desire is nted by the manure.
