-Proprietor H. S. Ray, of the Brockerhoff house, slipped into town Friday night in a new Oldsmobile that he bad purchased at Syracuse, N. Y. a few days before and driven overland to this place. Of course Mr. Ray is a better hotel man than he is a chaffeur and that is the reason he had a rear end collision with a lumber wagon near Jersey Shore that resulted in the loss of the dash board and lamps from the Olds.

A YOUTHFUL CULPRIT .-- Thirteen-yearold Earl Freeman, colored, is in jail charged with having repeatedly entered and robbed Montgomery & Co's. clothing store in the Exchange.

The youth was arrested by detective Rightnour, on Tuesday morning, and upon being taken before justice Keichline admitted his guilt and told where some of the stolen property was secluded. It was found at the home of his parents Wednesday morning and included, among other things, a $6 catcher's mitt, base ball mask, a cheap mitt, several base balls, base ball his boy friends that he got the property at a sale at Foster's store at State College.

The thefts were detected by tracks on the goods in the basement. The tracks led to an open cellar window at the rear of the store. A few days ago the boy apof her own friends at her home on the hill peared at the store with three premium cards fully punched showing the purchase of $45 worth of goods. He wanted a suit of clothes on them. Knowing that he had never made purchases to that amount an investigation was made which resulted in his arrest. Monday night detective Rightnour was placed on the case and went on the watch at 9 o'clock, but the young thief had been there ahead of him; having entered shortly after eight and taken the suit he wanted on the cards. He explained having possession of the punched cards by saying that he went to the drawer, where he secured both cards and punch to work them to his pleasure.

> This is the same boy who broke into Henry Brown's repair shop several months ago and stole several revolvers.

LEFT BELLEFONTE.—One by one more attractive opportunities in other places lure our best young men away from Bellefonte to make their homes elsewhere. A notable example of this is seen in the departure of J. Malcolm Laurie last Monday morning. Upright, reliable, untiring in his energies he has been regarded as a model young man; actively identified with the business and christian undertakings of this community. He has resigned the responsible position he held in the Centre connty Banking Co., and placed the management of his steam laundry in the hands of Frank Woomer in order that he may locate in Wynburne, Clearfield county, where he is to be cashier of the new National bank that will open in a few days, and secretary and treasurer of the local lighting and water company.

Of course he made the change because better opportunities awaited him at Wynburne and we have faith in his ability to take bonorable advantage of them.

ANOTHER GALA DAY FOR YOU .- The picnic lover will have another golden opportunity next Friday when the Logans will hand out amusements as many as they will be diversified at Hecla park.

Among the many things they promise to present to the visitor to that popular resort ing. The family has all been called home on the day they have chosen for their an- larly robust while here, has become such nual picnic are a charming orchestra for dancing, foot-races, tub races and a human wheel-barrow race, a miniature Pike, two base ball games, one between Hecla park and the Bellefonte athletic club and the other a chance for themselves to get even for the defeat the Undines gave them on July Fourth, both for one admission price. A good dinner, several bands and license to have a good, old time concludes their list of promises that is hung up in the store windows. And you need have no fear about the Logans being able to make good.

Remember, the date is Friday, August 5th, and you are expected.

CHANGES AT THE BUSH HOUSE .- The office and lobby of the Bush house are in about as disrupted condition as it is possible to imagine that usually well ordered place; the cause being an effort to relay the tile floor. Though the place is most uninviting just now the results will be so pleasant when completed as to fully repay the proprietor and his guests for the tem-

Other changes are to be a handsome plate glass front with opalescent transoms and a re-arrangement of the interior of the office that will make the writing room more exclusive and the telephone booths in a separate apartment.

It is rumored that Mr. Daggett has purchased the old Cruse cigar stand and will remodel it in a fashion in keeping with the interior of the new cafe. If this is true C. In company with her sister, Miss Ella, the Bush will have taken another long stride in advance of inland hotels.

York. It was the culmination of a College love affair and the ceremony was performed at the country place of the Mussers by the Rev. Dr. Denniston, of the Prespyterian church. The large double parlors were beautifully decorated in green and white and as Miss Jessie Etters, of Bellefonte, at Coleville, will hold a festival on the played the wedding march, through aisles made by Catharine Etters and Nan Bowman, the ribbon bearers, the little party approached the minister.
