DEMOCRATIC STATE TICKET.

For Judge of the Supreme Court, C. LARUE MUNSON, of Williamsport.
For State Treasurer, GEORGE W. KIPP, of Towanda.
For Auditor General, J. WOOD CLARK, of Indiana.
Democratic County Ticket.
For Jury Commissioner, J. ADAM HAZEL, of Spring Township.

It is to be hoped that Mr. CRANE, Sr., got a receipt for the campaign contribution made during the Presidential campaign under the expectation that Mr. CRANE, Jr., would be appointed Minister Plenipotentiary to China. Mr. CRANE, Jr., will not get to China in that imposing character but a receipt for the contribution would be an interesting souvenir.

Doctor COOK is certainly an unlucky fellow. He deposited the evidence that he had secured the summit of Mt. McKinley in a tin box at the top of that rather difficult hill and he deposited the proofs that he had been at the North Pole in a brass tube near that spot. Meantime he is making money "hand over fist" telling about his adventures in both locations while as a matter of fact he ought to be assembling his evidence against the challenge that has been made with respect to each.

It is not really a review of their trial and conviction that Dr. SNYDER and JAMES M. SCHUMAKER, convicted grafters was at the hands of the Supreme court. What they wanted was a further stay, and another chance to escape punishment. And as no time has been fixed for the hearing it is not too much for them to hope that it will be about the end of time or in the early period of eternity. That will make their immunity from punishment certain and possibly is as easy a way out of their troubles as could be devised.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS.

BELLEVILLE MERCHANTS ORGANIZE.
—On Tuesday evening a large percentage of the merchants of Belleville held a meeting and organized a local branch of the Merchants Mercantile Agency. The following officers were elected: President, Joseph L. Montgomery; vice president, Herman Holz; secretary and treasurer, W. Harrison Walker; executive committee, F. W. Cridler, H. C. Yeager, R. S. Brouse, James H. Potter, William Katz and A. Fauble; advisory board, John I. Olewine, W. R. Braubill, John M. Bullock, Sigmond Joseph, P. D. Sheffer, Henry Kline and Charles R. Kartz.

The object of the organization is to protect the members against the habitual dead-beat and the man with a bad credit reputation, and also to advance the interests of the town in every way possible by mutual co-operation. The agency, which is located in Pittsburg, will furnish each member with a rating book in which residents of the town and vicinity are rated as to their credit and manner of meeting their obligations. The work is claimed to be thoroughly reliable. Letters will also be furnished each subscriber to send to delinquents, giving them an opportunity to settle their account either in full or on a liberal installment plan.

DOINGS IN COUNCIL.—The most important thing done at council meeting Monday night was action in connection with the building of a state highway through Belleville. A communication from the state highway commissioner, Joseph W. Hunter, was presented in which plans were submitted for the building of the road. They provide for the paving of Allegheny street with brick to a width of sixteen feet. The plans were approved by council. A communication from the Centre County Traction company embodied a formal acceptance of the franchise for a trolley road through the town granted at a special meeting of council several weeks ago, and an assurance that the road would be built and in operation within the required time. The company also agrees to pave their portion of Allegheny street with brick to conform to the proposed new state highway.

Albert Thompson, the Hivelyman, presented a bill for forty dollars for damages he claimed for a buggy broken by being driven into an obstruction on Bishop street one dark night not long ago. As the fact was not made clear to council that the borough was in fault the claim was refused.

REDUCED RATES TO STATE COLLEGE HORSE SHOW.—The Belleville Central Railroad has granted a single fare rate with the minimum rate of 50 cents for the round trip from Belleville and intermediate points to State College on account of the State College horse show, tomorrow, October 23d.

Professor H. W. Harper, of Cornell University, has been secured to act as judge for the show. Professor Harper is a graduate of the University of Ohio, post-graduate of the University of Illinois, and was connected with the University of Missouri before going to Cornell. He has charge of the annual work horse parade at Ithaca, N. Y., and instruction in horse breeding at Cornell University.

FRANK.—Lewis Frank, an old and well known resident of Point Lookout, near Phillipsburg, died on Sunday afternoon after two years illness with a complication of diseases, though he had been confined to his bed only three weeks. He was seventy-two years old and was born in Berks county. He with his family located in the vicinity of Phillipsburg in 1871 and made that place their home ever since. He was a gunsmith and carpenter by occupation and an industrious and upright gentleman. In addition to his wife he is survived by the following children: William and Chas. S., of Point Lookout, and Perry, of DuBois; Mrs. Elizabeth Lehman, at home; Minnie, wife of Joseph Rodgers, and Amanda, wife of Edward Dodson Jr., of Point Lookout, and Clara, wife of Clarence Isenberg, of South Phillipsburg. Two brothers, Henry, of Williamsport, and Charles, of South Phillipsburg, also survive. The funeral was held on Thursday morning, burial being made in the Phillipsburg cemetery.

HITE.—Mrs. John P. Hite died at the home of her son, John L. Hite, in Altoona, at an early hour Tuesday morning of erysipelas and other complications due to her advanced age. Her maiden name was Shadle and she was born in Buffalo Run valley almost seventy-one years ago. The family lived in this county until eleven years ago when they moved to Altoona. In addition to her husband she is survived by the following children: D. L. Hite, of LeMont; John L., of Altoona; J. W., of Lakemont Terrace; Mrs. Mary E. Gill and Mrs. Nannie B. Shaw, of Altoona. She was a consistent member of the Evangelical church all her life and was an earnest, christian woman.

Funeral services were held at her late home yesterday morning after which the remains were brought to this place and buried in the Union cemetery.

EDMAN.—John Edman, who for a number of years past made his home with his daughter, Mrs. C. B. Lucas, at Howard, died last Friday morning of general infirmities, aged seventy-eight years. He was born at Selinsgrove but for some time past lived at Howard and was well and favorably known in Centre and Clinton counties. Surviving him are four sons, Joseph, Ambrose, William B. and James L., all of Chicago, and one daughter, Mrs. Lucas, of Howard. The funeral was held at 1 p. m. o'clock Saturday. The services at his late home were conducted by Rev. R. S. Taylor assisted by Rev. W. W. Rhoads, after which the remains were taken to Corbin for interment in the cemetery at that place.

GORDON.—Daniel Gordon, an old time and well known resident of Belleville, died on Wednesday evening after three months illness with paralysis. He was 72 years, 7 months and 6 days old and is survived by the following children: Samuel, Mrs. Elmer Gordon and Daniel, of Belleville; W. L., of Columbus, Ohio; Mrs. John Isenberg, of Huntingdon; Mrs. William Hassinger and J. T. Gordon, of Belleville. The funeral will be held this afternoon, burial to be made in the Union cemetery.

MINCER.—Mrs. Susanna Mincer died at her home at Castana last Thursday night, aged seventy-one years. She is survived by six children, among the number being Mrs. Henry Weaver, of Blanchard, and Terrell, of Beech Creek. The funeral was held on Saturday afternoon, burial being made in the cemetery at Flemington.

OPENING OF HUNTING SEASON.—The hunting season for squirrel, pheasant and wild turkey opened last Friday but contrary to expectations Belleville hunters were not very successful. John L. Nighthart bagged a wild turkey in the mountain back of Bush hollow, and he is positive it was the genuine bird, as none of the farmers in that section grow the domesticated fowl. Several Belleville hunters succeeded in bagging a few squirrels and pheasants. H. C. Quigley Esq., undoubtedly brought the largest string of birds home. He with his brother Dick and Mr. Monaghan, of Look Haven, and Harry Baer, of Blanchard, went out in the Sootao region and hunted both Friday and Saturday, the four of them bagging twenty pheasants, of which number Mr. Quigley brought home nine.

According to all reports the State College bunch of hunters were the most successful of any in the county, as they claim to have brought in twelve wild turkeys the first day of the season. This is a very good showing for a locality in which wild turkeys have never been very plentiful. Notwithstanding the poor luck so far hunters aver that game is more plentiful than it was last year and under proper conditions of weather, etc., they yet anticipate some good shooting.

DR. DAVID DALE NOW A LIEUTENANT IN THE REGULARS.—On Tuesday Dr. David Dale received a commission from the War Department of the United States government by which he is given rank as 1st Lieut. in the medical reserve corps of the regular army. Of course he is unattached and the matter of service is merely voluntary on his part though should the needs of the army require his services and he elect to give them he is by this commission all ready to qualify without further examination or ceremony.

Dr. Dale took the examination in Baltimore some time ago and we congratulate him on having thus successfully passed it. Among the distinguished clergy who will be in Belleville next week to attend the annual work horse parade at Ithaca, N. Y., and instruction in horse breeding at Cornell University.

formerly was a bishop in the Roman Catholic church, and Rev. R. F. Gibson, at one time mayor of York, Pa. Both gentlemen will preach while here and the people of Belleville are invited to attend church and hear them.

MAN WITH SENSATIONAL HISTORY MEETS DEATH ON RAILROAD.—William H. Mayes was killed in the union yards at Homestead on Sunday morning while in the discharge of his duties as a railroad brakeman, and his death marks the end of a man who had a rather sensational life history.

He was born at Osceola Mills sixty-four years ago and shortly after his parents moved to Phillipsburg where his boyhood and youth were spent. When a young man he became a brakeman on the Pennsylvania railroad and was promoted from time to time until he became a conductor. He was finally transferred to the Allegheny Valley railroad on which he was conductor for twenty-one years. In the meantime he invested all his savings in oil lands and became quite wealthy. He finally gave up railroading and devoted his entire attention to his private interests.

A few years ago he met a man by the name of James W. McLaughlin who claimed to have at one time been secretary to George Gould. McLaughlin had a patent steel railroad rail and he succeeded in persuading Mayes to go in with him in the organization of a company and the building of an immense plant at Greensburg for the manufacture of the rail. The company was organized and capitalized at ten million dollars but before the plant could be built legal complications arose and five months ago the company failed and Mayes was left without a dollar of money, though he saved his beautiful home in East End, Pittsburg. Compelled to do something for a living he applied for and was given a position as brakeman on the Pennsylvania railroad, although he was past sixty-three years of age, and had only held the position about four months when he met his death.

He is survived by his wife and three daughters, as well as a number of brothers and sisters, among whom are John E. Mayes, Mrs. Frank Beck and Miss Gertrude Mayes, all of Phillipsburg.

PHILLIPSBURG MAN TO HUNT FOR HIDDEN TREASURE.—When Phillipsburg was preparing to celebrate its Old Home week recently the citizens of the town literally scraped their houses with fine tooth combs on the hunt of anything that would help swell the old relic exhibition and in doing so Oscar Adams came across a scrap of paper sealed and yellow with age on which was written two words "Turtle Rocks." This set him to thinking and finally he concluded that Turtle Rocks, which is located about six miles east of Phillipsburg, was the place where Lewis and Connelley, the famous robbers and highwaymen of the early part of the nineteenth century, had buried that immense treasure which they hid somewhere in this part of the State, according to a mythical story handed down from generation to generation. And having so decided Mr. Adams intends to have a hunt for the money chest which, various stories allege, contained sixty-two thousand dollars in gold. C. C. Isenberg and William Ardell, two other Phillipsburgers, will assist Mr. Adams in his search.

THE BLUE GOOSE—OF INTEREST TO AUTOMOBILISTS.—A seat and cozy lunch room was opened Friday, Oct. 15th, at 116 E. College avenue, State College, at the Sign of the Blue Goose.

Coffee, sandwiches, cake, omeas with whipped cream, pies, and cookies ready every afternoon and evening. Special dishes as oysters, salads, hot cakes, waffles and chicken will be sold on special days.

Come in and consult the menu. Orders taken from families, clubs, fraternities and evening parties for cakes, salads, deserts or entire suppers. Private dining room for special dinners and luncheons. All kinds of catering solicited. Orders taken over the phone. Strictly cash business.

Miss BETTY W. STEWART, Manager.

Spring Mills
Mrs. Jane Nofaker, known by everybody as Aunt Jane, (93 years of age.) is still quite ill.

Mrs. Sue Herzig, who has been quite ill for the last ten days or two weeks, is not improving very rapidly.

Miss Mabel Brown, an assistant in the post office, is on the sick list. Her position is being occupied by Miss Emma Zones.

The United Evangelicals have had their church very handsomely painted. The building presents quite an imposing appearance.

Politics, like everything else in our town, are very quiet. Even the North pole controversy so noisy ten days ago, has suddenly faded out,—as the Irishman said. "What broke loose?"

Allison's flouring mill, after a suspension of several weeks, resumed operation on Saturday last under a new system. The mill is now fully equipped with all the necessary machinery for manufacturing high grade flour.

Applebutter boiling is now "on." Heretofore about this time every third family in town would be engaged in it, but this year owing to the short apple crop, only about one family in a dozen is able to make "hot varrick."

Decidedly wintry weather all last week, ice here a quarter of an inch thick about every morning. The high cold winds down this valley on Saturday and Sunday last were on the Arctic order, and made one shiver even if bundled up with heavy wraps.

Dr. A. G. Lieb, who moved here from Bethlehem ten days ago, registered last week and is now one of our regular physicians. His actual business, however, will be lumbering, as he owns quite a large tract of woodland up the valley now being cut, and no doubt for the present, will "throw physic to the dogs."

It is reported that turkeys are scarce in a few neighboring counties and that the Thanksgiving day turkey dinner in many cases will be sausage and liver. Here in Centre county the stock is large and there will be no trouble in obtaining a bird, provided, of course, that you have the necessary "filthy lucre."

Pine Grove Mention.
A. J. Tate, the furniture man, spent Monday in Belleville.

Mrs. W. H. Martz is confined to her room with rheumatism.

Rev. C. T. Aikes, of Selinsgrove, was a visitor here yesterday.

W. H. Goss is excavating his cellar to make room for a large heater.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Goss were Sunday visitors at the James Hoover home.

Prof. M. E. Heberling spent Saturday along the head waters of Stone creek.

Mrs. Sara Sowers, of Thompston, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Warren Ward.

Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Reed, of Boalsburg, visited their old time home here last week.

Grover C. Carl, of State College, spent Sunday with his bosom friend, Fred R. Fry, at Fairbrook.

Mrs. Amos Koch is nursing her aged mother at Aronaburg, where she is laid up with a broken leg.

Charles Martz is in Harrisburg attending the annual reunion of his old regiment, the Twenty third cavalry.

J. H. Bailey, wife and mother enjoyed a drive to Belleville Saturday to take a peep at the late fall fashions.

Mrs. J. S. Shultz visited friends in Altoona, several days in the beginning of the week and did some shopping.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Dale, of Oak Hill, have been here several days this week visiting the Musser and Dale families.

Grandmother Maria Goss is making her annual visit to the J. N. Bell home at Spruce Creek, before the cold weather comes.

W. S. Ward is hobbling around on crutches these days because of a mashed foot, which he sustained by leaving a large stone fall on it.

The venerable Samuel Felty is down from Altoona making his annual visit among his old friends and neighbors down Pennsylvan.

Grandmother Musser with her niece, Miss Grace Musser, of Ladysmith, Wis., are visiting relatives at State College and Boalsburg.

That prince of good fellows, M. J. Watt, came down from Tyrone last week to locate a bunch of the frisky tribe for the first days hunt.

Albert Musser came over from Clearfield, Saturday, to visit his parental home here and found his parents much improved in health.

James D. Tanyer is now engaged in putting a new roof on the Lutheran parsonage and making a number of other much needed repairs.

Darius Waite, of Belleville, was circulating among the farmers in the valley this week looking after his share of the implement trade.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Patton, of Warriors-mark, spent several days in the early part of the week, visiting the M. B. Campbell home at Fairbrook.

Communion service will be held in the Presbyterian church Sunday, October 31st. Preparatory services Friday evening and Saturday morning.

John B. Gohsen, one of our most progressive farmers and successful stock growers, is breaking ground for a splendid mansion at the old farm home.

Mrs. W. H. Grough, of Carlisle, is visiting her many friends in Centre county. Boalsburg is her native home. She was before her marriage Emma Hess.

Rev. J. O. C. McCracken came over from Johnstown Monday to see his father and was surprised to find the old gentleman in such good spirits and getting along very well.

residence on Water street. Andrew Denison, of Homer City, is the brick layer and G. C. Heninger, of the Fort, is the carpenter.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Hess are arranging to close their home and take up their abode at Medina, O., where they will spend the winter with their son-in-law, Chas. Smith. We wish the old couple a pleasant stay and a safe return next spring to enjoy the comforts of their cosy home on Main Street.

The morning of the 15th opened up with the usual amount of firing along old Tusey, though at the close of the day squirrel stories were not so rife as formerly. Alfred Davis was the champion, having brought down five squirrels, H. M. Krebs got four, Samuel Hess had but three to his credit, and quite a bunch of fellows got but one. A. H. Hartswick, Luther and Clyde Fishburn, John Everhart and Dr. A. S. Markle each got a wild turkey.

State College Items.
Butchering has begun here and a number of early hogs have been killed.

The Bell telephone extended their lines through the borough this week.

Winter is coming our way by the condition of the atmosphere here this week.

The corn crop has fallen a little short of a bumper crop. The potato crop is a fair one. Cider is somewhat scarce this fall and is bringing 6 cents per gallon by the barrel lot.

Joseph Schenck, of Howard, is at present carpentering on the new house which Mr. Harvey is erecting.

Reports say nineteen wild turkeys were shot on the first day of the hunting season by marksmen from town and vicinity.

Judge Lindsey, the children's judge, will lecture in the auditorium on Saturday night. The seats are pretty nearly all taken now.

Wednesday Messrs. Heberling and Reaick had sale of their full line of furniture. A large crowd was present and good prices realized.

On Saturday a large audience as well as a large number of students composed of the classes of 1912 and 1913 witnessed a picture show in the way of a push ball scrap. The ball was six feet in diameter and the score stood 2 to 1 in favor of the 1912 class.

It's a Question of Business.
There are various ways of creating interest in a political campaign. The best is to talk upon the issues involved. In the present campaign there is absolutely no politics. A justice of the supreme court, an auditor general or a state treasurer is completely divorced from politics, if he is fit for the office, while in service. The only question, therefore, is one of business. Do the voters of Pennsylvania want the revenues they pay in the shape of taxes disbursed for the public good or diverted into the pockets of political crooks?

The Penrose machine believes in government for the benefit of the individuals who compose it. Sisson and Stober, if elected, will conduct their offices so that opportunities for graft will multiply. We are not influenced by conjecture to this opinion. Their records in the state senate show that they have always been slaves of the machine. Neither of them ever cast a vote against a measure desired by the machine or for one to which the machine was opposed. It is not likely that they will change their habits in the event of their election.

During the two years in which William P. Snyder, auditor general, and W. S. Mathews, state treasurer, occupied seats in the board of public grounds and buildings, $9,000,000 were stolen out of the treasury. All that money came out of the pockets of the people and belonged to the people. If it had been used in supporting schools or constructing highways an equal amount would have been saved to the people which had to be paid in local taxes. If Sisson and Stober are elected this system of spoliation will be resumed.

The Democrats have no office holders to assess in order to make up a campaign fund, but they have no votes to buy, either, and there are patriotic Democrats enough to make up the lesser amount necessary to conduct a legitimate campaign.

The president is a large man—physically, mentally morally. In no wise is he of sufficient bulk, apparently, however, to stem the rising tide of tariff reform.—Washington Times.

Cashier Ends Life; Shock Kills Woman
Mineral Point, Wis., Oct. 19.—When the body of F. E. Hanscom, cashier of the wrecked First National bank, who shot and killed himself, was taken to the home of Mrs. John Gray, eighty years old, his mother-in-law, she dropped dead from the shock of the tragedy. The bank, for a generation regarded as one of the strongest in southwestern Wisconsin, was closed a week ago. It was alleged that the bank had been looted of $200,000 by means of notes forged by Phil Allen, Jr., its vice president. Hanscom was Allen's brother-in-law and was his chief aid in running the bank.

Preacher Deposed at Own Request.
Washington, Oct. 19.—Rev. G. W. H. Troop, formerly assistant pastor of St. John's church in Georgetown, was deposed from the Episcopal ministry by Bishop Alfred Harding. He was deposed at his own request for causes not affecting his moral character.

Hung Self After Dream.
Medina, N. Y., Oct. 19.—After dreaming that he had seen himself hanged, George L. Cobb was found hanging to a tree in an orchard near here, a suicide.

FIT TO BE A JUSTICE

Mr. Munson, Democratic Nominee For Justice of Supreme Court, Above Party.

[From the Philadelphia Record.]
Mr. Munson, Democratic candidate for justice of the supreme court, has given one striking piece of evidence of his fitness for the highest court in the state by refusing to figure in a political meeting.

In view of the fact that he was to be in Altoona yesterday, County Chairman Dunn proposed to have a great political rally at which Mr. Munson should be the chief speaker. It was a good idea—with the exception that Mr. Munson was a candidate for supreme court justice, and should eschew partisan politics as much as possible. This slipped the mind of Mr. Dunn, but Mr. Munson did not forget it. When the suggestion was made to him he replied that he could not entertain such an idea. The office for which he was a candidate should be kept aloof from politics, and he could not take part in a political meeting without doing discredit to the judicial office. He would rather be defeated than win through such means. An informal reception was substituted for the Democratic rally.

It would be an admirable thing if judicial nominations could be made here, as they are in some states, by non-partisan conventions. But the Republicans meet by themselves and nominate their own men, and frequently select pretty stiff organizations to men who have been substituted for the nominations. Every one can recall some of the deplorable results of carrying party politics into the courts and giving judicial nominations to men who have been substituted to their party organization. But as the Republicans make their own nominations, there is nothing for the Democrats to do but to nominate justices in the usual party assembly. In Mr. Munson the Democrats have offered the people a chance to elect a man who rises above partisanship, who appreciates the dignity and responsibility of the office to which he has been nominated, and who will not take those means of promoting his election which he might properly take if he were a candidate for an administrative office. The ermine would become him, and his election would be an advantage to the state.

METHODS OF THE MACHINE

Philadelphia Policeman's Pay Envelope Looted For Campaign Funds.

[From Philadelphia North American.]
Despoiled of $15, which he says was taken from his pay envelope last week to swell the $300,000 fund the McNichol organization is raising to elect Rotan, Policeman E. J. O'Keefe of the First district, appealed yesterday to Mayor Reybun.

It is common knowledge that the organization, in its anxiety to beat Giboney, has held up every city employe for "contributions," whose total will probably exceed $300,000. Such things, on a lesser scale, perhaps, have occurred before, but the method of raising the fund by digging into a policeman's pay envelope before he has even seen it is peculiar to this campaign.

According to O'Keefe's story, in a letter sent to the mayor, he has always paid political assessments levied against him without a murmur, simply because he knew his job depended upon it. This year though he knew he would have to pay, he didn't have a chance to count out the cash himself, and he has refused to sign the receipt for a full month's pay. Orders from the "front" were that each policeman should be assessed $10, but $15 was taken from O'Keefe.

Democrats Can Win.

The Democrats of Pennsylvania can win at the polls next month if they are just to themselves and the admirable ticket their convention has nominated. Ninety per cent. of the vote cast for Mr. Bryan last year will give every candidate on the Democratic ticket a substantial majority this year. There is no reason why 100 per cent. of the vote cannot be cast. The voters are still in the state and most of them are qualified to vote.

Four years ago the Lincoln Party and other independent voters gave William H. Berry considerably more than 100,000 votes in this state. Last year none of these voters supported Mr. Bryan. There is every reason to believe, however, that most of them will vote for the nominee of the Democratic party this year, not because they are Democrats, but for the reason that they are fit and the nominees of the Republican party are not. There is a deep-seated antipathy among the best men of all parties to restoring the machine to power in Pennsylvania.

If the Democrats are alert, honest and faithful to the obligations of good citizenship they will cast enough votes themselves to elect the Democratic ticket and the help they get from independent voters will simply be "political velvet." Will they forfeit this opportunity to pluck victory by neglect or for a worse reason? It is to be hoped not. It is to be hoped that there is enough patriotism and integrity in the Democratic masses to perform their duty.

A Word to Democratic Voters.

Voters in cities of the third class have one more chance to register and those who have not already done so ought to avail themselves of it for various reasons.

All good citizens vote. It is a civic duty. You can't vote at the primaries next June unless you are registered this fall.

If you register next Saturday you needn't bother about it again until next year.

If you register in person no one can persuade you either on registration or election day.

Men think better of you if you have sufficient civic pride to cast your vote. A big, honest vote helps you town. People think well of a community that takes interest enough in public affairs to cast a full vote.

A man who can't vote is a nonentity. A man who fails to register, where registration is required, can't vote.
