LICENSE COURT .- Tuesday was license court when for the first time Judge Ellis years. The young man, who was greatly liquor and beer, eight more men than have had that privilege the past year. Remonstrances were presented against all the applicants for a wholesale license in both Bellefonte and Snow Shoe township. The court heard the petitions and remonand then aunounced that he would not would do on or about the 15th.

In a general talk to the applicants Judge Orvis said that at this time he had no new rules to lay down, though he might have a few when he handed down his decisions. But to all those who might be granted a license he wanted to say that they must keep a good house, one not only necessary but which will meet the requirements of the traveling public; and that at all times must they keep within the requirements of the law and the rules laid down by the court. That he intended having special inquiry made several times during the year as to how places were being conducted and if any violation was reported it would mean the immediate revoking of the license

The Judge further stated it had come to his notice that applicants had been anproached by certain attorneys who sought bar and hoped to always continue so, he wanted it distinctly understood that he could not be influenced by any individual lawyer and that any license he would grant would be granted solely on the merits of the case and his own responsihility.

A PLEASANT SURPRISE.-On Monday evening, March 6th, the members and friends of the Baptist church of Milesburg gave their pastor, Rev. A. C. Lathrop and family a very pleasant surprise by dropping in on them without previous notice. They came bearing mysterious looking packages-large and small, until the tables seemed to groan beneath their weight of provisions and useful things for the home. The parsonage was soon well filled with a loyal and appreciative people, who gathered in honor of their pastor's birthday. As soon as the people were in and seated (or standing) pastor Lathrop was taken in charge by several of his male members who marched him to the parlor door-way, where Mr. Henry Heaton, on behalf of the members and friends of the church, in a neat presentation speech gave the greetings of the people and presented the pastor with a beautiful and fine pulpit suit of clothes. The pastor very feelingly responded and thanked his people for their manifest kindness and love. The evening was passed all too soon in social ways, innocent games and in partaking of the dainty refreshments

COLLEGE BOYS IN COMEDY .- A large MISS BOB WHITE .- It is competition upon one idea there is sure to be a degeneration. Willard Spenser has never as yet written an unsuccessful opera. His "Little Tycoon" set the musical world aflutter, his "Princess Bonnie" made him independmusical comedies and comic operas, we find his "Miss Bob White," which will be heard at Garman's, Thursday evening, Mar. 16th, not only holding its own, but actually "turning 'em away" all along the line. Spenser has a style that is purely Spenser. In fact, in "Miss Bob White" there is not a number that is not entirely Spenseresque. It has always been a question which of the popular music should be identified with the opera. For, as "Love Comes Like a Summer Sigh" and "Dreaming of Love," were the master bits of the "Little Tycoon" and "Princess Bonnie" respectively, so everyone thought "The Mystery of Love'' would be the crowning triumph of "Miss Bob White," but the minuet of the Colonial Dames, the "Song of the Dish-pan," and "May We Come a-Wooing" have so crowded the aforesaid that one now speaks of the quartette of successes in conjunction with the latest Spenser opera, which contains all the merit and brilliancy he displayed in his previous efforts, and is emphasized by the clean and wholesome spirit so pronounced in all this author's works

PHILIPS-BOLGER. - Charles Reuben Philips, of Tunnelton, W. Va., and Miss Ethel Josephine Bolger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Pennepacker, being witnessed by only the immediate friends of the contracting parties.
