-Dr. George B. Klump, who has been a practicing physician in this place for several years has sold his practice to Dr. W W. Feidt, of Williamstown, and will move to Williamsport about April 1st. While Dr. Klump has been quite successful since locating here he has an opportunity to join his uncle who enjoys one of the largest practices in Williamsport, which he regards as baving greater possibilities than remaining in this field.

S. B. Row.-The venerable S. B. Row died at his home in Philipsburg, on Sunday evening, after an illness of more than a Eagle shortly before noon yesterday. The Monday evening and before they got year. He was one of that town's most distinguished and respected citizens. He was born at the old Manor church, in Westmoreland county, December 15th, 1828. His father having been a newspaper publisher, the younger Row learned the printing trade and worked successively on the Greensburg Sentinel, the Somerset Herald. the Pittsburg Mercury and then on the Ohio State Journal, published at Columbus. He had to give up his position at the latter place, however, on account of his health and returning to Pennsylvania was employed on several weeklies in the western part of the State, before he and H. B. Swoope Esq. purchased the Raftsman's Journal, of Clearfield. They conducted that paper through various vicissitudes until in 1861 he was appointed a special agent for the Post-office Department, a position

Lincoln in the Presidency. In 1866 he removed to Gettysburg to engage in the mercantile business and six vears later returned to Clearfield. In 1882 he located in Philipsburg, which had been his home ever since.

The later years of his life were spent in retirement, though he found much pleasure in writing. Most of his contributions to the public press were of an historical nature and of a peculiar value, since they dealt with topics of interest to particular communities, vet unwritten anywhere in

In August, 1861, he married Miss Ellen Brown Lanich, of Clearfield. She died in 1886; leaving four of their children, who survive as follows : Edgar C., of Greensburg; Agnes E., Mrs. F. F. Irvin and Harry, of Philipsburg.

Funeral services were conducted at th Potter house Tuesday evening and the body was taken to Clearfield for interment Wednesday morning.

DANIEL HESS .- The life of one of the county's useful citizens and a man who will ever be remembered as one of the most prominent of our pioneer country merchants came to a peaceful close when Daniel Hess died. He passed away at his home at Linden Hall Sunday morning; after a long decline that was the direct result of his advanced years, though a fractured shoulder received from a fall about six months ago added to his other infirmities.

Mr. Hess was born at Aaronsburg September 16th, 1818. When a young man he located at Linden Hall and about his store there quite a thriving little village sprung up. He was enterprising, progressive and public spirited. When the project for building the Lewisburg and Tyrone railroad was being agitated he was foremost in the work. As a result of his many activi-

The sadness that has fallen on this family within the past few years has really been more than most people are called upon to hear. Surviving are Mrs. Clevenstine, who is a sister of Henry Walkey, of this place, her sons. Harry E., of Bellefonte, and John S., a year ago at the age of 18.

Interment will be made this morning; Hublersburg.

A SAD DEATH-Holden Stott, eldest son of the late Albert Stott and who is well known here, where his boyhood days were spent, died Monday, the 14th, in Harrisburg at the home of his grand parents with whom he had residence since his childhood and the death of his mother. He was nineteen years of age and his death is particularly sad following so closely that of his father. He had not been well for 1875. more than a year with lung trouble but was only confined to the house four weeks. His younger brother, Ralph, is in the hospital being treated for tuberculosis of the spine, with very little hope of his recovery.

-David M. Bilger, the venerable and property, a one time very popular resort near Philipsburg, died at his home there on Tuesday at the age of 85 years. He was an ohester and Pittsburg R. R. Relief and of uncle of Mrs. G. W. Rees, of Reynolds Ave., this place.

ENOS T. HICKLEN. - Enos T. Hicklen died very suddenly at his home at Mt. exact cause of his death is not known, though it is supposed to have been the result of heart trouble. About twelve years ago he fell into a culvert that he was having built and ever since had suffered more or less from the effects of it. For years and years he had charge of a section on the Bald Eagle valley rail-road and retired with the roll of honor men of that company when he attained his seventieth year.

While preparing to go to Howard last Thursday he suddenly fell over, but soon regained all his faculties. Since that time he had been under a physician's care and suffered several more collapses before he expired vesterday.

Mr. Hicklen was about 72 years old and is survived by his widow and two sons: Will, in Cedar Rapids, Iowa; and Chaney, in the First national bank of this place. which he filled until Johnson succeeded He was a very reputable gentleman and lived a life of usefulness to those about him.

MRS. ROLAND G. CURTIN.-Mrs. Julia Taylor Curtin, wife of Dr. Roland G. Curtin, died at the family home on south Eighteenth street, in Philadelpnia on last Friday evening, after a few day's illness. While returning from church the Sunday previous she suddenly dropped unconscious to the sidewalk and was carried into a house near-by. Later she was removed to her own home where she steadily grew worse until the end came. She was 59 vears of age and is said to have had an extremely pleasant disposition. Endowed with a good intellect. she was an influential member of the society of Colonial Dames and devoted much of her time to charity. On Tuesday morning her body arrived in this place, accompanied by her husband and near friends in a private car and interment was made in the Curtin burying ground in the Union cemetery. The burial services were read by the Rev. W. P. Kemper, rector of St. James church of Philadelphia, and Rev. Geo. Israel Brown, of this place.

MRS. ELIZA MCCLOSKEY. -Mrs Eliza McCloskey, relict of Henry McCloskey, died at the home of her daughter Mrs. Mc-Cormick, at Potters Mills, on last Friday, at the age of 79 years.

Surviving are her daughters Ellen, wife of John F. Miller; Laura, wife of W. W.

McCormick and Caroline, at home. Interment was made at Sprucetown or Wednesday.

-The latter part of last week and the fore part of this has been a great time for at home. Their daughter Cora died about the old boys on our list. Something must certainly have happened, for a great lot of them have squared up and gone ahead, setafter services have been conducted in the ting a pace that will be hard for some of Reformed church by the Rev. Crow, of our old-time leaders to keep up to. It was such an unexpected break-loose that we hardly know what to make of it, unless the good people have decided that they won't he back numbers any longer.

WILLIAM STRUBLE KILLED AT OLEAN. -William C. Struble was killed at Olean. N. Y., on Friday night, while in pursuit aud Emporium local freight. He was a son of Jared and Fannie Struble and was born at Pleasant Gap, October 23rd,

For a number of years he had worked in the lime kilns about here, having been a fireman at the American's Armor Gap kilns until three months ago, when he went to railroading.

William was a pleasant, conscientious industrious fellow, a member of the Wear er Methodist church and a young man of well-known proprietor of the Arctic springs sterling character. BOROUGH COUNCIL'S MEETING - The new council got down to real work on through with the business on hand quite enough had been said and done to show that this body intends being heard from. While there were reports of minor business by the chiefs of departments the more important matters occupying the attention of council were ones that every taxpayer will be interested in.

The proposition of J. Howard Lingle to put in a new pump and repair the old wheel at the water works building at an approximate cost of $1,395 was presented by chairman Fenlon of the Water Improvement committee. It was practically a proposition to re-install the old water pump that was taken out and destroyed at the time the tinkering begun at the water works; the idea being to save whatever water power is now going to waste at the spring itself. The old pump was said to have delivered from 150,000 to 200,000 gallons of water per day to the reservoir. The one that is to replace it is guaranteed to deliver from 100,000 to 175,000 gallons per day. At the established rate of 6 cts. per thousand gallons and pumping only 100,-000 gallons per day this pump ought to pay for itself in less than a year which would make it appear like a very reasonable proposition. But we submit that it is an expenditure that is entirely unwarranted at this time. If the Phoenix pumping station delivers all the water the borough uses there is no immediate need for this auxiliary pump. If the Phoenix pump fails to insure a supply because of low water in the creek then this auxiliary pump will not be large enough to make up the deficiency and the steam pumps will have to be run also. The latter would deliver the 100,000 gallons per day delivered by the small water pump and whatever else would be required of them without appreciable difference in expense. Looking at it in this light and also considering that council has already a floating indebtedness of nearly $10,000.00 it would seem that at this time, especially, the expense of re-installing that supplemental water pump should not be incurred. We do not pretend to say that this pump should not be put in at all because that would be foolish. At some time, however, when the borough has more money at hand and there is a demand for more water than the Phoenix pump will deliver it would be expedient. Members Kirk and Keichline were the only ones voting against the proposition.

V. J. Bauer was appointed assessor for the current year.

-On Monday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Lee and their little daughter, who have been staying with relatives in Centre Hall and Potter township since their big sale on the Milliker farm on March 8th, started for their new home in Iola, Kansas. Mr. and Mrs. Lee are not leaving their native heath because they are tired of it, but it is simply another case of less work and better pay. They were obliged to stop farming on account of the scarcity of help and Mr. Lee was offered a good position in lola, where his nephew is superintendent of a large smelter. They are excellent citizens and it matters not whether their home is in Centre county or Kansas they will be a factor for good-both morally and industrially-where ever they are; but it seems a pity to squander such Democrats and farmers on unreliable Kansas.
