

PINE GROVE MENTION.

Mr. O. F. Shaw is ill with the grip. Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Kimpfort are housed up with the grip. Hon. J. W. Kepler transacted business at Milton Wednesday. Vernon McGill is a very sick boy at the Harry Shugers home. Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Cori had a house party Monday evening. Mr. and Mrs. John Dale were visitors on the Branch Monday. Mrs. Joel Ferree, who had been ill all winter, is some better now. Next Tuesday will be election day. Get out the vote and vote straight. Fred Gearhart and family are visiting friends over in Huntington county. Maurice Runkle has rented the Wm. Marts farm east of town, to take possession April 1st, 1911. Rev. Culler, of Bradford, will fill the pulpit in the new Lutheran church at State College on Sunday. Wm. R. Dale and Miss Etta McGirk visiting friends in Altoona over Sunday, returning home Monday. T. C. Crownover, of Sauburg, was here last week looking over his worldly possessions on the Branch. The stork braved the blizzard Saturday and delivered nice little girls at Charley Louck's and Charles Lytle's homes. We are very glad to say that Ross Gove, who had a tumble from the washer at Benore some time ago, is improving. You don't want to miss the festival in the I. O. O. F. hall Saturday, February 19th, as it is for the benefit of the M. E. church. Mrs. Barbara Hartman, of Union county, is visiting her uncle, Peter Cori, at Pine Hall, and enjoying the good sleighing. Last Friday John Forney, of Boalsburg, sledged a party of lady friends to our town who took dinner at the Danley home on Main street. J. C. Sunday has purchased the Samuel Musser farm on Tadpole at about the $2000 mark. His brother Elmer will be the farmer next season. Ross Gregory and J. C. Bumgardner, two popular drivers from Shavers Creek, are circulating among friends down Pennsylvania in quest of stock. Landlord Reed Randolph, of the St. Elmo, with Master Fay and Miss Ella Livingstone, braved the keen winds on Sunday for a drive to Stone-valley. Mr. and Mrs. James Laird, of Sauburg, enjoyed the good sleighing over old Tussey Saturday and spent Sunday with their Centre county friends. Rev. Warden is filling the pulpit in the Lutheran church here each evening this week. The meetings are quite well attended and a deep interest is being manifested. Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Garbrick spent last week at the bedside of their son George, at Lancaster, who has been ill for several weeks with pneumonia, but is now convalescing. For a few seconds she warded off the attack, but the man proved the stronger. Freeing his right hand, he drove the knife into her breast four times and gashed her throat. Then she fainted. Satisfied that he had done his work, Cras crawled into the adjoining room, ignoring the wide-eyed child that stood, frightened and breathless, near the bed, and cut his throat. Ten minutes later Mrs. Cras recovered consciousness and staggered downstairs, the child following her. At the foot of the stairs she fell unconscious again. The boy ran to the house of Mrs. Adeline Mesherher next door, and told her that his mother was lying "all bloody" in the hall. Mrs. Mesherher rushed into the Cras house and saw the wife bleeding at the foot of the stairs. In the sitting room, off the hall, she caught a glimpse of the husband sliding from a Morris chair, with blood flowing from a deep gash in his throat. She ran shrieking into the house. Policemen answered the screams for help. They called the patrol wagon, and husband and wife, both unconscious, were hurried to the hospital. Fifteen minutes after she reached the institution and told of the attack to the special policeman. Captain Kidd's Treasure Found? Somers Point, near Atlantic City, N. J., is wildly excited, because it is believed that the fabled treasure of Captain Kidd, of buccaneer fame, has been found. The excitement is no less because of the fact that the supposed discoverers of the loot made away with it. Old inhabitants who really credit the belief that something of value has been discovered and made away with think it is possible that the treasure trove may have been placed and coin buried by residents of the ancient seaport when the British war vessels showed up during the Revolutionary war, but the more romantic choose to believe that the treasure was really the Kidd deposit, which had been searched for during the past half century along this portion of the coast. The uncovered cave had been bricked up with walls over two feet in thickness, which show the greatest care in construction. The top is covered with slabs of red and stone of a quality unknown in this locality and believed to have been brought here along with the supposed treasure buried by Captain Kidd or others who sought its concealment. The bricks are of a style similar to those known to have been brought here from England during Colonial days, and both stone and brick are so old that they crumble to bits of pebbles now being used to discover the real extent of the cave. Wade Ellis has been known as one of the most active and energetic of "trust busters." He made a pretty wide reputation along this line when he was attorney general of Ohio, and was taken into the government service less than two years ago because of his proficiency as an enemy of big corporations. Steel Company Building Burns. Chester, Pa., Feb. 8.—The main building of the Delaware River Steel company, formerly the Tidewater Steel company, was burned. The loss is estimated at $100,000. The fire started in the dynamo room.

SICK MAN STABS WIFE AND SELF.

Philadelphia, Feb. 8.—Called to the bedside of her husband, who lay ill, Mrs. Mary Cras, of 1720 Jackson street, this city, was attacked with a knife. After she had fallen unconscious across the bed, gashed about the breast and throat, the husband crawled into the next room and cut his own throat. Husband and wife are in St. Agnes' hospital, both in a dangerous condition. There is little or no hope for the man's recovery, the doctors say. But for the couple's four-year-old son, who saw the attack on his mother, husband and wife would probably have died in the house. He ran to a neighbor's house with the alarm that secured aid. According to a statement made by the wife to the police, her husband fancied that she had been neglectful of him. The detectives believe, however, that he made the attack and the attempt on his own life in a fit of insanity that has been developing for days. John Cras, the husband, is thirty years old, and the wife, twenty-four. Mrs. Cras said her husband complained of feeling ill a few days ago and quit work. He did not stay in bed all the time, but got up late mornings and lay around the house, complaining of his health. She thought nothing of that at the time, she told the police, but looking back over the last few days she felt sure that he had gotten the idea that she was not attending to him as she should have done. Decoyed to Bedside. He stayed up in his room and Mrs. Cras was at work in the kitchen, with the little boy, John, playing near her. She heard her husband call her by name twice. She went upstairs at once, with the child toddling close behind. Cras was lying in bed, and she went to his side. As she bent over the man grasped her suddenly and pulled her toward him. Before she started she had time to realize her danger he struck at her with a potato knife that he had kept concealed under the bed clothes. The woman threw up her right hand and the blade slashed across three of her fingers, almost severing them. The knife had been sharpened to a razor-like keenness. Then the wife began a desperate struggle for her life, screaming as she fought. For a few seconds she warded off the attack, but the man proved the stronger. Freeing his right hand, he drove the knife into her breast four times and gashed her throat. Then she fainted. Satisfied that he had done his work, Cras crawled into the adjoining room, ignoring the wide-eyed child that stood, frightened and breathless, near the bed, and cut his throat. Ten minutes later Mrs. Cras recovered consciousness and staggered downstairs, the child following her. At the foot of the stairs she fell unconscious again. Lamp Wipes Out Family.

An entire family was practically exterminated when a kerosene lamp exploded, wrecking the home of Andrew Pacie, in Wallis, a suburb of Pittsburgh, Pa. Pacie, who is twenty-eight years old, was lying in bed ill with typhoid fever, while his wife was in another room with a four-days' baby. The lamp in the mother's room room burned too low and exploded, scattering oil and igniting the furnishings of the room. In frantic efforts to rescue her child and the helpless husband, Mrs. Pacie was fatally burned. The child received the full force of the explosion and will die. Pacie, unable to raise from his sick bed, saw the flames approach and was not rescued until the bed clothes had caught fire. He cannot live. Kills Brother Playing With Gun. Norman Harper, aged five years, had the top of his head blown off at his home in Spring Mount, near Norristown, Pa. He and his older brother, Raymond were in the attic, playing, when the younger boy took down a shade roller and, pointing it at his brother, said: "I'll shoot you." The older boy picked up an old musket and pointed it at his brother. He pressed the trigger. There was a report and the little fellow received both loads, which were not known to be in the musket, full in the face. His death was instantaneous. The parents heard the report and rushed upstairs to see the tot breathe his last. Deeware Farmers Organize. Delaware farmers and producers from all parts of the state held a meeting at Dover and organized the Delaware Produce Exchange for the packing, selling and shipping of all fruits and vegetables. James T. Shallock, of New Castle, president, and Professor Wesley Webb, of Dover, was elected temporary secretary. Mr. Shallock in his address said: "Heretofore we have had to beg the transportation companies with our little offerings of less than a carload of this or that product; now, with our aggregate of many carloads, summing up the hundreds, we will compel them to beg us." Finds "Dead" Husband. In a woodchopper who was at work near his home at Wabash, Ind., Mrs. Albert Holl recognized her husband, whom she had not seen since he had marched away a soldier in the Civil War forty-seven years ago. She believed he was killed in battle and sold her home and moved away. He could not find her when he returned from the south and became a wandering carpenter. Mrs. Holly married James Stull a few years after the war. For forty years they lived happily together. Ten months ago he was thrown from his car and killed. Holy and his wife will now remarry. Buffalo Girl Commits Suicide in Dramatic Manner. Niagara Falls, N. Y., Feb. 8.—Miss Beatrice R. Snyder, of Buffalo, committed suicide by going over the American falls. She entered the river about fifty feet back from Prospect Point, at the end of the railing. Witnesses say she hesitated a moment and then threw herself on the current, which the next instant swept her over the brink. On the bank she left a handbag, handkerchief and a note, which reads: "Dear Mamma and Papa—May you both forgive me for bringing this awful disgrace upon you in these years of your life. Also may our heavenly father forgive all my sins. But I have always been very good, thank God. You will find a slip for the money under your dresser scarf. With my heart full of all the kindness and tender love. With love to all. Goodbye. Lovingly, Beatrice." Mrs. Sage Scatters Coins to Boys Following Carriage. New Orleans, Feb. 8.—Mrs. Russell Sage, who is here for the carnival, upset all precedents by scattering money to the winds. The money was grabbed up by waifs, who followed her carriage on the way through the French quarter. Mrs. Sage left her hotel for a drive. News of her identity quickly spread and scores of gamins pressed about the carriage crying for gifts. In order to rid herself of the escort Mrs. Sage used all the change she could find, even mulcting the coachman, and the money was thrown to the youngsters. Physician Favors Corsets. Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 8.—"Women are better off in our present state of civilization in good corsets than without them," is the opinion of Dr. R. W. Lovett, of the Harvard medical school, given in his lecture before the school. "I think that certain physicians could employ their time to better advantage by telling women what kind of corsets to wear than in condemning all corsets." John L. Sullivan Marries. Boston, Feb. 8.—John L. Sullivan, the former heavyweight champion pugilist of the world, was married here to Miss Katherine Hartnett, of Sharon. She is about Sullivan's age and is reported to own considerable real estate in Sharon. Tramp Inherits $250,000. After having tramped in poverty throughout the country for nearly a dozen years, James J. Corbett was declared heir to $250,000 in Boston. Judge George decided that Corbett was the missing brother and heir of William J. Corbett, a junk dealer.

We heard a man say the other morning that the abbreviation for February—Feb.—means Freeze every body, and the man looked frozen in his ulster. It was apparent that he needed the kind of warmth that reaches from head to foot, all over the body. We could have told him from personal knowledge that Hood's Sarsaparilla gives permanent warmth, it invigorates the blood and speeds it along through artery and vein, and really fits men and women, boys and girls, to enjoy cold weather and resist the attacks of disease. It gives the right kind of warmth, stimulates and strengthens at the same time, and all its benefits are lasting. There may be a suggestion in this for you.
