Republican Disintegration Begun.

The result of the Congressional election in the Rochester, New York, districton Tuesday, settles all doubts of the approaching disintegration of the Republican party. It will be said, of course, that the Republican nominee was not a strong candidate. But that is begging the question. He has been for years, and is now, the leader of his party in the district and was nominated immediately after a conference with President TAFT and presumably at his suggestion. He is therefore not only as strong as his party but as reputable.

The verdict of the ballot box in this case is precisely what it was in the Old Colony district of Massachusetts and in the Sixth district of Missouri, in which a special election was held a couple of months ago. The people in each instance have repudiated the Republican party, expressed their resentment against its perfidy and their detestation of its policies. They have come to understand that high tariff means high prices rather than high wages and that Republican policies foster trusts instead of conserving the interests of the people.

It took some time to impress these lessons upon the minds of the people but the result of these special Congressional elections show that it has been accomplished finally. It remains now for the people of Pennsylvania to prove that they are mentally as alert and politically as independent as the citizens of Massachusetts, Missouri and New York. If they are, Democrats will be elected to the next Congress from at least twentyfive of the thirty-two districts and the Democratic candidate in this district will have an overwhelming majority.

-Hon. WILLIAM C. HEINLE, of this place, has announced himself as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in this district. So far Mr. HEINLE is the only candidate in the field

-Really if they don't soon stop putting those Pittsburg business men in the pen itentiary there will be four Republican congressional districts out there that will have to be placed in the doubtful column.

Spends Three Hours on Train Attending to Correspondence. Attnang-Puchheim, Upper Austria, April 21.-Although it was after midnight when the train bearing the Roosevelt party, on its way to Paris, left Budanest Colonel Roosevelt was up at 7 o'clock.

During the stop at Vienna he got out and walked up and down the station platform for half an hour. As the train left Vienna a heavy fall of rain obscured the landscape and Mr. Roosevelt turned his attention to a vast accumulation of correspondence.

For three hours the former president dictated without interruption to his stenographer. The letters and telegrams which reach Mr. Roosevelt increase in number daily. While many are from friends and acquaintances from America and Europe, the mafority are from persons of whom the recipient has never known anything.

Many are received from those known to Mr. Roosevelt only by reputation. A feature of these letters is the unanimity with which the writers look to the former president for leadership of any cause in which they are interested France is preparing a great welcome for Mr. Roosevelt. The leading news papers are filled with historical and laudatory sketches of the distinguished American and with words of warm greeting. The merchants are arranging to decorate their places in honor of Mr. Roosevelt and will present him with an address of homage.

Every seat in the Sorbonne has been allotted for the occasion of Mr. Roose. velt's lecture on Saturday. Thousands of applications for tickets of admission have been received, only to be refused. The former president will have little time for rest in the French capital, for, in addition to the long official program, there will be private visits, excursions and dinners to crowd the week.
