

now our own, we know that it is a part of her gift. To you, Mrs. Carnegie, we present our tribute. On this, your first visit to our beloved college, we wish you to know the good feeling and the delight we have in your presence among us. We want to place in a permanent form some appreciation of the deep sense of gratitude we have, some mark of the deep sense of gratitude we have, have to you, as the benefactor of our benefactor. We ask you, therefore, to accept this loving cup, representing the appreciation, the thoughtfulness, the admiration and affection of the students of the Pennsylvania State College. (Applause.)

Mrs. Carnegie was for a moment almost overcome by the kind thoughtfulness of the students but quickly recovering herself she ascended the platform and said:

"My ambition in life is to be the silent wife of my husband, the silent partner; to hold up his hands as far as I can and help him to do his work in the world; but out of the fullness of my heart I am obliged to speak today and tell you how deeply I thank you for this very great and unexpected honor you have conferred upon me. I thank you very warmly." (Applause.)

Before closing Governor Pennypacker was called on and made a few brief remarks which the students gave their "Pennsylvania State!" yell for Mrs. Carnegie and the audience was dismissed.

The remainder of the day was taken up with a review of the cadet battalion by major-general Charles Miller, commanding officers of the State national guard, while the guests of honor of the day were most interested spectators. At the conclusion of the review the cadet soldiery gave a very realistic sham battle, which, as an old soldier of the civil war told the writer, "was nearer the real article than anything he had seen since the war." In the evening the senior class gave a reception to the guests in the armory which was followed by the regular Thanksgiving assembly. The stopper & Fisk orchestra furnished the music and the decorations were by Volmer & Sims, of Harrisburg.

The Carnegie-Schwab party left the college at ten o'clock that night on a special while Governor and Mrs. Pennypacker came to Bellefonte and spent the night and next forenoon with Col. and Mrs. Edward R. Chambers, who are distant relatives of the Governor.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS.

The revival services in progress in the Baptist church at Marthas are being largely attended and some are confessing Christ. Rev. A. C. Lathrop, the pastor, is being assisted by Rev. J. L. Kremer, of Germantown, an evangelist of note, an able preacher and impressive singer. Next week special services will be held at Milesburg.

KEISTER-REED.—Thursday evening of last week Mr. Harry Keister and Miss Maud Reed were married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Reed, of East Logan street. BEGAN MAKING BRICK.—The Hayes Run Fire Brick company commenced making brick Monday and the first day's work was very satisfactory. The company has a good plant, with capable men in charge and is prepared to supply the market with first class products. The company is composed of Clinton and Centre county citizens. Judge elect E. L. Orvis of Bellefonte, is the president; T. M. Stevenson of Lock Haven, secretary and treasurer; W. I. Harvey of Flemington, general manager, and Warren Kyler of Lock Haven, superintendent. The latter has had years of experience in the manufacture of fire brick.

When the plant is in full running order quite a large number of hands will be given employment. At present about 60 persons are employed.

HE TOOK WATER.—The Lock Haven Democrat says: Internal revenue collector Rees, of this district, took an involuntary bath in the chilly waters of the river Tuesday afternoon at Charloton, and then missed his train for home. Mr. Rees was about to step on the ferry boat, when Ferryman Condo pushed the craft from shore. Instead of getting on the Rees fell in the water full length, and received a ducking from head to foot. He intended going over to Pine to take the afternoon train to this city to get to Bellefonte, but after the accident he returned to Adam Roekenbrod's hotel and was put to bed between warm blankets. Later dry clothing was loaned to him and he was brought to this city by a kindly hearted landlord, and then hurried a trolley car for Mill Hill in time to get home on the evening Bellefonte Central train.

Philadelphia Dog Show Opens.

Philadelphia, Nov. 23.—The annual exhibition of the Philadelphia Dog Show opened in Horticultural hall with the largest number of dogs ever shown by the association.
