

To Subscribers.

Some of you will notice that the figures on the label of your WATCHMAN are such that after the first of January the postal authorities will begin to get busy. We do not want to discontinue sending the paper to you, but you are already acquainted with the ruling, that the meddling officials at Washington made last year and we don't see how it will be possible to do it unless you make a remittance between this and the first of January.

We publish this notice with the hope that you will act promptly because you can readily see that we cannot afford to pay postage on separate letters to each of you when the price of the paper is so low now that it scarcely pays for the material that is in it.

We would thank you very much for a prompt reply and if when you send in your renewal you would send along an order for a new reader it would be an additional gratification.

Pine Grove Mentions.

W. Grant Gardner and R. T. Gates were among the sick but are better now.

Last week the venerable Samuel Bible fell down stairs, breaking his collar bone.

J. A. B. Miller, one of Bellefonte's legal lights, was in town Saturday evening.

John F. Kimpfort and wife, of Boalsburg, spent the Sabbath with friends at Fairbrook.

H. B. Pontius was circulating among the farmers here last week taking orders for fruit trees.

Doctor Kidder and daughter Mary have been visiting relatives in the Mountain city the past week.

That popular bird, the stork, made its first visit to the Arthur Miller home and left a dear little girl baby.

Charles Fisher and his bride came up from Danville Tuesday to spend a few days at his mother's home in Boalsburg.

Rev. Schultz of Johnstown, very ably filled the pulpits last Sunday on the Lutheran charge, which is now without a pastor.

Last Friday morning while A. O. Tyson was cutting corn fodder for his cows he tripped and in falling almost severed the thumb on his right hand.

Prof. Charles Fenstamacker's face is all aglow when you call him "Papa." Its a nice little girl and came Monday morning, at Grandpa Andy Lytle's home.

(Whether or not you are satisfied) with a job of building depends as much on the fittings and finishing as on the building itself. Unhandy sash, poor doors, bum inside finishing—these will make your otherwise good job a failure.

Contractors especially should see that none but good glass, mill work for finishing, and so forth thru the list, go into their work.

Don't you see why?

We stake our reputation on all we handle, and we have a plan peculiar to us, which reduces prices.
