TO EMPLOY MANY ALIENISTS

New York, July 9.—Redoubled efforts to build insanity proof were begun by Harry Thaw's lawyers. After seemingly abandoning this line of campaign for upward of a week, counsel for the murderer of Stanford White have been driven back to it by recent developments along the line of independent investigation of the crime itself and the events which preceded it.

The lawyers for Thaw are beginning to learn much about the history of their client's career and of his past relations with White and others, which was not revealed to them when they first took up his case. So much has been learned by them of their client's real character that they are seriously contemplating a return to the original plan of making a broad plea of insanity, in which they expect to be supported by the testimony of the prisoner's mother, who is now on her way back from Europe.

Apparently the claim of justification under the "unwritten law" is not to be urged as an excuse for Thaw's act, or, if urged at all, it will be made a secondary consideration to the insanity defense.

Dr. Allan McLane Hamilton, the alienist, paid his second visit in less than 24 hours to Thaw. This time he remained in the young millionaire's cell for an hour and a half. When he came out Terrence J. McManus, one of Thaw's lawyers, was with him. "From what Dr. Hamilton has just told me," said Mr. McManus, "I am absolutely satisfied with the result of his examination of Mr. Thaw." Further than this, Mr. McManus refused to be quoted. His remark was taken to mean Dr. Hamilton would report that Thaw's mind was undoubtedly affected.

After leaving Dr. Hamilton, Mr. McManus said the defense is preparing to retain a number of the most prominent alienists from all over the country, and possibly from Europe, to act in the case in conjunction with Dr. Hamilton.

It has been positively ascertained that Evelyn Nesbit did not order the institution of a suit for breach of promise against Harry K. Thaw, her present husband, but that she did swear to an affidavit in which she charged Mr. Thaw with having pointed a pistol at her head and threatened to shoot her if she did not immediately swear to a charge accusing Stanford White of accomplishing her ruin.

This affidavit has been destroyed, but a photograph of the document is in existence, and its contents are of such a nature as to preclude its publication.

Five Years For Swallowing Diamond.

Omaha, Neb., July 7.—Mrs. May Hayes, convicted of the theft from a local jewelry store of a $300 diamond, which she is alleged to have swallowed, was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary by Judge Fulton in the district court. Mrs. Hayes was looking at uncut gems in the jewelry store and, according to the testimony, when the clerks' back was turned she put a large stone in her mouth.

Two detectives who had been shadowing her at once arrested her, and she claims it was her fright that made her swallow the diamond. The gem has not been recovered, although Mrs. Hayes offered to submit to a surgical operation if the prosecution was dropped. This the state would not agree to.

A Sustaining Diet.

These are the enervating days, when, as somebody has said, men drop by the stroke as if the Day of Fire had dawned. They are fraught with danger to people whose systems are poorly sustained; and this leads us to say, in the interest of the less robust of our readers, that the full effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla is such as to suggest the propriety of calling this medicine something besides a blood purifier and tonic,—say, a sustaining diet.

It makes it much easier to bear the heat, assures refreshing sleep, and will without any doubt avert much sickness at this time of year.
