

President Roosevelt's Second Visit the Exposition.

HE MADE TWO ADDRESSES

Norfolk, Va., June 11.—The Jamestown Exposition management has determined to look upon Monday, the occasion of President Roosevelt's second visit, as the real opening.

Monday was Georgia day and the opening of Bulloch hall, a replica of the early home of President Roosevelt's mother, at Roswell, Ga., erected as the Georgia state building, was the feature that drew the president to the exposition for a second visit.

From the time the President and Mrs. Roosevelt and their distinguished guests were landed until the departure every minute was occupied. The president spoke in the Georgia ceremonies from the reviewing stand and later addressed the convention of the National Editorial Association in the exposition auditorium.

In his address at the Georgia building Mr. Roosevelt expressed the earnest hope that this country may never again become involved in a conflict of arms and that in times of peace it was the duty of the country to raise the fighting forces to a standard of efficiency that would leave no doubt as to the outcome of such a contingency.

The navy, he declared, is the nation's strongest guaranty of peace. He advocated a system of promotion in the navy, either by elimination or by selection in order that no mediocre officers should rise to the top.

Modern wars, he declared, are decided before they are fought, and should this country ever again be called to arms the result will mainly depend upon the preparations made to meet the eventuality.

The president devoted much of his address to the laboring man, declaring that laws were needed, both national and state, to guard against accidents, and also to relieve the financial suffering due to them.

It is not just, Mr. Roosevelt said, that the financial burden of industrial accidents should be borne by the injured workmen and their families.

"Workmen," the president declared, "should receive a certain definite and limited compensation for all accidents in industry, irrespective of negligence." This should be provided for by legislation which would obviate the old and inadequate remedy of damage suits.

Mr. Roosevelt expounded to the editors his theories on taxation with special reference to the value to the United States of income and inheritance taxes. The president spoke of the abuse of public lands and the sorrow which he felt that so much of them had fallen into private hands.

Mr. Roosevelt then came to the tax subject. Pointing out the workings of inheritance assessments in foreign countries where he asserted they are an unqualified success, he urged the enactment of such laws in the United States. One very good and proper result, he pointed out, would be to prevent the perpetuation of the swollen fortunes which he characterized as a menace to the nation.

SHEATZ FOR TREASURER

Republicans of Pennsylvania Unanimously Name Ticket.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 7.—United States Senator Knox was formally endorsed for president by the Republican state convention held here for the nomination of a candidate for state treasurer. The Knox endorsement was embodied in the platform, which also endorsed the policies and administration of President Roosevelt.

The platform commends the course of the fifty-ninth congress; endorses the course of the Pennsylvania senators and congressmen, particularly in upholding the hands of the president; declares adherence to the principles of protection to American labor, American industries and American products; commends the administration and endorses the work of the recent legislature.

The platform also contains a plank declaring that the "Republican party is not responsible and will not stand for any dishonesty, graft or improper conduct in relation to the construction or equipment of the capitol," and expresses confidence that Attorney General Todd will "secure the indictment and punishment of all guilty persons as well as the prosecution of civil suits to compel the restitution of all moneys filched from the commonwealth."

Knox a Candidate For President.

New York, June 7.—United States Senator Philander C. Knox, of Pennsylvania, announced his willingness to become a candidate for the presidency in 1908 should the Republican party see fit to nominate him.

SIX FRIGHTFULLY BURNED

Miners Playing With Lighted Squibs Ignited Powder.

Johnstown, Pa., June 11.—Six Slavish miners were frightfully burned, three perhaps fatally, as the result of an explosion that occurred in a boarding house at Greenwich mine, No. 2, near Barnesboro. The men were in one room without a light and were burning squibs used in blasting for the fun of seeing them splutter.

The more seriously injured were unable to extricate themselves from the wreckage as the result of their injuries and were only saved from being burned to death by the arrival of miners attracted by the sound of the explosion.

BIG HOTEL BURNED

Princess Anne at Virginia Beach Destroyed by Fire.

Norfolk, Va., June 11.—The famous Princess Anne hotel, at Virginia Beach, Va., built 25 years ago, and one of the handsomest summer resort hotels along the middle Atlantic seaboard, was destroyed by fire, which had its origin in the kitchen, supposedly from a defective flue.

There were 110 persons, guests and employees, in the hotel. All are thought to have escaped with the exception of one. The loss on the building is $185,000, with only $83,000 insurance.

ADAM'S FIRST WIFE.

The Fiendlike Lilith Was a Complete Matrimonial Failure.

Whether Lilith was one of the female creations of chapter 1 or a demon or something between the two, she was, considered matrimonially, a complete failure. She was expelled after living with Adam for 130 years and subsequently became the wife of Satan, by whom she was the mother of the Jinns, so familiar in Persian fairy lore.

The emphatic remark of Adam when he first saw Eve, "This is now bone of my bones and flesh of my flesh," makes, it is suggested, a comparison between Eve and the beautiful but fiendlike Lilith not complimentary to the latter, while the reference on the birth of Seth to him as Adam's son "in his own likeness, after his image," conveys a painful hint of the uncanny offspring born to Adam and Lilith.

Perhaps in revenge for this Lilith—the name occurs translated "night monster" in Isaiah xxxiv—became the sworn foe of little children, whom she was wont to strangle with one of her glorious golden hairs unless the watchfulness of their mothers drove her away. It has indeed been gravely suggested by an etymologist greatly daring that our word "lullaby" is simply a corruption of "Lilla, abi" (Lilith, aunt!) which mothers and nurses would croon over the cradles or write on the doorpost.—St. James' Gazette.

Husband's Costly Lunch.

A Woodbury man who had been enjoying himself greatly felt hungry when he got home about 1 o'clock in the morning.

"Where did you put the cold cabbage, dearest?" he called upstairs to his wife, who had coughed loudly to let him know it was useless to take off his shoes.

"On the second shelf in the pantry," she answered harshly. He found the cabbage and the oil, vinegar, salt and pepper, cut up the cabbage, dressed it to his taste and ate it with appetite.

"George, why didn't you eat the cabbage last night?" asked his wife when he appeared, rather shaky, for breakfast.

"I did; it was fine," said George; "so thoughtful of you to keep it, dearest." "Why, it's on the pantry shelf," she cried.

Filled with apprehension, Mrs. George searched the second shelf hurriedly. There she had left four yards of lace, worth $20, in a bowl of starch. The lace was gone.—Boston Herald.
