SENATORIAL CONFERENCES .- The third session of the Republican senatorial conference in this district was held at Philipsburg last Friday. All the conferees were present as was Henry C. Quigley, of this place. Joseph W. Alexander did not put in an appearance but instead addressed a letter to the conference in which he stated that he was convinced the conference would be unable to make a nomination and suggested that the task of naming the candidate be turned over to the State committee. Mr. Quigley would not agree to this and the conference adjourned without even taking a ballot. It was to have met again on Tuesday but owing to the death of Mr. Quigley's father-in-law the meeting was postponed until next Tuesday.

The Democratic conference met for the first time in Tyrone on Tuesday. The two candidates before the conference were Wm. C. Heinle, of this place, and George M. Dimeling, of Clearfield. One hundred ballots were taken and on each one the conferees stood solidly for their man. The Centre county conferees are A. Weber, of Howard ; P. J. McDopald, Unionville, and Ellis S. Shaffer, of Miles township. Not being able to make a nomination the conference adjourned to meet again .n Tyrone yesterday afternoon, but up to the hour of press we have not learned the rethe following cases were disposed of: Commonwealth vs Bert Watson, arson. The defendant was charged with setting on fire and burning the barn of Rhoads and Thompson, in Huston township, on the night of August 13th, the destruction of which is still fresh in the minds of WATCH MAN readers. The evidence showed that the defendant had made threats two or three weeks prior to the fire that he would burn the building, and the evening prior to the fire he was seen in that vicinity. No defense was offered and Watson was convicted, the jury returning a verdict Friday afternoon when all the jurors and witness were discharged.
