New Huylers, 1, 2, and 5 lb lots at Ceaders.
The Lutheran Sabbath school will hold their Christmas entertainment on Christmas evening.

Just add boiling water, stir and serve Huylers cocoa. We have it in 35 cent cans ready to serve. Ceaders.

White working in Altoona on Friday Lee Derstine sustained injuries which will keep him idle for awhile and consequently he came home on Saturday.

The Society of Friends at Unionville held a special meeting last Sunday in commemoration of the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of John Greenleaf Whittier.

For two weeks past S. Kline Woodring Esq., has been having serious trouble with his eyes and on Wednesday they were so bad he was compelled to remain in the house.

The annual dinner of the members of the Centre county bar association, held at the Country club last Saturday evening, was largely attended and proved a most enjoyable affair.

The Basket Shop is doing a good business at their exhibit in the writing room of the Brokerhoff house. If you have not yet visited the room you should do so before all the choicest baskets have been picked out.

On Tuesday Frank Hazel, who farms one of the Brokerhoff farms, had a cow that gave birth to a calf which weighed just ninety pounds, or double the weight of an ordinary calf. The cow was of no special breeding, either.

The many friends of Mrs. Mary Ann Johnston, who for some time past has been with her daughter at Beaver Falls, will be pleased to learn that she has finally so far recovered from the fall she sustained a year ago as to be able to walk around with comparative ease.

The committee on the teachers' local institute for the district represented by Bellefonte borough, Benner, Spring and Walker townships, which will be held in this place on Saturday, January 18th, have secured the Howard street school building in which to meet.

The biggest hog of a thief that has made his appearance in this neighborhood in years was the man who, several nights ago, broke into Lew Gettig's slaughter house and carried away a whole hog which had been killed the evening before and left hanging there to cool.

Roy M. Farber, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Farber, of Benner, and a graduate of the Bellefonte High school, was recently appointed to a clerical position at the headquarters of the state constabulary in Harrisburg. The appointment came under the civil service law.

Good evidence that the reduction in the price of meat made by the Chicago packers some time ago is having its effect in Bellefonte is shown in the fact that local butchers are now paying only three cents a pound for beef hides; though they contrive to charge the meat eater eighteen cents a pound for surloin steak, with the balance of the animal at proportionate rates.

The Bellefonte Lodge of Masons had their annual election of officers on Tuesday evening which was followed by a turkey supper. Just eighty-six members partook of the layout and to fill them all required three turkeys with a total weight of fifty-six pounds. Of course turkey wasn't the only thing they had to eat, and naturally all the side dishes suffered just as bad as the turkey.

The Centre County Bible Society furnishes any of the publications of the American Bible Society at cost and freely to any person who cannot buy. Samples can be seen and orders left at the office of the Y. M. C. A., Bellefonte. Also, samples of the Oxford University Press, the best made Bible in the world; nothing more valuable for Holiday present. R. Crittenden, Depository.

Bellefonte friends of Miss Jennie M. Noonan, formerly of Bellefonte and a niece of James Noonan, landlord of the Brant house, but now of Los Angeles, Cal., will be interested to learn that she was married on November 27th to Carl T. Simmons, of that place, but formerly of Kansas. Mr. and Mrs. Simmons have gone to house-keeping in Los Angeles, which city they expect to make their future home.

T. S. Strawn, who was a resident in Bellefonte for a year or more while he conducted a broker's office in the Temple Court as a representative of Spahler & Co., of Pittsburg, was an arrival in Bellefonte Saturday evening and remained until Monday. He is now running an office in Soudale for Baxter & Co., of Pittsburg, and is getting along as the ordinary broker is doing in these times of stringency in the money market.

UNFORTUNATE DEATH OF GEORGE C. BUTZ.—The lamentable death of George C. Butz at The Pennsylvania State College last Saturday morning through forming a most frightful tragedy was in reality nothing more than a common disease running its natural course to the end. After months suffering with mental depression caused by too close application to work and a most heroic effort to throw off the insidious maiaity that sapped at his reason the moment of extreme aberration came and he threw himself from a sixth floor window of "Old Main," landing on the stone steps eighty feet below, crushing out his life instantly. The insidious cunning of the disease was shown in the fact that when Mr. Butz made his ascent in the building he did not go up the main stairway but climbed the rear stairway through the "prep" department. And then to show the deliberateness of his act he had removed his overcoat and hat, folded them up and placed them on the floor alongside of the window and before he took the fatal leap threw an old catchel out of the window, presumably as a warning to any person who might have been standing on the ground underneath.

For a number of years past Prof. Butz has been a sufferer with chronic indigestion, doubtless brought on by overwork, as, in addition to his duties as professor of horticulture at The Pennsylvania State College and horticulturist for the Experiment Station, he has been one of the most sought-after speakers for farmers' institutes and horticultural conventions, as well as a most assiduous student. All this combined to produce a mental disease which was first noticed several months ago. He was granted a leave of absence by the board of trustees of the College and spent two months or more in a sanatorium at Battle Creek, Mich. He returned on Tuesday of last week apparently much improved and his friends had hopes of his entire recovery.

But back among his old environments and the surroundings of his life's work, with its cares and responsibilities confronting him, the attacks of depression became more marked and increased in frequency rather than diminished. Saturday morning he arose before seven o'clock and after dressing went down town and into one or two stores. He spoke to several people he met by the way and was apparently cheerful and contented. From Kramrine's store he walked up through the campus and into the main building. Going up to the attic on the sixth floor, the control he had fought so hard and manfully to maintain over himself deserted him and he threw himself from the window.

The body was discovered shortly afterwards lying at the foot of the stone steps at the main entrance. An investigation disclosed the fact that the unfortunate man's neck was broken and his body badly bruised, so that death was undoubtedly instantaneous. And here let us draw the veil of charity over the horror of the tragedy when it became known among the faculty and the student body, as it was all tempered with such heartfelt sympathy for the surviving family and such deep regret for the almost irreparable loss of one so deeply loved by all.

George C. Butz was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Butz and was born at New Castle, Pa., in 1863, hence was forty-four years of age. His preliminary education was received in the New Castle schools and in 1880 he entered the Sophomore class at State College, from where he graduated in the class of '83. A natural love of study, particularly of natural history, joined with a practical familiarity of plants from boyhood, made him an apt pupil and determined his life course. In 1884 he was appointed an instructor in the preparatory department at the College and at the same time took a special course in biology and horticulture. During the summer of 1887 he went to California, attracted by the virgin horticultural field of that State, which had already drawn considerable bright intellect from the east, and might have become fully fixed there had it not been for the branching out and development of the Pennsylvania Experiment Station, at State College, and he was induced to return and serve as its horticulturist, a position he has held ever since. In 1887 he was appointed assistant professor in horticulture at the College and in 1903 was made professor of horticulture. Twenty years of such service gave him a standing among horticulturalists and scientists that was not only highly creditable but resulted in him being recognized as an authority on various lines of plants and fruits. Among these might be mentioned the carnation, ginseng, grapes and peaches. He familiarized himself with the conditions of the State as regards soil and climate and was always recognized as an able representative on all horticultural subjects.

In addition to his work at the College he served as horticultural inspector and adviser of the state agricultural department and was one of the leading speakers on horticultural subjects at farmers' institutes ever since the holding of same was inaugurated. In all he has delivered hundreds of carefully prepared addresses at farmers' institutes [and] horticultural conventions in the past eight or ten years. He was also the author of some of the most complete and permanent bulletins published by the state agricultural department as well as the experiment station. As a man he was loved by his colleagues in the faculty and by his students. His home life was exceptionally happy and his death, after a brave, strong, christian fight against mental disease, has brought gloom to all his associates in his college work, over which he kept an oversight during all his illness, in the firm hope that eventually he would be able to conquer his mental trouble.

In 1892 he was united in marriage to Miss Emma Robinson, daughter of Mrs. Rebecca Robinson, who survives with two young sons, Gerald and Charles, aged ten and twelve years respectively.

Funeral services were held at his late home at State College Monday afternoon at three o'clock. The Rev. Dr. Gill, of the College; the Rev. G. W. Whittenack of the Presbyterian church and Rev. Chas. T. Aiken, president of Susquehanna University, officiated at the house while Bellefonte lodge Free and Accepted Masons conducted the services at the burial, which was made in the Pine Hill cemetery.

KUSTABORDER.—David Henry Kustaborder died at his home near Pennsylvania Furnace last Wednesday at one o'clock a. m., of a general wearing out of the system. He was a son of the late John and Katharine Kustaborder and was born near where he died sixty-three years ago, where his entire life was spent. When the dark clouds of war hung over the country he enlisted in company F, 184th Penna. Vols., and was wounded in the foot. He married Elizabeth Harpster March 21st, 1867. Their union was blessed with seven children, four of whom with the widow survive.

He was a member of Capt. J. O. Campbell Post, No. 271, G. A. R. In early life he connected himself with the Lutheran church at Gatesburg, where burial was made on Thursday, at 9 o'clock, a. m. A squad of his old comrades in arms laid him forever out of sight.

Rev. Bergstresser had charge of the services and was assisted by Rev. McKelvey, who paid a glowing tribute to his worth.

WILSON.—Christian Wilson, who lived about one mile from Warriorsmark, Huntingdon county, but who was very well known by every resident in the western part of Centre county, died on Friday morning of last week after three weeks illness with bronchial trouble. He was seventy-two years of age, was born, raised and lived all his life with the exception of a few years in the same locality. He was a member of the Lutheran church and was a man as highly esteemed as he was widely known. To mourn his death he leaves a wife and five children: Dr. Thomas Wilson, of Bellwood; Dr. John Wilson, located in Kentucky; Harry Wilson, a senior in the Baltimore Medical College; Mrs. William Wolf, of Altoona, and Mrs. Edward Rumberger, of Warriorsmark. The funeral was held at ten o'clock Monday morning, interment being made in the Seven Stars cemetery.

MEDELMAN.—Barney Medelman, one of the best known and most highly esteemed Hebrew residents of Philadelphia, died in the German hospital, Philadelphia, on Friday. For some time past he had been a sufferer with a tumorous affection of the stomach and about a month ago he went to the hospital for treatment. There it was finally decided that an operation was the only hope of saving his life, but he failed to survive the operation.

Deceased was a native of Russia, coming to this country in 1880. He first located in Clearfield but twenty-five years ago he went to Philadelphia where he lived ever since. His only survivors are his wife and one son, Leon, and a brother in New York city. The remains were taken to Philadelphia on Sunday morning, the funeral being held at four o'clock the same afternoon.

CALHOUN.—Bush Calhoun died at his home in Snow Shoe township last Saturday, of heart failure, aged about fifty years. He is survived by his wife and one daughter, as well as two brothers, Irvin Calhoun, of Unionville, and Norman Calhoun, of Milroy; and one sister, Mrs. J. B. Alexander, of Snow Shoe Intersection. The remains were taken to Unionville where interment was made on Tuesday, Rev. M. C. Piper, of Milesburg, officiating at the services.

MARTIN.—Mrs. Peter Martin died at her home near Blanchard on Wednesday of last week after a protracted illness. She was about sixty years of age and is survived by the following children to her first husband: Mrs. Edward Knorr, William, Edward and Andrew Cox, of Blanchard, and Miss Matilda Cox, at home. Rev. George Stanley West, of Newberry, officiated at the funeral, which was held on Friday, interment being made at Roland.

ALLEN.—Mary, wife of Frank Allen, died at her home in Boalsburg on the 14th inst., after an illness of several weeks with typhoid fever. She had almost recovered when she took a relapse which caused her death. She was born in the lower end of Pennsylvania thirty-four years ago and is survived by her husband and one brother. Burial was made in Rebersburg cemetery on Monday. Rev. Stonecypher officiated.

Mrs. Genevieve Howard, whoever she is, came all the way from Baltimore to give a select rendition of Shakespeare in the court house on Monday evening. Her coming was not heralded by any blaring show bills or advertisements, her advance agent declaring that Mrs. Howard's readings and impersonations were so select that tickets of admission could only be secured by subscription in advance and that none would be on sale at the door; and for this at least a few Bellefonters have reason to be thankful. While those who were unfortunate enough to secure tickets in advance are saying very little about the entertainment.

—One of the biggest butchering in this vicinity this year was made by Al. Grove yesterday, when he killed ten large hogs.

—Rev. James B. Stein preached the sermon at the anniversary services of the dedication of the Fifth Avenue M. E. church in Altoona, last Sunday and the press of that city spoke very complimentary of him.

—Almost every man, woman and child seen on the streets of Bellefonte the past ten days carried one or more calendars under their arm. In fact from the large number seen Bellefonte business houses must have provided an unusually large supply for distribution.

—The Bellefonte public schools will close this afternoon for the holiday vacation. There will be no school during all of next week but they will open on Monday, December 30th. The Senior orations will be held in the High school room this afternoon and the public in general is invited to be present.

—P. J. McDonnell has again carried off the fifty dollar prize awarded annually to the section foreman having the best kept section on the Bald Eagle Valley railroad. This is the third time Mr. McDonnell has captured the prize in six years and of course he is to be excused if it makes him kind of big-feelin' like.

—Rev. John Hewitt, of Columbus, Ohio, preached two able sermons in St. John's Episcopal church in this place last Sunday. Rev. Hewitt has not been here for some time and he has changed so much in appearance that many of his old congregation hardly recognized him. He is somewhat stouter and, if anything, better looking even than he used to be. At a meeting of the vestry Wednesday evening it was voted to extend a call to Rev. Hewitt.

The week before Christmas has not been marked with the excitement of hustling matches that characterized the ten days or more prior to Thanksgiving, owing to Burgess Curtin's ukase against it. And because of this turkeys have been more plentiful and somewhat cheaper. In fact on Tuesday a Bellefonte gentleman drove over into Pennsylvan and returned with twenty-nine nice turkeys for which he paid only fifteen cents a pound.

While Pauline, the hypnotist, was performing in Tyrone, he was seen by several Bellefonte gentlemen and they all aver that he is the most clever hypnotist they ever saw. That most of his acts are truly wonderful and that Bellefonters will find in him an interesting source of entertainment when he is in Bellefonte on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week, with performances every evening in the opera house and a Saturday afternoon matinee.

At a joint meeting of the student body at State College and the Alumni advisory committee, held last Saturday evening, it was decided to do away with the old constitution and by-laws governing athletics at the College and pattern more after the custom in vogue in the big colleges by the election of a graduate manager, and George R. Meek, of this place, was chosen to serve until June, 1909. A new constitution and by-laws will be prepared for adoption at the beginning of the college year in September, 1908.

New Stacy candies, 1, 2 and 5 lb boxes at Ceaders.

—Though we have failed to say anything about it up to this time it is a fact that cannot be denied that the Bellefonte Lodge, No. 1094, Benevolent Protective Order of Elks, in their quarters in the Larimer building, have a home that is surpassed by only a few Elks' headquarters in interior Pennsylvania. The entire third floor is occupied by the lodge room, a small ante room and a toilet. The furnishings of the lodge room, so far as paper and carpet are concerned, are in red with antique furniture. On the second floor are the large double parlors, card room, grill room, kitchen and toilet. The parlors are furnished with massive antique mission furniture, leather covered. All the other rooms are furnished in a most attractive manner and, while their home is not sumptuously large it is as cozy, comfortable and tastefully furnished as can be desired. In fact members of the Bellefonte lodge have received more than one compliment from visiting Elks on the attractiveness of their home.

The court house officials were not to be outdone of their fun by Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Rowe coming home ahead of time and so on Tuesday evening they marched in a body to the Rowe home on Curtin street. Of course they were prepared to celebrate the occasion in approved style by resolving themselves into a band, the members of which were equipped with five cent tin horns and ten cent toy drums. Of course it is not difficult for the average reader to imagine the kind of music such a band would make, and especially with D. Paul Fortney, as bandmaster. But Mr. and Mrs. Rowe were equal to the emergency and after the serenaders had practically exhausted their hilarity and blown themselves quite empty-like, they were invited into the dining room and entertained with a most appetizing dinner; which shows that Mrs. Rowe is fully awake to the fact that the best way to find a man's heart is through his stomach. Of course after dinner the crowd spent a very delightful hour with Mr. and Mrs. Rowe before they all departed for their respective homes.

SPECIAL MEETING OF P. O. S. OF A.—On Monday evening Washington Camp, No. 759, Special Order Sons of America, held a special meeting in the hall of the Macabees in the McClain block. The object was to create a wider interest in the organization for the purpose of increasing the membership list. Several officers of the state organization had promised to be present and address the meeting which, to a certain extent was public, but they disappointed the local camp by failing to turn up at the last moment. However, that did not detract very much from the social side of the gathering for after the business meeting a banquet was served which was enjoyed very much, not only by the members, but by quite a number of invited guests, so that the midnight hour was hard chased when the gathering adjourned and members and guests departed for their respective homes.

The P. O. S. of A. is not alone what its name would seem to imply, a patriotic organization, but is beneficial to a certain extent. There is a sick benefit of four dollars per week, and if necessary a nurse will be furnished in addition. While there is no death benefit attached there is a funeral benefit of two hundred and twenty dollars. This is undoubtedly very good when the fact is considered that the initiation fee is but one dollar and fifty cents, with only fifteen cents a week dues, and no death benefit assessments. So that for what it offers the P. O. S. of A. is one of the best as well as the cheapest secret organizations.

STATE WINS FROM DICKINSON.—The semi-final debate between State College and Dickinson was held in the new auditorium at State College last Friday evening. Prof. Fred Lewis Pattee was the presiding officer and the student body turned out almost to a man to encourage their team to victory. The question discussed was as follows:

Resolved, That the initiative and referendum systems of enacting legislation should be adopted by Pennsylvania.

The Dickinson team, which upheld the affirmative side of the question, was composed of C. Harry Kesterer, William H. Davenport, Lewis H. Chrisman, and John Shilling, as alternate. State argued in the negative and her team was made up of W. F. H. Wentzel, Morton Smith, Andrew A. Borland and William R. Laws, alternate.

The judges were Prof. Lewellyn Phillips, of Brooknell; Robert A. Zentmyer, of Tyrone, and Dr. Thomas Smith, of the Mansfield State Normal school, and so completely did State outclass the visitors that the judges gave them an unanimous decision in a very few minutes. State's final debate for the honors of the inter-collegiate debating league of Pennsylvania will be with the winner of the Swarthmore—Franklin and Marshall teams.

COUNCIL'S DOINGS.—Just the necessary five members needed to constitute a quorum were present at Monday night's meeting of borough council and as a result very little business was transacted. In fact aside from listening to the stereotyped reports of the various committees, which included an itemized report of the finances of the borough by borough treasurer W. B. Rankin, about the only thing that was done was to exonerate the county of the water tax assessed against the fountains in the court house yard; empower the borough treasurer to renew a note for $6,000 due December 19th and negotiate a new note for $1,500 to meet current expenses, then approve the following bills and adjourn:

Table with 2 columns: Item and Amount. Street pay roll..... $32 35, Street pay roll..... 293 75, J. I. Owsing supplies for street..... 29 19, Bellefonte Lumber Co., lumber..... 12 00, Fire and Police pay roll..... 52 50, L. H. Green, burying case..... 48 10, P. R. Co., freight on pipes..... 1 50, J. L. Runkle, plumbing..... 13 05, A. Allison, terra cotta pipe..... 8 46, Jos. Wise, Treas. Fireman's Relief..... 318 84, Water Works pay roll..... 31 28, A. Allison, supplies..... 964 52

AT THE FERRY.—Petriken hall was filled with a fairly large audience on Tuesday evening to witness "At the Ferry," a very laughable comedy produced by home talent under the direction of Miss Lula Mae Wilcox, of Harrisburg, for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A. The cast of characters was unusually large and with the exception of the fact that a few of the participants had not completely familiarized their lines, the parts were all well taken. The music, both vocal and instrumental, was of the best, and on the whole, the performance was very creditable and the entertainment throughout amusing and interesting.

THE PHILADELPHIA BANQUET.—The Centre County Association of Philadelphia is making plans for its annual banquet to be held in that city sometime early in February. As it is the wish of the committee in charge to have a large delegation of the present residents of Centre county attend the banquet, it is requested that all those who may possibly be in Philadelphia about that time will forward their names to the secretary at once.

FOREST N. MAGEE, Secretary, Commonwealth Trust Building, Phila.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.—The following marriage licenses were issued the past week by Register Earl C. Tuten. Wm. B. Krape and Margaret H. Stiver, of Centre Hall.

Silas Wetmore, Spartansburg, South Carolina, Katharine Dale, Lemont.

Charles A. Hennick, Spring Mills, Clara B. Decker, Roland.

HEPTASOPHS ELECT OFFICERS.—At their regular meeting last Friday evening the Bellefonte Conclave, Independent Order of Heptasophs, elected the following officers for the ensuing year:

Archon, Thomas Beaver; provost, W. W. Gephart; prelate, C. Y. Wagner; secretary, Herman Robb; financial secretary, F. E. Nagney; treasurer, Charles F. Cook; inspector, George Sunday; warden, Joseph Wise; sentinel, Snyder Tate; trustees, Hammon Seehler, George W. Rees and A. C. Mingle.

Some forty members of the order were present and following the election of officers and transaction of what other business there was to dispose of they all partook of a very appetizing banquet at Blackford's restaurant. When the inner man had been satisfied Hammon Seehler was elected toastmaster and over coffee and cigars quite a number of interesting speeches were made, probably the most enjoyable being that delivered by Dr. W. U. Irwin, of Unionville.

FARMER'S WEEK AT STATE COLLEGE.—"Farmer's Week" will this year be observed at State College January 1st to 5th inclusive. The program for the week has already been prepared and includes instruction and lectures on a very exhaustive line of subjects. The list of instructors and lecturers numbers thirty-three and includes not only the brightest intellect on the experimental station staff and the faculty of the College but specialists from other parts of the State. Farmers all over Pennsylvania, and especially throughout Centre county, should not fail to avail themselves of the advantages to be derived from the instruction to be received during Farmer's Week. There is no tuition charging, merely traveling and boarding expense and these are merely nominal in comparison with the benefits. In the neighborhood of one hundred and twenty farmers attended last year's Farmer's Week exercises and there ought to be three times that number in attendance this year.

While walking on Bishop street Wednesday evening Miss Julia Curtin was knocked down by a team and badly injured. Her nose was broken and she was otherwise out about the head and bruised about the body. Miss Curtin is very hard of hearing and did not hear the shouts of Christ Beezer who was guiding the team as best he could. The horses frightened at some boys coasting and at the time were trying to run away. With characteristic pluck the lady who is past seventy-eight, refused assistance either to the physician's office where her wounds were dressed or to her apartments at the Bush house.

Last Thursday evening the members of the United Brethren church gave their pastor, Rev. Bersinger, and family, an old-time donation party. The flock gathered in with boxes, baskets, buckets and even bags full of everything in the way of household necessities, and even did not forget the fact that a minister and his family must have some things that cannot be donated by his congregation, so they very liberally gave him a well filled purse. Of course the reverend and his family have now very warm hearts for the church congregation.

TURNPIKE CONDEMNED.—On Wednesday testimony was taken before H. C. Quigley Esq., as master, in the condemnation proceedings of the Agricultural College and Junction Turnpike, from State College to Lemont. Fortney & Fortney represented the petitioners, Gettig, Bower and Zerby the county and John Blanchard the turnpike company. After hearing all the testimony the jury gave a verdict of condemnation, awarded the company $402 damages and declared the pike vacated.

The hard times whimperer is about as numerous as the calamity howler and just about as irksome. During the past week rumor after rumor has been put in circulation that one of the furnaces in this place was to be closed down, and some stories were even so exaggerated as to say that the plant had already been closed, when the fact of the matter is that no such shut down has as yet been made, though the Nittany will probably be banked next week for a short time.

Forrest Bullock, the blacksmith and carriage-maker, recently bought a plot of ground on the east side of South Water street, just south of the steam laundry, and now has a force of men at work quarrying out enough rock to make a foundation for his shop; which he will have to move from its present location, as that ground is under lease to Will Keibhler and it is his intention to greatly enlarge his machine shop just as soon as he can arrange to do so.

Lemont.

Nelson W. Williams, who has been off duty for almost a week owing to sickness, returned to work Monday.

Mrs. Alice Williams and Mrs. Julia Williams went on Saturday to spend a few weeks visiting among friends in Altoona.

The Presbyterian Sabbath school will hold an entertainment the evening before Christmas. May they have much success and a large crowd.

Samuel B. Weaver and son returned home Saturday but Mrs. Weaver was not able to come, she being quite ill with pneumonia out at Braddock.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Noll feel happy over the arrival of a fine son, Wednesday, and no doubt the professor will want him to take his place in the near future.

Mrs. Emma Williams, who has passed her 57th birthday, helped her son, George C. Williams, butcher and helped prepare the castings for the sausages. She was as jolly as a lady of her age could be.
