The primaries in Bellefonte were void of interest further than the fight for the place for treasurer on the Republican ticket. That was a game of politics between politicians and the defeat of WILLIAM B. RANKIN by EDWARD GEHRETT probably involved so many personal dissensions that it would take columns to tell them all.

More than one hundred and thirty million pounds of tallow are used each year in this country in the manufacture of candles. And every once in a while we hear of the days of the tallow-dip being over.

SATURDAY'S PRIMARIES.—There was at least one surprise in the result of Saturday's primaries and that was in the nomination of Edward Gehrett as a candidate for borough treasurer on the Republican ticket over William B. Rankin. None but the friends of Mr. Gehrett considered him in the running until the primaries were opened when it was at once evident that he had a large following and notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Rankin and his supporters did everything they could Mr. Gehrett carried both the South and West wards. The other contest on the Republican ticket was for overseer of the poor, there being three candidates, Levi Whippo in the North ward, Thomas Donachy in the South and John Love in the West. Mr. Love carried both the North and West wards, thus assuring his nomination.

On the Democratic ticket the only contests were between J. Kennedy Johnston and John M. Keichline, for tax collector, and Daniel Eberhart and William Daley, for overseer of the poor. Mr. Johnston and Mr. Eberhart being nominated. For the head of both tickets, John J. Bower, for burgess on the Democratic ticket, and James C. Farst, on the Republican ticket, there was no contest. All the remainder of both party tickets, borough and the various wards, were nominated without opposition. The full list of nominees follows:

The weather of the past week has been varied enough to suit all classes. From the cold of last week there came a warm spell with rain, and for several days it was very spring-like, with the result that the snow and sleighing all disappeared. It had the effect, however, of starting the streams and springs throughout the county so that now most everybody is well supplied with water. Monday it began to grow colder and by Tuesday morning it was quite wintry-like, and thus it has continued. But there is no use of worrying about the weather that has passed, it is that which is to come that concerns us all. And as next Tuesday is ground-hog (Candemas) day we will all have an opportunity to observe what that wily little weather prophet has to predict for the ensuing six weeks.

John W. Beck, of Howard, Democratic member of the board of county auditors, recently purchased a lot at State College, where he expects to move in the near future and eventually build a nice home for himself. He is an applicant for the position of letter carrier at the College when they have their free delivery system established, having recently taken a civil service examination.

DEATH OF W. M. LEWIS.—William M. Lewis, probably the oldest native and resident of Centre county and a veteran of the Mexican war, died at the home of his son, William, in Tyrone; and in him has passed from time into eternity one who was perhaps the most remarkable man in some ways ever known in this section of the State. On December 31st Mr. Lewis celebrated his birthday at the home of his son in Tyrone and as the time was in very good health. The following week he went to visit his grand-daughter and family in Bald Eagle township, just east of Tyrone, and while there contracted a bad cold which settled on his lungs. He was removed to the home of his son in Tyrone and everything possible done to save his life but owing to his advanced age the disease could not be combated and he died just twenty minutes before twelve o'clock on Monday night.

William M. Lewis was born at Port Matilda December 31st, 1814, hence was just 94 years and 25 days old, and his entire life was lived in the village of his birth; although when he first saw the light of day there was no village there. Bald Eagle valley was then a wilderness and the pioneers were at work cutting down the forests of immense pine and oak trees for the purpose of clearing off their little farms. At that time there were no railroads, telegraphs or telephones; electric light or even gas. The principal means of travel was on horseback and such a thing as United States mail was hardly known in this locality.

The above are facts Mr. Lewis not only saw in his early life but could recount very vividly even up to his last illness, as he was possessed of a very clear mind and retentive memory even up until the last. He saw the opening up of Bald Eagle valley, the building of the old charcoal furnaces at various points through the valley and after years of prosperous iron making saw them close and go to decay and ruin; he saw the building of the Bald Eagle Valley railroad, the opening of the coal fields in this and Clearfield counties, the lumbering interests of the valley from its heights until practically the last big tree was cut and marketed; in fact he lived through almost five generations and saw all the wonderful changes that such a lapse of time necessarily brought about.

And it was the labor of his own brawny arms that helped in some of those changes. When a boy he assisted his father in cutting down timber and clearing the land for a home, and when the furnaces were built in that section and the burning of charcoal became a business of some magnitude he went to chopping wood for charcoal purposes and in the scores of years he wielded his ax he was known far and wide as the most expert chopper in this section of the State. In fact long after charcoal burning became a thing of the past he chopped for his livelihood and even up until two years ago, when he was ninety-two years of age, he shouldered his ax and after walking a mile to the woods, out paper wood from morning until night. And even at that age his day's work was that of a vigorous man. In fact up until he took sick less than three weeks ago he was always doing something, as he could not be contented in idleness.

When the war with Mexico broke out in 1848 Mr. Lewis volunteered and served his country faithfully during the entire campaign; returning home to resume the even tenor of his life in his old home at Port Matilda.

He was twice married, his first wife being a Miss Susan Neal, to whom was born three children, all living, as follows: Marshall Lewis, of Kyrletown; Mrs. James Williams and Mrs. James Marks, of Port Matilda. His first wife dying he was married for the second time fifty-one years ago to Miss Anna E. Kelly. She with the following children survive: William, of Tyrone; Mrs. Charles Trimble, of Tyrone, and Orlando, of Olean, N. Y. He also leaves one sister, Mrs. Margaret Rook, of Bedford, and a half-brother, George Jones, of Philipsburg. Descended from him are thirty-four grand-children, thirty great grand-children and two great great grand-children.

Fifty years ago he became a member of the Presbyterian church at Port Matilda and has always lived an unblemished christian life, so that he was esteemed and revered by every man, woman and child who knew him.

The remains were taken to his home at Port Matilda on Wednesday afternoon, from where the funeral was held yesterday, interment being made in the Port Matilda cemetery.

HEPBURN.—Robert Jones Hepburn, one of the oldest residents of Bellefonte, died late last Thursday afternoon, at his home on Burnside street, of infirmities due to his advanced age. His condition not improving a second operation was performed on Tuesday of this week but at the time it was evident that he could not recover.

Deceased was thirty-five years old and was born in Boggs township. Thirteen years ago he went to work for the Pennsylvania railroad company and of late had been a member of the shifting crew. He was an industrious and thrifty young man and a year or two ago purchased a home near Pleasant View where he has lived since.

He was united in marriage to Miss Clara Keller, who survives with five little children, as follows: Lala M., Florence I., Annie M., Nellie E., and Clara G. HARPER.—After an illness of three weeks with typhoid fever George Harper died at his home near Pennsylvania Furnace at eight o'clock on Monday morning. He was thirty-one years old and was born and raised in the locality in which he died. For a number of years past he was employed as a division hand on the Lewisburg and Tyrone railroad, and was an industrious young man, who will be sadly missed not only by his wife and family of four small children, but by his many friends and the community at large. The family is doubly afflicted as, in addition to Mr. Harper's death, Mrs. Harper and one of her children are also ill with the fever.

Mr. Harper was a member of the Graysville Presbyterian church and Rev. J. S. Phillips officiated at the funeral which was held at one o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, interment being made in the Ross church cemetery.

YEARICK.—After being sick for two years or more with a complication of diseases Charles E. Yearick died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. W. H. Miller, in Look Haven, on Monday morning. She was a member of the United Brethren church and a woman highly esteemed among a large circle of friends. She is survived by her husband; her mother, Mrs. Kate Horner, of Centre Hall, and one brother, Calvin Horner, of Altoona. The funeral was held on Monday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, interment being made in the Rose Hill cemetery.

KEITH.—James H. Keith, for many years a watchman on the Tyrone and Clearfield branch of the Pennsylvania railroad, died on Sunday morning, at his home near Philipsburg, as the result of diabetes and gangrene, after only a short illness. He was a member of the Knights of the Mystic Chain, of Philipsburg, and the P. O. S. of A., of Sandy Ridge. The funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon, the remains being taken to Osocola Mills for interment.

BATHURST.—On Friday of last week Samuel Bathurst, a veteran of the Civil war, died at his home at McCoy's works after an illness of two months with a complication of diseases, aged 62 years and 7 months. Rhoads, Mrs. Lizzie Breon and George, of Pittsburg; Mrs. Philip Devers and John, of Conemaugh, and Mrs. Edgar McMurtrie, of Coleville. The funeral was held on Sunday, interment being made at Curtin.

WELSH.—Mrs. Sarah Welsh, wife of Zora S. Welsh, of Romola, died at 9.30 o'clock on Wednesday night of last week. She had been an invalid for a number of years as the result of a complication of diseases and her death was not entirely unexpected.

She was seventy years and seven days old and had been a resident of Romola most all her life. She was a member of the Disciple church and a consistent christian woman. She was probably one of the best known women in Curtin township and her death was deplored by a host of friends.

Surviving her are her husband and the following children: David, of Ho-tard; Edward and Jacob, of Romola; William and Charles, of Avis; Mrs. Sarah Keller, of Castanes; Mrs. Anna Crawford, of Look Haven, and Mrs. Emma Corman, of Jacksonville. She also leaves twenty-six grand children and five great grand-children.

The funeral was held at 2.30 o'clock last Saturday afternoon, burial being made in the Disciple cemetery.

STATE COLLEGE VS. MEDICO-CHIRURGICAL.—At the annual meeting of the board of trustees of The Pennsylvania State College one year ago a proposition was submitted for the affiliation of the college and the Medico-Chirurgical College, of Philadelphia, making the latter institution the medical department of State College. At the annual meeting of the trustees held in Harrisburg on Tuesday, on account of a pressure of business, the matter was referred back to the special committee.

It was decided that the plan would be considered at the next meeting of the trustees which will likely be held in June. The committee is composed of James L. Hamill, of Columbus, Ohio; Colonel John A. Woodward, of Howard, Pa.; Milton W. Lowry, of Scranton; Thomas W. Barlow, of Philadelphia, and Dr. Edwin E. Sparks, president of The Pennsylvania State College.

Within a very short time, it was decided, an engineering experimental station will be established at State College. Its work will be to educate the mill and factory workers of Pennsylvania, and to this end bulletins will be published periodically telling the results of experiments performed. One of the first tests will be made to learn the uses of cement, and the results will be sent out in bulletin form. Dr. John Price Jackson, dean of the engineering school, will supervise this added feature.

Another progressive step that will be valuable to the agricultural interests was taken when it was decided to start a summer school at the college to equip teachers to be competent instructors in farm subjects and domestic economy.

Officers were elected as follows: General James A. Beaver, Bellefonte, president; H. W. Mitchell, Pittsburg, vice president; Dr. Edwin E. Sparks, State College, secretary; John Hamilton, Washington, D. C., treasurer; General Beaver, H. W. Mitchell, Ellis L. Orvis, Bellefonte; Gabriel Heister, Harrisburg, and Milton Lowry, members of executive committee.

Miles K. Houser and Gerlie Spicer, both of Bellefonte. Harry F. Grove, of Lemont, and Pearl M. Housman, of Pleasant Gap.

Leroy M. Markel, of Pine Grove Mills, and Wiona E. Thomas, of State College. Willis E. Breon and Clara M. Heckman, both of Spring Mills.

MONEY STOLEN THEN RETURNED.—A story comes from Woodward in effect that several weeks ago a sneak thief entered the home of Michael Eby, while that gentleman was at the barn, and stole four hundred dollars from his strong chest, then escaped. But the queer part of the story is that one day last week Mr. Eby received a package by mail, bearing the Loganston postmark, and opening it was amazed to find his four hundred dollars intact. Who the robber was, if the story is correct, or why he returned the money after he had once gotten away with it, is a mystery.

The stock of the Manufacturers Outlet Clothing company has been sold to the Philadelphia Salvage company and will be removed from Bellefonte February first. The proprietors of the Manufacturers Outlet Clothing company will spend the next two months selecting their stock and getting everything in shape for opening their new store on Crider's Exchange on or about the first of April.

An infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Morrison died yesterday morning.

On Friday and Saturday, February 19th and 20th, the ladies of the Lutheran church will hold a rummage sale in the corner room of the Brown building on Bishop street. They will also have for sale bread, cakes, pies, candies, etc.

Mrs. Will Katz has been ill at her home on Spring street since last Saturday with appendicitis, though at this time her condition is very much improved and there is every probability of her recovery without having to undergo an operation.

The real estate of the late J. W. Stover, of Millheim, was sold at executor's sale on Tuesday and was bought in by the widow, Mrs. Terresta Stover. The store building and dwelling on Main street were sold for $1,900 and the residence on Penn street for $3,000.

Cornelius Martin suffered a stroke of paralysis on Sunday evening but at this writing is slightly improved. It is only about a month ago since he returned from Philadelphia where he had been in the Wills Eye hospital for treatment for his eyes, being almost blind.

On Tuesday evening the High School Basketball team played the Crescent club team which ended in another victory of 37 to 23 for the High school. On Friday evening the High school team will play the Lock Haven High school in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium.

Dr. John Rider, veterinarian, is lying very low at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Benjamin Brown, on east Lamb street, from paralysis. He was first stricken last Friday afternoon and on Tuesday evening had another slight stroke so that there is little hope of his recovery.

About a dozen members of The Willows, with a few invited friends, enjoyed a saucer supper at their retreat up Spring creek last Thursday evening. Wally Kerstetter, of Moersbach's restaurant, was head chef and the kraut, as he served it, was said to be so delicious it tickled the palates of the guests for several hours after the supper was over.

At the annual meeting of the White-rook Quarries on Monday morning it was decided to increase the board of directors from nine to eleven and the following were elected: Noah H. Swayne II, Thomas A. Shoemaker, T. Larry Eyre, Dr. George F. Harris, Col. W. F. Reynolds, John M. Shugert, Geo. R. Meek, William H. Noll, E. H. Richard and Henry C. Quigley.

CENTRE COUNTY QUARANTINE.—Dr. Louis A. Klein, of Altoona, deputy state veterinarian, in a letter dated January 23rd, says that it is not permissible to move cattle, sheep, goats and swine from Centre county to Huntington or Blair counties. It is possible, the veterinarian thinks, that by April first a modification will be made in the regulations which will permit parties who have purchased farms in Huntington county to move their cattle from Centre county to their new home. The doctor further states that any change in the quarantine regulations will be published in the newspapers as soon as made.

Dr. Samuel Woods, of Sharon, Pa., is seriously considering coming to Centre county and locating at Lemont. In fact he has already made the heirs of Dr. J. Y. Dale a proposition for the purchase of their old home in that place but nothing definite has been done in the matter so far, though a decision will likely be arrived at within a week. Dr. Woods was born and raised in Bealsburg and has been located in Sharon since his graduation. The one reason he desires a change of location is that the climate of Sharon does not agree with their child and the doctor naturally thinks there is no place so healthy as the Centre county hills.

A special meeting of the Bellefonte school board was held on Wednesday evening and James C. Shook was elected principal of the High school to take the place of Jonas E. Wagner, recently promoted to supervising principal. Mr. Shook, who is now principal of the schools at Elk Lick, was notified by telegraph yesterday of his election but up to the time of going to report to the WATCHMAN we have not learned of his decision in the matter. Mr. Shook is a Bellefonte boy and graduated from the Bellefonte High school, and later from Juniata College. He has forged his own way to the front and is well spoken of wherever he has taught.

Three young children of the family of Mr. and Mrs. Snook, who live on the Jacksonville road, are now in the hospital undergoing treatment for pneumonia. Prior to their being brought to the hospital a young child died from the same disease, but the three in the hospital are getting along all right. Just at this time the hospital is filled with patients; in fact few people realize the work that is being done there. Beginning on Sunday there has been an operation every day this week with one scheduled for today and one tomorrow. In addition a large number of patients are being treated for various diseases so that the institution is crowded and additional room is badly needed. Pertinent to this fact it might be stated that if members of the state board of public charities or the appropriation committees were to visit Bellefonte now and inspect the hospital they could not fail to be impressed with the great work being done for stricken humanity and the urgent demand for a larger building, and hence might be more generous in the matter of the appropriation for the hospital.

LUMBERING IN THE SEVEN MOUNTAINS.—A. W. Nevil, of Potter township, recently sold the timber rights on two hundred and fifty acres of land owned by him on the Seven mountains to Witmer & Steele and the firm are already hard at work taking out prop timber. Quite a force of men and fifteen head of horses are employed in the work. They have also purchased one hundred and fifty acres from the Colyer estate and will cut the timber on that tract also. C. R. and C. B. Neff have cut into logs about one hundred thousand feet off of the Richley tract, which will soon pass into the hands of the State, for a forestry preserve. The Neffs expect to erect a saw mill and cut their timber into marketable stuff, part of which they have already sold.

Mrs. Jacob Wrenchler, a daughter of Andrew Lytle, of College township, and who, with her husband and two children only recently returned from a two year's sojourn abroad for the benefit of her health, suffered a relapse since coming home and on Wednesday was taken to Philadelphia where she will likely have to undergo a serious operation.

Spring Mills.

The recent mild weather and rain has played havoc with sleighing and sledding in this locality.

Andrew Corman is selling off his damaged stock, caused by the recent fire in his store, at about half cost.

Mrs. Daniel Heckman, who has been ill for several months, died on Wednesday evening last. Interment the following Saturday. The funeral was largely attended.

How much pleasanter if the stage of "as the days lengthen, the cold strengthens," if it would read "as the days grow longer, the weather gets warmer." We have yet about fifty days of winter before spring sets in.

Magistrate Hering is still confined to the house, and does not appear to improve very rapidly. His daughter, Mrs. Margaret Donachy, formerly of Lewisburg but who since the death of her husband has made her home with her parents, is also on the sick list.

After a sickness of eight or nine weeks J. C. Condo has again started the carriage works on full time, which were in a manner partly shut down during his severe illness. The fall and winter business being about closed he is now changing the salesroom and making alterations for the display of a large line of spring and summer stock of vehicles, which he says will be superior to any that has ever been displayed in this section of the county. Besides his own make Mr. Condo is general agent for several of the best factories in the country.

The Democratic caucus on Saturday last was largely attended. The following excellent ticket was nominated, and of course equivalent to an election, as there is no opposition, the Republicans making no nominations. Justice of the peace, (Brush Valley precinct), George F. Weaver. (School precinct), J. D. Neese, Daniel Corman and N. W. Finkle, for one, two and three year terms respectively; supervisor, A. C. Confer; tax collector, C. C. Bariges; overseer of the poor, Henry Mark; auditor H. B. Hering; township clerk C. W. Zeigler.

Found on the road below the mill, on Friday morning last, a black bottle—a bottle filled to the cork with, no doubt, high proof whiskey, evidently lost by a convivial sleigh party the night previous, who anticipated having a "high old time" and enjoy singing the familiar song of "We won't get home 'till morning, 'till daylight dawns appear." But on discovering the loss, unquestionably their mirth and humor were changed into wrath and wild caprices, the disappointment was certainly very sad and sorrowful, for no doubt, just then they were chilly and thirsty. However the owner can obtain the black bottle and contents by applying at the mill and paying for its notice. The employes there turned over a new leaf on New Years day and, of course, have no use for it, at the same time they don't care about having such "good stuff" lying around loose.

Lemont.

Dr. W. H. Fry was seen on our streets last Thursday.

Hioks—Were you admiring her beauty? Wioks—No; I was only thinking what a lot of talk a small roebuck mouth can emit.
