Widow of Martyred President Succambs to Stroke of Apoplexy.

PRESIDENT TO ATTEND FUNERAL

Canton, O., May 27 .- Sunday afternoon Mrs. William McKinley fell into the sleep that knows no awakening. The transition from life to death was so peaceful and gradual that it was with difficulty that the vigilant physicians and attendants noted when dissolution came.

There was no struggle, no pain. Mrs. McKinley never knew of the efforts made for days to prolong her life, nor of the solicitous hope against hope of her sister and other relatives and friends for her recovery.

At the McKinley home when death came there were presat Secretary Cortelyou, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Barber Mrs. Sarah Duncan, Mrs. Luther Day, Justice and Mrs. William R. Day, Drs. Portmann and Rixey and the nurses.

"Mrs. McKinley lasted hours longer than we expected," said the secretary. "Her vitality was wonderful," said Dr. Portmann.

It was by Secretary Cortelyou that the announcement of the demise was en to the public. As this news was ned over the land, William McKin-Post and George D. Harter Post. . R., were forming in line, and to strains of a band playing "The h Religosa," went to the First list Episcopal church to listen annual Memorial Day address, was given by Dr. Buxton, Mrs. ey's pastor.

McKinley's last words were th. An attendant said: "Mrs. by would say: 'Why should I Please God, it is Thy will, why ?' She would also say: 'He is nd life is dark to me now.' kindred expressions would fall ner lips."

not intended the funeral of Mrs. cKinley shall take on the form of a ceremony of state, yet the coming of the president and members of his cabinet, the vice president, the governor of Ohio and many other people of note will make it such in a degree at least. It was determined to change the arrangements for the funeral so as to allow the remains to be viewed by Canton friends of the deceased. To show their love for the departed, thousands of school children will be included in the throng that will go through the McKinley home and pass by the bier while they drop tears of sorrow for the loss of one whose love for children was so deep and tender.

As there is a detachment of United States regular infantry on guard at the McKinley vault in West Lawn cemetery, where the remains of Mrs. Mc-Kinley will rest until the national mausoleum is completed, there is ample guard for the protection of the president while at the tomb. A portion of this detachment can easily be available for service at the McKinley home if such action is thought necessary to insure the safety of the noted guests and keep back the expected crowd of guished husband's side antil he breathed his last on the 14th of the same month. She bore up remarkably well, considering her weak condition, and always displayed the greatest devotion to Mr. McKinley's memory. On each anniversary of his death she placed wreaths of flowers on his tomt in Westlawn cemetery, Canton, and for two or more years after his death she visited the vault daily and put a bou-quet of flowers upon the casket. Of Mr. McKinley's devotion to his wife there are few parallels. During their residence in Washington it kept him so completely at her side, when he was not engaged in public matters, that he had no time, if he had any taste, for the demands of social life.

President Roosevelt announced that he would leave for Canton or Tuesday night to attend the funeral. Secretary Root and Secretary of Ag riculture Wilson, the only members of the cabinet who served under Presi dent McKinley, and Rev. Dr. Frank M. Bristol, of the Metropolitan Meth odist church, who was the McKinleys pastor, were deeply touched when they were told that Mrs. McKinley had expired. There were expressions of re gret from many officials whose duties brought them in contact with the $1835. White House and from all the at taches of the executive mansion, many of whom served there during the Mc Kinley administration. All paid the highest tribute to the memory of the late president's widow. President Roosevelt will be accom-

Mrs. Ida Saxton McKinley has always been a most amiable woman, despite the fact that she has for many years been an invalid. Her life with Mr. McKinley was uniformly happy. She first knew him as "the major," and it was by that title that she always lovingly addressed him. President McKinley was a devoted husband, and never stopped at any sacrifice that would add to the comfort and happiness of his wife.

Mrs. McKinley was born at Canton. O., on August 8, 1847. She was the granddaughter of John Saxton, a man of note and scholarship, who for 60 years was the editor of the Ohio Repository, a journal which still makes its appearance every day in Canton. where Mr. Saxton founded it in March, 1815.

Mrs. McKinley's father was James A. Saxton, son of John Saxton. James Saxton and his wife, Miss Kate Dewalt, whose parents were also early Canton settlers, were among the prominent people of their section. He died in 1887, and his wife in 1873.

She attended a private school at Delhi, N. Y., afterward one in Cleveland, and finally spent three years at a college at Media, Pa.

Mr. McKinley was the superintendent of the Sunday school of the First Methodist church, and Miss Saxton a teacher in the Bible class of the First Presbyterian church, and their Sunday duties often led them together.

Two children were born to them. The first called Kate, after Mrs. Mc-Kinley's mother, born Christmas Day, 1872, lived till June, 1876, just three years and a half. The second, named Ida, for her mother, lived only five months. Around this period Mrs. Mc Kinley also suffered the loss of her mother, grandmother and grandfather, and her partings from these loved ones, with the death of her children, broke down a constitution which had never been robust. For many months her own life hung by a slender thread he last was in this city. and her nervous system seemed for a time to have suffered a complete wreck.

After the loss of their children, Major and Mrs. McKinley left their own house and went back for a time to the old homestead that had been Mrs. Mc-Kinley's home in her girlhood. There they lived until Major McKinley's departure to take his seat in congress in 1877, after which, for the next 14 years,
