The Student Strike at State.

The students at The Pennsylvania State College have not been in attendance upon any of their college duties since Monday.

However unjust and unfair the college rules and regulations may be it must be admitted that they were adopted and enforced with the sincere desire to conserve the best interests of the college and thereby those of the students.

While we know that there are many things at The Pennsylvania State College that need correction, yet we do not believe that the students are adopting the right course to have their grievances redressed in this instance.

This strike looks so much like a hot-headed attempt to "pull it through" that we have no sympathy with it. On the other hand suppose the entire student body were to leave the college, what percentage of the boys do you think would be doing so voluntarily.

So far as present indications go the BOAS mansion won't be legislative headquarters during the extra session and the labor of the messenger boy will be materially lightened.

Patent Medicines vs License.

The following statement for the information of dealers in patent medicines in reference to the sale of alcoholic medicinal compounds and the position the government will maintain towards such dealers is given below by the collector of internal revenue.

"In view of the many inquiries relative to the sale of patent medicines containing alcohol, the dealers in which have been notified that after December 1st, they will be required to pay a special tax as liquor dealers, the following is a guide to such dealers as are not provided with a government special tax stamp."

"No dealer, who in good faith sells alcoholic compounds labeled as medicines, which shall not have been found, upon analysis by the government, to come within the recent ruling on such medicines, and such finding been publicly made known, will be required to pay a special tax as liquor dealers. No list of alcoholic compounds coming within the scope of the ruling has as yet been prepared.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS.

Tuesday was about as disagreeable a day, overhead and underfoot, as it is possible to conceive. Starting in with sleet, then snow to the depth of a couple inches and then rain, thus rendering the pavements about an inch deep with slush.

A letter was received at the WATCHMAN office this week from Altoona, containing one dollar for a renewal of subscription, but the sender failed to sign his or her name and we have thus been unable to give proper credit. Will the sender please send in name.

The Thanksgiving donation to the Bellefonte hospital, solicited by the Ladies Auxiliary, far exceeded the expectations of the most sanguine and included everything possible in the line of groceries, vegetables, edibles of all kinds, and other things too numerous to mention.

Heiss, representing the division of zoology, of the State Department of Agriculture, will give a demonstration of the method of making and applying the best and cheapest remedy for the San Jose Scale at Rebersburg at 9 o'clock a. m. on Saturday, Dec. 2nd.

This demonstration will be given in connection with the Farmers' Institute to be held at Rebersburg, on Thursday and Friday, and is at the request of Prof. Gramley and by special arrangement with Col. John A. Woodward, who is county chairman of institutes in Centre county.

THE ELEVENTH HOUR.—Lincoln J. Carter's latest success, "The Eleventh Hour," will be the attraction at Garman's, on Thursday evening, December 7th. In this effort Mr. Carter deals with life in and around Chicago. The theme is the old one of love, hatred and avarice, as most plays are founded on, but he has strayed from the worn and beaten path of conventionalism and clothed the play in bright refreshing lines and subdued pathos and sentiment.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.—The following marriage licenses were issued the past week by Register A. G. Archey. John A. Fulkrod, of Williamsport, and Mary E. Thompson, of Bellefonte. Budd C. Benner and Martha V. Resides, both of Bellefonte.

Don't forget that oyster supper and bazaar to be held by the ladies of the Lutheran church, in the rooms on Bishop street vacated by Doll's bakery, on Wednesday and Thursday, December 6th and 7th. Many fancy and useful articles will be on sale, with an abundance of home-made candy.

Notice was this week received by the county authorities that Dominic Constance, who over a year ago was sent to the western penitentiary, had become insane and a commission has been appointed to investigate into his condition and, if necessary, transfer him to some State asylum for the insane.

Last Saturday evening Emil Joseph, who for some time past has been suffering with a sore foot, was taken to the Hayes sanatorium for treatment as there were indications of blood poisoning setting in. So far it has not been deemed necessary to perform an operation and Mr. Joseph is getting along as well as can be expected.

KILLED AT HIS WORK.—George Dolan, a native of Bellefonte and well-known to most people around here, while working at his trade as a painter, in Scottsdale, Tuesday morning, fell from a swinging ladder and sustained injuries that resulted in his death Tuesday night. He was painting the car shops at that place and he fell from a height forty-five feet in the air. Both legs were broken above the knees, one ankle dislocated, an arm broken and his nose almost torn from his face. He was taken to the Conneville hospital but died shortly afterward. Deceased was 47 years old and was a son of the late Mrs. Ida Dolan. The remains were brought to Bellefonte on the 1:23 train, yesterday afternoon, and taken direct to the Union cemetery for interment.

FELL TO DEATH.—John Seibert Jr., a son of John Seibert, of Benner township, was instantly killed in New York, last Friday. He was in the employ of a bridge and iron company and while working on a huge tank missed his footing and fell to the ground a distance of eighty-four feet. Death was instantaneous. He was unmarried and about thirty years of age. The remains were brought to Bellefonte, Monday morning, and taken to the home of his parents, whence the funeral took place on Tuesday.

BAUMGARDNER.—Mary Baumgardner died at the home of her mother, Mrs. C. Baumgardner, at Pleasant Gap, on Sunday night. She is survived by her mother and the following brothers and sisters: George, of Allport; William, of Boalsburg; John and Mrs. C. Kline, of State College; Collins and Mrs. John Herman, of Bellefonte; Harry, of San Francisco, and Ella, at home. The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon, interment in the cemetery at Pleasant Gap.

DEATH OF MRS. HANNAH HAMILTON.—It is always a deplorable fact to chronicle the death of one young in years or even in the full zenith of life but in the mid-winter of life it is generally felt that God has spared them even beyond the scriptural age allotted to man of three score years and ten, but in the death of Mrs. Hannah Hamilton, widow of the late James Hamilton, at her home on Willowbank street, at 9.30 o'clock yesterday morning, there is common cause for deep regret that she could not have lived longer, even though she had rounded out four score and eight years of life. Possibly the oldest woman in Bellefonte, a descendant of one of the most prominent families of pioneer life in Centre county, she was the one connecting link between the primeval past and the progressive present.

Ever since the death of her husband, on May 12th, 1898, Mrs. Hamilton has not been in good health and her death at this time was not unexpected. It was simply the snapping of life's brittle thread when physical force was completely exhausted. Deceased was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Waddle and a grand daughter of General Philip Benner, of colonial fame. She was born at Rock Forge April 26th, 1817, so that her exact age was 88 years, 7 months and 4 days. She was one of a large family of children only two of whom now survive, Mrs. Mary Williams, of Spring township, and Mr. Thomas Waddle, of Jersey Shore. She is also survived by four children, namely: Mrs. Sarah Satterfield, Mrs. S. H. Williams, Mrs. W. Dawson and Mrs. John Noll, and a number of grand-children and great grand-children.

Most all her life Mrs. Hamilton was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church and a faithful attendant at all the services. She was a woman of a wide acquaintance and universally loved by all. The funeral will be held from the house, at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The services will be in charge of Rev. John A. Wood Jr., and interment will be made in the Union cemetery.

DEATH OF REV. MILES O. NOLL.—It was with deep and heartfelt regret that the news was received here, Monday, of the death, at 3 o'clock that morning, of Rev. Miles O. Noll, at his home in Carlisle. Three weeks ago Rev. Noll contracted typhoid fever and, though every care and medical attention possible was given him, he was unable to withstand the ravages of the disease and his death followed even before many of his friends in this place knew of his illness.

Deceased was forty-two years of age. He was graduated from the Bucknell and Ursinus colleges and in 1890 became pastor of the Bellefonte Reformed church, remaining here until 1895 when he resigned to accept the pastorate of the German Reformed church, of Carlisle, where he remained until his death. As a minister of the gospel he was progressive and energetic, a thorough christian gentleman, both in precept and practice and universally liked by all who had the good fortune to hear him preach. As a man he was most genial and companionable, whole-souled and liberal minded. He was admired and esteemed as greatly outside the pulpit as when exercising his ministerial offices. He was a member of the general board of missions of the Reformed church and a prominent Odd Fellow. The remains were taken to Lewisburg, the home of his birth, for interment.

BORDNER.—Mrs. Mary Eleanor, wife of Robert C. Bordner, died at her home in Altoona, Saturday afternoon, from an internal hemorrhage, after an illness of three days. Deceased was 32 years of age and was born at Nittany, this county, where she lived until about three years ago when she moved with her husband to Altoona. She was an attendant of the First United Evangelical church and was esteemed by all who knew her. Surviving her are her husband, her mother, Mrs. Hettie Tate, of Nittany, and the following brothers and sisters: Edward and Robert, of Tyrone; John, of Salona; Nerr, of New Orleans; Charles, of Flemington; Mrs. Mollie Fultz, of Milwaukee; Mrs. Kate Steiner, of Hublersburg, and Mrs. Jennie Shope, of Nittany. Funeral services were conducted at her late home in Altoona, at 10 o'clock Monday morning, after which the remains were brought to Bellefonte on the 1:23 train and taken to Nittany, to the home of her mother, whence the funeral took place Tuesday afternoon. Interment was made in the Nittany cemetery.

NEARHOOD.—John Nearhood, one of the best known citizens of Taylor township, died at 11 o'clock, Wednesday last week, of a complication of diseases. Deceased was 66 years of age and was one of the old-time residents of that community. By occupation he was a farmer, in which he was quite successful. He was a veteran of the civil war, having served as a private in the 110th regiment, P. V. I. He is survived by his wife and the following children: Mrs. J. H. Gardner, of Soranton; Mrs. Benjamin McCracken and Mrs. Edward Wigleman, of Altoona; Mrs. Joseph Goss, Samuel and Ira, of Taylor township. Rev. Shires conducted the funeral services which were held, Saturday morning, interment being made in the Mt. Pleasant cemetery.

BAUMGARDNER.—Mary Baumgardner died at the home of her mother, Mrs. C. Baumgardner, at Pleasant Gap, on Sunday night. She is survived by her mother and the following brothers and sisters: George, of Allport; William, of Boalsburg; John and Mrs. C. Kline, of State College; Collins and Mrs. John Herman, of Bellefonte; Harry, of San Francisco, and Ella, at home. The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon, interment in the cemetery at Pleasant Gap.

A New Book of Verse.

Another contribution to the literature of the day has just been published by the house of Richard D. Badger, of Boston, Mass., and since it is the work of Mrs. Christine L. Swayne, of this place, it carries more than the usual interest to her acquaintances here. Were the author unknown, however, the volume would still prove one of exceeding charm because of the great play of thought it reveals, either in the strong, advanced conceptions of life or the dainty, tender little passages that intersperse them.

Upon our request the Rev. George Israel Browne has reviewed the work as follows:

This faculty in life which is to most desired and envied is just and discriminating judgment—exact, fair and full—recognizing to the widest extent the conditions, limitations and relationships of any thing, person or event.

The joy in such a possession comes in the fearless readiness to receive the confident recognition and ungrudging welcome we can give that which is good, fine, unusual, or extraordinary wherever we can find it.

It is the function of poetry to clothe in words and voice the more hidden, delicate and subtle meanings of beauty and truth, the suggestions of forces, laws and aspects, which rule and live in the heart of things and of life, and which can best be done, perhaps only adequately done, by the restraint and larger freedom of measure and rhyme.

It is the highest, most difficult and most potent form of literature. The ability to create it is a gift; it is partly a gift, but also an acquisition, to be able to appreciate it, to absorb it, and to be thrilled by it.

It is something in the nature of a rare occurrence when a volume of real verse appears in one's own life time. It takes on greater weight when it comes from one we know, and it tends to add dignity to our own life. It gives an impetus to the finer instincts and appetites to have it, in any way, identified with the community in which we live.

Such is our case in Bellefonte in the autumn of the year 1905.

It is with a distinct feeling of restraint that we call Mrs. Swayne's "Visionary and Other Poems" a collection of good verse.

It is not too much to say that some of them are fine, in their spirit, in their swing and in their art.

Their range, too, shows a rather unusual wide acquaintance with thought and life. They are intensely modern, but with a due and reverent recognition of the mystery and romance of the past.

They are also, if we may dare to say it, frankly and superbly womanly, and therefore honest and true.

This again is said with a distinct desire and attempt to be restrained and just in our judgment.

Some of the lines seem to demand of us that we make them our possession. Not so much the printed page, but the thought and the form.

This, from "The Visionary," we might apply to the modern prophet whom men seem unconsciously to desire, for whom Ruskin, Tolstoy, Henry George, Whitman, Roosevelt, Steffens, Weaver, Folk, Grosscup, and Riis have, as forerunners, been preparing the way and striving to rouse men to the desire for social, national righteousness, and to a finer justice:

"When he was young, the freedom of his blood Drove him from out the populous, pent herds, Who multiply within these ghettos of the soul, These cramping bonds,—Expedience and Use; Then with inspired, uncalculating joy He rioted among traditions of the great, Made models of the liberated dead; He saw his life a road to other worlds, And scorned to shape a mercenary course."

So He, "Sows all the world he loved as one huge field With seed of mighty harvesting to come."

There is a suggestion of the architecture of the old world, the dim and vast cathedrals, the age-stained stone-work, in some of the poems, "The Gargoyles," "The Wyvvern on the Gate Post," and suggestions of human tragedy connected with them in "The Squint."

"The Sea Song" is as free and joyous, as buoyant, as anything Longfellow ever wrote.

The "Trumpet Call" distinctly carries out the faith which is voiced in "The Visionary."

"The Thin Veil," "The Goal of Dreams," "Lazarus," "The Quaker Meeting," "The Soul," "The Passion Flower," all tell us truly that the modern soul has its yearnings, its dim gropings, its guiding instincts, as ever of old, from the Psalms downward.

We are glad to read "Morning, Noon and Night."

The "Hawaiian Song" tells us of a voyage to those mid-Pacific isles, and the arousings with which their balmy isolation stirs the imaginative and receptive mind. While the love songs make us afraid to speak, lest we say too much or too little—perhaps we can dis-entangle a little the strings that vibrate. There is just the responsive gladness at the great flood-tide of joy with which the Creator has endowed the vast ocean of life, which he has set going on the earth, and over which he broods, as at the Beginning.

There is also the yearning and envy that our share in it is so fleeting, so partial and so small.

There is respect for a fearless and holy singing of some of the God-given and God-ordered primal instincts of our nature; a singing that is almost flawless, because it is frank, reverent and direct. These poems, like all things else in life, measure us, test our souls,—so let it be if only we can grow thereby.

GEORGE I. BROWNE.

COURT CULLINGS.—The case of Charles Sebald vs Milesburg borough was taken up before Judge Telford, at the special week of court, last Thursday afternoon, Hon. A. O. Furst and H. D. Zerby represented the prosecutor and Hon. John G. Love and J. A. B. Miller the defendant. This was a retrial of the case heard in court about a year ago before Judge Love, and is an action for damages. The prosecutor is the owner of considerable land on Bald Eagle ridge, in Armor's gap. On this land is a good spring and several years ago the borough of Milesburg pre-empted the spring and ground for a reservoir by rights of eminent domain, for the purpose of furnishing a water supply for the borough. Plaintiff and defendant could not agree upon the price to be paid for the land and the spring hence this action. The first trial before Judge Love resulted in a verdict for the plaintiff in the sum of $2,750. This the court deemed excessive and cut the amount down to $1,600, giving the plaintiff the alternative of accepting that amount or awarding the application of the defendants for a new trial. Plaintiff refused the court's award and went to trial last week for the second time. The case was stubbornly contested by both sides and it was not until 5:30 o'clock Monday evening that it was given to the jury. Tuesday morning they returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for the sum of $1,163.83. Mr. Sebald is dissatisfied with this verdict and will contest the case further.

THE WEEK'S COURT. The regular November term of court convened at 10 o'clock Monday morning with Judge Ellis L. Orvis on the bench. The list of grand jurors was called and William Taylor, of Gregg township, appointed foreman, after which the court gave them the usual instructions.

The list of constables and justices throughout the county was called and their reports received after which considerable time was devoted to hearing and disposing of petitions, etc.

In the list of civil cases that of George T. Brew vs Christian Sharer, Eve Sharer, W. H. Marcey, A. A. Bertels and Thomas Pence, an action of ejectment for lands in Rush township, was continued by agreement of counsel.

Among the cases on the criminal list disposed of this week were the following: Commonwealth vs James Andrews, assault and battery with intent to commit rape. Prosecutrix, Frances Swisher. Verdict of not guilty and the costs divided between the prosecutrix and defendant.

Commonwealth vs Jesse Barr, betrayal. Defendant plead guilty and was given the usual sentence.

Commonwealth vs Harry Bortorf, assault and battery. Prosecutrix, Samuel Farl. Verdict of guilty returned.

Commonwealth vs Harry Kelley, two counts—assault and battery. Defendant plead guilty to the first count and a not pros was entered on the second count. Sentenced to pay a fine of one dollar and costs of prosecution.

A. H. Knoff vs Louis Rosenthal, an appeal. The plaintiff had shipped poultry in crates to the defendant who neglected to return the crates and suit was brought to recover same or their equivalent value. Verdict in favor of the plaintiff for one dollar.

M. C. Gephart vs James B. Noll, an action to recover a piano. Verdict for the defendant.

Commonwealth vs Albert Fetters, rape. Prosecutrix, Ida M. Parks. Verdict not guilty.

Commonwealth vs L. C. Bullock, assault. Prosecutrix, John F. Potter. Bill ignored and prosecutor pay the costs.

Commonwealth vs John Barr, desertion. Plead guilty and sentence suspended by the court.

In the cases of the Quaker City Mutual Fire Insurance company the receiver, Chas. E. Brown, suffered a voluntary non suit. In the case of Commonwealth vs John G. Platt, recognizance was renewed for a continuance to the January term of court.

RESIGNATION OF DR. LAURIE.—On Sunday morning, November 19th, at the close of the morning service in the Presbyterian church, Rev. Dr. Laurie read to the congregation his resignation, as follows: "To The Bellefonte Presbyterian Church.—"I beg leave to offer my resignation as pastor of this church, and I ask the church to unite with me in requesting the Presbyterian church, Rev. Dr. Laurie read to the congregation his resignation, as follows: "To The Bellefonte Presbyterian Church.—"I beg leave to offer my resignation as pastor of this church, and I ask the church to unite with me in requesting the Presbyterian relation now existing, said dissolution to take place at the close of the present year. (Signed) WM. LAURIE. Bellefonte, Pa., Nov. 19th, 1905."

A meeting of the congregation was held November 26th, 1905, to take action on above resignation and, in accepting it, the following minute was adopted by a rising vote of the large congregation present: "The congregation of the Presbyterian church in Bellefonte, in accepting the resignation of the Rev. William Laurie, who, for almost thirty years has been its pastor, desires to testify by this minute to his faithfulness as a pastor and his unusual ability as a preacher. "Holding with simple and unswerving faith the doctrines of his church, firm in his adherence to her standards and loyal to her traditions, Dr. Laurie never failed to present the truth with earnestness, with absolute sincerity and with convincing force. "We here record our belief in his Christian character, in his high devotion to duty; we commend him for the sincerity of his convictions and for his untiring zeal in the prosecution of his work; and it is our sincere desire and hope that his future years may be full of usefulness, and that his high abilities may continue to be exercised in the work to which he has given his life."

—Sheriff H. S. Taylor now has a force of painters and paper hangers hard at work fixing up his house—the old Cowdick property—on east Linn street, so as to have it in shape to move into by the first of the year when his term as sheriff will expire. —J. N. Schoonover and C. W. Ather-ton, of Phillipsburg, have bought out the interest of their partners in the plant of the High Standard Garment company. Work on the new building for the factory is being pushed as rapidly as possible and it is expected that it will be ready for occupancy in the near future.

—Editor Williams in the Phillipsburg Journal says: Col. J. L. Spangler, of Bellefonte, and Joseph Reilly, of Philadelphia, two dyed-in-the-wool Democrats, were arrivals in town, Thursday afternoon, on personal, political and other business.

—Tuesday morning of last week R. S. Brouse left Bellefonte for the Allegheny mountains to join the Panther hunting club, of which he is a member. Thursday evening he arrived home sick and the attending physician diagnosed his ailment as a slight attack of diphtheritis. By diligent treatment the physician succeeded in spreading the disease so that no operation was necessary and at this writing Mr. Brouse's condition is very much improved with the chances favorable for his permanent recovery. This is the second attack he has had of this disease. Hard P. Harris was also taken down with appendicitis, last Saturday evening, but the doctors spread the disease without the necessity of an immediate operation though it is the advice of the physicians that he submit to an operation in the near future.
