

A NEGLECTED CROP.—There is so much good sense and such sound advice in the following, which is taken from the Scottsdale Independent, that the WATCHMAN has no hesitancy in asking its readers to think seriously of the suggestions made, and when conditions justify undertake to plant a few trees, at least each year. "How many farmers who will read this ever planted an acre of trees? Forests are being felled everywhere, but who dreams of setting out a thousand pine, oak, poplar or any other kind of trees for the next generation? Any young man, just starting in life on the farm, who would plant and care for a few acres of young timber would, long before his hair became snowy reap a crop that would pay him infinitely better than raising brush and weeds, as so many farmers do. In twenty years some kinds of timber will reach maturity. If the consumption of lumber goes on at the present rate what will it be worth in 20 or 30 years? Ah, but say you, who wants to wait twenty years for a crop? Look at that baby boy lying in the cradle. It will be twenty years before he is a man. Look at him, and then, instead of loafing in the grocery store or the blacksmith shop, go out with your axe and your scythe this winter and clear away that piece of brush and weeds. Then in the early spring plant some young pines or poplars, and by the time that boy is of age and takes his girl out riding in his very own buggy that piece of woods will be worth something. Give it him as a wedding present. Why not?"

The Evangelical church at Colyer has been remodeled by the tearing down of the old tower and the erection of a new one fifty feet high. The exterior has also been repainted and the interior papered. Amos Dunkle, of Farmer's Mills, erected the new tower and Mrs. Annie Spangler raised the fund to purchase the paper.

Mrs. Robert Haines, formerly of Snow Shoe, will have charge of the Phi Gamma fraternity house this winter.

Pine Grove Meeting.
Mrs. J. M. and W. J. Kepler spent Monday in and about State College.

D. W. Meyers and wife left Monday for a ten days sight-seeing at St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. N. T. Krebs are visiting Dr. J. B. Krebs in Northumberland this week.

Mail agent W. E. McWilliams transacted business in Huntington last Saturday.

Clayton Corl and wife spent Sunday with his brother-in-law, D. H. Krebs, in the Glades.

Stockman A. M. Brown returned from West Virginia last week with ninety head of cattle.

Mrs. David Tate with her two bright little boys is visiting relatives in this section at present.

John Hess, of the Lumber City, is this week rusticiating here among friends of his youth.

J. M. Watt and wife came down from Tyrone Saturday for a few days outing on the old farm in the Glades.

Messrs. Milliken and Taylor, of Reedsville, are in the valley in quest of fresh cows for the eastern markets.

Mrs. Aggie Decker, who has been greeting old friends here and there, returned to her home in Altoona last Thursday.

Miss Victoria Ermine, of Wellwood, is this week being entertained at the Roush home on Main street.

All of Ferguson township schools opened last Monday, excepting Krumline. This will begin next Monday with Miss Mary Leech as teacher.

G. B. Campbell is making an addition to his barn. The raising took place last Friday when a regular old-time raising dinner was served by Mrs. Campbell and her two dutiful daughters.

Mrs. Clarence Lemon with her bright little son came up from Morgantown, West Va., for a visit among the scenes of her childhood. Little Jeanie will remain to attend school this winter.

Miss Minnie Collins, after spending her vacation among Centre county friends, returned to the Pennsylvania University in Philadelphia where she expects to graduate as a trained nurse next March.

The present indications point to a large attendance from this section to the Veteran's picnic tomorrow at Hunter's park. A special train will leave here at noon for the park, and will return in the evening.

Mrs. Jas. H. Mitchell with her daughter Olive came up from Bellefonte on Tuesday to spend the day on the old home farm near town. While here Mrs. Aiken, with her new team, drove Miss Olive up and down the pike.

Miss Blanche Tressler, who has been home for the summer, left for her post of duty in Missouri, where she has a position as stenographer for a large agricultural firm. Her many friends wish her a safe journey.

Old Colonel, probably one of the best known steeds in the valley, for many years uncle Charley Snyder's driving horse, died of old age last week. Thomas Glenn just happened to have a driving horse for sale so that Mr. Snyder was not long without one.

Mr. J. H. Barton, one of the Pennsylvania's most trusted engineers with headquarters at Pittsburg, is this week at Oak Hill arranging to build a home that would indicate his retirement from railroading and living in quiet and rest in his declining years.

On last Tuesday morning Mr. Lewis Barto's home at Tadpole was burned to the ground. It is thought the fire caught from the stove and was beyond control when discovered. The sewing machine and several chairs were all that were saved. There was no insurance.

On Wednesday while playing ball in the old Academy grounds Master Herman Everts stumbled and fell, badly cutting his knee on a sharp stone. It required a number of stitches to close the wound which will lay him up for many weeks to come. Dr. Woods dressed the wound.

Farmer Amos Koch had an experience last Monday which he does not care to repeat soon. While the steam thrasher was stopped to do some repairing he rested his foot on the wheel when suddenly the engine was started, and had it not been for a heavy stone his leg would have been torn off. As it is he is only lame.

Adam Bucher and wife drove down from the Mountain City on Saturday to spend a few days in and about town. Mrs. Bucher's old home. They were perfectly delighted with the drive and their short stay. Mr. Bucher is a very busy man of affairs in his home town of Altoona, where by his perseverance and industry he has become one of the bond-holders of that city.

We are glad to know that our hunting friend L. H. Musser, the Deering agent in this section for the Harrisburg division, was awarded the prize for selling the top lot of binders and mowers and for his services the company will furnish him free transportation and $50 for expenses to St. Louis exhibition. We can imagine his portly form going up and down the Pike when there, seeing other machinery more than binders and mowers.

Lemont.
Jared Keller visited at the home of his father this week.

Andrew J. Lytle has been on the sick list the past few days.

Thomas Williams and wife Sundayed with Mr. Williams' mother.

Mrs. D. M. Tate and children circulated among friends hereabouts this week.

The farmers are taking up the corn harvesters and going forth to gather in the corn crop.

John R. Williams and wife and Mrs. F. C. E. Peterson spent Friday in Bellefonte taking in the sights.

Mrs. George R. Roan returned home this week from Altoona, where she visited her son and daughter.

James S. Lenker and family started for Niagara this (Friday) morning, to enjoy ten days by the Falls.

Rev. Ralph Hingsworth, a former pastor of the Lemont Methodist congregation, filled the pulpit of that church Sunday and delivered a grand sermon, as well as one that all could benefit by.

W. W. Schreck and wife departed for Pittsburg this morning where they will visit Mrs. Schreck's sister and attend the annual conference of the United Brethren in Christ.

Rev. Kline, of California, a former pastor of the Houserville Reformed congregation, preached for them Sunday.

Threshing Time in South Dakota.
Another letter from Rev. J. P. Hughes describes threshing in Dakota as a much more stupendous process than in Pennsylvania:

DEAR WATCHMAN:
CASTLEWOOD, SOUTH DAK., Aug. 31st, '04.

The railroad, within the limits of the town, is lined with wheat elevators or granaries. This is the week beginning wheat threshing.

The landscape is varied with steam threshers in every direction. About ten or twelve two horse teams are gathered, and hauling the shocks to each thresher, one team is kept occupied in hauling water for the men and horses connected with each thresher. Several teams are kept busy in hauling the threshed wheat to the elevators in town, where it is purchased by load by the buyers, who are at the granaries and then it is distributed by the C. & N. M. railway to the awaiting markets. Each thresher cleans per day about an average of 1500 bushels.

Each team, at a load hauls to the elevators, about 100 bushels. The roads are excellent either for walking or wheeling. They start from the town passing through the prairies, at right angles, North, South, East and West.

Many of the owners of the sections of land, live in the town and their lands are farmed by tenants who live in comfortable homes upon the ground which they cultivate. The water is supplied from deep wells forced up by wind-mills, the noise of which together with the harvest music of the threshers, vary the quiet, and silence of the prairie. I enjoy very much my daily walks here. One must travel by his watch, as there are few changes in the road or scenery, and when his time is up, he must rest about face and return.

For miles there are no trees or fences or stones or stumps for seats. If you wish to rest you must either sit upon the ground or gossing fashion, lift up one foot and rest it while you stand upon the other. The sunshine is genial and strengthening, the air is cool and bracing. There are no mosquitoes here. Many of the inhabitants are of German and Scotch descent. I find them very kind and friendly. I suppose a Pennsylvanian is a kind of curiosity here, and they have much respect for the old "Keystone State." Much of their coal, their only fuel, is furnished from Pennsylvania mines. There are many buggies and carriages daily on the road and one thing that varies my pleasure in walking is having to refuse their invitation to ride. No vehicle ever passes you unless it has no spare seats, without stopping and asking you to ride. It is impossible for a person to accept them all, and so I politely decline them all. I frequently have invitations from the gentlemen in town to ride with them out through the prairies and visit their sections, some of which I gratefully accept and which I enjoy very much for they have fine teams, and I share in fruits and other products of the farm which are very refreshing.

Truly yours,
J. P. HUGHES.

Books, Magazines, Etc.

September Century, is more than ordinarily good, which is saying much for that leading and popular publication. It is called a "Round-the-World" number and the name is justified by the geographical distribution of the text and pictures.

The opening article is the first illustrated account in English of the canonization of Saint Seraphim, the Russian popular saint, at Sarov last August, in which the Car and Casarin part. The article gives a timely and interesting view of the Russian peasant.

Other articles, which can only be enumerated are "Japan's Highest Volcano," "The Nelicater of Arctic Alaska," "Hidden Egypt," recording the first visit by women to the Coptic monasteries of Egypt and Nitria, "The Nails of the Universe," an account of the Emperor of Java and his court, "Antarctic Experiences," by the explorer, C. E. Borohgrivink, "Round-the-World at the World's Fair," with pictures of a curious sort of exhibits or natives from Siam, the East Indies, Africa, Patagonia, China, Mexico, Japan, Spain, Greenland and the Philippines. South Africa is represented by a sketch, "The Locusts of Natal," by Mark F. Wilcox, Spain by Cole's beautiful engraving of a painting by Velasquez, and France by Degas's "Portrait of a Lady," recently bought by Mrs. Gardner for the Boston collection.

The fiction has also a wide distribution of scene, and all the departments are unusually interesting, and crowded with articles of deep importance.

The publishers of "I Wait Alone for You," the most popular, sympathetic ballad of the day, by the late W. Wesley Wells, have sent us a copy of his last work, "My Mercedes," which has just been published and which he composed a few weeks before his death. We predict for it a larger sale than "I Wait Alone for You." It is simply beautiful, easy to play, melodious, and a perfect adaptation of exquisite words to a beautiful melody. The publishers, J. W. Jenkins' Sons, of Kansas City, Mo., are making a special price of 25 cents per copy. To our readers who have not already gotten "I Wait Alone for You," they will send both for fifty cents.

St. Nicholas.—The frontispiece of the September St. Nicholas is a full-page reproduction of the painting of Lady Betty Delme and her children, and the number is crammed with gay and interesting old stories for the young people, and pretty verse, "Peter Puff-and-Blow," "The Difference," "Thirteen," "Yours Severely," "The Holy-Tree Wight," "What's in a Name?" "A Moon-light Effect," "The Gay Grecian Girl," "Which?" "Follioo," "Tom's Return" and "The Enterprising Tapir." The departments, Nature and Science, the St. Nicholas League Books and Reading, the Letter-Box and the Riddle-Box, are all of interest and profit, as always.
