BIG ALFALFA.-On Tuesday morning our genial friend, Mike Hazel, brought into this office a stock of alfalfa which meas ured just three feet one and a half inches. When it is considered that the stalk was pulled on the 8th day of June its growth was phenomenal and must be accredited either to the fact that Mr. Hazel's little farm up Spring creek is well adapted to the growing of alfalfa or else he understands the cultivation of it better than the average Centre county farmer. He has a plat of about one-half acre in alfalfa and while it all is not as tall as the stalk brought to this office it averages an unusal height for this time of year and promises several good crops before the summer is over. The ground on which it is grown is of a rather sandy soil on which was scattered a dressing of lime after the alfalfahad been planted.
