MONTGOMERY & CO

WHY?

Spend your time shopping from store to store and finding only one or two of the items you want?

Why not start in on your Holiday shopping at the place where you can find all the goods you are looking for. We have the goods—the right kind; the right quality and at the right prices. But we did not buy them to keep. We want to sell them quickly and buy more to keep business moving. And we want to sell some of this stock to you.

In fact YOU are the particular person we have in mind. We invite you, have made preparation for you, will expect you and will be disappointed if you do not come.

But, of course, you will come. WHY NOT?

Our stock of pure foods are drawn from every country on the face of the earth. It includes hundreds of items unknown to grocerymen of twenty-five years ago.

Our line of CANNED GOODS alone would make a good sized store. Then comes our line of Fruits, Oranges, Lemons, Grapes, Bananas, Strawberries, &c.

CURED FRUITS—Such as raisins, currants, apricots, peaches, prunes, figs, dates and all kinds of foreign and domestic cured fruits.

IN CONFECTIONERY we have Chocolates, bon bon mixtures, boxes of fine confectionery for the Holiday trade and a full line of the latest goods.

Our TEAS, COFFEES AND SPICES are worthy of more space than we give them here. What would Christmas be indeed, without a cup of fine coffee or fragrant tea? Or pure spices for seasoning. Fine table syrups, cream cheese, nuts of all kinds, flavoring extracts, olive oil, olives, sardines, ketchup and a large line of condiments and relishes.

We conclude that you have now accepted our invitation and we are expecting you. We will be glad to see you and think you will be glad you came.

A Feast of Pork, Venison and Pleasant Entertainment

The following very interesting letter is gladly given space in the columns of the WATCHMAN, as it deals with all that is tempting to the inner man, both physically and intellectually:

TO THE WATCHMAN:
Just like them! The Cambridges, the Earons and others of the family connection are nothing if not original in everything they undertake to do. It isn't at every jolly butchering bee that the intellectual menu is fully as prominent as that appealing to the inner man.

Wednesday last week, on the Cambridge farm on the top of Muncy mountain, in Benner township, a number of monster porkers were changed into pork and frills. Mr. and Mrs. Earon (the latter of whom was formerly Miss Lida Cambridge) in their customary hospitable manner, made preliminary arrangements and invited a number of their friends from Bellefonte, State College, Howard, Philipsburg and the nearer neighborhood. Some of the guests were from Philipsburg. Instead of the usual turkey, as generally provided on such occasions, the guests partook of an elegantly roasted saddle of venison taken from a deer which Mr. Earon shot on the Alleghenies, a week before, while out with a jolly hunting party.

By 2 o'clock of the afternoon the practical part of the butchering was finished, the sausages made and all the odds and ends cleaned up. Then the intellectual feast began. Among the most interesting portion of this part of the program was a valedictory address by Mrs. Emerick, which that lady delivered at the close of the grammar school in Unionville, in 1863, just 41 years ago. Mrs. Emerick was then 13 years old and she can recite it today with as much grace and ease as she did then, not missing or forgetting a single word. That particular school at that time was taught by the now well-known Dr. Cambridge. The address in question is a carefully prepared effort and dwells almost wholly on the cruel scenes of the war then in progress.

The writer would suggest that those having in charge the arrangement of the program for the 1905 Centre County Veteran's picnic invite Mrs. Emerick to deliver this particular address. It is replete with pathos and the lady is fully competent to greatly interest each and every one who might be so fortunate as to hear her. It will interest not only the old "Boys in Blue" but the younger generation as well.

JOHN A. DALEY.

Let the Faubles Stores make your Christmas shopping easy.

John Brown, of Spring street, met with a serious accident last Saturday. He was helping to take down the scaffolding in the Catholic church when a heavy scantling fell, striking him on the shoulder, on the hip and on the right foot, smashing four toes. His right arm is cut and bruised from the shoulder to the wrist, but fortunately, no bones were broken. The accident, however, is bad enough to keep the man from work awhile.

Unquestionably the Best.

"The Pittsburg Post" is constantly increasing in favor with the reading public of the large section of country, in which it circulates. It is a Democratic paper, although it numbers many thousands of Republicans among its subscribers, simply because it is a bright, clean, up-to-date journal—a newspaper in the highest sense of the word. "The Post" is not given to scandal or sensationalism and its object is to give all the important news in the most attractive form. Every item of news is carefully edited, so that it should impart the facts succinctly, and without any objectionable statements. "The Post" is therefore not only a paper for the business man, but also for the family.

The editorials of "The Post" aim to be instructive and entertaining, and to elucidate clearly the meaning of the important happenings of the world. "The Post" is particularly a favorite with the women, because it makes a special endeavor to give them just the kind of news that interests them.

"The Post's" market and financial news has long been noted for its reliability, and its railroad industrial news is equalled by no other paper.

The sporting news of "The Post" is full and complete, and is more generally perused than that of any other Pittsburg journal.

"The Post's" aim is always not only to keep up with the procession, but to head it and it is daily increasing its lead over all competitors. All therefore who want to read a complete and model newspaper will subscribe for "The Pittsburg Post."

Let the Faubles Stores make your Christmas shopping easy.

Books, Magazines, Etc.

A valuable contribution to sacred literature is promised in the Delinquent in a series of papers on the famous hymns of the world, which begins in the January number with "Jesus, Lover of My Soul"—one of the most perfect heart songs of all ages. The greatest hymns, such as this, have a universal appeal; churches may differ as to creeds and conventions, but these exalted expressions of Christian faith and hope are common to all. The story of how they came to be written cannot fail to be absorbingly interesting; it is especially so in the case of Charles Wesley's noble composition, whose origin, as related in this paper, is shrouded in romantic incidents. A feature of the article scarcely less interesting is a number of anecdotes from noted churchmen showing the power for good that the hymn wielded throughout the world. This article, as well as the rest in the series, has been prepared by Allan Sutherland and is effectively illustrated.

Few, very few stores will show you as many of the correct things for Man or Boy as you will see at Faubles.
