

PINE GROVE MENTION.

Fred B. Tate is now A. H. Hartwick's boss farmer.

The picnic on Saturday in the Johnson grove was a success.

George Smith has gone to Centre Hall to handle the paint brush.

Mrs. Ida Goheen, of Tyrone, is visiting friends near Rock Spring.

Al Wimer bought the Dr. Dale farm on the Branch for $7,000.

Miss Minnie Neidigh came down from Altoona for a few days rest.

Our Boalsburg neighbors are all agog over an approaching wedding.

Miss Sadie Elder is visiting friends at Bellwood and Altoona this week.

Farmer George Roan transacted business at the county seat Saturday.

George Fortney and wife dined at the J. F. Kimpert home Sunday noon.

John Cummo, a farmer on Tadpole, spent a day last week down Spruce Creek.

Prof. C. H. Weaver and wife spent Sunday at the Weaver home at Linden Hall.

Fletcher Sausseman, of Altoona, spent last week greeting old chums in town.

Mr. George Graham and daughter Ruth are making a ten days visit at Philipsburg.

Among the sick are Myra Kimpert, H. H. Goss, Sarah Reed and Mrs. L. Motherbaugh.

Harry Walker and wife are making a two week's visit among friends in Johnstown.

Miss Ruth Rook, of State College, was entertained at the C. M. Dale home over Sunday.

Tommy Bell and his mother, of Carlisle, with James Briggs were Branch visitors last week.

J. B. Jodon, cattle buyer of Pleasant Gap, was here last week and made a number of purchases.

Daniel Irvin, one of the hustling farmers and representative men of Baileyville, was in town Friday.

Harry Behrens and wife are making a two week's visit among friends in Altoona and Hollidaysburg.

Mrs. Catharine Musser has been visiting friends at Boalsburg and Oak Hall, the home of her birth.

Henry and Ralph Walker and Charles Motherbaugh are off on a trip to Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

Squire Musser and wife, of Bellefonte, were visitors over Sunday at the Dr. Woods home on Main street.

Misses Grace and Margaret McCormick, of Hublersburg, are visitors at the Danney home on Main street.

Theodore Ritchie, of the Mountain city, a fireman on the Pennsy, was a Pine Hall visitor over the Sabbath.

A. J. Tate, who has been here with his family, returned to his furniture business at Philipsburg on Tuesday.

Robert Florey, wife and family came up from Sprucetown and spent Sunday at the George Grimes home.

Rev. R. M. Illingsworth, of Marietta, joined his wife and family for their summer outing at the H. M. Snyder home at White Hall.

Samuel Eberhart, a prosperous farmer on the Branch, has been under the doctor's care the past week or two, but is some better now.

Miss E. Pyscher, of Williamsport, with her friend, Mrs. A. Hamilton, of Bellefonte, are being entertained at the A. S. Walker home on the Branch.

A terrific hail storm passed over Ferguson and College townships late Wednesday afternoon, riddling the corn and almost ruining the oats yet in the field.

R. C. Palmer has just improved his dwelling with a new addition and a fresh coat of paint and it is now one of the most beautiful homes down Pennsylvania.

W. C. Franks is walking on air on account of the arrival of a nice boy last week. Harvey Kennedy also reports a nice boy at his home just west of town.

Mrs. Sallie Bloom, after a two month's visit down Pennsylvania, returned home Friday and is getting her wardrobe in readiness for a trip toward the setting sun, to spend the winter in the Badger State.

B. F. Homan is arranging to quit the old farm at Oak Hall and fit to State College to enjoy a well deserved rest for himself and his good wife. Their son Waldo will hereafter till the fertile acres of the old homestead.

Mrs. Homer Walker had a close call for her life last Friday. While descending the cellar stairs her heel caught, throwing her head on the hard ground below injuring her head and shoulders, but she is on the mend now.

Mrs. Sadie Wakefield, of Warren, after an absence of twenty years, is visiting relatives and old friends hereabouts, only to find a very few who she mingled with in her childhood days. She was Sadie Shirk before her marriage and was a Pine Grove Academy student.

Miss Rhoda Hoy and friend, Miss June Kyle, of Belleville, took a drive through Stonevalley and crossed old Tussey to this place Monday evening. They lodged at the St. Elmo over night and continued their journey to State College Tuesday.

From there they went to John Mitchell's home at Lemont, thence to Frank McFarlanes and later visited the John Kimpert home. They made their home journey over the Seven mountains at Pot- ters Mills.

On Wednesday evening, the 3rd inst., a jolly party of friends and neighbors took the George Behrens home on the hill by storm. The onslaught completely surprised Mrs. Behrens, who had just reached her 48th milestone in life. The jolly party brought with them generous refreshments which they spread on a long table in the yard and all present had a jolly good feast. Mrs. Behrens received many beautiful and useful presents, which she appreciates very much. The evening was spent in fun and music until a late hour when the guests took their leave wishing the good lady many returns of the day.

LEMONT.

Rev. W. K. Harnish and family are away at present taking their annual vacation of several weeks.

The farmers are about all through cutting oats and many of them have much of the fall plowing about done.

James Williams, our hustling plasterer, and his six employees, are busy at present with the work on hand and more coming in every day.

Rev. Campbell will preach in the United Evangelical church Sunday, August 21st, at 10.30 a. m., and as he is an evangelist the sermon will be a treat for all that can make it suit to attend.

There will be a grand fete held in Lemont on the lawn in front of the M. E. church Saturday evening, August 20th. Everybody is invited. Come and bring your friends with you. Ice cream, cake and other delicacies of the season will be served.

The Pennsylvania railroad company transferred Otterbine Dale from this place to Lock Haven and appointed Cloyd Palmer to take his place as assistant in the station. It is hoped that both young men will make a success of the work assigned them.

The rain that fell on Monday was certainly needed, for the roads had gotten very dusty and the ground so dry and hard that nothing could grow. It began to look as though the corn crop would be short but this rain will help it and perhaps be enough to make it a good crop.

There will be two Sunday school picnics on Saturday, August 13th, viz., the United Brethren will hold one in David Houser's woods near Ira Lyle's and the United Evangelicals of this place will picnic in James Thompson's woods near Center Furnace mills, and all are invited to attend one or both of them and have a good time in the woodlands.

SPRING MILLS.

Our farmers have housed about all the wheat, and are making preparations to cut oats which seems to be a good crop. The corn looks well and gives flattering promises. The potato crop will evidently be a large one.

Commercial agents stopping off here last week, were almost as plentiful as blackberries, making fall sales. Some agents are making advanced dating from October 20th, and yet, they say, business drags heavily, merchants buying very cautiously.

Harvey Brian is making preparations to erect his new dwelling on the lot he recently purchased from Robert Smith. The location is a very desirable one, workmen are now engaged in digging out the cellar.

The ice cream parlors of Edward Winters seem to be headquarters for not only the young folks, but for the older ones too. On Wednesday and Saturday evenings the parlors are thronged, and he frequently disposes of all his cream at an early hour. When the cry is "still they come."

J. C. Lee, our new railroad agent, transferred from Linden Hall station, entered upon his duties here on Wednesday last week. He is said to be a gentleman possessing railroad abilities of a high order. Harry W. Brown, a very affable and obliging young man, formerly Mr. Campbell's "right bower," will remain in the office and act as Mr. Lee's clerk.

H. J. Brian & Co., roofers and dealers in metallic sheeting and oils, have added lime, cement and crushed stone to their business. The concern will be almost obliged to admit a new member, as on Saturday morning last, a very lively and exceedingly young man made his appearance at the home of Mr. Brian, with the intention of boarding with him for some time. Mr. Brian thinks of giving the young gentleman an interest in the business at once to avoid any further controversy.

W. L. Campbell, our popular and efficient railroad agent, has been transferred to Coburn. We regret exceedingly to lose Mr. Campbell, as in addition to being a good citizen, he has won golden opinions from all sorts of people by his agreeable and pleasing manners in transacting business at the office. Nothing appeared to be too much trouble for him. Never any delay in the delivery of goods, nor in obtaining any information as regards the connecting of trains at different points. All business matters received prompt and immediate attention. The people of Coburn are to be congratulated in having a polished gentleman always obliging and thoroughly conversant with railroading as agent at that station.

HUBLERSBURG NOTES.

Jake Berk, of Altoona, spent Sunday at home.

The Misses Helen and Larue Ishler are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Swartz.

L. H. McAulay has returned to Burnham after spending a week with his family here.

Charles S. Miller and wife, of Johnstown, are visiting their relatives in this place this week.

Mrs. Geo. Bartley, who formerly lived in this place, paid her old home a visit this week.

Homer Decker with his mother and sister, of Pine Grove Mills, were the guests of Miss Mittie Vonada on Sunday.

"Bobby" Markle took a drive to Howard on Sunday evening where we presume he was royally entertained by friends.

Eugene Hall, of Unionville, paid his uncle, B. W. Rumberger, a short visit on Saturday while en route to Watkins Glenn, N. Y.

After a month's absence Miss Rose McCormick returned from the Williamsport hospital where she is entered on a course in nursing.

Mrs. Calvin Hoy left on Tuesday morning for Lewisport where she and her husband will begin housekeeping. Mr. Hoy has a position in the car shops near that place. These young people will be missed in our community very much.

The people of Walker township do not realize how richly they have been blessed with rains this summer, while our neighbors in Clinton county and other places would have appreciated what we have received thoughtlessly and perhaps ungratefully.

Ninety Millions Census Guess.

By the middle of October, but scarcely before, the people of the United States will know their own number, as revealed by the thirteenth census.

The figures will not be given out until the count is entirely completed and minutely verified, and by that time every man who "keeps tabs" will know the total for himself, for the details for all such sub-divisions as states, cities and counties will have become known previously through the census office announcements.

The process is moving forward rapidly, and when it is completed the population of the United States can be easily determined by footing up the totals arrived at. Mr. Durand is not having the figures totaled, and he says that it is his purpose not to do so. He is not curious as to the outcome of his work. Nor will he make a prediction as to what the result should be. It is known that the census officials generally fall in with the idea that there are about 90,000,000 people in the United States.

MAYNR GAYNOR WILL RECOVER

New York Executive Shot by Assassin on Liner.

Former City Employee Attempts to Murder Mayor in Revenge for Losing His Position—Fought Desperately When Arrested.

The physicians, who have been constantly in attendance upon Mayor Gaynor, of New York, at St. Mary's hospital, in Hoboken, N. J., since an hour after he was shot in the neck by James J. Gallagher on the deck of the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, noted nothing but improvement in their patient's condition. So favorable was his case that the surgeons decided not to attempt an operation for the removal of the split bullet that has lodged in the mayor's neck.

The mayor isn't suffering greatly at present. He hasn't lost consciousness since James J. Gallagher's revolver was discharged into the back of his neck on the promenade deck of the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse. He is keenly alive to the nature of the trial he faces.

Insisting that the physicians should tell him just how the score between himself and death stood, Mayor Gaynor heard their report and seemed satisfied. He knows that he must match his strength against that of death, and the issue grows tenser with the passing of the hours.

The shooting of Mayor Gaynor came with terrible suddenness. He was standing on the deck of a ship which was to take him to Europe on a month's rest and vacation. About him were many members of his official family, there to bid him goodspeed. President Pedro Montt, of Chile, who was to be a fellow passenger, had not a half minute before gripped the mayor's hand in friendly salutation, and the distinguished South American executive was where the smoke cloud from Gallagher's revolver swept across his face.

Mayor Gaynor was just in the middle of a passage at repartee with Dr. Ernst G. Lederle, his head of the department of health. He reached a playful hand out and poked Dr. Lederle gingerly in the ribs.

Placed Pistol Against His Neck.

Just at that instant a hand reached up from behind Mayor Gaynor's back and the muzzle of a short bulldog revolver was placed against his neck. There was a click, the sound made by the dropping of a hammer upon a dead percussion cap, then a report.

"You've stolen my bread and butter, damn you!" Those were the words that were bawled over the mayor's shoulder in the instant between the clicking of the revolver hammer on the dead cap and the explosion of the shell.

For just a hair's breadth of time there was a silence. One of the photographers who had leveled his camera before the shot to catch the mayor's farewell smile, clicked his shutter by the very involuntary reaction that tugged his trigger.

Then a cry from Secretary Adamson: "Oh, God, he's shot the mayor."

Each of the men about the mayor wheeled and saw Gallagher standing there, with his arm just lifting with the movement of cocking his revolver again, and threw up the revolver hand. Just as he did so the weapon exploded and the bullet went whistling over the roof of the steamer shed.

Commissioner Edwards landed his tremendous bulk at the stunted figure who was wrestling with Adamson. He caught Gallagher about the waist and bore him crashing to the deck boards. There the two men rolled, Gallagher making furious efforts to turn his pistol hand, which Adamson still held, around into the face of his antagonist, Edwards, who was gradually bending the assassin's left arm down where he could put one knee on it, and with his free hand jamming swift blows down upon the upturned face beneath him.

Ralph Bloomer jumped forward. "Want any help, Bill?" he cried. "Sure; sit on his head," panted the big commissioner. "He's strong as an ox." Just then another shot sounded. Gallagher had twitched his pistol hand around the grip Adamson had put on it, and he flicked the trigger in blind chance.

The bullet tore through the left coat sleeve of Commissioner Edwards, seared the biceps of that arm in a long welt and buried itself in the boards of the deck twenty feet away. Gallagher cursed him in broken breaths. It was then that Corporation Counsel Watson took a hand. Gallagher had wriggled part way free of Edwards' grip, and when Edwards caught him in this act he heaved with his shoulders and half threw, half pushed the raving man on the deck beneath him against the lower iron rail of the deck bulwarks, and Watson rushed in, stepped with all of his weight on Gallagher's right wrist, then bent over and wrenched the revolver from his hand. Edwards then snapped handcuffs on his wrists and he was then turned over to the police.

A BANK ACCOUNT A man came to us recently and asked us to lend him five hundred dollars with which to buy a pair of horses. He told us that with an additional team he could make a thousand dollars more, on a lumber contract he had. He got the money, because we wanted to help him, and because we have found him reliable in the past. This is an illustration of the value of a bank account in a bank that always has money to lend its patrons.

BOOKS, MAGAZINES, ETC. "IN THE SHADOW OF THE CHAIR"—A man who was tried for his life has written a powerful story of which the above is the title. Only two men living know who wrote it, so carefully has the author concealed his identity, and yet in telling of his ordeal he gives a picture so vivid that one feels he has held back nothing. It is a wonderful story and you should not fail to read it in the beautiful monthly magazine which is free with the Pittsburg Dispatch Sunday, August 14. The stories in this handsome magazine are all by the best writers of the day. Some of the other good ones are: "The Breach," by Mabel Herbert Usher; "Cinders of the Stage Door," by Grace Sartwell Mason; "Johnny McDonald, the Two of Him," by Dave King; "The Discoverer," by Charles Belmont Davis; "The Man in Black," is the title of a strong serial, the first installment of which will be in the issue of August 14. It will be continued in the regular edition of the paper. You will like the magazine. It's free, but to be sure of getting it leave your order with the newsdealer early for the Dispatch of August 14.
