NIA STATE COLLEGE. - If the board of part he spoke as follows: rustees had had the weather made to order they could not have had a more delightful week for the forty-eighth annual commencement of The Pennsylvania State College than that from last Friday evening until Wednesday of this week. The only rain was on Monday and while it disarranged the program for that day to a certain extent it had the effect of cooling the atmosphere so that Tuesday and Wednesday were ideal days. And the commencement itself was undoubtedly the largest and most interesting ever held. By far the largest number of old students were back to visit their alma mater, a fact which shows the deep interest they all feel in the welfare of the college, while over three hundred house guests occupied the various fraternity houses and rooms in McAllister hall during the week. Of course the daily attendance from Bellefonte and surrounding towns was also quite large. Naturally the

Sparks, as president of the college, was one of the features that added interest to the commencement exercises, but aside from that the program was varied enough to keep everybody present on the move. While the commencement proper did not begin until Sunday as a preliminary the Pharsonians, the college minstrels, gave an entertainment in the auditorium on Friday evening. Saturday afternoon the ball same between State and W. U. P. was close and exciting enough to keep the interest at the top notch and States finish with a 1 to 0 score in the ninth inning was naturally hailed with delight by the large crowd present. The concert in the evening by the combined musical clubs of the entertainment to the visitors.

The commencement proper began on Sunday morning with the preaching of the baccalaureate sermon in the auditorium by Rev. John Knox McClurkin, of Shadyside -John G. In keeping with the Sabbath day the cadet band gave a sacred concert on the front campus in the evening while an open air Y. M. C. A. meeting was held at six o'clock.

> The rain on Monday cut out the Sophomore-Freshman base ball game, the reclass exercises on the campus, but the track meet with W. U. P. was held despite scoring 80 points to Wup's 24. The Junior oratorical contest Monday evening drew a were six contestants, Andrew A., Berland,

COMMENCEMENT AT THE PENNSYLVA- inaugural and commencement address. In

The unparalleled growth of American prosperi-ty since the Civil war is due not alone to a remnit-ed people, but also to the development of our sources of national wealth. The engineer, the lumberman, the farmer and the chemist have prepared the way for the manufacturer and the carrier. These the product of the manufacturer is the second lumberman, the farmer and the chemist have prepared the way for the manufacturer and the carrier. These technically trained foremen have come very largely from the state colleges and universities supported by public taxation. They are beneficiaries of the commonwealth and owe a special debt to the public. The happiness of a nation is dependent directly upon the prosperity of its people. If we exhaust the sources of our prosperity by prodigal meth-ods, posterity must pay the penalty. With these graduates remains the obligation to conserve the national resources by using less wasteful meth-ods, by thoughtful hasbanding and by forming public opinion through the authoritative language

Upon the graduates of the art courses is the equally strong obligation of disseminating true doctrines of government, rebuking heresies and disclosing faltacies. In the great era of govern-mental interference and control upon which we are just entering, especially when the pinch of exhausted resources shall begin to be felt, the coolest heads and wisest counsels will be neces-sary to keep legislation in its legitimate path. We have long been accustomed to associate service to humanity with the learned professions, with the clergyman, the physician and the jurist; but the graduate trained in the conservation of essential materials and trained at public expense, who will use conscientiously his great opportunicy, holds within his grasp the fu-ture prosperity and happiness of the American people, if not the perpetuity of the republic.

At the conclusion of his address the new president was applauded so vociferously as to leave no doubt in the minds of anyone how warmly he was already regarded by the student body.

The valedictory for the Senior class was delivered by William Francis H. Wentzel, after which the degrees were conferred and prizes and commissions awarded. Before the moining's meeting was brought to a close Mrs. George W. Atherton presented to the college a large sepia portrait of her late husband, Dr. George W. Atherton, former president of the college, which will be hung in a conspicuous place in the new library. H. Walton Mitchell, of Pittsburg, on behalf of the alumni association, presented to Gen. James A. Beaver, the retiring acting president, a replica of St. Gauden's "The Paritan," in bronze. The statue stands almost four feet high on a pedestal of verde antique marble and is a beautiful work of art. Gen. Beaver was very much affected at this mark of appreciation and accepted the gift in a speech fraught with intense feeling. The inauguration exercises were completed in the afternoon with another meet. ing in the auditorium. Among the emineut educators present were Dr. McCormick, of the Western University of Pennsylvania ; Dr. Ed ward Reed, of Dickinson, and Rev. C. T. Two PHILIPSBURG WEDDINGS. -- Two weddings of more than the ordinary prominence took place in Philipsburg on Thursday of last week. The first was that of Miss Eva Elizabeth Hewitt, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hewitt, and Joseph G. Hipson, of Morristown, N. J. The ceremony, which took place at the home of the bride's parents at 7.30 o'clock a. m., was performed by Rev. S. D. Wilson. About forty people witnessed the happy nuptials. The attendants were Miss Davis, of Lewistown, and Edward Hewitt. Miss Laura McCausland played the wedding away on a wedding trip up the Hudson. The second wedding was perhaps the more pretentions of the two. It took place at six o'clock in the evening, at the home of Mrs. Sarah Haworth, and signalized the marriage of her daughter, Miss Laura M. Haworth, to Henry P. Kirk, of Curwenspresent and the Haworth home was very prettily decorated for the occasion. The officiating clergymen were Rev. David Craighead, of Baltimore, and Rev. E. E. Highby, of the Baptist church, Philipeburg. The bride was attended by Miss Edna Turnbach, as maid of honor, and Misses Anne Haworth and Alice Kirk, as bridesmaids. George Benner, of Curwensville, was best man and Hugh Irvin and Frank Kirk ushers. Among the guests was

W. Harrison Walker Esq., of this place. GLENN-GOODHART.-A wedding that attracted considerable notice was that in Centre Hall last evening of Rev. James Johnston Glenn, formerly of College township, but now pastor of the Dickinson church near Carlisle, and Miss Letitia Goodhart, daughter of Mrs. Mary Goodhart, of Centre Hall. The marriage took place at eight o'clock in the Presbyterian church and was quite a pretentious affair, a large number of guests being present. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. H. Schuyler. Miss Margaret Goodhart was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Misses Orpha Gramley and Savilla Rearich. Edward Glenn was the bridegroom's best man and the ushers were Mr. Glenn and Mr. Mosher. Miss Verna Rearick, of Philadelphia, played the wedding march. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother. Rev. and Mrs. Glenn will take a brief wedding trip before going to housekeeping at Carlisle. KLING-CAIN .- A pretty wedding occurred at two o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Alice Cain, on north Potter street, when her daughter, Miss Goldie D. Cain, became the bride of Guy Samuel Kling, of Altoona. Rev. A. Davidson, a former pastor of the United Brethren church, performed the ceremony. Miss Olivia Cain, a sister of the bride, was Herbert H. Acheson, Domiugo Panain, Humphreys, president of Stevens Institute of bridesmaid, and Roy Stover, of Altoona, and family, on Thomas street, the past ten days Warren E. Hoffman, William C. Weaver Technology, Hoboken, N. J., and Dr. Paul best man. Following a delicions little or two weeks.
