Black Pearls.

Black pearls used to be held as of small value, comparatively speaking. At the present day a perfect black specimen commands a much higher price than the finest pink or white pearls. They were first made fashionable by the Empress Eugenie, wife of Napoleon III, who possessed a famous necklace of them which fetched £4,000 at an auction after the overthrow of the imperial dynasty. This did not include the single great pearl forming the snap, which was purchased by the Marquis de Bute for £1,000. Mexico, Tahiti, Fiji and the kingdom of Madura, to the east of Malabar, supply the markets of the world with the best black pearls. One of the most curious pearls from many points of view was that which the traveler Tavernier sold to the ruler of Persia 200 years ago for £100,000. It is still in the possession of the shah of Persia and is now supposed to be worth £135,000. The Persian monarch has a square glass case among his bizarre collection of jewelry containing a vast heap of most magnificent pearls four or five inches deep, into which one can plunge the hand and spill them in cascades and handfuls.

Town Pipes Furnished Hot Water.

Residents of Dravosburg, Pa., were recently supplied with hot water from the village pumping station, says the Pittsburgh Dispatch. There was no extra cost for it. When they wanted a drink they had to stand a glassful outside. All they had to do was to put a little coffee in a cup and turn on the spigot. All of this demonstrated that human nature is not always satisfied, because when things are hot the people want them cold, and vice versa. The solution of the matter was this: A water main extending along Goldstrom avenue passes beneath an old slag pile. Some time ago the slag became ignited and has since been smoldering. The heat extends to the water main, therefore the hot water. A phenomenon is that the heat has brought out the creaks, and while the hot water service goes on they nightly perform solos in ensemble numbers.

Oregon Trees For Austria.

A. F. Miller of Sellwood, Ore., recently made a shipment of 750 pounds of the seeds of fir and spruce trees to replenish the depleted forests of Austria, says the Portland Oregonian. One thousand pounds were wanted, but these were all that were gathered. About 600 sacks of cones were picked from young trees, from which the seeds were carefully taken. Between 200 and 300 pounds of seeds were sifted from the whole bulk that did not promise, only the very best being sent across the sea. Oregon fir and spruce are growing on thousands of acres of territory in Germany and Austria that had been denuded of trees. Mr. Miller has been gathering seeds of these trees for several years. He says that the fir is the most popular tree and the seeds are eagerly sought for, the demand being greater than can be supplied.

Yawning as a Remedy.

Yawning, though contrary to the canons of good society, is undoubtedly very beneficial to the individual. Muscles are brought into play during a good yawn which otherwise would never obtain any exercise at all, and its value as a sort of natural massage is considerable. The muscles which move the lower jaw and the breathing muscles of the chest are the first ones used during the process of gaping; then the tongue is rounded and arched, the palate tightly stretched and the uvula raised. The eyes generally close tightly toward the termination of the yawn, the ears are raised slightly and the nostrils dilated. The crack sometimes heard in the ear proves that the auricular membranes are also stretched and exercised, something impossible by any process but a yawn. It has been recommended by some doctors that sufferers from nasal catarrh should make a practice of yawning six or seven times a day and good results will follow. It is also considered valuable in inflammation of the palate, sore throat and earache.

MISSING GIRL LOCATED

Miss Maud Haynes, Aged 12, Found in West Virginia Village.
Upper Potomac, W. Va., Jan. 27.—Columbus Paugh, of this place, claims to have located Miss Maud Haynes, aged 12, who, according to a newspaper dispatch, mysteriously disappeared from her home at Oakland, Pa., about the middle of December, 1905.

Mr. Paugh has written two letters to the girl's parents, using the name and address in the newspaper dispatch, but both have been returned unopened. He also wrote to the postmaster at Susquehanna, Pa., just across the river from Oakland, and received the reply that no one is missing from there.

Mr. Paugh feels certain that from the circumstances surrounding his finding of the girl that she is being kept from her parents, possibly by forcible means. He also believes that by an error in the newspaper dispatch her parents' address was wrongly given.

He will welcome any information which will lead to the restoration of the child to her parents.

He served two terms in the legislature, and afterwards became judge of the Dauphin-Lebanon district. He was president of the Carlisle Deposit Bank at the time of his death.

Mean Thief Takes Child's Tresses.

Newark, N. J., Jan. 29.—Freda Wagenehm, 12 years old, of 212 Broome street, was standing in front of the court house listening to a fakir crying his wares, when some one behind her clipped off her long dark braids, which hung below her waist.

Friendship.

Don't flatter yourselves that friendship authorizes you to say disagreeable things to your intimates. On the contrary, the nearer you come into relation with a person the more necessary it is to tact and courtesy become. Except in cases of necessity, which are rare, leave your friend to learn unpleasant truths from his enemies.

There always is a sense of satisfaction in hearing abused those one dislikes.

We heard a man say the other morning that the abbreviation for February—Feb.—means Freeze everybody, and that man looked frozen in his visiter. It was apparent that he needed the kind of warmth that stays, the warmth that reaches from head to foot, all over the body. We could have told him from personal knowledge that Hood's Sarsaparilla gives permanent warmth, it invigorates the blood and speeds it along through artery and vein, and really fits men and women, boys and girls, to enjoy cold weather and resist the attacks of disease. It gives the right kind of warmth, stimulates and strengthens at the same time, and its benefits are lasting. There may be a suggestion in this for you.
