PROF. REBER'S BRILLIANT CAREER AT STATE COLLEGE. - The report that Prof. Louis E. Reber, dean of the school of engineering at The Pennsylvania State College, is about to resign to accept a position of a much wider scope at the University of Wisconsin, has caused deep concern among his associates as well as the student body at the College. Prof. Reber graduated THINGS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY from the College in the class of '80 and at once accepted an assistant professorship in the school of engineering. In the twentysix years of his connection with the College he has risen to the head of the department, a position he has occupied for quite

During that time engineering in that institution has undergone a phenomenal growth, due in a large measure to Prof. Reher's forceful management and exceptional gifts as an organizer. The present engineering building, which was opened in 1892, was planned and erected under Prof. Reber's supervision for the civil and mechanical engineering departments and received the department of electrical engineering at a later date. So great has been the growth of the body of engineering students that for some time this building has been entirely inadequate to the needs of even the two departments for which it was originally designed. For this reason President Atherton some years before his death requested Prof. Reber to prepare plans for an enlarged and thoroughly modern engineering building designed to accommodate amply and suitably the three departments which at present constitute the engineering school. These plans, made by architect -All children under the age of fifteen Osterling, of Pittsburg, under Prof. Reber's Schwab on the occasion of his visit to the College in 1903 and were instrumental in --- The farm in Haines township be- arousing his enthusiasm and interest in the development of engineering at that place building.

ture, which was the first to occupy the new capitol building, professor Reber was called upon to examine the building because of the discomforts experienced there on account of the defective ventilation and to pass expert judgment upon the security of the massive chandeliers suspended from the ceiling. He submitted a plan for a permauent improvement of the heating system which has been approved.

It is keenly regretted by the friends of the College that Prof. Reber is called to a larger field of usefulness at this time. He is in the prime of life and will leave the institution just when his services are most needed to carry on an important line of REUNION OF 22ND PA. VOL. CAVALRY. -The annual reunion of the 22nd Pa. Vol. Cavalry association will be held at Carlisle, Thursday, Oct. 17th, 1907, and all members and friends of the regiment, six months or three years, are cordially invited to attend. An excursion to the Gettysburg battlefield will probably be taken on the 18th. Excursion orders can be had upon application to Dr. A. R. Me-Carthy, Mount Union, Pa., secretary, permitting the purchase of tickets at a two cent per mile rate good going October 14th to 17th, returning to October 22nd inclusive. If, however, the railroads adopt a two cent per mile rate on October 1st, there will be no need of sending card orders and the secretary will not then send any out, as the regular rate will be as low as the excursion rate. The regiment was made up largely of men from Bedford, Blair, Centre, Huntingdon, Mifflin, Fulton, Franklin, Adams and Cumberland counties.

-Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Loveland, of Lamar, celebrated their golden wedding on Sunday. The aged couple were married September 22nd 1857, at the home of William Meyer, an uncle of the bride, near Lamar, and shortly afterwards went west and located in Iowa. They remained there twenty-two years then returned to the cene of their youth to round out the remainder of their lives. The celebration on Sunday was a rather quiet affair, but friends of Mr. and Mrs. Loveland presented them with a purse of over seventy dollars in gold and bank notes.
