-Some cows are not good for much ex cept to raise calves. The quantity of milk is all right, and it seems to fatten calves as well as that which is richer in butter fat. A poor quality of milk also seems to make hogs thrive, but it won't make butter.

-Potash is the chief fertilizer to be applied to fruit trees, particularly after they come into bearing. Potash may be had in wood, ashes and muriate of potash. It is most commonly used in the latter form. An unusual application of potash should be made upon bearing orchards, five hundred nonnds to the acre.

-Overfeeding a horse with hay is an uu--Overfeeding a horse with hay is an uu-kindness. To encourage hair to grow on places worn bare by harness, wash well with salt water. The temper of a family horse in an element that is rarely given the consideration it merits. Its value and usefulness depend as much upon its mental as upon its physical condition.

-Experience everywhere teaches that an orchard will live louger, bear better and be more profitable for being well cultivated and enriched. The experiment staticas have tried both methods and have collected opinions from the best fruit growers in their sections, and the verdict in almost every case is that cultivation is necessary for healthy trees and first-class fruit.

-There are very few of the common gar-den flowers which are not greatly bonefited by generous fertilizing. For this purpose nothing is better than well rotted stable manure, which should be worked into the soil before the plants are set out. This en-richment of the bed, coupled with frequent stirring of the soil and plenty of water, is bound to produce flowers in abundance and luxuriance

-A number of state legislatures have recently passed laws making it a criminal offense to leave samples of patent medicines in folks' front yards and on doorsteps, where in many cases which have been re-ported little children have got hold of them and died as a result of taking overdoses of the medicine. Men distributing this stuff should be chased off the premises with shotgun or watchdog.

-We can learn from the Japanese a thing or two about stabling horses. In that conntry horses are backed into their stalls; then a door is closed at the head, which has a grain and bay rack conveniently construct-ed, to which the mag is secured. When needed, the door is swung back and the horse led forth. No one gets kicked, no refuse matter is visible to the visitor, and it seems to be a sensible way to construct a place for any horse.

-The Pennsylvania Experiment Station has issued a bulletin on relative value of feeding stuffs. It contains the results of certain feeding stuffs for maintenance and for fattening determined by means of the respiration calorimeter. It was found that these values were decidedly lower than those computed according to current methods from the amounts of digestible matter present. Coarse fodders in particu-lar were found to have a much lower value for maintenance, as well as for fattening, than concentrated feeds, the relative values of the former as compared with the latter being greatly overestimated in the feeding tables in common use.

Have a moderately hot iron, so as not to scorch the material ; and it is all-important that the seams should be ironed until perfectly dry. Do not stretch the material, but hold the seam that is being pressed so that there will be no danger of being puckered.

All the new corsets are long, close-hip sheaths, and the number of stocking supporters attached has increased to four, six, and in some cases to seven, pairs, attached at intervals all around the corset. The newest corset form to be introduced this year is that having the front lacings instead of the ordinary steels. Like all the new types, it is very long, and has what has been called the soulptured back.

The long corsets are especially necessary to meet the requirements of the extreme styles in dress waists which are now being developed

All call for smooth, tightly worn and fitted underwear. Practically all the new corsets are provided with twelve-inch steels, which means that they are a great deal higher in the bust than formerly.

For boys from 12 to 16 there are the long overcoats reaching below the knee, made up in rough plaid material of mixed wor-

Most of these are double breasted, but there is an attractive new model in the single-breasted style.

The three buttons that fasten this coat down the front are not concealed by the usual "fly-piece," containing the button-holes. but they fasten through to buttonholes made in the other side of the coat. The pockets at the side have an upward lant and the turned back coffs are sewed flat to the sleeves.

With the Norfolk jackets the jockey cap is worn, but when it comes to the long coat, like the one described above, a round soft felt seems more fitting.

When leftover cheese grows dry and hard don't throw it away, but grate to a pow-der. Put some in a bottle and save to serve with soups, Italian fashion, or cook with macaroni, or add to scallops. The rest of it may be beaten soft with a fork, seasoned with mustard and cayeone, and reduced to a paste with a little vinegar. This is fine to spread on saltines or crack-ers, or for a sandwich filling.
