ON TRIAL FOR HIS LIFE

Small's Confession of Allinson Murder Read to Jury.

Mount Holly, N. J., March 6 .- All the efforts of the prosecution in the case of George Small, the negro, whose trial for the murder of Florence W. Allinson began Monday, were in the direction of substantiating Small's recent confession and paving the way for its admission as evidence. There were five witnesses present when Small made his confession, and all of them testified that no inducement was held out to him by the prosecutor, and that he was specifically warned that whatever statement he made would be used against him at the trial. The confession was first made to Detective Frank J. Lore, of Bridgeton, who denied positively that Small was kept without food or sleep for 70 hours in order to compel him to confess, or that he was promised that $500 would be expended for his defense at the trial. Detective Lore said Small's wife was the principal factor in securing his admission of guilt.

Counsel for the defense objected to the admission of the confession for thereason that improper influences had been used to secure it, but the court decided it was admissible, and it was thereupon read to the jury. It was substantially the same as that made by Rufus Johnson. Small admitted that he hit the woman on the head with a club, but that Johnson had first assaulted her and afterwards choked her to death by tying a strap around her throat. Small said he was angry with Johnson for having killed the woman, as he thought there was no necessity for it and, furthermore, because Johnson refused to divide with him the proceeds of the robbery of the house

No Cemetery For Dog. Norristown, Pa., March 6. — The court decided that a cemetery is no place for the burial of animals, no matter how much they are beloved by the owners. The case in point was that of Charles Bean, who interred a pet poodle in his lot in the Lutheran cemetery at North Wales, and erected a monument similar to those marking the names of other members of the family, and inscribed "Our Pet." For this he was haled into court by the church people, and Judge Swartz holds they were justly aggrieved.
