Spring Mills.
J. L. Brown and W. S. Baum, of Union county, were here for a day or two this week.
H. H. Raebau is having his residence very artistically painted, a great improvement.
Our town has been enveloped in a dense smoke for two or three days—more mountain fires.
Magistrate M. B. Herinz, who has been quite ill for the past ten days or two weeks, is still confined to the house. His convalescence seems very slow.
L. Phillips met with quite a serious accident last week. At the coal yard of C. P. Long by some mishap his wagon upset, and partly falling on him one of his legs was badly broken.
Turkeys are plentiful in Pennsylvally, so there will be no scarcity for Thanksgiving dinner. Last year they were difficult to obtain at any price. Sausages, or a big rooster were generally substituted.
Autos have been quite numerous on our roads of late, some with lively parties and others with commercial agents. Its hardly the vehicle for the beaux, it requires too much attention, but no doubt that will be arranged one of these days.
Since the recent political earthquake the Republican newspapers are howling prosperity, flush times, roost beef and three dollars a day. Possibly the laboring man will not require his dinner pail hereafter, prosperity will be so great that his meals will be sent to him from one of the neighboring hotels.
Admiring some beautiful fur hats a few days since, Mrs. Margaret Rubl, milliner of our town, remarked that they were very popular this season, but were chiefly in the form of turban and toques, and like all those fitting hats require little trimming. Of course some of them are gloriously big, but all are very stylish and handsome. She has just received a complete line of these elegant goods. Mrs. Rubl is now taking a full course of instruction from a millinery academy in New York city and by spring, with her natural skill and exquisite taste, will evidently graduate an artistic trimmer and designer in all that pertains to feminine headwear.
Being at the lower end of town on the "Hill" side a day or two since I stepped into the Spring Mills carriage works to see S. L. Condo, the proprietor, and found him very busy arranging his salesroom for the display of a car load of sleighs he had just received; also an invoice of high grade harness. Quite a number of sleighs were in place. They are beautiful, made of thoroughly seasoned stock, elegantly finished and upholstered with a high quality of imported English cloth and regular railroad plush. All the work is evidently that of craftsmen of the highest order of excellence. The spring sleigh is quite an institution, a decided improvement. Mr. Condo says they soon will supersede all other styles for comfort, durability and beauty.

Miss Bess Thompson returned home from Altoona, Saturday, where she had been with her sister, Mrs. Mary Shaffer, who underwent an operation for appendicitis last week.
A Power for Good Though Baten
From the Louisville Courier Journal.
"The result shows that we oversized the spiritual and undersized the material in the hearts and minds of the people. They were dear alike to precedents, to reason and to eloquence; for nothing could surpass, as nothing has ever equalled, the personal canvases of Mr. Bryan; his wondrous lucidity and power of statement; his splendid intellectual and physical endurance; its unanswerable argument.
"Nor did Ignatius of Loyola sweep through a world of incarnate evil bearing the cross of Jesus to triumph with greater force of inspiration and truth than did the heroic son of Nebraska traverse a land gaped with curiosity, but too busy over its work and play to consider any danger to the immortal soul of its constitutional fabric.
"Old-time Democrats will wait and keep their powder dry. If they should despair, if they should break apart, the country would be exposed to political anarchy leading through radicalism and excesses of every sort to practical irresponsibility on the one hand, unregenerate debauchery backed by resistless force on the other hand. We may be a power for good, though beaten and in opposition. Seven million of votes are never to be despised in case they hold together. Many States remain to us. The constitution of the United States has not been abolished yet, nor institutional freedom, nor wise and upright administration, and these are still worth fighting for."

SHOT BY CRAZED MAN
New York Postmaster's Life Saved By His Daughter.
New York, Nov. 10.—Edward M. Morgan, postmaster of New York city, who was wounded in the abdomen by a bullet fired by E. H. B. Mackay, an eccentric English stenographer, who committed suicide, is resting well and unless complications develop will recover.
Mr. Morgan probably owes his life to the quick wit and bravery of his fourteen-year-old daughter, Dorothy, who saw Mackay draw his revolver and struck it with her hand. This deflected the bullet, otherwise the postmaster would have been fatally wounded, for his assailant was at close range and fired four shots in all. The shooting occurred at One Hundred and Forty-sixth street and only a short distance from Mr. Morgan's home. He was on his way down town at the time.
An investigation of the life and record of Mackay reveals that he was of a morbid nature and a former inmate of an asylum at Worcester, Mass.
Evidently he had never seen the postmaster, for as he met Mr. Morgan he asked, "Are you Postmaster Morgan?" At Mr. Morgan's affirmative reply Mackay drew his revolver and fired a shot into the postmaster's abdomen.
The wounded man fell to the sidewalk, and as two witnesses of the shooting came running up Mackay lay down on the sidewalk, opened his vest and sent one bullet into his head and another into his heart. He was dead when the first man reached him.

WIFE COLLAPSES IN COURT
Victorien Sardou, Dramatist, Is Dead.
Kern Is Out For U. S. Senate—C. W. Elliot Resigns As President of Harvard—Going Home in Plaster Cast With Nearly All Her Bones Broken. Fatally Shot His Father—Ordeals Nineteen Locomotives—Pulls Nine Teeth For One.
From a cell in the Tombs prison in New York city Charles W. Morse now directs the efforts of his counsel to secure his freedom, he having been sentenced to serve fifteen years in the federal prison at Atlanta, Ga., for misapplication of the funds of the National Bank of North America and making false entries in the books of the bank. Alfred H. Curtis, former president of the defunct bank, who was jointly tried and convicted with Morse, was given his liberty on a suspended sentence.
While Morse's lawyers immediately applied for and secured a stay of execution for ten days after sentence had been imposed, still it is probable that Morse will remain a prisoner in the Tombs, as Judge Hough has refused to admit the financier to bail. The Morse lawyers applied to the United States circuit court of appeals for a writ to show cause why their client should not be admitted to bail, and the writ was granted, but it is not returnable until Monday; hence it appears that Morse must remain a prisoner until the question of bail is settled on that day.
Whether a new trial will be granted Morse is problematical. Judge Lacombe granted a writ of error to the Morse lawyers. This writ is returnable Dec. 3 and is based on the usual grounds—exceptions taken by the defense during the trial and exceptions to the indictment itself. This step had to be taken before application for bail could be made, and it also leads to the argument for a new trial. The Morse lawyers say their client has instructed them to fight "to the last ditch."
A crowd of more than 600 men and women followed Morse and two deputy marshals, who had him in charge, from the federal building to the doors of the Tombs. As they trailed along the crowd jeered and booed. "How would you like to be the ice man?" shouted some one as the little man walked along between the two big deputies. "You'll get no ice there," yelled another. These and similar cries followed the prisoner until the heavy barred doors of the prison had closed behind him.
The scene in the courtroom when sentence was pronounced by Judge Hough was a most dramatic one. The wives of the two prisoners, who have been constant attendants at court during the entire trial, were present, as if anxious to cheer their husbands by their presence in the trying ordeal which confronted them.
When the real test came, however, it was the husbands, and not the wives, who proved the comforters. Morse sat like a stoic when he heard the words which condemned him to prison. There was scarcely the tremor of an eyelid, and to those who watched there was no longer even the shadow of a doubt that the "Little Man" was indeed a man of iron nerve.
Kern Out For U. S. Senate.
John W. Kern, the defeated Democratic candidate for the vice presidency, announced that he is a candidate for United States senator, to succeed James A. Hemenway. The incoming Indiana legislator will be Democratic on joint ballot by a majority of twelve. Others mentioned as probable candidates are John E. Lamb, of Terre Haute, who was in charge of the Democratic national headquarters at Chicago during the last campaign; Thomas Taggart, formerly national chairman; State Senator Slack, Benjamin E. Shively and Edward Hoffman, of Fort Wayne.
Fatally Shot His Father.
Fearful lest his father strike his mother, whom he was pursuing with an axe, Ernest T. Hayes, twenty, shot and fatally wounded H. T. Hayes at Belmont, a suburb of Charlotte, N. C. The trouble it is alleged grew out of the demand for money which he had given his wife. When the demand was refused the man seized an axe and pursued his wife.
Pulls Nine Teeth For One.
Unable to reach a dental office and suffering untold torture from an aching tooth, James Ridley, residing in a remote part of the farming district of Lackawanna county, Pa., himself extracted nine teeth with a pair of pliers before he secured the right one. Ridley, for a greenhorn, made a fairly good job of it, but his gums were badly swollen and bleeding.
Place For Bryan.
Two evangelists now in Chattanooga, Tenn., Revs. George W. Coons and J. G. Lawson, who have organized several religious campaigns in this country and Europe, have written to W. J. Bryan, suggesting that he hereafter engage in evangelistic work, as they believe he can do a greater amount of good in that than any other way.
Cut Down Burning Tree; Fatally Hurt.

ELIHU ROOT FOR U. S. SENATOR
Secretary of State May Succeed T. C. Platt.

Washington, Nov. 10.—It is the general opinion in Washington that as a result of a long conference at the White House between President Roosevelt, James Wadsworth, Jr., the speaker of the New York state assembly, and William L. Ward, Republican national committeeman, and one of the foremost leaders in New York state politics, the man who will be supported by them next January as the candidate before the New York legislature to succeed Thomas C. Platt on March 4, 1909, as United States senator from New York, will be Elihu Root, of Clinton, N. Y., the present secretary of state of the United States. Secretary Root declared he had made no announcement that he would be a candidate and that he could not discuss the matter. He had just come from the president's office, where Mr. Ward and Speaker Wadsworth previously had been in conference with the president.

LEAPS INTO COKE OVEN
Conductor, Injured in Wreck, Sought a Terrible Death.
Grafton, W. Va., Nov. 10.—Seeking a terrible death, J. H. Deever, formerly a Baltimore & Ohio conductor, threw himself into a seething coke oven, and efforts are now being made to find some of his ashes.
Deever was injured in a wreck some time ago, and had been visiting his father at Hora, Preston county. Near the coke ovens at that place his clothing was found, with a note explaining his suicide. The letter follows:
"I have been wondering, and I can't get nothing else into my head. Gentlemen, I am in debt, and can't work, and I don't know what else to do but put myself out of the way. I have been studying ever since I got hurt, and I have been wondering and studying and studying, and I can't get nothing else in my head. So I will bring it to a close, and here you will find my remains."

CITY OFFICIALS ON TRIAL
Wilkes-Barre Mayor and Councilmen Charged With Neglecting Streets.
Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Nov. 10.—A novel case was called for trial in court when Mayor Kniffen and thirty-two Wilkes-Barre councilmen were arraigned, charged with maintaining a nuisance by failing to keep the streets of the city in proper repair. Counsel for the defendants moved to quash the indictments on the ground that while the city could be proceeded against the councilmen as individuals could not. Before proceeding further Judge Halsey said he would hear argument on this point.
Going Home in Plaster Cast.
Encased in a plaster cast, which covers all of her body except the neck and head, Minnie Fisher, a circus rider, who was injured some time ago by being thrown from her horse at Ogdensburg, N. Y., left there for her home in Alabama. She is unable to move any part of her body below the shoulders and will lie on a cot during the railroad journey south.
The accident in which the young woman was injured occurred during a performance at Malone last September. Her horse became frightened and bolted toward the spectators. The equestrienne turned the animal into a fence, and the rider was thrown heavily to the ground, nearly every bone in her body being broken. It will be three months before the plaster cast can be removed.

Explosion Costs An Arm.

B. Frank Hall Kills Himself.
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—B. Frank Hall, a wealthy resident of St. Marys, Pa., and a brother of State Senator J. K. P. Hill and Judge Harry Alvin Hill, shot and killed himself to-night in a parlor car on the Buffalo express on the Pennsylvania railroad.
According to a statement of Judge Hall, his brother had been slightly deranged mentally for the last few days and at the time of the tragedy was on his way to Philadelphia to consult a specialist.
With his brother and several friends Judge Hall walked into the dining car of the express, when the train left Lancaster. It was not noticed that Mr. Hall acted strangely and after dinner the party returned to the parlor car. A few moments later the suicide asked to be excused a moment. He stepped into the toilet compartment and closed the door. Almost immediately there was a revolver shot. The door of the compartment was forced open and Mr. Hall was found lying on the floor with two bullet wounds in his head. Death was probably instantaneous. The body was carried into the smoking car and when the train reached Broad street station was turned over to an undertaker. Judge Hall is much grieved over the affair.
"My brother had no business or other troubles. He was wealthy, had retired from business years ago and had everything in the world to live for. About ten days ago he returned from a hunting trip in Scotland. He talked of an enjoyable trip, but it was noticed that he had hallucinations and we saw that he imagined troubles that had no existence. Believing that it would be well to consult a specialist I suggested a trip to Philadelphia and he readily agreed to accompany me."
