

bage worm. They are the cabbage aphids or plant lice, and are to be killed either by fumigation with some gas like the fumes of carbon bisulfide, in a vessel turned over the plants; or, far better, by spraying with a contact insecticide such as one pound of white oil soap in five gallons of water, or ten per cent kerosene emulsion, or strong solutions of soft soap, or very strong tobacco decoctions.

It is necessary in applying the spray that a suit-turned nozzle be used on the end of a short extension rod, and that the liquid be applied with considerable pressure, in order to throw it well in among the curled leaves, striking the bodies of all the pests. Those which are not touched by the spray liquid at the time of spraying will not be injured and will increase in multiplication at an alarming rate. The leaves that are so badly curled as to protect the plant from insect attack should be cut off and destroyed, either by burning or by stamping under foot.

If the spraying is effective the results can be seen within twenty-four hours, and if there should remain any pests alive at the end of that time, it is advisable to repeat the operation with a little stronger material. It is important that all hopelessly stunted, sickly or feeble plants should be gathered and burned by throwing them onto a hot fire; or left to rot in place, in order to get rid of the pests which they contain.

Forty Saved From Burning Steamer.
The steamer Fred Swain, Captain Verne Swain, of the Peoria & LaSalle Packet company, with twenty-five passengers and fifteen sailors on board, was burned to the water at Peoria, Ill., after the flaming craft had been piloted into four feet of water and the occupants had escaped to the bank of the Illinois river, up which the steamer was bound when it caught fire.

No lives were lost, but Joseph Caselder, the engineer, was burned about the face and body, and Charles Reichberger, of Peoria, suffered a broken arm. The loss is $35,000. Several of the passengers lost their belongings.

The escapes from the burning vessel of the passengers, most of whom were women and children, was exciting, and at one time when flames were discovered issuing from a stateroom on the second deck, panic reigned. Fears were partly calmed as the burning steamer drew nearer shore, and scores of rowboats were seen hurrying to put out the fire.

Admiral Swinburne to Retire.
It was announced at the navy department that Rear Admiral William T. Swinburne, recently detached from command of the Pacific fleet and now on duty at the naval war college at Newport, R. I., will be transferred to the retired list on account of age.

Rear Admiral Swinburne is the second ranking officer in his grade, but his retirement will not create a vacancy in the list of rear admirals, for the reason that he is an extra number, having been advanced for eminent and conspicuous conduct in battle in the war with Spain. He is from Rhode Island, and began his naval career in Sept. 1, 1862. He has held his present rank since July, 1906. During his forty-three years active service he has been at sea more than twenty-six years, a longer period than any of his contemporaries.

Lost Will Strangely Found.
Turning the pages of the family Bible, Mrs. M. Wonseller, of Washington, Pa., discovered her husband's will, covering an estate valued at $55,000, over which two branches of the family have bitterly fought since the death of Mr. Wonseller in 1907. A will made several days before the man's death was set aside by the court and one made earlier, in which a daughter was the chief beneficiary, declared valid. If it is upheld by the court the wife will receive the entire estate.

Missing Girl Found.
Developments came thick and fast in the search for Annie Gates, seventeen years old, a foster daughter of F. G. Chambers, of Axletton, near Charleroi, Pa., who was supposed to have been kidnapped last week. The girl was found, seriously ill, at a home fifteen miles from her own, and told a story of abuse and ill-treatment, alleged to have been received at the hands of her foster father that caused his arrest later.

Man's Bones in Shark.
When a fourteen-foot shark, which was caught at Pensacola, Fla., was cut up its stomach was found to contain the backbone, two ribs and portions of the skull of a man. It is believed they are the remains of a fisherman who fell overboard from a schooner in Pensacola harbor several days ago. A school of sharks were following the schooner at the time.

Killed by Exploding Gasoline Tank.
By the explosion of a gasoline tank in the Tropenas Steel works at New Castle, Del., due to a workman's holding a torch too near the fluid, James T. Ryan, aged thirty-four years, a workman, was killed. He was blown to the roof, a height of fifty feet. Both arms were broken and he was fearfully crushed. Joseph Kimble, another workman, was badly injured.

Taft to See Bull Fight.
The city authorities at Jaurez, Mex., voted to appropriate $20,000 to entertain Presidents Diaz and Taft when they meet on Oct. 16. The city will be profusely decorated. A bull fight will be held for the entertainment of the presidents.

"MALICE IN EVERY ACTION"

Declares "Uncle Joe" Is in a Plot With Senator Aldrich to Control Legislation—Charges Speaker With Favoritism, Conceit and Putrid Preferences.

Elizabeth, N. J., Aug. 24.—One of the most sensational attacks made by a responsible authority upon a public man in the United States in modern times is contained in an open letter addressed to Speaker Joseph G. Cannon by Representative Charles N. Fowler, of this city.

Representative Fowler boldly charges the existence of a conspiracy between the speaker of the house and Senator Nelson W. Aldrich, of Rhode Island, for the purpose of controlling all important national legislation and of defeating both tariff reform and currency reform.

For several years the New Jersey congressman was chairman of the house committee on banking and currency. At the close of the recent special session Speaker Cannon declined to reappoint Mr. Fowler to that important chairmanship. Such action is almost unprecedented.

Despairing of securing what he believes is necessary legislation for the reform of the currency and banking laws of the country as long as the house is under the control of the present rules as interpreted by Speaker Cannon, Mr. Fowler announced himself as a candidate for speaker at the opening of the special session. He explains that he did this, not in the expectation of being elected, but solely for the purpose of bringing squarely before the people the issue of genuine currency and banking reform as distinguished from the legislative program on that question agreed to by Aldrich and Cannon. This conduct made Mr. Fowler an "insurgent" in the eyes of "Uncle Joe."

Defends His Course.

Referring to his course in that respect Representative Fowler says in his letter to the speaker:

"Do you suppose, sir, that I did not appreciate fully the probable consequences of my act when I undertook to play my part in securing this reform?"

"Do you suppose that I was not aware of your ignorance, prejudice, inordinate conceit, favoritism, putrid preferences, and that like all such characters possessing absolute power, malice is the mainspring of your every action under such circumstances?"

After reciting from the official records the speaker's support of unconstitutional money measures in congress up to the present time, Mr. Fowler reminded Mr. Cannon of the latter's opposition to remedial legislation proposed by the New Jersey man to avert the panic of 1907. He reminds him of how he was pleaded with to permit consideration of the bill prepared by Fowler with the assistance of fifteen of the greatest bankers in the country, and recites this:

"You literally hooted the idea of a panic and inquired: What does this howling in Wall street amount to? The country don't care what happens to those speculators. Everything is all right out west and around Danville. The country don't need any legislation. Then I don't take any stock in your asset currency."

Asks About Conspiracy.
Mr. Fowler adds: "As usual, your ignorance and prejudice were all sufficient. But the panic came, as every man who had any intelligence upon the subject knew it would."

"Now, sir, mark this—the bill prepared by these representative bankers, which met only with your sneer and contempt, and known as the 'bankers' bill,' provided for about $250,000,000 of credit currency called in that bill 'national bank guaranteed credit notes.'"

"If that bill had been upon the statute books when the pressure came there would have been no general suspension of banks throughout the country, no general breaking down of the exchanges, as all the banks could have more than met the demand for currency."

After accusing Speaker Cannon of deliberately conspiring with Senator Aldrich to pack the conference committee on the tariff bill against the house bill, Mr. Fowler adds:

"I have gone into these details to lay bare your miserable, contemptible false pretense and to expose your duplicity, treachery and perfidy to that legislative body over which you preside, whose will you were bound to defend and not destroy."

"Is it possible that you, the Republican speaker of the house of representatives, and Senator Aldrich, chairman of the finance committee of the senate, entered into a conspiracy to secure the adoption of the senate bill in general and the highest rates in both bills throughout for the purpose of discrediting the president by repudiating his pledges and the platform of the Republican party?"

"Taking all the facts as they appear in the case, from start to finish, a lawyer, an intelligent criminal lawyer would say that it looked like a conspiracy. You seem to have measured the conditions with accuracy and to have calculated the distances to the various points of agreement carefully, and you seemed to be almost upon the point of consummating your undertaking when the great unknown factor became the determining force."

—The Sunday crowd at the Newton Hamilton camp meeting numbered 5,000. There were no refreshments served and the restaurants ran out of sandwiches.
