NOT TRYING TO DICTATE ACTION

Washington, May 15.—The sensational rate bill incident in the senate Saturday, during which Mr. Tillman, on the authority of former Senator Chandler, made statements regarding the president's course in connection with pending railroad rate legislation, some of which statements were denied by Mr. Lodge on behalf of the president, had its sequel when an official statement was issued by the White House giving an account of the subject on the part of the president and Attorney General Moody. The statement comprised two letters, one from the president to Senator Allison and the other from Attorney General Moody to the president. The president says:

"In no case, either in the case of Mr. Chandler or any one else, was there the slightest opportunity for any honest misconception of my attitude or any belief that I pledged myself specifically to one, and only one, amendment or set of amendments, or that I would not be satisfied with any amendment which preserved the essential features of the Hepburn bill as it came from the house."

The president says that as to many of the amendments, including the so-called Long, Overman, Bacon and Spooner amendments, he had said he should be entirely satisfied to have them in the bill, and suggested modifications as to other amendments, but that "as to none (of the amendments) did I ever say either to Mr. Chandler or to any one else that I should insist upon having them in the bill as a condition of my approval," and that on the contrary, he the president, was careful to state that he was not trying to dictate any particular programme of action.

The president then says: "I also repeatedly stated that while it was entirely satisfactory to me to simply leave the Hepburn bill in substance as it was, that it, with the recognition of the jurisdiction of the courts but without any attempt to define that jurisdiction, yet that I was entirely willing that there should be a definition, provided that this definition did not seek to grant a broad review, but explicitly narrowed it to the two subjects which as a matter of fact I believed that the courts would alone consider in case there was no attempt to define the limits of their review; that is, would limit it to the question as to whether the commission had acted ultra vires and as to whether any man's constitutional rights had been impaired. I stated that if the question of defining or limiting the review was brought up at all I personally felt that this was the way in which it should be limited or defined."

The president says the statements made to Senator Chandler were the same in substance as those made to Mr. Allison and other senators of both parties. He said he was asked to see Senator Chandler as the representative of Mr. Tillman in charge of the bill, and that the conferences Attorney General Moody had with Senators Tillman and Bailey were such as had been held with many other senators to determine the phraseology and discuss the effect of amendments proposed by them. The president states that he became convinced that it was impossible for senators "with advantage" to use him as an intermediary, and suggested to all to whom he spoke that they communicate with Senator Allison, whose purposes and the president's were "identical."

The president says that his own opinion that the Allison amendment in no way changed the court review as provided in the original Hepburn bill is also the opinion of Attorney General Moody and Secretaries Root and Taft.

The attorney general's letter gives an account, at the president's request, of the conferences which Mr. Moody had, by the president's direction, with Senators Tillman and Bailey regarding the court review feature. He says he advised the president that he should not, at any stage, become finally committed beyond recall to any form of language in any part of the bill, and the president affirmed the wisdom of that course. He reviews the discussion of interlocutory injunctions, and concludes that there was nothing in the "conversations" between the senators and himself which bound the president to any particular amendment.

Senator Tillman talked freely with a number of his callers about the statement issued by President Roosevelt. He expressed his preference, however, not to be quoted, pointing out that whatever he wished to say on the subject of the statement he would say on the floor of the senate. He expects that the question will be brought to the front in some way in the senate. He discussed the president's statement with former Senator Chandler, and he urged Mr. Chandler to issue a statement giving a full history of the whole matter. Senator Tillman wanted the fact to go into the newspapers that he did not in any way initiate the negotiations with the president regarding the Democratic support for the railroad rate bill, and that he did not ask Senator Chandler to go to the White House.

Says Day's Criticism is Silly.
Detroit, May 14. — Bishop McCabe, chancellor of the American university at Washington, who came here to attend the dedication of the Grand River Avenue Methodist church, took occasion in an interview to say that Chancellor Day, of Syracuse University, in his recent criticism of President Roosevelt, did not represent the Methodist church, either officially or in sentiment. Bishop McCabe characterized Chancellor Day's action as violent, unjust and silly.

TWO GIRLS DROWNED
Were Passengers in a Sailboat Which Upset.
Atlantic City, N. J., May 14.—Rosie Davis and Kate Walter, both about 18 years old, were drowned at Clark's Landing, on the Mullica river, by the upsetting of a sailboat in which they were passengers. Frank Sharp and Henry Gries, who were with the girls, state that the rudder became unfastened as a sudden squall overturned the boat. They say the girls were caught under the boat and did not reappear. The men succeeded in swimming ashore.

A party of 20 strated out in a large boat, which would not hold all hands, so the girls and their escorts went out in the smaller craft, which capsized.

Tried to Blow Up a Bridge.
Scranton, Pa., May 14. — Twelve sticks of dynamite were placed under the Church street bridge, Minooka, and exploded. Fortunately the attempt was not very successful, as the desperadoes were evidently amateurs, and placed the dynamite in such a manner that it had proportionately little effect. The windows of the schoolhouse were shattered and damage was done to other property adjoining. The side of the bridge with the scroll work was demolished. About 20 sticks of dynamite were found in a bag nearby. No motive can be given for the crime.

Will Build Replica of Independence Hall
Philadelphia, May 15.—The Pennsylvania commission to the Jamestown Exposition decided that the Pennsylvania building at Jamestown, Va., shall be a replica of Independence Hall on a slightly reduced scale. The hall here is 141 feet in length, but the exposition Independence Hall will be 102 feet in length. The structure at the close of the exposition will be given to the state of Virginia.

Will Succeed Dr. Harper.
New York, May 15.—John D. Rockefeller's pastor, the Rev. Dr. Rufus P. Johnston, whose resignation from the pastorate of the Fifth Avenue Baptist church has caused much comment, upon his return from his contemplated European trip will become president of the University of Chicago, which position became vacant by the death of Dr. Harper.

Aged Man Cut His Throat.
Harrisburg, Pa., May 15.—Despondent because of illness, Moses Clapon, 78 years of age, committed suicide by cutting his throat with a carving knife.

Medical.
Loss of Appetite
Is loss of vitality, vigor or tone, and is often a precursor of prostrating sickness. This is why it is serious, and most serious to people that must keep up and doing or get behindhand. The best thing you can do for loss of appetite is to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills—they will make you ready to eat, give a relish to your food, and assist in its digestion. This statement is confirmed by the largest volume of voluntary testimony in the world. Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills cure indigestion, dyspepsia, all stomach troubles, and build up the whole system. Accept no substitutes for HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA AND PILLS. No substitutes act like them. Insist on having Hood's.
