Doctor Reports Two Met Unnatural Deaths, But Cannot Determine the Cause—Lock of Hair in Helgelein's Hand.

La Porte, Ind., May 12.—Mrs. Belle Guinness' farm failed to reveal new mysteries, but progress was made towards solving the puzzles already involved in the homestead which has witnessed the tragic deaths of at least fourteen persons.

Dr. J. H. William Meyer sent to the coroner his findings resulting from the autopsies of the bodies supposed to be those of Andrew Helgelein, of Mansfield, S. D., and Jennie Olsen, the foster daughter of Mrs. Guinness, who disappeared in 1906. Dr. Meyer's report declared that both had met unnatural deaths. In the case of the young woman the condition of the corpse precluded any possibility of determining the manner in which she was murdered. Decay, caused largely by lime, had destroyed the tissues so that the organs are scarcely susceptible to chemical analysis, and there is not enough flesh left to show evidence of wounds. The crumbling skull revealed none.

Helgelein's body had been in the ground only a few months at most, and it gave evidence of a death struggle. The clenched hand, which contained hair, had been mutilated, and the other hand had been severed at the wrist. Of this body the official report says:

"From the findings it is evident that the man died an unnatural death, but at whose hands or how cannot be determined by the examinations so far. The hair in the hand is likely from the head of his murderer, or the stomach may show poison, if any killed him."

The conclusion of State Attorney Smith and the officers at work on the case is that the body at the Cutler morgue is that of Mrs. Guinness. They are believers in the theory that Ray Lamphere set fire to the house. The evidence which the state has in its possession tends to prove that Mrs. Guinness and her three children are dead, and that Ray Lamphere is guilty of their murder.

It is the prosecutor's theory that Lamphere had gained knowledge of the means by which Andrew Helgelein was done to death; that the prisoner attempted to use this knowledge to extort money from the woman, and that she became frightened at his threats and undertook the series of prosecutions against him, which resulted in his trial before a lunacy commission, and in his being thrice arrested at her instigation; that Lamphere attempted to break her out, and for her refusal to give him money or to continue the relations which had existed between them prior to the appearance in January of Helgelein; that the fire at the Guinness home was started by Lamphere, but that he had no idea of causing the deaths of Mrs. Guinness and the children.

Mrs. Guinness Was Not a Mother.

Chicago, May 12.—According to the stories told in the suburb of Austin, where Mrs. Belle Guinness formerly resided, she was not the mother of any of the children who bore her name, but all of them were adopted by her. Andrew Olsen, a cousin of Mads Sorenson, the first husband of the woman, said: "It was common talk among the neighbors and even among her relatives that the children were not actually her's, but were adopted in their infancy."

Chicks Hatched in a Warm Tool Box.

Pittsburg, May 12.—Six weeks ago a workman in the Pennsylvania repair shops in Allegheny left two dozen eggs in an abandoned tool box in the roundhouse. Steam pipes go through the box. All over the eggs a heavy layer of soft coal soon settled. Three weeks ago fourteen sooty chicks arrived. It was found that the steam pipes kept the temperature of the box at 103 degrees. A second hatch of twenty chicks appeared, sooty, but healthy. Another hatch is being prepared. Born among the clanging noises of the roundhouse, every chick, so far discovered, is deaf.

Falls Three Stories into Baby Carriage

New York, May 12.—Leaning too far out on the window ledge of the front room of his parents' home, on the third floor of a tenement, three-year-old Robert Frenckelblitt, in throwing crumbs to sparrows on the fire escape below, lost his hold and fell, landing in a sitting position in a baby carriage that some one had left on the sidewalk. His mother saw him fall and rushed downstairs, expecting to see her child dead. Instead, she found an excited crowd of neighbors around the baby carriage examining the youngster, who was too frightened to cry.

Cut Off Little Sister's Hand.

Shippensburg, Pa., May 12.—Attempting to cut birch with a heavy axe, the nine-year-old daughter of C. B. Stake, an Ambersom valley farmer, chopped off the hand of her six-year-old sister at the wrist.

CORNER STONE LAID

The President Officially at Peace Temple Exercises.

Washington, May 12.—President Roosevelt laid the corner-stone of the first international temple of peace, friendship and commerce yet to be erected—the tangible evidence of the desire of the twenty-one American republics that war shall be no more in the western world.

Fitting the historical importance of the event the exercises were made impressive by the participation of the heads of each of these republics. Following addresses by President Roosevelt, Secretary Root, Ambassador Nabuco, of Brazil, and Andrew Carnegie, a cabled sentiment expressing the hearty approval of each president was read. Cardinal Gibbons and Bishop Cranston pronounced an invocation and benediction of the work done, and the United States marine band played selections of Pan-American music.

The new building is to be the joint property of all the republics. Three-quarters of a million dollars towards the construction of the building is the contribution of Mr. Carnegie, while each of the republics has added an appropriation to the fund.

CIRCUS WAGON IN RUNAWAY

Two Horses Crushed to Death By Chariot With Hippopotamus in It.

Cleveland, O., May 12.—Eight horses attached to a big circus wagon with a hippopotamus in it became frightened during a parade and ran away. They dashed down Scranton road hill at a terrific speed. The driver tried to check them. He threw on the brakes, but the weight of the wagon was so great that the brake broke.

Finally the two front horses broke loose from the wagon. The whiffletree snapped, and the last two horses were entangled in the harness. Both fell. The great wheels rolled over them and they were instantly crushed to death. The back wheels caught on the bodies of the horses, however, and the chariot came to a stop.

The big, frightened animal inside jammed himself against his cage and endeavored to break loose. Had he got out there would probably have been many killed. But the keepers finally quieted the terrified beast after the wagon came to a standstill.

Another Big Fire in Atlanta.

Atlanta, Ga., May 12.—One hundred and seventy-five horses and half a block of buildings burned, with a $100,000 loss, a threatened panic in a crowded theatre nearby and half a dozen persons injured, summarizes the damage by fire in the business section of Atlanta. The flames started in the Piedmont stables, on Marietta street near Spring. Half a block away the Orpheus theatre was crowded with persons watching a vaudeville performance. As the audience started to leave some one ran through the lobby shouting "fire." In another moment scores of men in the balcony began a rush from the exits. Fortunately cooler heads stopped this before it became serious.

Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Received in Two Years. "Ours is a New England farmer's home, and as we are twenty miles from a large town, we are obliged to depend very largely upon the family medicines we keep on hand all the time."
"First and foremost among them is Hood's Sarsaparilla, which we have always found a true friend and helper. When I had suffered dreadfully with dyspepsia, without finding relief, Hood's Sarsaparilla gave me positive help, and when I had used four bottles I was in better health than for many years. I have found Hood's Sarsaparilla a great Spring medicine to build one up when strength is most needed, to create an appetite, and in short to regulate the whole system. I have lately been taking Sarsaparilla, which I find convenient, easy to take, and also very beneficial." Mrs. E. L. Berry, West Troy, N.Y., March 7, 1898.
Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold by druggists everywhere.
