ARRANGEMENTS FOR A NEW CHURCH COMPLETED.—The building committee of the Methodist Episcopal church at State College has about completed arrangements for the erection of a new house of worship at East College avenue and McAllister street. The building as now planned will cost from $25,000 to $30,000. It will be of native limestone trimmed with Indiana limestone. The dimensions will be 101x66 feet with an extreme height of sixty-five feet. Three hundred and seventy will be able to find seats in the auditorium, while two galleries will afford seating capacity for 130 more. The Sunday school room will have seats for 400 and will be arranged in such a way that it can be thrown into the auditorium of the church. The total seating capacity of the church, therefore, will be 900. It is expected to start work on the edifice within three weeks. For the present services will continue to be held in the old church, which will be moved to the back of the lot. The congregation was organized twenty-two years ago with a handful of members. Now its roll of names numbers 250. The new church, which will be in a splendid location, is being built with an eye to the future. Andrew Carnegie has pledged one-half of the $2,500 necessary for the new pipe organ and a committee of ladies is soliciting the other half. The pastor is Rev. J. McK. Reiley.

POSSIBLY A CHANCE FOR YOUR BOY.—Competitive examinations of applicants for two of the eight regular Frank Thomson scholarships will be conducted during the latter part of the present month. These scholarships, each of which amounts to $600 a year, were established in 1907 and endowed in the sum of $120,000, by the three children of the late Frank Thomson, formerly president of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, as a memorial to their father. They were designed to afford to "sons of the living and deceased employees of all the Pennsylvania Railroad an opportunity for a technical education so as to better enable them to qualify themselves for employment by the company." Each year since the establishment of the fund, two scholarships have been awarded. With the two to be awarded this year, there will be a total of eight, which number will be maintained in succeeding years. The examinations correspond in general to the entrance requirements of the scientific departments of the higher class of universities, colleges and technical schools. They are open to the sons of all employees living or deceased of the Pennsylvania railroad lines.

DONATED LAND FOR HOSPITAL PARK.

—Col. W. Fred Reynolds has deeded to the Bellefonte hospital the land in the rear of the Evangelical church, extending from the eastern boundary of the present hospital grounds to the road running along the west side of the dam, containing a little more than two acres. The grounds will be cleared of all stone and rubbish, a roadway built through them and thus converted into a hospital park. Seats will also be built at various places in the park which will afford a delightful retreat for lounging or the recreation of convalescing patients. Col. Reynolds is to be commended on his generosity in thus giving to the hospital ground for a park and if his action was emulated by others who are able to do so in giving at least something to the institution it would render less difficult the matter of sustaining the hospital in the good work it is doing.

SOLDIER DEAD.—In the two cemeteries at Curtin there are buried fifty-nine old soldiers, four of whom served in the Revolutionary war, three in the war of 1812, one in the Mexican war, one in the Spanish American war and fifty in the Civil war. In the old Milesburg cemetery repose the remains of five soldiers who served in the war of the Revolution, three in the war of 1812, two in the Mexican war and twenty-five in the Civil war. In the new cemetery are the remains of fourteen Civil war soldiers, while the Trzcynulny cemetery contains two, the Advent cemetery forty-seven and Fairview three. The above were all decorated by Post 261, of Milesburg, on Memorial day.

EX-JUDGE JOHN GRAY LOVE.
 [From a photograph taken sixteen years ago.]

DEATH OF EX-JUDGE JOHN G. LOVE.—The death of ex-Judge John G. Love, at his home on East Linn street at eleven o'clock on Sunday night came quite unexpectedly and was considerable of a surprise as well as a shock to his many friends when they learned of his demise on Monday morning. For the past eighteen months he had been afflicted with sciatic rheumatism and had tried various remedies and different mountain and seaside resorts. At times he would show enough improvement to justify a hope of regaining in part, at least, his former health, only to be seized with another and more serious attack. Lately the dangerous complication of hardening of the arteries set in and while this rendered his condition very grave he never gave up hope. Some two or three weeks prior to his death he had an attack which compelled him to take to his bed. The last few days of his life he was apparently improving and he had made all arrangements to go to Mt. Clemens, Mich., this week. Even as late as Sunday afternoon he talked with a friend of a business engagement he expected to be able to keep on Wednesday and it was only a few hours before his death that the change for the worse set in and he sank rapidly until his sufferings ceased.

John Gray Love was a son of James and Catharine Gray Love and was born at Stormstown December 10th, 1842, making his age 67 years, 6 months and 2 days. At the time of his birth and during his boyhood days his father conducted a tailoring establishment in Stormstown and he was very painstaking in directing the education of his children. When the subject of this sketch was twelve years old the family moved to the western end of Halfmoon township where his father bought a large tract of land, a good part of which was covered with the original growth of timber. He engaged in farming on that portion of his land already cleared and cleaned off a good portion of the other until he had the largest farm in that valley, and there laid the foundation for the little village of Loveville, named after him. In this work John assisted, working on the farm during the summer and tramping over two miles to school five months during the winter. In this way he not only acquired the rudiments of a superior education but also a healthy constitution that carried him through the various vicissitudes of his more than three score years of life. In the fall of 1860, when not quite eighteen years of age, he entered Dickinson Seminary, at Williamsport, and continued as a student there during the year. The next summer he put in on the farm and during the winter of 1861-2 he taught school at Stony Point, in Patton township. At the close of his school he returned to Dickinson Seminary for the balance of the school year. The next winter he taught school at Massesburg, Huntingdon county, and in the spring of 1863 he took the final course in Dickinson Seminary.

At the close of college in June, 1863, he returned to the farm with as yet no definite idea as to his future. It was only a few days thereafter when Gen. Lee with the pride of the Confederate army invaded Pennsylvania and to the general alarm and call for volunteers to help repel the invasion John Love promptly responded. He joined the state militia and went to Harrisburg and though he did not participate in the battle of Gettysburg early in July of that year he assisted in guarding the property of other towns in the Cumberland valley from destruction by marauders. After Lee's defeat and retreat from Pennsylvania he returned home and helped with the work on the farm until the fall of the year when he went to Mt. Union and enlisted in the regular volunteer service. At Harrisburg he was assigned to the Twenty-second cavalry and sent to Waynesboro to do picket duty. From that place the regiment was sent to Charleston, W. Va., where they encamped during the winter of 1863-4. In the spring of 1864 this body of cavalry was sent into London and Woodstock valleys, W. Va., to break up the raids of Imboden's cavalry and Mosby's marauders and during that summer young Love saw and engaged in considerable active service. When his nine month's term of enlistment expired he returned home and early in the year of 1865 he entered as a law student in the office of Edmund Blanchard, in this place.

He read law until the fall of 1866 when he entered the Albany law school at Albany, N. Y. In June of the following year, 1867, he graduated and was at once admitted to practice in the New York state courts. He took six weeks' vacation at home and in August, 1867, came to Bellefonte and was admitted to practice and became a member of the Centre county bar.

That was the beginning of a career which in a stretch of over three-score years can be written the one word—success. Success achieved because he was a diligent worker, studious, careful and concise in the preparation of a case and always conscientious and honest in his dealings with a client. He not only was quick to comprehend any case he had in hand but he always had the evidence and all law relating to or having any bearing upon the case thoroughly digested and analyzed. He was possessed of an exceptionally acute analytical mind and was always quick to discern every feature of a case. In the practice of his profession he was always able to combat with the best attorneys in the State, and was rarely caught napping or worsted so far as his knowledge or construction of the law was concerned. He was at all times uniformly kind and courteous to all his brother attorneys, and especially so to the younger members of the bar.

When Judge Love was admitted to the Centre county bar it had among its members some of the ablest attorneys in the State but he rapidly forged to the front, and though his reputation as a jurist was perhaps not as state-wide and celebrated as some of the older members it did not take him long to take rank at home with the best of them. In addition to his practice he always took an active interest in politics though he never sought any political favors until the year 1894 when he entered the race for the judgeship nomination against Hon. A. O. Furst. The primaries were hotly contested but Mr. Love won out. The Democrats nominated C. M. Bower as his opponent and the campaign is still a memorable one. At that time the judicial district was composed of Centre and Huntingdon counties and it was a close fight but with the influence of Hastings back of him Love was elected and served a term of ten years, from January, 1895, to January, 1905. At the election in 1904, he was defeated for a second term by Judge Ellis L. Orvis.

As a judge Mr. Love was as assiduous in his labors as he was in his individual practice. On the bench he presided with honor and credit to himself and the Centre county bar, and as evidence of his fairness and judicial acumen is the fact that during his entire term he had very few reverses of judgment by the higher courts. He was a man of strong convictions but rarely, if ever, allowed them to prejudice him in judgment.

In politics the judge was a Republican of the most pronounced type and was always found lined up with the regulars of his party. He was an open admirer of Senator Quay and his advice and counsel were often sought in a hot political contest. Though he held the office of judge for one term it is generally conceded that he never received proper recognition for the work he did for his party.

As a citizen and neighbor Judge Love was the embodiment of the highest type of American citizenship. Always affable and courteous, easily approached by men in every walk of life; interested in the welfare of the town and community, and kind and thoughtful of those around him, he was universally esteemed. While he naturally had his political differences he rarely allowed it to enter into his social life and his death is the taking away of a man whom any community can ill afford to lose.

For over thirty-five years he was a member of the Bellefonte Methodist church and a cheerful supporter of the same. He was a member of Gregg Post No. 95, G. A. R., and a charter member and a trustee of the Bellefonte Lodge of Elks. He made the address at the first memorial service held by the Bellefonte lodge and last year made the address at the Lock Haven lodge services.

Judge Love was married twice. His first wife, to whom he was married in 1874, was Miss Mattie Fisk, of Lock Haven, a woman of many charms and rare accomplishments. She died on February 25th, 1887, without issue, and in October, 1889, he was married for the second time to Miss Nellie Kline, of this place. She survives with two children, John G. and Catharine. Of his father's family of three sons and four daughters only three sisters survive the deceased. They are the Misses Lydia, Emma and Annie Love, all of Nealmont, near Tyrone.

As soon as the death of Judge Love became known on Monday morning notices were sent to the members of neighboring county bars and Judge Orvis appointed D. F. Fortney, E. R. Chambers, Clement Dale, J. Calvin Meyer and John Blanchard a committee to draft a fitting memorial minute which was reported at a meeting of the bar association held at one o'clock on Wednesday afternoon. At the same time brief tributes were paid the deceased by Hon. S. R. Peale, of Lock Haven, A. A. Stevens, J. C. Meyer and others.

The funeral was held from his late home at 2.30 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon. The services were in charge of Rev. Thomas S. Wilcox and at their conclusion burial was made in the Union cemetery.

CHANEY.—It was with sincere regret that his many friends learned of the death, last Saturday, of the venerable Alexander Chaney, of Port Matilda. His death occurred at noon that day after only a little over a week's illness with a complication of diseases, due principally to his advanced age.

Deceased was born in Stonevalley, Huntingdon county, on June 12th, 1832, hence had he lived one more day he would have been seventy-eight years old. Over two-score years ago he located at Port Matilda and engaged in farming and lumbering. In both he was quite successful and in the latter he for a number of years was associated with Budd Thompson, under the firm name of Chaney & Thompson. During the firm's existence they also carried on a general mercantile store at Port Matilda. Some years ago the firm was dissolved and the business was carried on by Mr. Chaney until advancing years compelled his retirement since which time it has been under the management of his son Harry. Mr. Chaney was probably one of the best known and thoroughly respected men of Worth township. He was a member of the Presbyterian church and was always conscientious and upright in all his dealings with his fellowmen.

In March, 1860, he was united in marriage to Miss Sarah A. Peters, of Martha Furnace. She with three children survive, namely: Harry F. Chaney, of Port Matilda; H. L. and W. C. Chaney, of Tyrone. He also leaves two sisters, Mrs. Margaret Neal, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Mrs. Mary Green, of Petersburg, Rev. S. E. Bergen had charge of the funeral services which were held in the Presbyterian church at Port Matilda on Tuesday morning, after which interment was made in the Port Matilda cemetery.

CORLI.—After being a patient sufferer for the past three years and partially helpless as the result of paralysis Israel Corli died at his home at Struble last Friday morning. He was a son of Benjamin and Elizabeth Corli and was born near Woodward seventy-four years ago. When but four years old his parents moved to Ferguson township and located at what is now Pine Hall, where young Israel assisted in clearing the land that has been the family homestead ever since and where he spent all the rest of his life. His occupation was naturally that of a farmer and he was quite successful.

In March, 1860, he was married to Miss Harriet McBath who survives with the following children: G. Edward, John, Elmer, Benjamin and Charles, at home; Mrs. Scott Meese, Mrs. Otis Hoy, Mrs. Susan Reside, of State College, and Mrs. H. M. Walker, of Fairbrook. Of his father's family there is now left one son, Peter Corli, of Struble, and a daughter, Mrs. Daniel Houser, of Centre Hall. He was a prominent member of the Reform church and filled various township offices during his long life. The funeral was held on Sunday morning. Rev. A. A. Black officiated and burial was made in the Pine Hall cemetery.

SHREFFLER.—At four o'clock on Monday morning Henry E. Shreffler died at his home at State College. For several years past he had been ailing with heart trouble and a number of months ago dropsy and other complications set in which finally caused his death.

He was born in Clinton county and was sixty-eight years old last March. He was a plasterer by occupation and during the past twenty years had been a resident of State College. During the war he served as a member of Company G, 147th regiment, and was severely wounded at the battle of Chancellorsville. In October, 1865, he was united in marriage to Miss Lena Wilt who, with one daughter, Mrs. Walter Carson, of Akron, Ohio, mourn his death. He also leaves two sisters, Mrs. Musser and Mrs. Simon Kline, of State College. Rev. Smith, of the Evangelical church, of which he was a member, officiated at the funeral which was held on Wednesday afternoon, burial being made in the Pine Hall cemetery.

KELLER.—David Keller, a brother of Jacob Keller, of Pine Grove Mills, died at Portstown, Huntingdon county, last Saturday, of paralysis, aged 81 years, 6 months and 2 days. He was born in Centre county but spent most of his life near McAlevy's Fort. The funeral was held on Tuesday, burial being made in Steffey's church cemetery.

BAYARD.—The sudden death of George D. Bayard, in the Altoona hospital at four o'clock Wednesday morning, was quite a shock to his friends and acquaintances in this place who did not know of his illness. Over a year ago he ruptured a blood vessel in his ankle and while it gave him some trouble at the time it apparently passed away and he thought very little of it until two weeks or more ago when serious complications developed at the ankle which resulted in blood poisoning and Wednesday of last week his condition was such that he was taken to the Altoona hospital for treatment. But the affection had gained such a stronghold in his system that all efforts to check it were in vain and his death followed.

George Dashnell Bayard was a son of the late Col. George A. and Martha J. Bayard and was born in Bellefonte about forty-one years ago. After completing his course in the public schools he went to clerk in his brother Walter's drugstore. He served there long enough to acquire a full knowledge of the business. A number of years ago he left Bellefonte and since then has worked in drugstores in various towns throughout the State but during the past eighteen months was employed as clerk at the LeRoy hotel, Altoona. While living in Bellefonte he was affiliated with the Episcopal church and being possessed of a remarkably good voice his singing in the choir was always a feature of the service.

His death is the first break in a family of nine children, those surviving being as follows: Walter, of San Francisco, Cal.; John, of San Juan, Cal.; Mrs. George Bowen, of Canton, Ohio; James, of Bellefonte; Ursula and Sarah, of Williamsport; Caroline, of Scotland, Pa., and Roger T., of Tyrone. The remains were brought to Bellefonte on the 1.23 train yesterday afternoon and taken to the home of W. S. Zeller on Allegheny street, where they will be until 10.30 o'clock this morning when the funeral will take place from the Episcopal church. Burial will be made in the family lot in the Union cemetery.

HASSINGER.—Miss Carrie May Hassinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hassinger, of Valley View, died on Thursday of last week after a lingering illness with Brights disease. Her death is quite an affliction on the family as another daughter died only a few months ago and still another is now critically ill. Deceased was born in Spring township and was about twenty-eight years of age. The funeral was held from her late home on Sunday afternoon. Rev. W. C. Winey officiated and burial was made in the Union cemetery.

SWEENEY.—George Sweeney, an old soldier, died at the home of his son-in-law, Newton Yarnell, near Linden Hall, on Sunday afternoon, of paralysis. He was seventy years old and during the Civil war was a member of Company D, 148th regiment, General Beaver's old command. He was a member of Gregg Post, of this place. Surviving him are his wife and four children. The funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon, burial being made at Centre Hall.

Charles E. Bronson, D. D., pastor of West Hope Presbyterian church, Philadelphia. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Charles H. Wright. Her sister, Mrs. Frederick Simpson, was matron of honor and Dr. William R. Brown, of Philadelphia, was best man.

The bride is the youngest daughter of the late Rev. W. O. Wright, who for a number of years was pastor of the Milesburg Presbyterian church, consequently is quite well and favorably known in Bellefonte. The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Blair, of this place, and is already well established in the practice of his profession in Curwensville. Mrs. F. P. Blair was one of the guests at the wedding.

PUBLIC CARD PARTY FOR THE HOSPITAL. The card party which will be given in the assembly room of the public building, on Tuesday night next, under the direction of Mrs. Thomas Mitchell and Mrs. John Curtin should prove a very enjoyable as well as remunerative event. Fifty cents apiece will be the charge and every body will be welcome. Tables for bridge, six-hand euchre, whist, five hundred and the round game will be provided and parties desiring to make up tables of their own can do so by reserving them upon application to either of the ladies of the committee. Prizes will be awarded for the highest scores in each of the games, both to the men and women.

—Clear weather or rainy nights make no difference in the superiority of the program at the Scenic. It is always good, and some nights better than others. If you are a regular attendant you know this. If you are not get in line and go. It costs but five cents and there is not an evening that it isn't worth double the money. Special feature films is a hobby of manager T. Clayton Brown and he promises one in the near future which you cannot afford to miss. Watch for it.

—John C. Miller, an old Bellefonter has evidently tired of wielding his versatile pen as editor of the Barnesboro Star and Patton Courier and last week resigned his position and on Monday left for Waterloo, Iowa, where his brother is located. He has not yet decided whether he will go into business of any kind in the west, as his trip as at present outlined is purely one of pleasure, but if he finds a good opening out there which he thinks he can fill he will likely take it.
