-Good cream should contain 22 per cent. of butter fat. If it falls below that standard much of the butter fat has not been removed from the milk.

-Pansy seed may be sown in the fall. Make the beds fine and press the surface smooth; sow the seed in rows, sprinkle a little fine dust over the seed, and lightly press the surface again.

and it pays to convert the surplus apples into eider for the purpose of making vinegar. The artificial vinegar cannot be used for choice pickles and other purposes for which good cider vinegar only is adapted, and does not, therefore, largely compete with it.

-Roses may be propagated by hardwood outtings taken in the fall and planted in the spring. Some varieties are propagated by layering on the ground to take root. The slips used for cuttings are inserted in sand, kept slightly moist, not very wet, when they will take root. As varieties of roses differ so much in their peculiarities one system of propagation may not answer for all.

-There are many methods of preparing "fly killers." One plan is to dissolve a pound of naphthaline in a gallon of kerosene (which will require two or three days), then add a gallon of orude petroleum and a gill of coal tar; shake well and apply with a brush. No fly killer will last more than a day, as it is soon dissipated. To get the best results it should be applied at least once a day.

-Pumpkins are good feed for lambs in the fall, especially when they are troubled the fall, especially when they are troubled with paper skin, caused by worms in the intestines. They will eat them if they are sliced or cut and sprinkled with salt, but it is better to provide flat-bottomed troughs, with compartments, each being large enough to receive the half of a pumpkin cut in such fashion as to have the pieces lie flat, with the inside uppermost.

filled out the crop may depend on one or two showers. If the rain shall fall a day or two before the silk appears the corn grains will be full. The crop is one that is subject to many circumstances, but rain at the proper time will make a great difference. This shows the importance of keeping the surface of the soil loose, thus affording a mulch and preventing loss of moisture

-When the wool buyer comes around the farmer will wish that he had looked after his sheep a little more closely, cut down the burr and brier bushes and removed the tags in the spring. A dirty fleece weighs more, but the buyer is keen-sighted, and is sure to deduct from the clean next year.

-One of the difficulties with young trees when the ground alternately freezes and thaws is that of being injured by high winds. When a thaw occurs the ground is loosened around the trank, and becomes so softened that the trees are thrown over. This must be guarded against by carefully trampling the soil around the trunks whenever the ground thaws. This is the season when all young trees should be staked, as the work can be done now to the best advantage. -It is only possible to keep the blackstroying insects after the corn has grown too large to be pulled.

-One way to get rid of weeds on the -One way to get rid of weeds on the farm is to cut or pull them up and feed them to the hogs. Kept in confinement, these animals, declares a writer in the Epitomist, will seldom fail to relish them, it being a part of their nature to live on green stuff and roots. Any kind of weeds not poisonous may be given them and also garden sauce, such as waste cabbages, let-tuce plants that have gone to seed, radiebes too old for sale, culls of beets, carrots, turtuce plants that have gone to seed, radishes too old for sale, culls of beets, carrots, tur-nips and the like, including unsalable apples and po atces. Even tomato culls will, as a rule, be eagerly devoured. And what a lot of good it will seem to do the porkers! They certainly will be benefited thereby and if any part of one's farm is in-fested with weeds difficult to eradicate, the proper way to do is to fence the spot off and turn pigs into the lot.

-- At one of the experiment stations wheat was tested in plots, under various modes of cultivation, and it was found that when of construction, and it was found that when the seeds were carefully selected, planted in rows and cultivated with hand imple-ments, the yield was at the rate of 60 bush-els per acre, and a case is on record in Eng-land where a farmer planted wheat in rows one fort a part. the grain air inches one foot apart, the grain six inches apart in the rows, cultivating between the rows, and using hoes between the plants, scouring 100 bushels of wheat per acre-which case however, is an exception. The Eng-lish field was covered six inches with manish held was covered six inches with man-nre, which was well worked into the soil, the season also being favorable. In Bel-gium it is not unusual to grow 60 bushels of wheat per acre. The land is made rich, fertillizers are used liberally, and close cultivation is given. While it is not often very black coffee instead of water when the yet the experiments made demonstrate what is possible to accomplish with fertile soils and better methods of cultivation. very black coffee instead of water when the sugar is mixed ; the other is maple syrup boiled and stirred into a beaten egg white.

too large to be pulled. —The farmer who sells his cream and feeds his refuse milk will find it the most profitable method of dairying, as he retains the truly valuable matter and sells the most valueless even though the price of the valueless article is greater, for no range of prices can obliterate the fact that one article is of more nutritive value than another. In other words, if the far-mer can by selling his cream at a high price obtain a large profit from that which is really of but little value as a complete food, retaining the valuable substances at home, he should take advantage of such circumstances and sell the refuse products in some other form, such as pork, to say of Mocha extract and enough water to make it spread smoothly.

> Maoy housekeepers like small cakes to serve with ices. A good plan is to make an ordinary sponge cake, bake it in a thin layer in a biscuit tin, cut it while warm into fancy shapes, and ice these with either boiled frosting or one more easily made with confectioners'engar. These can be so with confectioners'sugar. These can be so decorated as to suggest that they are all quite different cakes.

FANCY ICINGS .- For boiled frosting, ook a cup of sugar with a third of a cup of water, without stirring, until it forms a thread.
