Newark, N. J., Jan. 6.-Following a searching examination, during which many incidents of his life were laid bare, Theodore S. Whitmore, the husband, was held by the New Jersey police as a suspect in the death of Helena Salter Whitmore, w. o was beaten insensible, stripped of her clothing and drowned in a pond on the Hackensack meadows in Harrison on the morning of Dec. 26.

Joseph Harry Hendrickson, the alleged friend of Mrs. Whitmore, was arraigned and, in default of $1000 bail, remanded to jail.

The intricate web began to unravel with the identification of the corpse. All the rest came as matter of detail. In a safe in the saloon of Fred E. Radin, in Brooklyn, the police discovered what they declared to be the most important evidence yet unearthed in connection with the Harrison murder mystery. They found there the rings and other jewelry which Whitmore declares his wife Lena was wearing when he last saw her on Christmas day.

Mrs. Susan Schmitter, of New York, fainted after recognizing her sister's body. When she had regained consciousness she said:

"Ever since poor Lena married her life has been miserable. On Monday of last week Lena left her home in Brooklyn and came to my house. Her face was bruised and cut. That night her husband appeared and begged her to return home with him. She finally consented, but first she left with me her watch, her ring and $12 in money. A day or two later I got word from her that she would come up to the Bronx to see us on Christmas day and then go up state to our old home to spend the holidays.

"Christmas evening I received telegram from Brooklyn, reading as

"'Don't expect me tonight. Lena.' "Two days later came a letter pur porting to be from Lena, in which she was made to say that she was going to Schenectady to visit our sister. A second telegram followed. Later I got another letter similar to the first, and on the same night an expressman brought her trunk to my house. It contained a few articles of clothing, some bottles and old papers and a lot of stones to give it weight. The second telegram arrived about the same time the trunk did. It read as follows: "'Take care of trunk. Will send

Monday or Tuesday. Lena.' "The second of the letters was dated Dec. 27. In it the writer made Lena say her husband was treating her better, but that he stayed at home to watch her; that she was getting her things out of the house, and that as soon as she got all of them together pital, afflicted with smallpox. He is she was going up the state. I was requested to care for such things as she might send to me."

TALKS TO ROD IN THE GROUND

But His Wireless Telephone Won't Work Far As Yet.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Jan. 6 .- A public test is to be made shortly of the wireless telephone invented by John Grohowski, of Kingston, this county. The inventor has the machine now on exhibition. He claims that recently he sent a message 1000 feet distant, and that the words spoken were distinctly understood.

The apparatus is very simple. A rod sunk six feet in the earth acts as the transmitter. Practical telephone men, however, who have made an examination, have doubts whether the invention will be a success.

STRANGE DISHES.

Lion's Flesh, Tiger's Meat and Baked

Elephant's Foot. Lion's flesh is said to furnish a very good meal. Tiger meat is not so palatable, for it is tough and sinewy. In India nevertheless it is esteemed, because there is a superstition that it imparts to the eater some of the strength and cunning that characterizes the animal. This notion is not, of course, held by the followers of Brahma and Buddha, whose religion forbids the eating of flesh

There appears to be considerable difference of opinion among authorities on the subject as to the merits of elephant's flesh as an article of diet. By some it is considered a dainty, but there is the authority of at least one European against it. Stanley said that he frequently tasted elephant's flesh and that it was more like soft is and glue than anything else with which he could compare it. Another explorer, however, declares that he cannot imagine how an animal so coarse and heavy as the elephant could produce such delicate and tender flesh. All authorities agree in commending the elephant's foot. Even Stanley admitted that baked elephant's foot was a dish fit for a king. It is the greatest delicacy that can be given to a Kaffir. -St. Louis Republic.
