

FARM NOTES.

Many of the more common digestive troubles of the horse are directly traceable to some imperfection of the teeth.

It is difficult work to make the best butter from a one-cow dairy, especially late in the season.

Sassafras is one of the worst pests that can find a hold on a field. Cut it down, or even grub it up, and it will reappear almost unexpectedly.

While the majority of farmers who have a range for their hogs during the summer cut off the corn supply almost entirely, it is questionable if this is the best plan.

Gluten meal may take the place of the middlings if desired; it will do quite as much good as the middlings.

Which is the best breed of cattle is a question frequently asked. The best breed depends on what is expected of it.

While there are many fine points in the makeup of a good dairy cow which are not mentioned here, says the Indianapolis News, the following may be considered as being the points most easily distinguished.

Use the onny comb, but use it mercifully; it's the dirt you are after, not the skin.

The stiff scrubbing brush the wife uses in house cleaning is a good and merciful horse cleaner. But do not use hers.

So treat the horses that they will be glad to see you come into the stable, and not act as if they would like to climb through the roof.

Teach the colt when it is young and you will not have to break it when older.

Cleanliness of person and stable may not be godliness to the horse, but it is good-feelingness, which is probably more important from the viewpoint of the horse.

Late autumn is on some accounts the best time to set new orchards on the farm.

Set trees in a solid block on good land. An old way was to set apple trees along the farm walls and fences.

Orchards can be grown without cultivation, using manure and mulch, but it is a long wait before they reach profitable size.

One of the best plans is to set trees in freshly broken sod land thoroughly worked with disk harrow.

What he knows.—The results of Mr. Green's observations. Mr. F. P. Green knows that if you are easily tired, if you sleep badly, if you are nervous, if you are easily exhausted, if you have lost your appetite, if you are weak, either constitutionally or as a result of recent sickness, Vin-te-na will put you on your feet.

FOR AND ABOUT WOMEN.

Opportunity makes us known to others, but more to ourselves.

Maryland Biscuits. One and one-half quarts of flour, one teaspoonful of salt, one big tablespoonful of lard, one pint of milk and water mixed.

English eyelid embroidery has lost none of its smartness, and is seen on heavy and fine white and colored materials.

Charming coats for wear over summer frocks are seen in the shops, made of this embroidery on heavy linen, and lined with batiste in pale colors, green, mauve, etc.

A most effective trimming seen on many black and blue suits is the touch of parrot green.

Until you have applied it or seen it applied you do not realize how thoroughly smart the combination is.

It is equally good with black or blue, although a trifle newer perhaps with the former.

Another good touch noticed on the street frocks of silk is the narrow bias ruffle of self material.

This quaint finishing touch is used for collars, cuffs and elsewhere on both blouse and skirt.

Camphor is very useful to freshen the air of a sick-room. Put a piece on a hot saucer, and on it lay the point of a ret-hot poker, when its fumes will quickly fill the air.

There is not a shadow of doubt," says a beauty doctor, "that the use of moderate corsets is invaluable to many women who without them would lack the need of a very real support, and, as I have pointed out before in connection with this question, there are now such enormous varieties of corsets to choose from that it is possible to wear a support of this kind that is of the slightest.

If you would keep your hands in good condition do not wash them every time they apparently need it if you are doing kitchen work, but have a soft towel at hand and wipe them now and then until you have finished the work; then give them a thorough washing and drying.

Here is a simple and available recipe—a medicinal bath for the nervously worn and those who cannot sleep at night.
