

Carries Man Over Channel.

Graham White Coming to America to Make Flights—No Air Flying For Roosevelt.

John Moissant, a young Spanish aviator, hitherto practically unknown in flying circles, flew across the English channel from Calais to Tilmanstone, eight miles northeast of Dover and established a new record by carrying a passenger with him.

Moissant is now resting at Tilmanstone, preparatory to continuing his flight to London, about sixty miles, thereby being the first to make the aeroplane flight from Paris to London. Moissant is flying in a Bleriot monoplane, which makes his feat of carrying a passenger, who was his mechanic, a man named Albert, all the more remarkable.

London is awaiting Moissant's arrival here with great excitement and the daring aviator will be given a rousing reception.

Moissant's time from Calais, where he left the French coast, to Tilmanstone, where he descended on the English coast, was 42 minutes. Bleriot took 37 minutes to cross the channel, but his distance was considerably shorter. Count de Lesseps required only 25 minutes to make the flight from coast line to coast line. The late Captain Charles Stuart Rolls made the cross-channel flight, from Dover to France and return, in 1 hour 35 minutes.

Moissant was born in Chicago of Spanish parents. He is thirty-five years old. He is of slight build, but his mechanic weighs 187 pounds. Moissant is an architect. He only took up aviation a month ago. He suddenly came into prominence on Aug. 8, when he unexpectedly flew from Etampes to the Issy military grounds, passing over the Eiffel Tower. He has stolen a march on Latham, as did Bleriot, who robbed Latham of the honor of first crossing the channel in a flying machine. Although Latham was unwilling to admit that he intended to attempt a flight to London, it is known that such was his object.

No Air Flying For Roosevelt.
Colonel Roosevelt has no intention of going up into the air at present. He denied he had planned to make an ascension on Friday at Hempstead Plains with Aviator Harmon, and said that he did not even intend to attend the aviation meet that day.

Patten Sells Stock Exchange Seat.
James A. Patten has sold his stock exchange seat in New York for $70,000. This is an increase of $5000 from the last previous sale. Mr. Patten, who is on his way home from Europe, sent a wireless message to the firm of J. S. Bache & Co. asking them to dispose of his seat. There have been reports since early last spring that he intended to withdraw from active business. He has been active from time to time since then as a cotton merchant.

Jaw Broken By Pitted Ball.
Waiting for the pitcher to "lay them over" in a game of ball at Hollidaysburg, Pa., John Karl did not dodge far enough from the plate when a fast inshoot was served, and the sphere struck him squarely on the point of the chin, splintering the jaw bone and knocking him out.

Woman Burned to Crisp.
As the result of starting a fire with coal oil, Mrs. Mason Rodgers was burned almost to a crisp at Fredericksburg, Va. She died. Her ten-month-old baby also was seriously burned, but may recover.

Maine Deer Takes a Buggy Ride.
Francis F. Mitchell, a New York man vacationing in Maine, had the surprise of his life, while driving along a road a few miles from Bangor. He was sitting back in the seat enjoying the beautiful scenery, when he was startled to see a frightened deer spring from the forest at the roadside and leap into the carriage, falling between the dashboard and the horse.

The latter kicked until the vehicle was demolished. After both the horse and deer had kicked about for three minutes the child of the forest managed to extricate itself and ran back into its retreat, apparently none the worse for its experience.

Girl, 13, Brains Youth.
Catherine Botti, aged thirteen years, of Pittsburg, Pa., seized an axe and, creeping unawares upon Pasquale Bolpe, aged eighteen years, as he stood in his doorway, crushed the youth's skull, killing him instantly.

The girl hysterically cried to eye witnesses that she had "avenaged her wrong." Surrendering to the police, she was placed in the Wilmerding jail, charged with murder.

Child Swallows Pennies.
After swallowing eight pennies, little Dora Storie, of Minersville, Pa., lay at death's door until the dead weight of the coins in her stomach was relieved by an emetic. The pennies had been laid aside for church, and none of the family knew what became of them until the little girl was seen swallowing the last one.

A Big Land Deal.
One of the largest land deals in the history of the state was closed at Delhart, Tex., in which the famous J. J. Ranch of 212,000 acres was sold by E. B. Neely to Pruitt Brothers, of Kansas City, Mo., for $1,200,000 cash. It will be divided into farms and colonies.

Solves Mystery of Woman Missing For Three Years.

Horace Burlingham, a ginseng hunter, has solved the mystery of the disappearance of Mrs. Keller Clark, who left her home in Middlefield Centre, N. Y., three years ago, after writing a note in which she said she would never be seen again.

Entering a dense thicket, Burlingham stumbled across the skeleton of a woman. It was at a point two miles from the Clark home. Beside the skeleton was an empty laudanum bottle, telling a story of suicide.

Identification was made by means of a watch, rings and other jewelry worn by Mrs. Clark at the time of her disappearance, and was later confirmed by Dr. Knapp, who had done some dental work for Mrs. Clark.

Mrs. Clark was formerly Miss Edith Coleman. She was married to Dr. Keller Clark, formerly of Coopersville, and they had one son. She was thirty years old at the time of her disappearance. The search for her attracted a great deal of attention. Searchers spent many days in the woods and bloodhounds were employed. Almost every foot of the woods where the skeleton was found was believed to have been gone over.

Famous War Nurse Dead.
Florence Nightingale, the famous organizer of nursing in the Crimean war, died in London, Eng. She was ninety years old and has been confined to her home for years.

Florence Nightingale was the first woman to follow a modern army into action as a nurse, and in the Crimean war gained the title of "Angel of the Crimea." She was born in 1820, and in 1840 entered the famous institution at Kaiserswerth, Germany, to fit herself for a hospital nurse. She had just returned to England when the Crimean war broke out.

She at once organized a corps of volunteer nurses whom she led to the east. At Scutari she founded a hospital, and until the end of the war she was constantly at work administering to the troops, either in the hospital or in the field.

Three years ago King Edward bestowed upon her the Order of Merit, the most exclusive distinction in the gift of the British sovereign. The membership of the order is limited to twenty-four, and in it at that time were such men as Lord Kitchener, James Bryce, John Morley, George Meredith, Admiral Fisher, Sir Alma Tadema and Sir William Huggins, who died on Miss Nightingale's birthday.

Virginia Wardlaw Dies in Prison.
Miss Virginia Wardlaw, a woman of middle age, who, with her two sisters, is under indictment for the murder of Mrs. Oscar Wardlaw Martin Sneed—in the bath tub mystery—died in the house of detention at Newark, N. J.

Her death, it is said, will materially affect the prosecution of her two sisters. General decline is given as the cause of death. Miss Wardlaw at one time was a resident of Tennessee.

Recently it was said that Miss Wardlaw was suffering greatly from debility due to her age and to confinement in prison. On the strength of representations made to the New Jersey courts she was a few days ago transferred from jail to the house of detention, where she could have more attention and medical care. Rumors have been circulated that she deliberately starved herself, but they are authoritatively said to be entirely baseless.

Doctor Ends Life as Woman Dies.

Double Tragedy Startles New Germantown, Pa., When Bodies Were Discovered by Neighbor of Woman.

The bodies of Dr. Russell Campbell and Mrs. Ira Morrison were found at the home of the Morrises in New Germantown, Perry county, Pa., Monday morning.

A neighbor discovered the body of the woman lying across the front doorstep, and further search revealed the doctor's body in his room.

Hasty examination showed that the woman had died from internal hemorrhages, resulting from an operation. The theory is that Dr. Campbell performed the operation some time during the night, and on discovering the fatal result killed himself. His death was due to cyanide of potassium.

Dr. Campbell was twenty-four years old and a graduate of the Medico-Chirurgical college in Philadelphia. He was a son of Dr. Hans Campbell, a well-known physician of Path Valley, Franklin county. A few months ago the young man went to New Germantown and set himself up in practice, taking a room at the home of Ira Morrison, a local dealer in cattle.

Morrison went to Dry Run, fourteen miles away, on Saturday to attend a picnic and to buy cattle, and remained over Sunday. He hastened home when notified of the tragedy.

About 11 o'clock at night David Kramer, a neighbor, thought he heard moaning in the Morrison house as he passed, but as no light was visible he concluded he was mistaken. At 6 o'clock in the morning, Luther Ray passed the Morrison home and saw two bare feet protruding from the half open front door. Running up the steps, he was horrified to find the body of Mrs. Morrison in her night clothes and bathed in blood. She was dead. Hurrying on into the house, Ray found the body of the young doctor in his room, dead on the floor. Beside him was a partly empty vial of cyanide of potassium.

Dr. Campbell's hands were bloody and his shirt was spattered with blood. The instruments with which the operation had been performed on Mrs. Morrison were found in such condition as to leave no doubt of what had taken place.

A coroner's jury was hastily summoned, and word was sent to District Attorney Rice, who hastened to the scene from New Bloomfield. The jury found a verdict to the effect that Mrs. Morrison had died from the effects of an operation, and that Dr. Campbell had died from poison taken with suicidal intent as a result of the disastrous outcome of the operation.

Mrs. Morrison was thirty-five years old. Dr. Campbell had been practicing at New Germantown only about six months. During all of that time he had boarded with the Morrises.

Steel Cage for Millionaire Baby.
Bar Harbor, Me., Aug. 16.—A steel cage on wheels, cunningly wrought by a skilled craftsman and safeguarded by locks of the most complicated design, for the morning's ride of Vinson McLean, America's $100,000,000 baby, is the latest and most startling novelty which two fond parents have taken to protect this little Croesus against kidnapping.

This steel perambulator has followed as a result of the recent attempt of burglars to break into the mansion of the McLeans at Bar Harbor. The McLean baby is now as carefully guarded from all, save his nurse and Detective Warders, as if he were a little prisoner held as hostage.

126,000,000 Gallons of Whisky Used.
The following figures announced by the internal revenue service show that in the fiscal year ended July 31 the citizens of the United States drank 126,000,000 gallons of whisky and 59,000,000 barrels of beer and ale. They smoked 8,000,000 cigars and 7,000,000,000 cigarettes. Uncle Sam profited by these facts to the extent of $289,728,014, the total collected as internal revenue. Playing cards contributed $55,524 in revenue, and oleomargarine produced more than a million dollars.

Why Foreigners Marvel.

From the Springfield Republican.

Intelligent foreigners marvel greatly at the contrast between our political liberty and our object surrender of the right to live as we please, do what we like when it does not harm others. The passion for reforming folks is very likely a by-product of the nervous energy by which the American people have accomplished so much. It is intensified in a Democracy, by the habit of appealing to public opinion, and may easily invade fields that are of merely private concern. If frowns and ostracism do not bring the heretic to terms, there is a prompt clamor for the law to make criminal what has been merely matter for disapprobation. Indiana has tried the childish plan of sending grown men to jail for smoking cigars; it is quite conceivable that a zealous crusade against coffee might lead to some great wheat-growing State—there's a reason!—to make coffee-drinking a penal offense. Such a tendency is a far greater menace than tobacco, the evils of which have already been measured by centuries of use; there is no measure to the freely indulged passion for meddling.

"How did you enjoy her bohemian evening?"
"It wasn't much. Both the epigrams and the sandwiches were stale."
