Mr. Taft In a Message to Congress Asks For Legislation to Settle Squabble Between Branches of the Insular Government-Delegates Determined to Rule or Ruln.

Washington, May 11. - President Taft sent to congress a special message recommending legislation at the present session, amending the For- air and showed his fangs. aker act, under which Porto Rico is governed.

The president directs attention to what he terms "a situation of unusual bills, leaving the island without support after June 30.

Porto Ricans have forgotten the present situation indicates that the chines. United States has gone too fast in the extension of political power to them.

He concludes that the absolute power of appropriation should be taken away from "those who have shown themselves too irresponsible to enjoy it."

By the Foraker act legislation was left to the joint action of the executive council and the house of delegates, as the legislative assembly.

The house of delegates, says the president, proposes itself to secure legislation without respect to the opposition of the executive council "or else to pull down the government."

The president suggests the advisability of qualifying some of the provisions of the fundamental act as to the respective jurisdictions of the executive council and the legislative assembly.

But no action of this kind, the president says, should be begun until the Foraker act be amended, so that when the legislative assembly shall adjourn without making appropriation necessary to carry on the government, sums equal to the appropriations made in the previous year for the respective purposes shall be available for the current revenues, and shall be drawn by the warrant of the auditor on the treasurer and countersigned by the governor.

Such a provision applies to the legislatures of the Philippines and Hawaii and "it has prevented in those two countries any misuse of the power of apppropriation."

Girl Cuts Family From Ruins of Home. For her bravery in hewing the members of her family out of the ruins of their storm-wrecked home, a Carnegie hero medal is to be asked for fifteenyear-old Mamie Price, who lives near Bowden, Ga.

A storm struck the Price home, wrecked it and buried all the family in the debris except the girl. She procured an axe, and, guided by the cries of the victims and a lantern, began to cut them out. Mrs. Price died as the girl cut the last timbers from about her, but she rescued her baby brother and a younger sister unhurt.

Her father had been caught by the heavy timbers; but his most serious hurt was the crushing of his left arm. The girl cut away the timbers from the body of her father, but the mangled arm was still held. Price realized that the arm was lost and that it was only held by shreds of skin and flesh. so he told the girl to sever the strings with the axe.

The child objected, but when the father insisted she brought down the axe and Price was free. Under her father's directions the child made a tourniquet to stop the loss of blood from the severed arm and then went through the darkness for assistance. Price will recover.
