STRIKING EYEGLASSES.

No Law Which Declares It an Aggravated Offense

It is the common opinion that for striking a man with glasses on there is a severer penalty than for striking him under similar circumstances when he is not wearing glasses. Careful search, however, does not bring forth any statutory provision which declares the offense greater when the man who is struck wears glasses. The prevalence of this idea is due, no doubt, to the probability of the judge in such cases giving the convicted the extreme penalty. The legal term for assault under such circumstances is "mayhem," signifying that the assailant has in one way or another deprived his victim of the power of defending himself.

During an altercation from which a struggle is apt to ensue any one wearing glasses would be wise to remove them, unobserved if possible, however, because if noticed it might act as a signal to begin hostilities.

Many think that glasses would be a source of general protection in these cases and often take advantage on that ground, but this is wrong, because no court would hold it worse to strike a man with glasses than one without unless the assailant struck directly at his opponent's eyes, with the intent to wound or maim him, and whether one were hit elsewhere than on the eyeglasses would not enter the case at all. -Jewelers' Circular-Weekly.

When Spencer Traveled.

When Herbert Spencer went on a long railway journey it was his practice to have reserved for him a first class compartment. Across the carriage he used to have a hammock swung, in which he traveled to avoid the vibration and concussion. There was something funny in the spectacle of the staid philosopher traveling in this fashion, and so it appeared to the people who witnessed the preparations for his departure. The inquisitives were soon disappointed, for as soon as Spencer recognized that he was being made the object of unsolicited attention he would shout out in stentorian tones to the porters-he used to have four to look after him-"Draw down those blinds!"

Origin of Ox Tail Soup.

During the reign of terror in Paris in 1793 many of the nobility were reduced to starvation and beggary. The abattoirs sent their hides fresh to the tanneries without removing the tails, and in cleaning them the tails were thrown away. One of the noble beggars asked for a tail, and it was willingly given to him. He took it to his lodging and made (what is now famous) the first dish of ox tail soup. He told others of his good luck, and they annoyed the tanners so much that a price was put upon them.

Nestling in a frame of beautifully wooded shores lies a series of beautifal lakes 145 miles north of the city of Toronto, Onta-rio, and known as the "Lake of Bays Region." A chain of seven lakes studded with lovely islands, with hotels through-out the district and a good steamboat ser-vice to all points attracts the tourist, angler and sportsman. Just the out of the way sort of place to visit during the sum-mer months. For all particulars and free illustrated publication apply to W. Rob-inson, 506 Park Building, Pittsburg, Pa.

-A Washington guide directed the attention of a party of sightseers to a small attention of a party of sightseers to a small gray-baired man, and said, affectionately: "There goes one of the greatest men in the country. That's Chief Justice Fuller." "Why, he has no stature whatever," whispered one of the ladies. "Nor weight," hastily rejoined another. "And I can't understand," observed a man in the group, "how he has managed to attain to so great a height." The guide answered him significantly and tersely, "Because of his great depth."

your veins. Vin-te-na will act like magio, will put new life in you. If not benefited money refunded. All druggists. Life.

The poet's exclamation : "O Life ! I feel the bounding in my veins," is a joyous one. Persons that can rarely or never make it, in honesty to themselves are among the most unfortunate. They do among the most unfortunate. They do not live, but exist; for to live implies more than to be. To live is to be well and strong—to arise feeling equal to the ordi-mary duties of the day, and to retire not overcome by them—to feel life bounding in the veins. A mediclue that has made thousands of people, men and women, well and strong, has accomplished a great work, bestowing the richest blessings, and that medicine is Hood's Sarsaparilla. The weak, run-down, or debilitated, from any cause, should not fail to take it. It builds cause, should not fail to take it. It builds up the whole system, changes existence in-to life, and makes life more abounding. We are glad to say these words in its favor to the readers of our columns.
