Col. Wilbur Fisk Reeder.

Within the past few years so many of Bellefonte's most eminent residents have so suddenly been called away that the death of Col. WILBUR FISK REEDER seems less of a shock than a sequence of a strange fatality that with relentless determination is gradually robbing us of all those who have brought prestige and honor to our community.

Almost from the foundation of the town there have been men whose mental and moral attainments have carried its fame far beyond the confines of the mountains among which it nestles. Doubtless the pure air, the limpid waters, the daily contact with the mysterious, inspiring heart of nature have tended to bring out the best there was in the souls of those who looked and saw. Whatever it has been the immutable fact remains that Bellefonte stands first among inland towns of the State, illumined and illustrious through the achievements of her sons.

Need there be wonder then that we mourn the death of Col. REEDER, a man the hardships of whose early life accentuate the triumphs of his closing days! In his daily life he was in constant touch with the professional, the business, the political and the social realms in which he was a leader; giving of his time and, possibly, too much of his energies, in whatever sphere they were sought; quietly, though doggedly attaining more of success, day by day; then modestly and earnestly struggling on for some newer and higher achievement.

The impress of his legal mind has been left on the statutes of Pennsylvania through opinions he rendered while deputy Attorney General of the State. The ability he displayed in politics brought him to the front as the shrewdest and best manager of his party's affairs in this county and though naturally opposed to his principles the WATCHMAN always admired his methods, for they were those of the honorable, the courageous foe. His death has left the Republican organization confronted with the task of filling a position for which it has no man of Colonel REEDER'S acumen.

Midst all the perplexities of the race he ran; whether in the stern struggle for life and preferment, the exasperating ordeals of legal contests, the partisan passion of political campaigns or the fallacious foibles of the social life, he was a gentleman. A gentleman by nature and by the grace of God and as such we deplore his death and will respect his memory.

Hopeful Outlook in Philadelphia.

The Democratic city committee, of Philadelphia, has begun a campaign which promises admirable results for the party. To prevent the padding of registry lists is the prime object of the managers and if they succeed in this result will be a decrease in the aggregate Republican vote in the city of about 80,000. That will not reduce the Republican majority to a reasonable figure but it will give the Democrats at least one Congressman and half a dozen representatives in the Legislature.

Since the regular assessment in May the Democratic organization has made a systematic canvass of the entire city and marked for removal every name on the list not properly there. Next week when the extra assessment is made these false entries will be presented to the Registration Assessors and if they are not taken off an appeal will be taken to the court. This process in addition to the strenuous effort which will be made to get out the full Democratic vote and count the return according to law will make a vast difference in the vote of the city. In fact it may be predicted that the Republican majority in Philadelphia this year will not exceed 50,000.

Heretofore no attention has been paid to minority representation on the election board. This year the Democratic committee promises to see to it that there is a faithful and incorruptible Democrat on every election board and that the necessary force of watchers will be present during the count to guarantee an honest return. This change for the better in the politics of Philadelphia will inspire the Democrats in other sections of the State to unusual effort and the claim of a gain of 10 Congressmen is therefore reasonable.

"We" and the Trusts Did it All.

From the Buffalo Times. According to the Republican campaigners this country didn't amount to much until a few years ago. Yet our daddies did some things of which they were mighty proud.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS.

—Mrs. Elizabeth S. Bennett, mother of Mrs. Eliza Devine, of Philipsburg, died at her home in Bellwood, on Saturday, aged 85 years. She is survived by six children.

—Last Saturday a marriage license was granted by the register of Blair county to John W. Walte, of Beech Creek, and Miss Grace Tanyer, of Tyrono, formerly of Julian, this county.

—A report has been circulated this week that the body of George Livingstone, the one man who has not been re-arrested of the gang of Centre county jail breakers, had been found in the Allegheny mountains by a farmer. Careful inquiry disclosed the fact that there is no foundation whatever for the story. Livingstone's dead body has not been found, neither has the man been seen by anyone who knows him since he escaped.

KILLED AT HOWARD.—W. T. Emenhizer, of Marsh Creek, was run over by a train at Howard, on Monday, and instantly killed. Emenhizer is a lumberman and, with his nephew, had been to Howard to purchase supplies, being on their way to their work in the woods. When the local freight passed Howard going east both men attempted to jump the train. Emenhizer was thrown under the train, four cars passed over him cutting the body in two. The remains were taken in charge by undertaker W. F. Neff and prepared for burial on Wednesday. Mr. Emenhizer leaves a wife and four children.

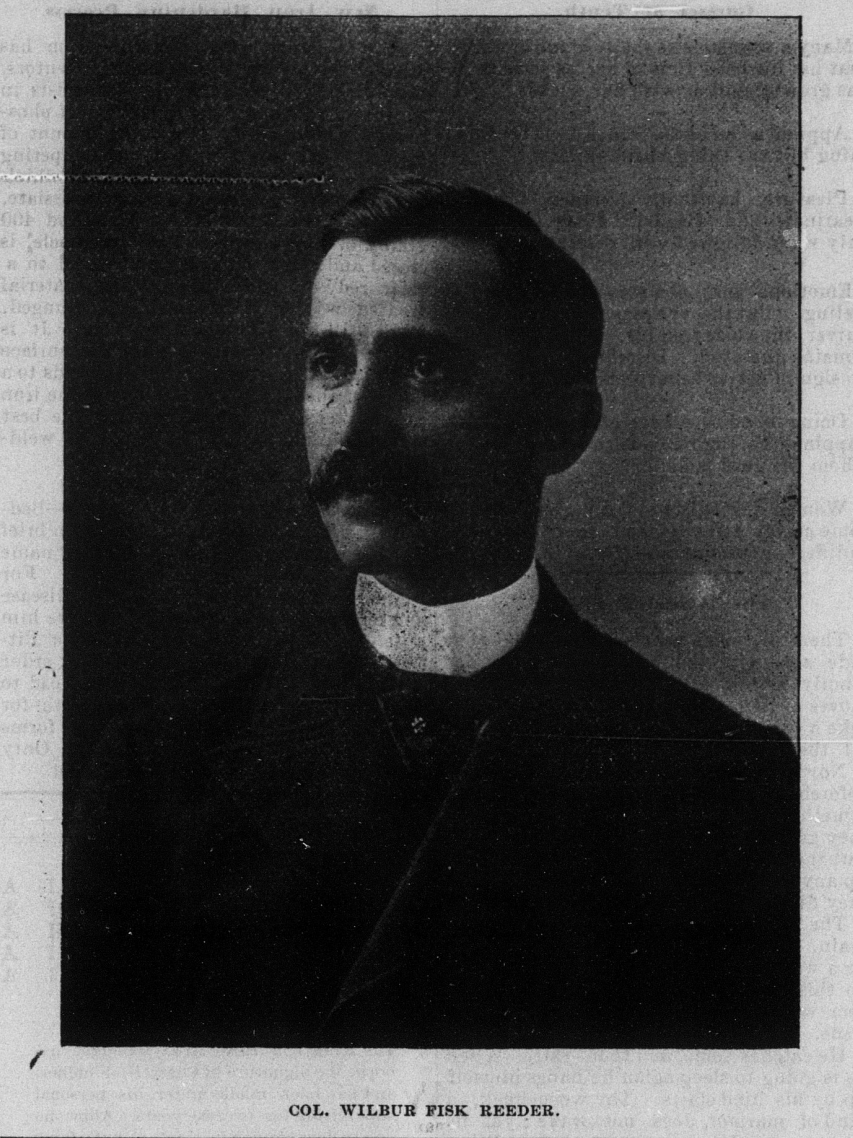

DECKER REUNION.—Last Saturday a surprise reunion of the Decker family was held at the home of John D. Decker, in Potter township. The crowd assembled at the home of Alexander McCoy, at Potter's Mills, and when all were there they drove in a body to the Decker home. The surprise was complete as the Decker family never dreamed of such a happening. Of course there were plenty of good things to eat and the day was pleasantly spent by all.

THE COURSE FOR WOMEN AT THE PENNSYLVANIA STATE COLLEGE.—If every citizen of this great Keystone State would read the "Value of College Training for Women" by Mary E. Woolley, president of Mount Holyoke College, in Harper's Bazar for September, it would be readily understood why it seems fitting to give particular attention just now to the work for women at the Penna. State College. The majority of our readers are probably more familiar with the courses in any other of the many colleges and seminaries for girls in Pennsylvania, than with those offered by our own State College, and that are best calculated to give the purpose, poise, power, Miss Woolley counts so necessary. A man's chief argument against the higher education of women is that a woman is apt to dabble in but rarely give any study a thorough investigation and that her knowledge is generally superficial. Granting this to be true, it is the most cogent argument in favor of the technical training that, more than any other, teaches to be logical, accurate, systematic.

The attendance of girls at State College has been decreasing due to the stiff work, popularly judged inadvisable and unnecessary for women, but this objection is partly obviated by the new course in Modern Language and Literature offered for the first time in the 1904 catalogue, lately issued. The trustees are carefully considering and maturing plans to make the work for women at State as satisfactory as any in the country. University of Indiana has 500 women, University of Wisconsin has 700, State College has 6! Yet it is a beautifully located, constantly growing institution ranking with the best. There is perhaps no other first class college where a girl can get as thorough an education for so little money. If the women in Pennsylvania would once realize and appreciate this then indeed would General Jas. A. Beaver, president of the board of trustees, have to materialize his wish to see erected a dormitory for women that would cost a million dollars.

Col. Reeder always took a great interest in politics. He was elected county chairman in 1887 and re-elected the two years following. In 1891 he was elected Burgess of Bellefonte. He was again elected county chairman in 1895 and in 1896 he was given the endorsement of the county for Congress. In September, 1897, he was appointed by Governor Hastings deputy Attorney-General, serving until January, 1897, and it was a matter of comment at that time he had written and handed down several of the most able decisions that ever emanated from the Attorney-General's office. Mr. Reeder has always been one of the strong party workers in this county and was the county chairman at his death.

Col. Reeder was an indefatigable worker and with his large law practice, politics and other business interests, his time was closely occupied and frequently he would work late in the night in order to clear up his business for the day. Last week he had two important cases in court, being the leading counsel for the Commonwealth against the Italian, Dominio Constance, and attorney for Dr. R. J. Young, who was tried on the charge of perjury at the instance of Father Victor Zarek. Col. Reeder won both his cases, finishing his work in the latter case at 10:15 o'clock Thursday morning. At the time he complained of not feeling very well and intended taking a rest in the afternoon. He went home at noon and remarked that the walk had tired him out. He started up stairs to his own room and was found a few moments later by his son Wallace prostrate on the floor and almost unconscious from the exhaustion of a hemorrhage. Medical aid was promptly summoned and three doctors worked all the afternoon with him, and it was not until past five o'clock that they succeeded in checking the hemorrhage. From that violent attack Col. Reeder never recovered in the least, sometimes apparently resting a little more comfortably, which encouraged his family to think he was improving, but all the time growing weaker, until Saturday night about 9 o'clock, when he took a sinking spell which continued until 11 o'clock when he fell into a sleep from which he never awakened; the last spark of life flickering out at 12:55.

Wilbur F. Reeder was the son of Hiram J. Reeder and was born near Catawissa, Columbia county, January 7th, 1855. He entered Dickinson Seminary, Williamsport, in 1872, graduating in 1875 with the degree of B. A., and taking first honors of his class. In the fall of the same year he came to Bellefonte and commenced reading law with the firm of Bush, Yocum & Hastings. In May, 1877, he was admitted to the bar after passing a most rigid examination. Heat once began the practice of law, and in 1881 formed a partnership with D. H. Hastings, under the firm name of Hastings & Reeder. In the study of the law Mr. Reeder applied himself very closely. Early in his career he became recognized as a safe counselor and reliable attorney. During General Hastings' four-years' term as Adjutant-General under Governor Beaver Mr. Reeder very successfully conducted the business of the firm, which was then one of the largest in the town. When General Hastings was elected Governor he retired from the firm and Col. Reeder shortly afterwards associated with himself Henry C. Quigley, under the firm name of Reeder & Quigley. This co-partnership continued until a couple years ago, since which time Mr. Reeder has been alone in the practice of his profession.

Aside from his professional life Col. Reeder has been identified with the National Guard of the State since 1880, joining Company B, as a private, in July, of that year. In 1889 he was elected first lieutenant of Company B, and in 1892 was on duty at Homestead and in 1894 was at Painesville during the strike there. In 1895 he was appointed assistant-Adjutant General under Governor Hastings, and since that time has been connected with the Guard almost continuously, at the time of his death being a member of General Wiley's staff.

Col. Reeder always took a great interest in politics. He was elected county chairman in 1887 and re-elected the two years following. In 1891 he was elected Burgess of Bellefonte. He was again elected county chairman in 1895 and in 1896 he was given the endorsement of the county for Congress. In September, 1897, he was appointed by Governor Hastings deputy Attorney-General, serving until January, 1897, and it was a matter of comment at that time he had written and handed down several of the most able decisions that ever emanated from the Attorney-General's office. Mr. Reeder has always been one of the strong party workers in this county and was the county chairman at his death.

Col. Reeder was a very prominent Mason, having attained to the thirty-second degree. He was a Past Master of the Bellefonte Lodge, the Royal Arch Chapter and Consistory Commandery. At his death he was Grand Marshall of the Grand Commandery of Pennsylvania, a member of the Harrisburg Consistory Scottish Rite Masons, and a member of Jaffa Temple Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, of Altoona. Mr. Reeder was a member of the Union League, of Philadelphia, the Odd Fellows and the Logan Engine Co., of this place.

In his religious work he was just as energetic and enthusiastic as in his professional or political life, being a devout member of the St. John's Episcopal church, in which he was a vestryman and lay reader.

December 19th, 1878, he was united in marriage to Miss Lillie S. Gotwalt, a daughter of Rev. Thomas and Mary J. Gotwalt, and a lineal descendant of Governor Schultz. Mrs. Reeder is a prominent member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, being elected State Regent at the national convention in Washington last April. One son, John Wallace Reeder, is left, with his mother, to mourn the loss of a very indulgent father and husband. Mrs. Elizabeth Reeder, the deceased's mother, also survives.

The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon. From 5 o'clock Tuesday evening until Wednesday noon the body lay in state at the late home of the deceased, where it was viewed by hundreds. Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock a meeting of the Centre county bar was held in the court house. Judge Love presided. The minute of respect to the memory of the deceased was read by J. C. Meyer, Esq., chairman of the committee appointed by the court on Monday. Touching tributes were paid the dead by Judge Love, J. C. Meyer, Ellis L. Orvis, Hon. S. R. Peale, of Look Haven; David F. Fortney, Col. John I. Rogers, of Philadelphia; ex-Judge A. O. Furst, Mr. A. A. Stevens, Tyrono, and Mr. Lyman D. Gilbert, Harrisburg.

W. W. Montgomery, Captain S. H. Benson, Hon. W. C. Heinele, A. G. Morris, of Tyrono; Frank McFarlane, of Bonsburg; T. H. Harter, D. F. Fortney, J. H. Lingle, Wm. P. Humes, Wm. A. Allison, of Spring Mills; John W. Stuart, of State College; Harry Keller, Geo. R. Meek, Oscar E. Miles, John Gowland and Cap't. C. T. Fryberger, of Philipsburg; M. W. Gordon, Frank Montgomery, Ross Hickok, W. Harrison Walker, W. L. Malin, Philip D. Foster, Geo. T. Bush, Dr. G. G. Pond, John M. Shugert.

In addition to the out-of-town people mentioned above there were present Hon. Lyman D. Gilbert, of Harrisburg; Hon. A. A. Stevens and S. S. Blair, of Tyrono; J. N. Schoonover, Philipsburg; Hon. J. W. Kepler, Pine Grove Mills; J. Hays Schenck, of Howard, and John A. Daley, of Curtin township.

UNCLE HEZ.—Seldom if ever has Bellefonte had the opportunity offered it, to hear fine music that it failed to take advantage of that opportunity. In the instance of the visit of Frank Adams' Uncle Hez'Co. at Garman's next Thursday night there will be presented a double opportunity. Not only do we anticipate a clever comedy performance but a musical treat as well. Mr. Adams always carries a band and orchestra of picked men and their performances everywhere are spoken of in the highest terms.

Don't fail to hear the noon concert on the day of the performance as well as the orchestra numbers at night.

LAST OF THE HECLA PARK CONCERTS.—The last concert and dance of the season at Hecla park will occur Friday afternoon and evening Sept. 2nd, and on this account the music program will be somewhat more attractive than usual. These dances have been most delightful affairs and as the patronage has been entirely satisfactory to the management the probability is they will be continued next season.

WILLIAMS FAMILY REUNION.—The fifth annual reunion of the Williams family was held last Saturday in the beautiful grove on the farm of John Q. Miles, near Martha. People came from all the surrounding counties, even from Allegheny, and it is estimated that the crowd numbered from 1800 to 2000. The reunion was formally opened at 10:30 o'clock with a brief speech by Mr. W. H. Williams, of Port Matilda. Delightful music was rendered by Rev. Free's orchestra, after which prayer was offered by Rev. W. B. Cox, of Bellefonte. A few talks were made by others, but they were made very short, for, in plain sight, were spread the tables simply groaning under the weight of the multitudinous good things to eat, and when the noon hour arrived everybody did justice to the tempting viands, the only backward man in the crowd being the esteemed ex-treasurer, John Q. Miles. And even he, by dint of extra persuasion and persistent helping on the part of others, managed to secure a very good dinner. In the afternoon brief addresses were made by Rev. Durkey, of Tyrono; Rev. A. C. Lathrop, Milesburg; Rev. W. B. Cox and Prof. John D. Meyer, of Bellefonte. A game of base ball between Unionville and Scotia teams helped to entertain the assemblage, the latter team winning by the score of 10 to 7.

The following officers were elected: President, W. S. Williams; vice-president, J. R. Williams; recording secretary, Ida R. Williams; corresponding secretary, G. G. Fink; poet, Margaret Williams; historian, Rev. E. L. Williams; treasurer, John Q. Miles. The committee on resolutions offered the following: WHEREAS, since the last anniversary of the Williams' reunion, "The Reapers" hath been in our midst and hath garnered for the Master some who were bright and beautiful buds of promise, others in the bloom of life and one who had passed her three score years and ten. Among them are, Rosanna Williams, wife of Wm. Williams, deceased, born Oct. 17th, 1830, died Oct. 11th, 1903. Kathryn Williams, wife of Abednego Williams, born Jan. 4th, 1850, died June 9th, 1894. Laura Williams, wife of Aquilla Williams, born Dec. 30th, 1862, died March 4th, 1904. Leona Harpster Wagner, wife of J. Wilbur Wagner, born June 21st, 1874, died Sept. 10th, 1898. Lena Williams Eaves, wife of Victor Eaves, born Sept. 10th, 1876, died April 25th, 1904. Kathryn Williams Parsons, wife of Geo. Williams, (deceased), born Jan. 4th, 1844, died May 7th, 1904. Alfred C. Ginter, son of Minnie Williams Ginter, born Jan. 15th, 1893, died Feb. 9th, 1904. Roxana Robison, daughter of Alice Williams Robison, born Dec. 19th, 1894, died Jan. 14th, 1904. Harold Adams, grandson of Mary E. Williams Adams, born Dec. 19th, 1893, died June 25th, 1904. Jonathan Williams, son of Geo. Williams, born Oct. 26th, 1903, died Aug. 1st, 1904.

Resolved, that while homes have been broken and many hearts made sad, yet with the spirit of our forefathers we are mindful of the family motto—"As God wills so will we." Respectfully submitted, REV. E. L. WILLIAMS, ORLANDO WILLIAMS, MARGARET WILLIAMS, Committee.

Following the wedding a reception was tendered the couple at the home of the groom's parents at Coleville, and while there they were serenaded by the Coleville band, of which organization the groom is a member. Mr. Meese has secured a good position in Bellwood where they expect to go to housekeeping in the very near future.

Reeder no sentences were passed and George Henderson, one of the gang of jail-breakers, has not yet been sentenced. Quite a number of petitions were presented and rules granted. J. C. Meyer, A. O. Newton Bailey, of Bellefonte, was seen among the people of this valley last week. The farmers are all busy getting ready to put in their fall seeding, but find the ground hard and dry. Many people from around town attended court last week, the attraction being the murder trial. Prof. Thos. C. Houtz, A. M., D. D. of Susquehanna University, is here for his summer vacation. R. F. Williams attended the Williams reunion Saturday and states that they had a very pleasant time. John E. Schreck and wife attended the rail-roads picnic at Shamokin, Tuesday, and had a very pleasant time. The M.
