Representative Men on the World's Fair.

The public utterances of distinguished men who have visited the world's fair have but one note, and that of emphatic praise.

Hon. John Hay, secretary of state: "I have never seen nor heard of anything so fine."

Hon. Leslie M. Shaw, secretary of the treasury: "Any father of a bright boy can afford to send him to the Fair simply to study any one of at least a thousand exhibits."

Hon. Charles H. Grosvenor of Ohio: "A visit of ten days by a man of ordinary aptness and appreciative capacity to the Fair is almost equal to a postgraduate course in a university."

Hon. Benjamin B. Odell, governor of New York: "St. Louis has been badly misrepresented by accounts which say that her weather is unbearable. The Fair is wonderful."

Hon. George C. Pardee, governor of California: "The governor of the Golden State, who has spent all his life within her borders, finds that he knew only a little about his state until he came to the Fair and saw all her varied products assembled together."

Hon. Albert B. Cummins, governor of Iowa: "The Louisiana Purchase Exposition is on the grandest scale of any exposition the world has ever seen."

Hon. Richard Yates, governor of Illinois: "The more I see of the Exposition the more I enjoy it."

Hon. Pennington Chatterton, governor of Wyoming: "I wish the Fair the greatest success. It certainly deserves it."

Hon. Franklin Murphy, governor of New Jersey: "It is well worth coming from New Jersey to see even a small part of this Fair."

Hon. A. B. White, governor of West Virginia: "I cannot speak too strongly of the greatness of this Fair."

Hon. William J. Bryan: "The Exposition is an unparalleled wonder."

Hon. John Sharp Williams, member of congress from Mississippi: "The most wonderful thing of its kind."

Hon. Hoke Smith of Georgia, formerly secretary of interior under President Cleveland: "I am highly pleased with the Exposition and believe it to be one of the triumphs of modern civilization."

Hon. Henry Belmont, editor of Le Petit Parisien of Paris, France: "I admire the Exposition for its immensity, its spirit of the sublime, its general beauty and its completeness."

Prince George of Bavaria: "I have never seen anything prettier than the St. Louis World's Fair buildings when outlined at night with their millions of electric lights."

Hon. Louis E. McComas of Maryland: "The greatest Fair in the world."

Hon. John F. Dryden of New Jersey: "The people have no idea of the greatness of the Exposition. Every American should see it."

T. P. Shants, president of the Clover Leaf route of Chicago: "The Fair is a big success and will continue to become a greater success as it progresses."

Wage Earners at the Fair.

Wage earners of America are to see the World's Fair by tens of thousands under the auspices of the National Civic Federation. A new bureau of the Federation has just been established at St. Louis upon the World's Fair grounds.

The bureau is in charge of Miss Gertrude Beeks, secretary of the Federation's welfare department, of which Mr. H. H. Vreeland, head of the street railway system of New York city, is chairman.

The Exposition management has also equipped this bureau with clerical assistance and a full supply of World's Fair literature.

World's Fair Special Days.

Each of the remaining days of the World's Fair season has a programme filled with special events that offer additional attractions for late visitors.

National and state governments, municipalities, secret societies, trade organizations and college fraternities have arranged to participate in the special days allotted to them, and thousands of persons will be drawn to the World's Fair upon these occasions.

Missouri is to have an entire week at the Exposition, and the Lumbermen of America will present for six days. St. Louis day Sept. 15, will be Braver Jim's Philosophy.

Angels' visits are coming fewer and fewer in a box every day. Some people's laughing has made me ashamed, and some has made me walk with a limp, and some has made me fighting mad.

There's one consolation left to every fool man livin'—he was once the smartest baby in the world.—Braver Jim's Baby.

Farmers' Month at World's Fair.

Now that crops have been or are being laid by, the farmer prepares for his trip to the World's Fair, a treat that has long been promised him and for which he has patiently waited.

No exhibition has offered so many inducements for the farmer's presence as this one at St. Louis, nor has any previous exposition given the prominence and space to the subject of agriculture.

August and September are ostensibly the farmer's months at the Exposition, for it is at this season that the agriculture exhibits are the freshest and best.

Products of the new crops are pouring into the booths from every state in the Union, and additions are constantly being made to the gorgeous display.

Headquarters for visiting farmers may be found in every state section of the great Agriculture Palace, but for their special convenience there has just been completed a Grange House, situated in the south end of the building.

The largest building on the grounds is the Palace of Agriculture, covering twenty acres, while the Palace of Horticulture near by covers about a third as much space. These two immense structures are filled with exhibits of the farm, garden and orchard of the most extensive and elaborate character, every state in the Union and most of the principal countries of the world being represented.

Agriculture is given more prominence than any other department at the Exposition, the paramount importance of this great industry having been fully appreciated from the very beginning of the World's Fair movement.

About seventy acres of ground are covered by the agriculture and horticulture department at the Fair, large outdoor spaces being devoted to the industry. Outside there are growing crops, trees and flowers, an instructive six acre farm maintained by the United States Government Plant Industry, and gardens in all parts of the grounds.

There are more exhibits in the Agriculture building than in any other section of the Exposition. This building is considered by many people the most interesting part of the World's Fair. The exhibits in the palaces of Agriculture and Horticulture constitute a display vast enough and instructive enough to occupy the attention of visitors for many days. Nothing to compare with them was ever attempted before. They are the climax of several decades of educational work which is placing farming on a high plane and is making scientific agriculture a pleasing reality.

The conspicuous role played by agriculture at the World's Fair should bring untold benefits and wealth to the farming community of the world and impress all farmers with the importance and dignity of their calling.

Passing through these colossal buildings, studying the attractive exhibits and fascinated by the bewildering encyclopedia of rural life which is spread out before his eyes, the World's Fair visitor is impressed with the important part the farmer plays in the great world of industry, and every farmer who views these interesting exhibits is given a new pride in his vocation filled with inspiration and impressed with new ideas in harmony with the progressive strides that farming has been making for the past few years.

How properly to rotate crops, how to get the best results from fertilizing and irrigation, how to protect crops and fruit from the ravages of insects—all these and many more things of vital interest to farmers and fruit growers are taught at the World's Fair.

One Learns.

That cinnamon drives away moths. That washed lace is not to be "blued." That fuller's earth is chemically a silicate of alumina.

That a brown or green is the best background for pictures. That stove blacking should be moistened with vinegar, not water.

That olive oil, even when taken by itself, should be well "cheered." That sneaky dolls may be temporarily silenced by an application of oil.

That brittle finger nails often denote a lack of such foods as olive oil. That water may be kept cool by wrapping the water jug in a wet blanket.

That one suffers from breathing in the minute hairs shed by pet animals. That cream and sugar neutralize the good effect of strawberries upon the bile.

That fresh fruits are valuable because they encourage natural processes in health or sickness. That borax and boric acid are not identical, as the former is a compound of soda and boric acid.

That borio or boric acid does not contain any soda and that it positively never irritates. That bread is toasted to take out the moisture that the saliva may be more easily moistened.

That stained enamel saucers may be cleaned by boiling in water with a little chloride of lime. That the rubbing of the sulphur end of matches on ink-stained fingers, which have been dampened, will remove the soil.

That freckles may be removed by this application: one part lemon juice, two parts castor oil and eight parts elder flower water.

His Settled Opinion. "Of course," said the friend, "you are aware of the fact that poverty is no disgrace."

"That's very true," answered Senator Sorghum. "But you can't convince me that it is anything to brag about, either." —Washington Star.

The Flight of Time. The governor had been reading the story of the discovery of America to her 4-year-old charge, and, closing the book, she said: "Just think, Mabel, all this happened more than 400 years ago."

"Gwacions!" exclaimed the little miss, "ain't it s'pwin' how time do fly?"

"My impression," said the physician, who was testifying before the Billville coroner's jury, "is that the man was shot in the early hours."

"That's funny," said the coroner. "This here other witness has done swore that he was shot in the leg!"

Sometimes the girl's father strikes a young man favorably and sometimes he merely kicks him out.
