Standing on His Record.

Possibly the greatest service Judge LOVE ever rendered the voters of Centre county was unwittingly performed by that gentleman on Tuesday, June 14th, in the court house in Bellefonte. It was upon the occasion of the county convention of the Republican party, when he had been called upon for a speech that he made the following statement: "Notwithstanding the declarations to the contrary, this court is not in politics. I am not afraid to stand on the record I have made during the past ten years of service as your president judge." He substantially reiterated this expression at a festival in the court house yard on Saturday evening, Sept. 10th.

We admire Judge Love's fearlessness but we pity the thoughtlessness that led him into making the issue for this campaign his record. Without reserve or qualification he invited an investigation of his official acts and practically asked the voters of Centre county to pass upon them without thought of political or personal

As was stated in the last issue of this paper it is not the intention of the WATCH-MAN to maligu Judge Love's personal character, nor deprecate his ability as a lawyer, but he has invited a searching inquiry into his official conduct and that we propose to make in order that all the things that he has evidently forgotten may be recalled to take their place in making up this record of ten years upon which he stands with such ill advised confidence.

IN 1895, scarcely six months after he had donned the judicial ermine, we find Judge Love laying the foundations upon which he has continuously been building at a political machine after his own model. It will be remembered that that was the year in which the late Governor HASTINGS, who was then in the gubernatorial mansion at Harrisburg, was associated with DAVID MARTIN, of Philadelphia, and CHRIS MA-GEE, of Pittsburg, in the combination for the laudable purpose of ridding Pennsylvania of QUAYISM.

Delegates to the state convention were to be chosen and of all districts supposed to stand with the Governor in his fight his home county was expected to be foremost. But was it so? No, indeed! Opposition of the fiercest kind. Opposition that resulted in a party convention that almost broke up in a fight. While Judge LOVE had taken no open hand in the affair it was well known that he secretly used every pressure he could bring to bear to defeat the election of HASTINGS and BENNISON, as state delegates.

IN 1896. Early in the spring of this year we find this same Judge who "is not in politics" bringing all pressure possible to bear to defeat the late WILBUR F. REEDER for the endorsement of Centre county for Congress. Judge Love was for ARNOLD at that time and it was largely through the comfort he gave the DuBois man that the split resulted in that April convention when STEELE CRISSMAN and his friends left the hall. In June of that same year we find him entering into politics in order to defeat an attempt to endorse the HASTING'S administration at Harrisburg through the resolutions in the county convention. In fact reference to these resolutions will reveal the scant praise that the former Governor got from his home county and also that it was the LOVE faction that defeated the HASTING'S delegates in the North ward, the home of the latter.

IN 1897. Early in this third year of his term we find Judge Love greatly perturbed over the outcome of the expensive contest which A. V. MILLER instituted to try to rob W. M. CRONISTER of the office of sheriff to which he had been elected. It was Judge Love's partisan ruling at that time that encouraged the contest and fin ally saddled a great bill of costs on the county. The reflex of this action was seen in the vote in Bellefonte at the following February election when the voters rehnked Love and his lieutenant, CHAMBERS, by defeating the latter for burgess. This leads us on to the next pernicious meddling in politics which our court, who is not in politics, has been guilty of. We hint at the case of John THOMPSON the disgraced and discredited Legislator whose political perfidy was partly accomplished through the machinations of Judge Love.

For want of space in this issue this chain of evidence will be continued next week. Not for any other purpose than to present facts in controvertion of Judge LOVE'S own declaration that he has not been in politics and is not afraid to stand on his record. What he has been in the past is only a fair guide to what he will be in the future and for that reason every voter in Centre county should be fully informed on this most important question.

"Repose"-That Beautiful Gift. One of the prevailing weaknesses of the present day, among the rising generation, is this constant uneasy spirit-commonly called "nervousness"-which in itself, is merely an abominable habit which many acquire, only through thoughtlessness as well as heedlessness.

With the drumming of restless fingers, shoving and tapping of the feet, jingling of keys, throwing stones at animals or aimlessly through the air, chewing sticks, touching and handling articles within reach and thus the unoffending fingers ply diligently through childhood until maturity is reached, and like the "little peach of emerald hue" the habit grows and grows, until the poor creatures are branded as nervous wrecks. When we look over a gathering of ladies and gentlemen, how few do we observe who are actually sitting in repose. One may be rocking rapidly, at the same time bringing the feet down with a thud, and at each motion calling into requisition the head which moves involuntarily. Again we see a gentleman playing the "devil's tattoo" on his chair with his knuckles, (most charming music for the sensitive ear of his neighbor.) again a little Miss removes her hat pius and adjusts them twenty times. Another, with each introduction of a remark, gives a labored or manufactured cough, which startles many near him, another removes her back comb and with it drums with restless fingers a popular air upon her thumb nail. Even more, this endless and thoughtless touching or handling habit has come to a decided point when the store keeper must either put his goods in glass cases, or employ sentinels, or the shopper must be warned by a placard certainly is an evidence that we are informed something is wrong with the shopper. Not the merchant, as he only uses this precaution to defend his wares.

Imagine the loss of fine laces, or kindred beauties, by being "toyed" with one thousand black gloves in a day. Can we help but remark that the bands are equally unruly as the tongue. Hence we will add, if one wishes to be attractive, and admired for one's grace, cultivate repose of manner.

Consideration Unearned.

We cannot withhold from Judge PARK-ER an expression of admiration for the chivalry which impelled him to protect his antagonist against any personal abuse in the Democratic campaign book. "There shall be no word in it," writes Judge PARKER, to the literary bureau of his party committee "that reflects upon the personal honor and integrity of President ROOSEVELT." Nothing could be more admirable than this evidence of a disposition to avoid dirty politics. Personally Roose-VELT may be beyond just criticism and personal abuse of him might have been a form of vilification. Neither the Democratic candidate nor the Democratic party wants that sort of a campaign. But after all, is THEODORE ROOSEVELT the bands of his competitor in the campaign? So far as we have been able to trace his record, the Republican candidate for President has not been over nice in the treatment of his rival or the leaders of the riding on a motor car near Lumber City, a party opposed to him. As a matter of fact, the campaign book issued by the Republican National committee only a few weeks ago, goes far out of the way to traduce Judge PARKER and in his letter of endorses the slander. Not only that, but the exceptional success of Mr. Harry L. he misrepresents every conspicuous Demo- Camp, a former Centre Hall boy, but who theory. But in practice, a swift kick is ing, all of which will be devoted to its own more effective. On the whole, we are glad use. In describing it the Times, of that that Judge PARKER has assumed the atti- city, says : tude on the subject expressed in his letter to the literary bureau of the Democratic National committee. It expresses the decent impulse and, as a rule, that is good politics. There is probably no man in the politics. There is probably no man in the country who could have better met a rough and tumble, catch as catch can campaign. Girls, are at work on the sixth floor makand tumble, catch as catch can campaign. His life has been blameless, whether considered from a public or private viewpoint and his character is unassailable. ROOSEVELT would be extremely fortunate if his were similarly cleau.

Wednesday's Democratic Meeting.

Centre county Democrats formally open. ed the campaign in this county Wednesday afternoon at Grange park when a monster meeting was held under the personal direction of the county committee. Though Wednesday is never considered the big day at the encampment the crowd on that day this week was unusually large and and was made up of voters from all parts of the county who came to hear the real issues of the present campaign ably and intelligently discussed. A large crowd from this place, accompanied by the Colewere joined by the State College band and, with the Coburn and Penn Hall bands Miss Mable R. Arney, both of Feidler. already on the ground, there was no lack of inspiring music

The meeting was called at 1 o'clock by county chairman H. S. TAYLOR. Col.J.L. SPANGLER was elected to preside and with him on the platform were the speakers for the afternoon and many of the party workers in the county. Col. SPANGLER introduced as the first speaker Hon. JOHN H. Fow, of Philadelphia. Mr. Fow spoke for more than an hour and, though the formerly of this place but now employed auditorium was crowded to its fullest ca- in Bellwood, and Miss Ida May Sharp, pacity, so interesting and argumentative was the speaker that not a man left the this place, went to Pitcairn Saturday of building. Mr. Fow indulged in no per- last week where, at the home of Mr. and sonal abuse of any candidate but confined himself to stating facts about the Republi- marriage by the Rev. At this juncture Col. SPANGLER might have read the following telegram, but it him in time to be the greeting that New York Democracy intended it should be.

Democracy of New York sends its greetings to the Democracy of Pennsylvania.
We are now engaged in nominating a ticket which will redeem the Empire State.

DAVID B. HILL. The other speakers of the day were Senator ED. M. HERBST, of Berks county, who made a brief speech in Pennsylvania Dutch, and that is the reason we don't report it, and Hon. JAMES A. GLEASON, of Clearfield county. With three cheers for PARKER and DAVIS the meeting adjourned n time to permit Bellefonters to return on the regular evening train.

Pursuant to the call of county chairman H. S. Taylor the Democratic county convention of last June was econvened in the court house, Bellefonte, on Tuesday for the purpose of electing three conferees to meet in conference with the conferees of Clinton and nating a candidate for the State Senate in the 34th district to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator A. E. Patton.

Col. J. L. Spangler, who was chairman of the convention last June, presided and called the convention to order promptly at 11 o'clock. Secretary H. J. Jackson read the call and on motion of W. C. Heinle, the calling of the roll was dispensed with, but there was almost a full turn out of delegates present. Chairman Spangler then announced the purpose of the convention when Senator Heinle offered the following resolution:

Bellefonte, Pa., Sept. 20th. Resolved, That J. C. Meyer, M. I. Gard-ner and James Schofield be elected the conferees for Centre county to nominate a candidate for the Senate for the 34th district, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator A.E. Patton, and that they go to the conference uninstructed.

The resolution was adopted and the chairman announced the business of the convention finished. Before adjournment brief but enthusiastic addresses were made by Senator W. C. Heinle, Hon. Jas. Schofield, D. F. Fortney, T. C. Hipple, of Lock Haven, J. C. Meyer, Capt. H. S. Taylor and Col. J. L. Spangler. The convention adjourned at 12 o'clock.

The rain all day Tuesday kept the crowd away so that there really were but two good days of the picnic-Wednesday and yesterday-and each day about twenty-five bundred people were present. Each day's exercises in the auditorium, from the preaching of the harvest home sermon on Sunday by Rev. G. W. McIlnay to the last of the Vincent dramatic company's excellent entertainments last night, were carried through exactly as given in the program published in the festival on the grounds which proved a successful preliminary amusement to the week's exercises. Two thousand people attended the harvest home services on Sunday when Rev. McIlnay preached an able sermon on "Seed-time and Harvest." Monday was given over entirely to getting everything in shape for the week's encampment until in the evening when the Vincent dramatic company gave the first of their series of entertainments. The Vincent company, by the way, under the management of Mr. William Flack, an old Bellefonte boy but now of Media, is composed entirely of amateur talent from a Catholic home in the eastern part of the State. During their engagement at the encampment Fred Weaver, of this place, played the piano for them and did it to perfection.

It was one of the most horrible accidents that ever occurred in the Altoona shops, and the Times of that city gives the following account of it: Bailey and A. A. Walker were engaged in repairing the safety valve of a tank car, which is connected with the dome. The car was standing in the circle of the car shop, and had been opened in the early morning in order that any gas that might be in it might escape. Holes had been drilled and everything was in readiness to rivet the valve to the dome. Bailey was standing partly inside the dome. The rivet was heated and passed to the unfortunate man, and just as he inserted it into the hole the explosion occurred.

Bailey was hurled with terrific force into the air, his body ascending a distance of angle. In the ascent his body was whirled over and over, finally dropping on and through the skylight of the shop, tearing its way through. His body dropped with heam it was severed at the middle, the two parts dropping within eight or ten feet of ach other. The entrails were separated from the trunk and scattered in piles. Nearly every stitch of clothing was torn from the body, and the greater part of his apparel was consumed. Both shoes were torn from his feet and one of them was found eight tracks from the explosion and was badly charred and was minus the

The head was crushed into an unrec ognizable mass. The fragments of the poor man's body were gathered together and given to Undertaker Lafferty to be prepared for burial.

Walker, who was sitting on the tank just outside the dome, was knocked to the plat-form of the car, but soon recovered and hastily climbed into the manhole. The accident bappened so suddenly that he did not see what happened to his fellow-workman and presumed that he was still While the force of the explosion was terrific, the tank car was uninjured, as the manhole afforded a vent for the escape of the power generated by the exploding

The sickening sight presented by the mangled and bruised remains caused eral of the workmen to be almost overcome, and one man went raving out of the shop, and it for a time was thought that he had been injured. Bailey had been employed at the freight shop since July 19th, 1895. He was regarded as a safe workman. His gang has had charge of putting in safety valves on the tank cars and they thoroughly understood it, and that the car was not safe never entered their minds. It is stated that Bailey was about to sever his connec tion with the freight shop as he had just completed arrangements by which he was to take charge of a farm in Centre county. Bailey was born at Pine Grove Mills, Centre county, on May 31st, 1868. He came to Altoona nine years ago. The following year he was married to Miss Maggie Kline, daughter of J. A. Kline, of Oak

Hall, Centre county. His wife and two children, Edna, aged 6 and Eva, aged 4, survive. He also leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Bailey, of Pine Grove Mills, and these brothers and sisters Calvin, of State College, Stewart, Paul, Nannie and Mary, all at home.
