Resolution of Appreciation.

The following action, relative to the removal of the Rev. J. W. Morrishaw was taken by the Bellefonte Ministerium at their meeting held Dec. 3rd, 1906:

WHEREAS, The Rev. J. W. Morrishaw, who for a brief year was associated with us in the fellowship of this ministerium, and who now, by the appointment of his presiding elder has removed to a new field of labor. We, the members of the Bellefonte ministerium, desire to express our appreciation of the courteous, gentlemanly and Christian conduct of the Rev. Mr. Morrishaw as well as our pleasure in associating with him as a co-worker in the Master's vineyard. Most heartily commending him to the confidence and fellowship of those with whom he shall labor in his new field, we wish him God-speed in every good work that he may undertake.

RESOLVED, That a copy of this minute be sent to the Rev. J. W. Morrishaw and be published in the Bellefonte newspapers.

AMBROSE M. SCHMIDT,
 Chairman.

MORE DEER THAN THEY KNOW WHAT TO DO WITH.—An interesting discovery of the rapidly with which deer multiply was made by the members of the Otzinaehson Rod and Gun club, during the fifteen-day deer hunting season just closed. In their jaunts over the 4,000 acres of wild land preserve on Rattlesnake run, inclosed with a wire fence, the men found that the deer had multiplied so fast that if another year shows the same ratio of increase, it will be necessary to thin out the drove by turning some of them into the unrestricted territory.

There were 400 deer in the preserve about eight years ago, and following a strict rule of the club, none but bucks were killed.

Mental Effects of the Weather.

Everybody probably feels that his or her mental condition depends, to some extent, upon the character of the weather. In gloomy weather we are, of course, apt to be depressed, and in fair weather exhilarated. When the atmosphere is stimulating the mental and physical energies are enhanced.

Starting from these generally recognized facts, a well-known scientist at Washington has made a study of the effects of the weather on human conduct, the results of which are rather surprising. He shows, by a system of tabulation, that misdemeanors involving violence, such as assaults, are more common in bright weather, and that the same is true of suicides. On the other hand, mental errors, such as mistakes in bank figures, are more common in damp, rainy weather.

The scientist's inference is that the excess of energy produced by a bracing condition of the air is responsible for more violence than is the "ugly temper" caused by bad weather, because the latter, while lowering the spirits, diminishes the activity of men.

—With reference to the honors of country "society" reporting, Mr. Melville Stone, of the Associated Press, tells of the account of a wedding published in a Kansas paper.

The story, which describes the marriage in the usual flowery adjectives, concluded with this surprising announcement: "The bridegroom's present to the bride was a handsome diamond brooch, together with many other beautiful things in out-glass."
