

Hits British Rule in Egypt.

Says If England Is In Egypt by Right She Should Stay, If Not She Should Get Out.

London, June 1.—The freedom of the city of London was presented to Theodore Roosevelt, and he accepted the honor with a literalness that led him into a frankness of speech that created a sensation in old Guildhall.

The former president gave the motherland some bold advice as to her duty toward her most troublesome dependency in Africa.

It was, Mr. Roosevelt said, either right or not right for Great Britain to be in Egypt and establish order there. If it was not right she should get out.

He eulogized British rule in Uganda and the Sudan. He also declared that Great Britain had given Egypt the best government that country has had in 2000 years, but in certain vital points it had erred. Timidity and sentimentality, he said, might cause more harm than violence and injustice.

"Sentimentality," he asserted, "is the most broken reed upon which righteousness can lean."

Mr. Roosevelt denounced the Nationalist party of Egypt as neither desirous nor capable of guaranteeing primary justice. It was trying to bring murderous chaos upon the land.

Some nations, said the former president, must govern Egypt. He hoped and believed that the English would decide that the duty was theirs.

As a whole the speech was the most forcible expression on foreign topics the distinguished visitor has made during his European tour.

He dealt principally with the British policy in Egypt, which is today one of the most discussed of Great Britain's colonial questions.

His outspoken views sent a thrill through the one thousand auditors which is likely to be felt outside the walls of the ancient council hall.

Mr. Roosevelt was driven in state from Ambassador Reid's home to the Guildhall, but the weather was not propitious and comparatively few persons witnessed the procession.

Rain fell throughout the forenoon, keeping most people indoors and only a few hundred persons were gathered in the vicinity of Dorchester house to witness the departure, or in King street when Mr. Roosevelt arrived at the hall.

He occupied the lord mayor's coach, and this was followed by the coaches of the sheriffs, who wore their uniforms of office.

The guests of the city government at Guildhall included many American and English business men besides officials of the city. The latter were in uniform and had seats on the platform to which Mr. Roosevelt was escorted.

The parchment conveying the freedom of the city was contained in a beautiful gold casket. The presentation was made by Sir Joseph Cookfield Dimsdale, city chamberlain, who, extending his hand to the city's guest, spoke briefly. Sir Joseph dwelt particularly upon Great Britain's friendship toward the United States.

Following the exercises, Sir John Knill, lord mayor of London, entertained Mr. Roosevelt at a private luncheon, at which many prominent personages were present.

Ruins Crops and Smothers Calf to Death in Field.

Mount Vernon, N. Y., June 2.—A terrific hailstorm swept over Pleasantville. It also struck Patterson, many miles north of Pleasantville, and did great damage. At Pleasantville the hail was as large as marbles and a southwest gale caused the stones to drift like snow, so that in places they lay over a foot deep. The stones fell for forty-five minutes, pelted cows in the pastures and they ran moaning to the shelter of the woodland. At Patterson a new-born calf was buried beneath a heap of hailstones and was smothered to death before the farmer could rescue the animal. All the crops around Pleasantville were practically ruined, while the fruit trees were entirely stripped.

Shot by Mine Pickets.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., June 2.—Pickets, supposed to be strikers on guard around the Ewen colliery of the Pennsylvania Coal company, near here, shot and fatally wounded William Zetto, of Port Griffith, a watchman at the colliery. Zetto tried to sneak past the line of pickets and get to his home, but he was stopped by six of them, he said, and when they saw he had been working he was shot at three times.

Walks 60 Miles to Parade With G. A. R.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., June 2.—William H. Moser, a ninety-six-year-old veteran of the Civil War, who walked thirty miles from his home in Pine township, Columbia county, to Danville to participate in the G. A. R. parade on Memorial Day, walked back to his home, and doesn't seem in the least upset by his long tramp despite his great age.

Baby Swallowed Safety Pin.

Chicago, June 1.—Dorothea Clark, six months old, of 2055 Howe street, is dead at the German hospital, following an operation which was performed in an effort to remove an open safety pin which the infant swallowed last Saturday. The pin lodged in the baby's stomach tube.

New Surveyor of Customs.

Washington, June 2.—Nelson H. Henry, of New York, was confirmed by the senate as surveyor of customs in the district of New York. He succeeds General James S. Clarkson. The office pays $8000 a year.

Lightning Hits Harriman Barn.

Middletown, N. Y., June 2.—Lightning struck the barn on the Harriman estate at Arden, killing Roland Harriman's pet saddle horse and severely shocking fifty other thoroughbreds. The fear crazed horses were taken out and the flames extinguished before heavy damage had been done.

Dies of Heat.

Reno, Nev., June 2.—Professor H. O. Howe, instructor in the University of Nevada and head of the university high school, died of heat prostration. He was born in Ohio seventy-five years ago.

General Lara's Soldiers Driven From the East Coast of Nicaragua—United States Marines at Scene.

Washington, June 2.—The dispatch received at the state department from Captain Gilmer, commanding the Paducah, at Bluefields, is the only information received by the government of the recent engagement there. This dispatch, which was dated Wednesday, stated that General Lara had been defeated by the Estrada forces and was in full retreat with the remnant of his army numbering about 300 men.

All their efforts met with failure, and General Estrada's forces succeeded in killing several hundred of General Lara's soldiers, besides capturing over 200 of the government troops. It was reported by deserters from General Lara's forces who came into Bluefields and surrendered to the insurgents, and also by the soldiers captured by the Estrada forces, that the government's soldiers were in a starving condition.

With the exception of these 300 men, the only forces that Madriz has on the east coast, as understood here, is a detachment on Bluefields bluff, about six miles east of Bluefields City, and a force estimated at not exceeding 1000 men facing General Mena, the Estrada commander, at Rama. It is pointed out that General Estrada, with his victorious army could, without hindrance, proceed to Rama, and so joining forces with General Mena, readily disperse the Madriz army in front of that city.

The only feasible means of communication between Bluefields and Rama is by way of the Escondido river, and it is understood that the banana vessels on the river are available for the transportation of the Estrada army to that point. It is also conjectured that General Lara's course of retreat will probably be down the coast to Monkey Point, where he and his men might avoid capture by boarding the Venus, but in any event it is believed here that the evacuation of the east coast is the only alternative open to Madriz to avoid the destruction of his armies.

Captain Gilmer has advised the navy department that the Dubuque, which landed a force of marines at Bluefields from Colon, has returned to Colon for coal and provisions. The department has directed that the Vicksburg proceed to Corinto on the west coast of Nicaragua, and there relieve the Princeton, which has been ordered to Bremerton, Puget Sound.

New Federation Born on Eighth Anniversary of Ending of Boer War.

Pretoria, Union of South Africa, June 2.—The Union of South Africa was born with the reading of the royal proclamation of the single dominion constituted by the legislative union of the British colonies of Cape Colony, Orange River Colony, Natal and the Transvaal. The reading was at the assembly house here, where just eight years ago the Boer leaders signed the British terms of peace.

Viscount Gladstone was sworn in as governor general of the Union, General Louis Botha as premier and the other members of the new ministry.

Each of the four colonies becomes a province, and each province will have its own council and send members to the Union parliament, which will consist of a senate and house of assembly. Cape Town will be the seat of the legislature, and Pretoria the seat of the executive government.

Harmless Missile Caused Commotion at Gates of Palace in Berlin.

Berlin, June 2.—There was a commotion among the royal party returning from the annual joint review of the Berlin and Potsdam garrisons at Tempelhof field, when a man who had followed at a distance hurled a missile at Crown Prince Frederick William.

The object missed its mark and fell harmlessly at the feet of a policeman. Upon investigation it was found to be an ordinary tin can such as is used for the preservation of fruit and vegetables, and was filled with uncooked beans.

The party was about to enter the palace when the incident occurred, and for a moment it was believed that a bomb had been thrown.

The police seized the assailant, who proved to be a Russian named Abraham Elerweiss, a resident of this city. It is thought that he is not responsible for his actions.

Pottstown Girl Becomes First June Bride in Midnight Marriage.

Pottstown, Pa., June 2.—That she might win the gas range offered by a gas company to the first June bride, Miss B. Anne Engle and Harry Witmyer, both of Pottstown, were married at two minutes after 12 o'clock Wednesday. The ceremony was performed by Squire Elias H. Gilbert, whom they routed out of bed to have the nuptial knot tied.

It was Squire Gilbert's first wedding. He was until recently the representative of the Fourth legislative district of Montgomery county, and resigned to assume the duties of justice of the peace, his term having nearly expired.

FLIES FROM ALBANY TO NDW YORK

Establishes New Record For Sustained Speed, at Times Making More Than Sixty Miles an Hour.

Glenn H. Curtiss speeded down the air lanes from Albany to New York, doing 137 miles in 152 minutes, better than any limited on the New York Central ever made, and limited does not loaf.

He not only won the $10,000 prize offered by the New York World, but he made an international record for sustained speed. There were times when his little biplane, which is only half as big as Paulhan's famous flyer, split the air at more than a sixty-mile-an-hour clip, and his average speed was 54.8 miles an hour.

The winds were good to Curtiss, and a finer day for hearing space and time couldn't have been picked from the calendar. But once the mischiefous air currents of the Highlands almost got him. Ais, warmed by an eager sun, ran twisty ways up the mountain sides. Swinging around old storm king, his aeroplane dropped forty feet like a plummet. For seconds there was just nothing under it, and Curtiss had three seconds to review a blameless past. But the capable bird slid off into kinder airs and went on to the finish steadily about her business.

The bells of Trinity were giving noon to Manhattan when Glenn H. Curtiss, having already made sure of his $10,000 by landing at Spuyten Duyvil, swooped down the North river air road, sailed past the Battery and descended with a beautiful dip on Governor's Island. Every whistle with steam in its throat shrieked and barked and rumbled. Down at the Battery, where folks, as elsewhere in the city, had been fooled by the flash that Curtiss had finished his flight at Spuyten Duyvil and wouldn't exhibit himself at the toe of the island, there was a great scurrying when the high riding speed resolved itself into the clean lines of a flying machine, and Curtiss was made out at the wheel.

It was a few seconds after noon when the army gathered him in over behind Castle William and, as is the army's way, invited him to have one great big drink. It is not on record that the army was disappointed. Few men have showed less elation than Curtiss did when he stepped out of the biplane and shook hands with Major Hoff and Brigadier General Walter Howe, commanding the department of the east. He smiled faintly, said he was glad he had finished the job and then turned to watch a detachment of soldiers roll the machine into the aerodrome.

Firebug's New Scheme.

Charged with having set fire to his store by means of a chemical compound, the nature of which has caused a sensation in police and fire circles, Eugene Frank, twenty-three years of age, was committed to the county jail at Paterson, N. J., by Recorder Carroll without bail. The latest freak of the phosphorous-like compound with which the contents of the store at 890 Main street were smeared has sent Fireman Martin J. O'Rourke to St. Joseph's hospital. O'Rourke was placed on guard at the store and when he picked up some of the compound it ignited in his hands. The hand was severely burned and O'Rourke may lose two of his fingers. The police regard the compound as the most dangerous yet devised for the purpose of arson, and the application of water only serves to make it more inflammable.

Taft Repeats Criticism.

President Taft sent to Chairman Tawney, of the house committee on appropriations, a letter expressing deep resentment at the criticism passed by Democrats in the house debate upon the traveling expenses of the president.

The president's letter follows: "Washington, D. C., May 27, 1910. "My Dear Mr. Tawney—I am deeply grieved over the phase which the discussion of the appropriation for the traveling expenses of the president took. I think it is a legitimate argument in favor of such an appropriation that congressmen and many others press the acceptance of invitations to visit their sections and districts, because the urgency of such requests indicates the opinion on the part of the people that one of the duties of the president is to visit the people in their homes.

"But the intimation or suggestion that the acceptance by congressmen of the president's invitation to travel on the train with him in their respective districts or states was a reason why they should not vote their free opinion on the question of such an appropriation is to me a most painful one. In traveling upon the train they were not receiving my hospitality—they were only making a little more elaborate the cordial welcome which they as representatives of their districts wished to give.

"The feature of the discussion which was especially distressing to me was a suggested reflection on southern hospitality. The intimation that somewhere in the south board was charged has no foundation in fact, and I never heard it intimated until I saw it in this morning's papers.

"In all my experience, and I have enjoyed the hospitality of many sections and countries of the world, I never had a more cordial, generous, open and lavish welcome than I had in the southern states during my trip, and the slightest hint that puts me in the attitude of a critic of that hospitality gives me great pain.

"Very sincerely yours, "WILLIAM H. TAFT."

The debate in the house which called forth Mr. Taft's letter to Mr. Tawney sprang from an item in the Sunday civil bill making "immediately available" money from the president's allowance for next year of $25,000 for traveling expenses.

Charles H. Treat Dead.

Charles Henry Treat, until a few months ago treasurer of the United States, to which position he was appointed by President Roosevelt, died of apoplexy in his apartments at the Hotel Victoria, in New York.

Mr. Treat was born in Frankfort, Me., about sixty-eight years ago. Among his ancestors were Robert Treat Paine, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, and Robert Treat, a colonial governor of Connecticut.

Drank Poison in Mistake; Dead.

Edward Gorman, aged fifty-seven years, died suddenly in the drug store of Dr. Robert Eligood at Delmar, Del. Mr. Gorman was up early and, feeling badly, went to the medicine chest and, getting a bottle which he supposed contained castor oil, took a large swallow.

In a few minutes he discovered he had taken crude carbolic acid instead of the oil. He at once went to a physician and fell unconscious, dying about two hours later.

Mr. Gorman was a well known contractor and builder and had recently been building new stations for the New York, Philadelphia & Norfolk railway.

The Wild Best.

Beets were first found growing wild in sandy soils near the sea in Europe and western Asia. The wild beet was found there is regarded by authorities as the original type. This wild beet is slender rooted and has a taste different from the beet we know today that one must consider the first man who tasted one and thought it possible to develop had gifts of hope and imagination far beyond ordinary.

The beet has been cultivated since 2000 B. C.

Fan Needs a North American Book to Score Ball Games.

Learn how to score a base ball game accurately and scientifically if you want to increase your knowledge of enjoyment of the national game.

George Graham, sporting editor of the North American, has lately prepared a complete scoring system, which tells in detail how every play should be recorded, giving illustrations making clear the various symbols, and is arranged so simply and concisely as to come within the understanding of all.

Ten cents and a coupon which appears every Sunday in the North American will bring a copy of this valuable book, which includes also blanks enough to score the season's games.

The Philadelphia National League club has adopted Mr. Graham's system as official, and uses it daily in the score card sold on the grounds. It has the indorsement of Charles Carpenter, president of the Tristate League, and has been praised all over the country as the most complete exposition of the science since Harry Wright invented the first system, three decades ago.

Get a copy of next Sunday's North American, and send along the coupon and 10 cents. The North American pays the postage.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR CONGRESS.

To the Editor: I hereby announce myself a candidate for Congress in the 21st Pennsylvania district, subject to the decision of the Republican party at the primaries to be held June 4, 1910. I make this announcement and enter the contest in compliance with the earnest requests of many prominent members of the party in the district, and also because I believe that in Congress, if elected, I would be in a position to effectively advocate those principles and measures of good government, which now more than ever, should be embodied in Federal legislation.

And to the end that I may serve their best interests, I ask the support of the Republicans of this district.

LEWIS EMERY, Jr., Bradford, Pa., March 15, 1910.

STATE SENATOR.

We are authorized to announce Hon. George M. Dimmeling, of Clearfield county, as a candidate for Senate, subject to the endorsement of the Democratic voters of the 34th Senatorial district, at the primaries to be held Saturday, June the 4th, 1910.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of Representative in the General Assembly of Pennsylvania subject to the decision of the Democratic voters of Centre county at the primaries to be held Saturday, June 4th, 1910. I believe in clean politics and progressive Roosevelt policies. And to the end that I may serve their best interests, I ask the support of the Republicans of this district.

Sincerely and gratefully, J. C. MEYER.
