THAT UNIVERSITY EXTENSION COURSE OF LECTURES.

Along in the latter part of last April a very charming and good looking woman arrived in Bellefonte and introduced herself to the general public as Mrs. Charlotte W. Elliot, of New York. She claimed to be a traveling representative of a New York University Extension Lectures Course bureau and her business was to secure enough subscribers in Bellefonte to justify giving a course of lectures here. The plan was that each subscriber was to be sent a certain number of books for which they were to pay a stipulated price, which in the aggregate amounted to about twenty-nine dollars each. In addition lectures were to be prepared by leading college professors and sent here, and these were to be delivered to the subscribers by some well known local speaker, Rev. Hewitt, at the time, being the gentleman designated.

As stated above Mrs. Elliot was a very charming woman, as is evidenced by the fact that she succeeded in securing a list of about thirty-five subscribers at twenty-nine dollars each. Then she left Bellefonte without completing arrangements with Mr. Hewitt to deliver the lectures or give any details about the course. The only definite thing the Bellefonte people had was the knowledge that they had signed a contract to pay a good stiff price for a number of books and a woman's promise that they would have an opportunity to hear some highly elevating lectures prepared by some eminent college professors.

Their signed contracts passed as good currency for the publishers sent the books in one, two, three order, each one calling for the payment of another installment, and they wouldn't book any delay in remittance, either. But the lectures failed to arrive and Rev. Hewitt failed to receive any definite request or instructions about delivering the course and naturally the subscribers became a little querulous. Letters were written but Mrs. Elliott could not be found; the college professors who were to prepare the lectures replied that no arrangements had been made with them for anything of the kind and so the matter stood when a meeting of the local subscribers was called and held at the Bush house last Thursday evening.

Some of the subscribers, by the way, have paid the full price for the books while those who have been paying in installments have paid only about half the amount. And to find out if they were compelled to keep on paying an attorney was called into the meeting to give advice. Though not consulting his advice was practically to keep on paying. It was finally decided by those present to invite Rev. Hewitt to give a course of lectures, and this he finally consented to do, and the only thing the subscribers would now like to do is to again meet the charming Mrs. Elliot.

BELLEFONTE SHIRT FACTORY BRANCHING OUT.—The Bellefonte shirt factory is now a shirt factory in reality as well as name, as on Tuesday the manufacture of shirts was begun at that plant. When the factory was first started in Bellefonte it was started as a shirt factory but for a number of years past men's drawers only have been made.

Six weeks or two months ago S. D. Ray, the proprietor of the factory, was in New York city and at that time Salant & Salant, large wholesale dealers in shirts, made him a very good proposition to take up the manufacture of shirts in connection with his present line. Having carefully investigated the proposition Mr. Ray finally decided to take up the line and on Tuesday started in on the manufacture of shirts. Miss L. V. Miles, of New York city, is in charge as instructor and forelady in the shirt department. At present fifteen machines will be kept busy on this line but additional machinery has been ordered and as soon as it arrives and can be put in place this number will be doubled, at least. And next spring Mr. Ray will equip his building on south Water street and from then on manufacture shirts on a large scale.

The present factory is now a busy place, as in addition to making shirts and drawers Calder Ray has resumed the manufacture of oaston flannel gloves for the wholesale trade. The oaston flannel glove has been on the market for a number of years and for cheapness of price there is nothing to compare with it for warmth and durability. At the present time between fifty and sixty girls are employed in the shirt factory and this number will be gradually increased as additional machinery is installed.

THE BASKET SHOP EXHIBITION IN BELLEFONTE.—The Basket Shop will hold its annual exhibition in Bellefonte in the W. C. T. U. room in Petriken hall the week beginning December 13th. This exhibition is annually becoming more and more a feature for Christmas and Holiday shoppers wherever exhibited. The line of baskets this year is far larger and prettier than ever. There are baskets of all kinds for household purposes: Waste baskets, sewing baskets, work baskets, hanging baskets, in various styles and fancy shapes, at prices to suit any kind of a purse. Nothing so good or appropriate for a Christmas remembrance.

The basket Shop now affords employment to from twelve to fifteen people and their output goes all over the country. They annually have exhibits in Chicago, Pittsburg, Philadelphia, Washington and New York, but notwithstanding this fact the exhibit to be given in Bellefonte will be just as good as those shown in the above cities. The week beginning December 13th is the time, Petriken hall the place, and everybody is invited.

—Did you enjoy your Thanksgiving turkey yesterday?

In a statement issued from the auditor general's department in Harrisburg the past week it is shown that the total amount of mercantile tax assessed in Centre county for the year 1909 was $5,962.79, of which amount $205.65 was uncollectable. The cost for advertising the mercantile appraisal and collecting the tax was $748.18, leaving as the net amount paid $5,008.90.

Wade Cruse, who the past year has been in the employ of the Pennsylvania telephone company in this place, has been appointed special rural route line agent for the Williamsport district of the same company, with headquarters in that city. He will enter upon the duties of his new position next week, probably Monday, and as soon as he can secure a house or suitable apartments will move his family to Williamsport.

A force of men are at work putting up concrete abutments for a new iron bridge on the Lewisburg and Tyrone railroad, a short distance south of the Yeager Swing company's plant. When the abutments are completed the superstructure will be put together on temporary abutments alongside the present wooden bridge and when all is completed the wooden bridge will be shoved aside and the iron bridge moved into place.

Writing in Monday's North American "Lutesman" in a review of the football season up to that date gives Yale undisputed standing at the head of the list of clubs, with Harvard second, Lafayette third and State College fourth. This is probably the first time that any writer has given the State team the proper recognition it merited in the standing of eastern teams, a fact which shows that the heretofore considered smaller colleges have become dangerous rivals for any team of the big six.

The growth of State College during the past two or three years has resulted in so much of the available site being built up that the borough authorities are now agitating the question of extending the borough limits so as to take in the Messer farm. This would give available building lots there for a number of years to come. The installation of a twenty-five thousand dollar sewer system is another improvement being discussed by the authorities while private parties are endeavoring to secure a suitable site, centrally located, on which to build a theatre.

You are wondering what you will send to that relative or friend who is away from home, as a Christmas present. Have you thought what an appropriate and acceptable gift a copy of the WATCHMAN for one year would be. Nothing that you can get for the money would be received with half the pleasure. And you can have it sent every week in the year, to any post office you wish for $1.00.

With the long winter evenings coming on apace, with the weather naturally growing colder and colder, there is more of an inclination for indoor amusement and entertainment and there is no place in Bellefonte where you are better assured of both than at the Scenic. People go there now who never went before, while once a patron always a patron, is not only a maxim but a reality. The reason is that you are always certain of seeing something you never saw before—because no old and stale pictures are shown at the Scenic. And they are all the best of their class, be they scenic, historical, feature or comic. Then the fine music is another pleasing feature. Mrs. Russell Jery continues as pianist while as a singer, either of the current illustrated songs, the more popular songs of the day, or the old fashioned songs Miss Norton grows more charming to her audiences every night. And all the above for five cents.

Between eleven and twelve o'clock on Tuesday forenoon Harry Gebret, driver of R. S. Brouse's delivery wagon, was down at the Central Railroad of Pennsylvania with a load of goods and when crossing the bridge near there the doubletree on the wagon broke, allowing the broken parts as well as the single tree to fall down on the heads of the horses. The animals became frightened and ran away throwing Gebret from the wagon against the truss of the bridge. He was knocked unconscious and being found in that condition the wild report was circulated that his neck had been broken by the fall and he was dead. Most fortunately, however, this was not the case, as he recovered consciousness shortly afterwards and his greatest injury was a compound fracture of the bone of his right leg. He was taken to his home on Bishop street as his own request but later upon the advice of his physician he was taken to the Bellefonte hospital where the fracture was reduced, though it proved a tedious and delicate operation. The fracture is just above the ankle and the large bone was not only broken but was badly splintered so that the ends of the bone protruded through the flesh and it was necessary to wire it to keep the ragged fragments in place. It took one hour to perform the operation, inasmuch as unusual care was exercised to reduce the fracture so as to obviate as far as possible the danger of a stiff ankle upon recovery. He is now getting along all right but it will be six weeks or longer before he will be able to do any work.

DEER HUNTING SEASON ALMOST OVER.

Only four days yet remain of the open season for hunting deer and, unless there have been many deer killed by parties away out in the mountains and not yet reported, the slaughter will have to be unusually large the last four days if the record for the season will come anywhere near that of last season. Two years ago the number of deer killed in Centre county exceeded one hundred and last year the number was close to one hundred, but so far this year it is a question if the number so far exceeds thirty or forty, more likely not that many. Of course the season has not been as good as last, when there was a tracking snow for the opening day. The mixture of warm and cold weather we have had since the season came in has doubtless caused the deer to lie close to cover and only go on the trail when danger approached too close.

So far as the Bellefonte hunters are concerned, the Panthers had no deer up until Monday when Edmund Blanchard came home. The statement received last week that John Kuisely shot a large buck was true, only they did not get the buck. The only thing they got was a trail of blood, the deer making his escape. It is not yet known definitely whether they will remain until the last day of the hunting season—next Tuesday—or come home tomorrow evening. No word has been received from the Getzfelz party.

Naturally there are quite a number of hunting stories going the rounds and among those most interesting to Centre countians are the following: Dr. A. P. Hull, of Montgomery, who spent a week with one of the Snow Shoe hunting parties, took home with him a two pronged buck which carried a bullet wound in one of its legs which had all the appearance of having been made some time before the season opened.

Sherman Mader, of Look Haven, while hunting in the vicinity of Hayes Run, killed a two hundred pound bear and secured a number of pheasants and rabbits.

On Saturday evening the carcasses of four large bear and one deer were brought in on the Snow Shoe train as far as the intersection and from there shipped to Altoona. They were the spoils of a party of eight Altoona nimrods who have been out in the vicinity of Karhaus since the opening of the deer season. In addition to the above it is reported that they have three cub bears captured alive.

Charles White, of Altoona, was a member of a Phillipsburg party hunting on the mountains south of that place last week who claims to have himself killed the maximum number of pheasants allowed one man during the season, which is fifty. His party also got a good sized bear.

John Nanarrow, a former conductor on the Beech Creek railroad, last Wednesday killed a three pronged buck near Monument.

A number of Winburne hunters are encamped near the Black Mohannon and one day last week while they were making a drive for deer Frank Howe, one of the party, climbed on a hollow log and barked in imitation of a dog. He almost fell off the log when he saw a big she bear crawling out of one end of it, but retained presence of mind enough to shoot. His shot only wounded the bear but Amber Davis, who was nearby, succeeded in bringing brain to earth. The bear dressed 248 pounds.

THAT BIG COUNTY FAIR.—Matters are progressing very nicely in preparing for that big County Fair, to be held in the opera house Friday and Saturday of next week under the auspices of the Elk's Charity club. While Miss Book, the directress, has been away from Bellefonte the past two weeks she will be here for the next full rehearsal next Monday evening, November 29th.

This one act musical comedy was written by Miss Book, who has made the drilling and producing of home talent plays a specialty—this play has been her biggest and most successful. The plan and plot is very simple—nothing but a county fair scene with all manner of people coming to enjoy the festivities of the event. It will be a real picture of the real old time county fair, with displays innumerable of rich, yellow pumpkins, big potatoes, immense squashes, record-breaking ears of yellow corn, red apples, and maybe Si Jones, of Squeedunk, will have some of those marvelous patch-quilts there. Yet the real interest is centered in the dialogue of the visitors at the fair and in the musical numbers to be presented.

As the scene opens the loud-mouthed fakirs, lemonade man, side-show barker and the balloon man will almost deafen you with their mighty yells. Then follows a quick succession of farmers, old maids, school boys, jockeys, preschoolers, bride and groom, gold brick men, city visitors—a conglomeration of the characters one can possibly imagine at a county fair, each with an appropriate dialogue and conversation. All of this colloquy is of the most humorous nature and has life and spirit to it that keeps the audience in constant convulsions.

One of the big features in the County Fair is the Teddy Bear chorus by a large number of girls between the ages of three and nine years. It is said to be one of the prettiest and outest ever. There will be another children's chorus and six young men and young ladies' choruses. All of these are the latest, catchiest song productions and are presented in a beautiful, attractive manner.

Mrs. Samuel H. Diehl, who has not been in good health for some time past, was taken to the Bellefonte hospital on Monday for an operation.
