FORMAL OPENING OF THE NEW LABORATORY IN HOME ECONOMICS AT THE PENNSYLVANIA STATE COLLEGE.

—In a recent article in Collier's on "The Commonwealth College" the statement is made that "The most significant development in American educational institutions in recent years has been the rapid growth of the State Universities." Following is a comparison of growth from 1898 to 1908 in attendance in forty-seven endowed colleges and forty-seven Commonwealth colleges and fourth in this increase stands the Pennsylvania State College which in 1898 had 293 students, in 1908 had 1,050 students. While the attendance of young women has not, by any means, paralleled by that of young men, last Friday certainly marked an achievement in this comparable to the strides taken in other directions. Two years ago this fall the State Federation of Pennsylvania women held a session at State, as a result of which $25,000 was secured from the Legislature that year, which money has built an addition to the Woman's Building and inaugurated several attractive courses specially feminine. Since the interest and perseverance of one woman has, in two years, tripled the enrollment of girls and added $25,000 to maintenance, by progressive calculation the concerted co-operation of many women throughout the State will in ten years effect such radical changes that this day will indeed have marked the beginning of an Era for Women at State.

Thus may Friday, October 16th, be classed as dedicatory, commemorative and commencement.

The morning was occupied in an inspection of the dairy, bacteriological laboratory, poultry yards, and a fine exhibit of many varieties of apples, nearly all of which were grown in Centre county. At the dairy ice cream was served. The guides and ushers were selected from among the women students and wore the academic costume.

Each club belonging to the State Federation of women was invited to send a delegate. Not many of the latter presented themselves, but the members of the State College Club and ladies of the faculty to the number of one hundred and twenty-five were entertained at the dainty luncheon which was served at 12:00 noon in the new building, where were on exhibition specimens of students work in cooking and sewing.

At two o'clock, an enthusiastic audience, typical of college and countryside life, distinguished in character, gathered in the large Schaw auditorium.

Miss Lovejoy, Dean of Women and presiding officer of the day, introduced each speaker, the first of whom, after the welcoming address of President Sparks, was Mrs. Anna C. M. Tillinghast, chairwoman of the Northwestern Federation committee on Domestic Science Scholarship, which scholarship it is hoped will soon be established in the Home Economics course. The subject of her paper was "The Place of Domestic Science in the Amelioration of Mankind." It was well written and clearly and forcibly delivered. Mrs. Tillinghast was followed by Miss Mira Lloyd Dock, a vice president of The Pennsylvania State Federation of Women, a most indefatigable club woman who has performed such splendid work in forestry and civics. Miss Dock's address, "Miss McKnight and The Pennsylvania State College," was not only an eulogy of Miss McKnight but gave full credit to all who had co-operated with her in this work for women at State College, one of whom was our late distinguished and revered president George W. Atherton.

The program was closed by the address of Mrs. Sarah Tyson Rorer on "Educational Value of Domestic Science." Mrs. Rorer, personally by reputation is so well known as to have been perhaps the most interesting figure of the day. Lecturer, writer, demonstrator, of necessity a wage earner for thirty two years, her remarks were based on an experience common to few women and as such are apt to carry conviction. She is one of two surviving members of the first class in Domestic Science organized in 1878 and her two first years of apprenticeship were spent under Mrs. Eliza Turner, "The Guild Mother" in Philadelphia. No eight hour-a-day system was then in vogue. Pupils in this class washed, scrubbed, cooked from six a. m. until ten p. m., many times closing the day by carrying four gallons of hot soup many blocks to one of the district stations in the hope of "helping some poor soul." For this labor they received four dollars per week and boarded themselves.

The menace to health and development of principles underlying the science of cooking, she regards as sufficient necessity for wide spread establishment and support of schools in Domestic Science and Home Economics and she closed her address by hoping that Pennsylvania would realize this in as striking a manner as has Illinois.

OLD PEOPLE'S DAY.—"Old Folks" day will be observed in the Methodist Episcopal church next Sunday. In the morning the pastor will preach on the theme "The Crown of Old Age" and in the evening on "The Land Marks of the Fathers." The old hymns of the church will be used and the decorations will suggest the days of our fathers. The Epworth League will assist in the services, and a committee of young people will welcome the elderly folks and provide for their comfort. Carriages will be furnished for those who are unable to walk to the church if notice be given to the pastor, or Miss Grace Blackford, not later than Friday evening. Old fashioned class meeting at 9:30 a. m., J. K. Barnhart leader.

—Yesterday Mr. F. Potts Green, the druggist, celebrated the seventy-fourth anniversary of his birth. He is one of the best known men in Centre county and has been in business in this place for over half a century. He is still in good health and we trust will live to celebrate many more similar anniversaries.

—The twenty-fifth annual reunion of the One Hundred and Tenth Pennsylvania volunteer infantry was held in Tyrone last Friday. James T. Krebs, of Milesburg, retiring president of the association, was the only Centre countian present. The reunion next year will be held in Bellefonte the third Friday in October.

—Bellefonte was overhung by a pall of smoke and ashes on Monday as the result of fierce forest fires burning on the Alleghenies, Manoy and Nittany mountains. The biggest fire was on the Alleghenies, east of Sandy Ridge. Monday evening the weather became quite cool and the high wind of that night and Tuesday had the effect of driving away the smoke and clarifying the atmosphere.

—Several well known young men of Bellefonte made an attempt to force an entrance into the Y. M. C. A. building about twelve o'clock Friday night but were caught in the act by the police. They were not placed under arrest but cautioned not to attempt anything of the kind in the future. The boys were evidently on the hunt to find out if any of the good things served at the banquet that evening had been left over.

—The barn on the farm of Frederick Bower, near Mt. Eagle was destroyed by fire on last Wednesday night. The farm was tenanted by Ammon Gramley who lost his entire crop of grain, hay, etc., as well as machinery, harness and a bull. Mr. Gramley's loss will be at least two thousand dollars on which he had but eight hundred dollars insurance. Mr. Bower had a small insurance on his barn but the amount could not be learned. It is the belief that the building was set on fire.

—Miss Maude Hovey, the sweet singer of Buffalo, has been at the Socio two weeks almost and every night crowds flock to hear her; a fact which shows what a favorite she has become to the music lovers of Bellefonte. And she is justly entitled to this mark of appreciation as she never fails to delight her hearers. She will sing tonight and tomorrow night and probably all of next week, and this with the big double bill of pictures shown every night is what fills the house to the doors. Don't fail to attend the Socio.

—The Bellefonte Academy foot ball team added another victory to its credit last Saturday by defeating the strong Williamsport High School eleven by the close score of 5 to 0. It was a hard fought contest from start to finish and was won by the Academy by superior playing. Tomorrow the Academy will go to Williamsport, where they will play the Dickinson Seminary team. This will probably be one of the hardest games the Academy will have to play this season and if they win it, they will have to play good football.

—The State College football team had no trouble defeating the Geneva College eleven last Saturday by the score of 51 to 0, notwithstanding the fact that all the "Varsity men were not in the lineup. But the game was a costly one for State, even at that, as captain "Bill" McCleary had a very serious shoulder injury and will be out of the game for several weeks, at least. Hirschman is also out of the game with water on the knee Weaver has a bad arm. Tomorrow State will play the University of West Virginia on Beaver field and the game should be a very good one.

—Catching snickers from Spring creek is now affording sport and amusement for a number of Bellefontes. Since the low water the fish have been lying in shoals opposite the Bush house and look very tempting to the hungry piscatorialist. Not being able to entice them to take the bait the fishermen decided to grapple them. They use a large hook with a weight close to it. The hook is gently lowered alongside the fish and by a quick jerk is hooked under its ribs or somewhere else and the sucker is landed high and dry. Dozens of them are being caught this way.

—The rummage sale for the benefit of the Bellefonte hospital opened in the Brown building on Bishop street at nine o'clock yesterday morning. The sale was well patronized yesterday and last night but there are still many good and useful articles of clothing there which are offered for sale at a very reasonable figure. While you, dear reader, may not need any of the things on sale there for yourself, buy something and give it to some poor but deserving person. In this way you will not only be doing an act of charity but helping the Bellefonte hospital at the same time. The sale will be kept open until everything is disposed of.

—Several weeks ago W. H. Maoker, the bookster, while out in the country ran a thorn in his knee. He pulled it out and naturally supposed he had all of the wood extracted and gave it no further thought. Last week his knee became so sore that his leg became stiff and he consulted a physician who probed for any part of the thorn or foreign matter that might have remained in the wound but was unable to find anything, and it is evident that if any portion of the thorn remained in the wound it has probably worked its way under the knee cap. As it is Mr. Maoker has a very sore leg and is compelled to go around with one crutch and a cane.

SURVEYING FOR A RAILROAD.—Several weeks ago the WATCHMAN published an item relative to the presence of a big corps of civil engineers on the Allegheny mountains making a survey of some kind. Since that the engineers have invaded Centre county and during the past week or ten days have had their headquarters at Stormstown and have been making surveys in Halfmoon and Buffalo Run valleys.

While not at all effusive in their declarations as to the purpose of their work the fact has been fully established that they are making a full and final survey of the route for that proposed air line railroad from Chicago to New York projected and sprung on the public two years ago by Joseph T. Ramsey Jr., late president of the Wabash railroad, and which at the time caused considerable stir and comment in railroad circles. Though very little has been heard hereabouts of the Ramsey road it is an alleged fact in railroad circles that several hundred miles of the western end of the road have already been provided for and for this reason there is a belief that the road will eventually be built.

The present corps of engineers has been out on the survey over a year, having started from Chicago in September, 1907. They are in charge of a son of Mr. Ramsey, the projector of the enterprise. Centre countians are especially interested in this because of the fact that if built the road will traverse the county from the western to the eastern end. To encompass the Allegheny mountains the original plan provides for a number of tunnels, the last of which will be from the neighborhood of Hontzdale to the Bald Eagle valley, coming out in the vicinity of Dix. This tunnel will be between two and three miles long. The survey is then east through the Warriorsmark valley into Halfmoon.

During the past ten days, since the engineers have been in this county they have made three surveys. One was through Stormstown and down the Buffalo Run valley as far as Waddle, the idea being to cross through the Barrens so as to strike State College on the survey through Pennsylvania. Another route was via Stormstown and through the Barrens by the way of Red Bank, but now both these surveys have been given up and the engineers are following very closely the line of the old survey which was through Loveville and Gatesburg, across the Barrens into upper Pennsylvania in the vicinity of the White Hall road and by way of Pine Grove Mills down the valley, keeping to the Tussey mountain side.

While this road, if built, would not materially help Bellefonte it might enhance the value of property in those sections of the county through which it passed. In any event it would mean close connection with the shortest and most direct line from the Windy city to the great metropolis.

WRECK ON BELLEFONTE CENTRAL.—The train on the Bellefonte Central railroad was wrecked on Saturday afternoon at Johnson's fill about two miles beyond State College and every passenger on the train was hurt more or less, three of them being injured to that extent that they were brought to the Bellefonte hospital. The three are Miss Sadie Dannelly, an operator in the Commercial telephone exchange at State College, who had her left arm wrist fractured badly bruised breast and a number of contusions on the face and body. Her sister, Miss Susan Dannelly, of Pine Grove Mills, received a bad cut on the head and a blow on the left eye so that for a time it was feared the sight was destroyed. The other person brought to the hospital was James Moffat, of Stone valley. He had a badly lacerated head and face and was suffering from shock, although his condition at no time was considered dangerous. Among the others injured but not brought to the hospital were Miss Vida Sunday, arm broken; Mrs. Emory Johnson, ankle sprained, and Mrs. William Collins, hip hurt and other injuries.

The wreck occurred shortly after three o'clock in the afternoon. The train was on its through trip to Pine Grove Mills, and consisted of the engine, two freight cars and the passenger coach in which there were about a dozen passengers. At Johnson's fill the rails spread and the wreck was the result. The engine and both freight cars passed over in safety but the passenger coach was thrown from the rails and leaving the track toppled over the bank alighting bottom side. The car was crushed and every one of the dozen or more passengers injured, though with the exception of those mentioned above their injuries were only slight, consisting of a few cuts and bruises.

Immediately after the accident occurred some of the trainmen made their way to State College and telephoned to this place and a special was made up and sent to the scene of the wreck. In the meantime Drs. Glenn and Robinson, of State College, had gone to the wreck and attended to the injured and when the special train arrived accompanied the Misses Dannelly and Mr. Moffat to this place and saw them safe in the hospital.

A new train was made up and sent to the College about six o'clock to bring the regular passengers and delegates of the Young Men's Christian Association, who were on a trip to the College that day, to Bellefonte. They arrived here about 7.45 o'clock without any further adventure.

KILLED AT BEECH CREEK.—Robert Barnum, a colored resident of Loganton, attempted to drive across the Bald Eagle Valley railroad at Beech Creek, Tuesday afternoon, ahead of the express east. He was squarely on the track when the engine struck his wagon. The man was thrown some distance and so badly injured that he died in a few minutes.

FARMERS' WEEK AT STATE COLLEGE.

The school of agriculture in The Pennsylvania State College offered a program for Farmers' Week last winter that attracted hundreds of farmers from one-half the counties of the State. The lectures were by practical scientists who pleased their hearers. The next Farmers' Week will begin December 30th and close January 6th. Noted specialists from many States will assist the faculty of the school of agriculture in making the coming meeting the greatest in the history of the State's agriculture. The attendance now promises to be so large that it is necessary to schedule four lectures for the same hour, in order that the visitors may be accommodated. The arrangement will be such that a specialist may select lectures of direct interest to himself throughout each day of the week. The program will be ready for distribution about November 15th. Write for one, addressing "School of Agriculture, State College, Pa."

The one thing they fear is that the fierce fires on the mountains this summer and fall may have devastated that locality and driven all the deer out of that section; and if such proves to be the case the Roosevelt club may have another hunting ground for this season.

STOLEN CLOTHING RECOVERED.

—On the night of October 6th the store of the Manufacturer's Outlet Clothing company, in the Bush Arcade, was broken into and a large quantity of clothing stolen. At the time the proprietors stated that their loss was about a dozen suits, several sweaters, some shirts and men's socks. On Friday of last week they recovered all the stolen goods and were themselves surprised to learn that the amount stolen was almost double what they had figured on.

The goods were found on Tuesday afternoon of last week by James Kellerman, hidden in the culvert under the Nittany Valley railroad near the Gatesburg ore bank. Kellerman was walking along the railroad when he noticed a man's coat lying in the end of the culvert. He began to investigate and was very much surprised to see a bulky object sticking in the culvert. He pulled it out and found it to be a big burlap bag filled with clothing. A second burlap bag was discovered and a big bundle tied in heavy wrapping paper, in all almost a small wagon load of stuff.

Mr. Kellerman at once concluded that the clothing was that which had been stolen from the Manufacturer's Outlet Clothing company, and replacing it in the culvert notified sheriff Henry Kline of his find. The sheriff went out and the clothing was taken out. It was all wet and practically ruined by lying in water, with which the culvert had been filled by the rain of the Saturday night previous. Friday morning the owners were notified and they sent out and got the goods, though owing to their ruined condition their loss is about as great as if they had not recovered the clothing.

Naturally they would sooner have had the robbers apprehended, but so far their identity is as much a mystery as ever. The big burlap bags in which the clothing was found are the kind used by farmers and quite a quantity of chaff was found in each bag, evidence that they must have been used around a barn somewhere before being used to carry away the clothing. From the amount stolen it is evident that the thieves must have carted the goods away in a wagon, and doubtless hid them in the culvert expecting to get them some time in the future.

WILD TURKEYS AND BUNNIES.

—Centre county hunters met with fair luck last Thursday, the opening day of the wild turkey and rabbit season. Out in the mountains back of Unionville seven wild turkeys were shot on Thursday and Friday, one of which was secured by John Nighthart, of this place. It was a ten pound hen and John was just as proud of it as if it had been that "daddy" gobbler that holds forth in that section.

Probably the most surprised young man and "stuck-up" hunter who was out in the woods on Thursday was Milan Walker. He was up in the vicinity of Point McCoskey hunting squirrel and having driven one into a hole in a hollow tree sat down to await its reappearance. While sitting there watching for the squirrel a big wild turkey gobbler came sailing through the woods and alighted on the ground only a short distance from him so that he had no trouble killing the bird, which proved to be a twenty-pounder. Of course he quit watching for the squirrel at once and hastened home with his prize. Joe Thal got one that weighed sixteen pounds and there were seven shot by the Dukemans and other hunters about Curtin Works.

The slaughter of rabbits was not as great as on opening days in former years. Edward Gillen and Charles Anderson were probably the two most successful Bellefonte hunters. They came in with twelve rabbits between them, but the majority of the hunters got but one or two. It is the general belief that the weather is yet too warm for good rabbit hunting.
