

FARM NOTES.

The time has now come when it will not pay to run the cultivator...

In churning it is not advisable to mix sweet and sour cream...

An old philosopher once said: "The well-being of the people is like a tree; agriculture is its root; manufacture and commerce are its branches..."

A mushroom was recently discovered near Pittsburgh which measured 2 1/2 inches by 3 1/2 inches...

The most fruitful source of white sores in pigs is dirty sies. The first step in curing is to provide clean, dry bedding...

Arrange to thresh wheat and oats just as soon as possible after harvest. The longer they are allowed to stand in the field the more they will waste...

When scraping out the decayed cavity of a large tree to be afterward filled with cement, as much care should be taken to remove every particle of decayed matter...

The good dairy cow is wedge-shaped in two directions. She is wide in the rear and narrow in front...

There is more than one way to speak to a dog and, by the way, that also applies when speaking to men...

For some reason or another the mower is the hardest implement on the farm to keep in repair...

The blight is afflicting both apple and pear trees this summer. The best remedy for this disease is to cut the affected branches off several inches below the infection and burn them...

There are many remedies for sores in calves, chief of which are blood meal, raw eggs, lime water, castor oil and formalin. Blood meal is especially to be recommended...

Professor Coburn says that we Americans feed our horses entirely too much hay. It is common among horse owners to let horses stand to full mangers when not at work...

Break the crust after each rain in the corn field, even after the corn has been cultivated the last time. A two-horse cultivator can be worked in the corn field when the corn is almost as high as the horses' backs...

Weeds and corn will not thrive well together, there will not be a good crop of either. Weeds steal away the moisture and plant foods from the corn plants...

It is a good plan to go over the field of corn after cultivation is done and out stray weeds that escaped the cultivator. A good hand can make more $3 to $10 a day killing these big weeds in corn with corn at a present high price...

A distinguished naturalist carefully examined the stomachs of 15 moles caught in different localities, but failed to discover therein the slightest vestige of plants or roots...

Supply the youngsters going to school with folded paper cornucopias, which come in sealed packages for a small sum. These are used for drinking cups instead of those found in public places...

It is wise to keep a supply of these paper cornucopias on hand for those who travel and for the shopper when in the city for a day. Teach the children to make these useful little drinking cups from clean white paper...

The modern girl of the beach is trying to look like a learned student. The new bathing cap is a genuine mortarboard with a full silk tassel dangling over the ear...

With the plaid bathing suit, now so fashionable among those who like to be conspicuous, there comes a bright silk, rubber-lined cap, that is quite voluminous. It covers all the hair, comes well down over the ears, and is finished in front with a large, jaunty bow...

FOR AND ABOUT WOMEN.

What is really best for us lies always within our reach, though often over-looked.—Longfellow.

It looks as though the washroom hat may have had its day. The hats that are worn in the washroom are of a material that is not so durable as the material of the washroom hat...

The hat that turned up sharply at the side is still in fashion and it has been since May, but the newer tendency is to have a brim that does not turn down at any spot. It rolls gracefully, away from the hair at every inch, not abruptly or at the same angle on any side...

The already popular trimming of a wide crown band and a wide Alaskan bow a trifle at the side promises fair to continue well into the winter, especially with knock-about hats.

One is glad of this, for it is a graceful adornment, and is so convenient. Different colors can be used, and one is not in fear of having a hat spoiled by the rain or wind.

Comfortable as the turn-over linen collar is, and as much as it will be worn by its firm adherents, it is not in as much favor as the high-bowed stock.

There is a strong tendency on the part of those who dress exceedingly well to have stocks of the material on all-blouses. These are worn, not in the extreme height under the ears that prevailed last year, but in an even moderate height. Instead of the high rouchings which were in fashion, there is a double or triple row of white net.

When the fabric is not of the material it is of baby Irish lace. The heavy crochet is never becoming to any face, but the finer quality of "baby" real or imitation is sufficiently softening.

All these separate stocks are of plain white, unadorned. If any ornament is added it is in the shape of a narrow black satin cravat that knots in front with short ends.

These collars are quite high. There is no change in that. To be at all in the style one must wear either a choker or a Peter Pan.

A large majority of women find their corsets constantly marred by a yellow stain across the back, which comes from skin moisture. It gets there from leaning back in a chair or from any violent exercise.

It is a serious matter, for corsets cannot be sent to wash, and cleaning them every time the stain appears is luxurious and costly.

Knowing this the shops now offer shields for the back of the corset. They fit perfectly, are placed on the inside, and are fastened over with a one-inch flap on the outside.

Gray and brown are mysterious colors to have gained a foothold in the handkerchief field, but they've done it. These are the first shown in the larger sizes for men, but soon were caught up by the makers of women's dainty accessories, who fastened them on to the prettiest qualities among woman's kerchiefs.

A narrow border of brown hemstitching or an edge of tiny hand-made scalloped ends in soft gray cotton is again the attractive method of introducing the color.

You can launder shepherd's plaid mohair, if you like, and without hurting it in the least. There are only two little tricks of the sly Chinaman's trade to be mastered. The first lies in the quality of the soap and the second in the heating of the iron. Get some white soap of a good quality; it contains borax, which is cleansing and which adds crispness to woolen materials, and it will not fade the colors.

When ironing mohair a very even heat is required; hot irons, while they may not appear to scorch the fabric, will rot it, so that it will split or crack on the first wearing.

For Bran Bath Bags.—Take a pound and a-half of new bran, three quarters of a pound of almond meal, eight ounces of powdered rose root and five ounces of shaved castile soap.

Make muslin bags five or six inches square and put in each three tablespoonfuls of the mixture. The quantity given above will fill a dozen and a half bags.

The bran bags add delightful refreshment to the bath.

Wise buyers always wait until the very last moment before selecting either material or model for their suit. For autumn usually sees some distinct difference in out and trimming. If the first suit of the winter is carefully and thoughtfully chosen it is probable that it will remain in excellent style throughout the season.

There are rumors that velvet will be a very favorite material for winter, and that means that corduroy and velveteen will both be much worn. As to color, the wise ones predict a great rush for green. This will be worn in all shades and fabrics, and probably amethyst will be next choice, although some experts say that blue will be extremely popular. After the middle of September it will be possible more accurately to gauge the possibilities.

Supply the youngsters going to school with folded paper cornucopias, which come in sealed packages for a small sum. These are used for drinking cups instead of those found in public places.

It is wise to keep a supply of these paper cornucopias on hand for those who travel and for the shopper when in the city for a day.

Teach the children to make these useful little drinking cups from clean white paper, and there will be no danger of contracting disease from a drinking cup used by every one who passes by.

The modern girl of the beach is trying to look like a learned student. The new bathing cap is a genuine mortarboard with a full silk tassel dangling over the ear.

These are in black, in scarlet and in cobalt blue. To say the least, they look quite uncomfortable on the beach parade, and positively dangerous in the surf.

Still they will be worn, for the beach of today is as productive of novelties, caricatures and monstrosities as the streets.

With the plaid bathing suit, now so fashionable among those who like to be conspicuous, there comes a bright silk, rubber-lined cap, that is quite voluminous. It covers all the hair, comes well down over the ears, and is finished in front with a large, jaunty bow.

"If I had only known!" That is the cry of so many who pay the costly penalty Nature exacts even for sins of ignorance.

There is no excuse for ignorance of the laws of health and physical being when there are taught with the purest science and in plainest English in a book which is given away. The symptoms of Kidney trouble are so unobtrusive that they leave no ground for doubt. Sick kidneys excrete a thick, cloudy, offensive urine, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of stinging. The back aches constantly, headaches and dizzy spells may occur and the victim is often weakened down by a feeling of languor and fatigue. Neglect these warnings and there is danger of dropsy, Bright's disease, or diabetes. Any one of these symptoms is disturbing enough to heighten the gravity of the case. Delay often proves fatal.

You can use no better remedy than Doan's Kidney Pills. Here's the doctor's proof.

Mrs. L. P. Loasbury, 125 S. Spring St., Bellefonte, Pa., says: "I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as a cure for backache and pains in the kidneys. I suffered so severely from these troubles that at times I could hardly get around. A friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I got a box. The first dose relieved me and I felt better in every way. I do not hesitate to advise anyone suffering from backache or kidney trouble to try Doan's Kidney Pills.

For all ailments. Price 25 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.
