

INK SLINGS.

A vote for PATTON for Congress is a vote for CANNONISM. If you are for CANNONISM vote for PATTON.

Straw votes may indicate the way the political winds blow, but then they often fail to blow hard enough.

Dr. SAMUEL STEWART should represent this district in the Senate. Remember that on election day.

The Athletics won the world's championship baseball series in a walk. Chicago looked like the product of a "Windy city."

Poor Col. ROOSEVELT! He is trying hard to make enough noise to be heard above the din raised by eastern fanatics over those Athletic champs.

Who do you suppose was ever fool enough to tell the cows and chicken hens about the immense profits to be derived from the formation of trusts.

And bacon is to go to forty cents a pound. My, everyone seems to be "hogging it" but the poor fellow who sits at the breakfast table these mornings.

Let us have a credible Senator in the Legislature; a man competent to represent us intelligently and with dignity. Vote for Dr. STEWART for this office.

What JOHN K. TENER said at the near great reception given him at the Brockerhoff house Saturday night BILL DOAK could tell you with three wiggles of his fingers.

Weight them in whatever balance you will GRIM will prove the abler of the nominees for Governor. Is it not your duty then to vote for the best fitted man for that high office.

Politics is politics and it will all be over on November 8th. Remember this and don't jeopardize friendships by unpleasant or acrimonious arguments with those whose friendship you care.

Don't fail to go to the polls on November 8th. Go and vote for some one. Vote according to your best judgment as to the proper candidates. But vote. It is every freeman's duty to exercise the right of franchise.

And now that cruel Navy Department has ordered Captain PEARY back to work. Isn't it awful, MABLE, that the real and only discoverer of the North Pole should actually be called upon to debase himself by working for his salary.

If you want to vote for CANNON and all that CANNONISM stands for in American politics vote for CHARLEY PATTON for Congress. He has steadfastly refused to say that he will not vote for CANNON to be speaker of the next House of Congress.

Aside from the charges that have been made by the North American against his integrity JOHN K. TENER is not mentally equipped to fill the gubernatorial office in Pennsylvania with intelligence. Surely you do not propose voting for an unfit man.

After the Colonel had blown his head nearly off telling the voters of New York that TAMMANY made the Democratic nominee for Governor it leaks out that Mayor GAYNOR was the first to suggest Mr. DIX. Now the Colonel will have to blow it all over again.

The death of SIMON P. WOLVERTON, of Sunbury, removes another of the older Democrats who were a force in the party councils in years past. He represented his district in the State Senate and in Congress and in both capacities proved a man of unusual ability and an ornament to the legislative halls of the State and Nation.

Centre county has honored J.C. MEYER in no small way. He has been placed on all the tickets to be voted next month. The honor is merited, because he has proven himself a most useful and dignified public servant. Now let his vote be so large that he will go to Harrisburg inspired to work even harder than he has done to bring credit to good old Centre county.

Mr. TENER's having brought a criminal libel suit against the Philadelphia North American will not add much water to his mill. He should have answered its charges promptly when they were made, two weeks ago. The public knows that bringing a libel suit doesn't necessarily exculpate the libeled and in this case it looks like an attempt to throw dust until after November 8th.

While speaking at Gettysburg to the conference of Lutheran ministers Senator GRIM deplored the attempts that are being made to drag the church into the politics of the State. Senator GRIM is a member of the Reformed church of Doylestown and is superintendent of its Sunday school, yet he sees the great danger of trying to identify religion with politics, as Mr. BERRY is doing, and he is right. The fundamental principles of our government are founded on the separation of the church and the State and it is just such little entering wedges as this fall's campaign is driving home that are going to involve us in grave dangers in the future. Really it seems as though Mr. BERRY and Mr. TENER are after office by any means they can get it, while it is left to Mr. GRIM, alone, to uphold and advocate the higher ideals of government.

Democratic Watchman

STATE RIGHTS AND FEDERAL UNION.

VOL. 55. BELLEFONTE, PA., OCTOBER 28, 1910. NO. 42.

A Warning.

Do Democrats of Centre county who are thinking of voting the Keystone ticket realize that such an act will, in addition to the aid it would be giving Mr. PENROSE in his efforts to defeat the Democracy, be placing themselves in a position to be disfranchised at the primary election next June.

At that time candidates for every county, township and borough office within the county will be to be nominated. From sheriff down to county surveyor, from justice of the peace, to township clerk, and from burgess to high constable all will be to be elected. The candidates for these many and important offices will be chosen at the June primaries, at which not a man who votes the "Keystone" or Prohibition tickets, can vote if his vote is challenged: That voters can see for themselves, we give paragraph of Section 10, of the Act "providing a uniform method of making nominations for public offices, approved Feb. 17th, 1906. This provides that

Each elector shall have the right to receive the ballot of the party for which he asks. PROVIDED that if he is challenged, he shall be required to make oath or affirmation that, at the next preceding general election at which he voted, he voted for a majority of the candidates of the party for whose ballot he asks.

Suppose you vote the Keystone ticket this fall and next June you want to help nominate a good ticket, possibly a personal friend among the rest, either for county, township or borough. You ask the election board for a Democratic ticket, and some one who knows you voted against your own party candidate at the preceding election and is opposed to the person or persons you desire to have nominated challenges your vote? What can you do about it but walk away disfranchised, with no vote, or no voice in choosing the men who will fill the offices in either your county, township or borough?

For yourself personally that is exactly what your vote for the Keystone ticket means.

For your party it means to help defeat its nominee, Mr. GRIM; it means to help elect PENROSE's candidate TENER, and it means now when we have a chance to win the State to throw that chance away.

To elect Mr. GRIM we need only to poll the regular Democratic vote of the State. There are tens of thousands of Republicans who will vote for him, there are tens of thousands of others who will not vote at all, and many, very many, will vote for Mr. BERRY, giving us the opportunity of carrying the State we have not had in many, many years.

Are you going to throw away this opportunity and at the same time disfranchise yourself when it comes to nominating the Democratic local tickets next June?

Think over this, and if some one who doesn't want the same men nominated for county, township or borough offices, that you would vote for next spring and challenges your vote, remember that the WATCHMAN warned you kindly and in time of the risk you are taking.

Word of Caution to Democrats.

Little more than a week before the election it is practically conceded that the Democrats will carry Connecticut, New York, New Jersey and Ohio and that there are more than even chances of Democratic success in Connecticut and Indiana. With this result in the North two years before the Presidential campaign of 1912, the election of a Democratic President is assured. Even if ROOSEVELT should be the candidate of the Republicans and even though he should carry one of the Southern States, Democratic victory is inevitable. The intelligent and conscientious people of the country have set their faces against the reactionary policies of the Republicans and will vote for and secure a change.

In view of this obvious fact how foolish it is for Democrats of Pennsylvania to stray away from their party nominees this year. There will be no other State election until that of 1912 and in dispensing the patronage of his office no Democratic President will feel like rewarding political renegades with party favors. It will justly be reasoned that even Pennsylvania might have been added to the list of Democratic States if the voters of that political faith had been faithful to their political obligations in 1910, and that failure to do so deserves punishment rather than reward. It is the rule of all parties to be thus influenced in distributing patronage and it is a just rule.

There are considerations in the performance of civic duty more important than the patronage of power, of course. If a party nominates a man who is mentally or morally unfit for the office to which he aspires the public conscience is justified in revolting and public sentiment will support those who refuse to obey the mandates of unworthy party leaders. But those Democrats who refuse to support WEBSTER GRIM for Governor of Pennsylvania have no such ground for defending their action. No party has ever had a fitter candidate for Governor and no candidate has ever been mentally and morally better qualified for the office. In view of these facts we would caution Democrats against bolting.

Roosevelt Distributes Reward.

Unless the signs are misleading ROOSEVELT is riding to disaster in the pending campaign. The people of New York will take no chances of a third term movement in 1912. They reason that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," literally as well as figuratively, and propose to stifle the fetus in time. It is not that there is apprehension in the popular mind that ROOSEVELT's ambition to Mexicanize the government is in danger of fulfillment. That would be putting a meagre estimate upon the intelligence and patriotism of the people. But it is a good deal easier to kill a viper while it is young than to destroy it after it has reached maturity.

That ROOSEVELT hopes to subvert the government no longer admits of doubt. His first move in this direction was his effort to prosecute the New York World and the Indianapolis News for libel against the government instead of against the individual aspersed and to try the case in Washington rather than within the jurisdiction in which the publication was made. His defeat in that enterprise still rangles in his storm-tossed brain. While the cases were pending he tried to bribe the court officials by inferential promises of promotion. He declared that those charged with the prosecution "would earn his gratitude" if they were successful. Only one of the number was influenced by this offer of reward, however. District Attorney STIMSON, of New York, prostituted himself and degraded his office by endeavoring to pervert the law and subvert the government. ROOSEVELT has rewarded him by bestowing upon him the Republican nomination for Governor of New York.

In the Indiana court the officials were less susceptible to the baneful influences of an evil mind in authority. The District Attorney in that court resigned rather than prosecute the case and the Judge threw it out of court as a treasonable proposition. "If the history of liberty means anything," he said, "if constitutional guarantees mean anything, this proceeding must fail." This is the language of Judge ANDERSON of the United States District court of Indiana and he too, has received his reward. While in Indianapolis, the other day, THEODORE ROOSEVELT, in the language of a drunken ruffian, denounced Judge ANDERSON as "a d-d crook and a jackass." We love this jurist for the enemy he has made.

The High Cost of Living.

That the tariff is responsible in large part for the high cost of living is conclusively proved by the difference in the prices of food products in this country and England. The beef trust of this country, for example, sells its products at two cents a pound less in Liverpool than in any of the cities of this country. In furnishing meat abroad the trust pays the cost of transportation not only to the seaborad but across the ocean as well as to the distributing stations on the other side. It is able to make this discrimination in favor of the foreign consumer because the tariff tax on imported meats absolutely forbids competition.

The high cost of living is not entirely in the increased price of food, though probably that feature of it is felt more than others because it comes direct. But the higher prices of woollens, cottons, linens and other materials of that sort that are essential to life help to pile up the burdens under which the American people groan. We pay a tax on our cutlery, our chinaware, our wearing apparel, our shoes, hats and everything else we use whether they are imported or not, for the prices of domestic products are invariably fixed by adding what would be the tariff tax to the home made product and the difference goes into the pocket of the American producer.

There are no infant industries to foster in this country now and therefore there is no excuse for this excessive taxation. The only effect of the present tariff is to satisfy the greed of the monopolies whose managers contribute to the campaign corruption fund to keep the Republican party in power. Is it just that hundreds of millions of dollars should be taken annually from the earnings of industrious citizens to serve such a purpose? We say no and protest against the outrage involved and we ask the people to join in a movement to protect themselves and their children from the injustice by voting out of power the party responsible for it.

Good Enough Morgan Until After the Election.

JOHN K. TENER, Republican candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, is not likely to deceive many people by his prosecution of the Philadelphia North American for libeling him in the publication of a statement of his connection with certain dubious business operations. What the paper in question alleged is that the National Public Utilities Corporation was created by the merging of three or four bankrupt corporations, that it was practically without valuable assets, that it issued stock to the aggregate par value of $2,000,000, that a considerable part of this obviously worthless stock was sold through false representations to innocent investors, that Mr. TENER was for a time president of the corporation, that he received without payment of money $50,000 of the stock of the concern and that while president he drew salary at the rate of $5,000 a year.

If these statements are true the newspaper is not guilty of libel. Even if the circumstances justify a reasonable suspicion of their accuracy the publication is not libelous. Mr. TENER is a candidate for public office and the publication of any information concerning his operations in business is, in legal phraseology, privileged. Now, as a matter of fact, Mr. TENER has himself practically acknowledged what has been charged. That is to say he admits that the corporation of which he was president was created in the manner described. He acknowledges that he was president and director of the corporation for a time and that during that time he drew salary at the rate of $5,000 a year. He owns up that he was voted $50,000 of the stock without having paid any money but declares that he refused to receive it and that subsequently $20,000 of the stock was offered to him without charge and that he declined that also.

Manifestly Mr. TENER's purpose in bringing suit against the newspaper is to create the impression on the public mind that he has been injured in popular esteem by the publication of falsehoods in relation to the matter. No doubt he imagines that the average citizen will think that he wouldn't dare appeal to the courts unless he was conscious of his own integrity and confident of vindication. Mr. BARNUM once said that the people liked to be fooled and politicians like to please the people. But LINCOLN, who was wiser than BARNUM and closer to nature was of the opinion that "you can't fool all the people all the time," even though they like it and in this particular case Mr. TENER's expectations are likely to be disappointed. Mr. TENER knows that his suit against the newspaper will never be brought to trial. It is simply intended to be a "good enough MORGAN until after the election."

State Organization Faithful.

The Democratic State organization has amply proved its fidelity to the principles of the party it serves in its efforts to form an alliance with all the voters who favor good government in order to prevent the election of the unfit nominee of the Republican machine. In view of recent developments the election of JOHN K. TENER to the office of Governor of Pennsylvania would be a public shame. It has been charged that he has been associated with professional swindlers in at least two shady enterprises and it is believed that he was nominated for the office in the expectation that his election would promote the exploitation of the interests of the people for the benefit of individuals.

There is a misconception in the public mind as to the reasons why certain leading Democrats of Pennsylvania opposed the nomination of WILLIAM H. BERRY as the Democratic candidate for Governor. It was not on account of his opinions on the liquor question or for the reason that his views on any moral problem differed from theirs. It was because they felt that the Democratic vote could not be held for him, and that charges of neglect of public duties and carelessness in business transaction would be brought forward against him. Along these lines the record of Mr. BERRY is not above suspicion and party leaders who were familiar with the facts were unwilling to take the hazard of a campaign with such a candidate.

WEBSTER GRIM was fairly nominated for the office to which he aspires and which he is morally and mentally qualified to adorn. But in order to make certain the defeat of the Republican machine candidate and to avert the disgrace which his election would involve, he was willing to relinquish his just claim for the support of all Democrats and the State executive committee of his party humbled itself in an effort to induce Mr. BERRY to make a similar sacrifice, though as a matter of fact he is the nominee of no party, but the selection of a small body of malcontents, appointed by a smaller body of political bosses, one-third of whom has already abandoned him and is supporting another candidate.

The Payne-Aldrich Beefsteak.

A beefsteak raw is tariff-taxed 1 1/2 cents a pound, poultry 5 cents a pound and chops or cutlets 10 per cent.

A steak is cooked on a broiler tariff-taxed 40 per cent. or in a frying pan (a barbarous method of the backwoods), and the frying pan is taxed 40 per cent.

You test the steak with a fork tariff-taxed on a varying scale, but by the tariff law it must never be less than 40 per cent. Forks, 40 per cent. or more.

You trim it with a knife that may pay more, but must never pay less than 40 per cent.

It rests in state on a platter tariff-taxed 55 per cent.

The stove it has just left is tariff-taxed 45 per cent.

The dab of melted butter is tariff-taxed 6 cents a pound.

Even the pepper is taxed one-fifth of a penny an ounce.

The celery salt, 40 per cent; ordinary salt, one-tenth of a penny a pound.

If there is a small bit of cheese it is taxed 6 cents a pound.

The pickles are tariff-taxed 40 per cent; the onion pickles, also 40 per cent; the apple sauce, 35 per cent., and in addition one penny a pound.

The butcher who sold the steak has his share of tariff tax to bear.

He has carved the steak from a quarter of beef with a knife taxed 40 per cent.

His butcher's cleaver has been tariff-taxed perhaps more, but by the law never less than 40 per cent.

The wooden chopping block on which the real character of a man is revealed is weighed on scales tariff-taxed 45 per cent.

It is wrapped up to be delivered in paper tariff-taxed 35 per cent.

What a splendid affair the Payne tariff tax law is!

Did Penrose Know?

From the Johnstown Democrat.

The recent exposure of the business methods and career of John K. Tener, the candidate of Boies Penrose for Governor of Pennsylvania, is a great service done for the people of this State.

Is there now any citizen in Pennsylvania who desires honest and representative government who can go to the polls November 8th next and vote for this machine candidate of unquestionably dishonest business methods and support the situation and character of a man he is infamously political promoter?

Fortunately the curtain has been drawn aside on the Punch and Judy exhibition that is taking place before the people of Pennsylvania.

They have been enabled in part to see the real character of the principal puppet in this would-be political farce.

Did Boies Penrose know the piratical business practices and connections of his candidate for Governor?

We are tempted to believe that he did. If he did not, he should have known all about the career and character of a man he was selecting for so important a position as Governor of Pennsylvania.

We do not think that he cared what kind of a character his candidate for Governor had or any of his candidates had as long as he was sure they would do his bidding after they were elected.

He thought his power so secure and his machine organization so irresistible that all else was unimportant.

We believe that the people are going to show him that he was mistaken and mete out an overwhelming defeat to his candidate for Governor, Senate, Assembly and Congress.

Roosevelt and the Tariff.

From the Pittsburgh Post.

Colonel Roosevelt has grown very enthusiastic over the scheme to have the tariff revised by a commission. He would like the people to forget that during his seven years as President he upheld the iniquities of the tariff system and opposed any revision.

The lion hunter is trying hard to extricate himself from a very embarrassing situation and evade present responsibilities. He has failed utterly to harmonize his tariff utterances in the west with his action in the Saratoga convention, and has taken up the cry for a commission with a view of clouding the issue and winning support for his gubernatorial candidacy in New York.

It is also interesting to recall that while Teddy is preaching a tariff commission, the Republican machine of Pennsylvania, which he has endorsed, is boasting of the Payne-Aldrich law and insisting that there is no necessity for revision. It proves that the exigencies of the situation fix Teddy's position on the tariff, and on everything else.

Roosevelt is a politician first, last and all the time. The things he knocks today he takes to his bosom tomorrow, if he thinks he can achieve a victory by so doing. He has become an expert lightning-change artist, with whom it is extremely difficult to keep up. He endeavors to humbug the public, and "gets away with it" to a remarkable degree.

Mr. Tener's "Defense."

From the Philadelphia Record.

It is evidently intended as an advertisement for the company. Tener says it is a good thing and he got out of it only because he was too busy to attend to its business.

The statement would seem to indicate that Tener intends to get out of the race for Governor and go back to the National Public Utilities corporation. To this the people of Pennsylvania cannot object. They can refuse to buy the stock. If there were no question of Tener's personal honesty the answer he makes to the charges under which he rests shows that he is at least too much of a fool to be Governor of Pennsylvania.

SPAWLS FROM THE KEYSTONE.

Report says many turkeys have died in Columbia county this season so that the Thanksgiving bird in that section will be dear, as usual.

The severe typhoid fever situation at Lime Ridge, Columbia county, is now well in hand, with an almost entire absence of cases from secondary infection.

A number of Spanish dollars have been found in circulation in Tyrone and vicinity and whether they are the real Spanish article, worth about seventy cents, or counterfeit is the question now being solved by chief of police Wands, of that town.

In the Bucks county court, at Doylestown, a jury awarded Miss Julia Kehoe, of Perkasie, a verdict for $9,741.33 damages against the Reading Railroad company. She had a foot so badly injured by a Reading freight train as to make her a cripple for life.

The much abused corset probably saved the life of Mrs. H. Wesley Guldin, of Pottstown, on Saturday. The lady was polishing a hot stove when the polish exploded, setting fire to her clothing. While she was badly burned her corset protected her from fatal injuries.

The McCintic-Marshall Construction company, of Pittsburgh, which has the $5,500,000 contract for making 60,000 tons of structure steel work for the Panama canal, has finished installing $100,000 worth of specially made machinery for the job, and will begin the work at once.

Patrick Dolan, formerly president of district No. 5, United Mine Workers of America, with headquarters in Pittsburgh, and one of the best known labor leaders in the country, was struck by a train in Pittsburgh last Saturday night and so badly hurt that he died a few minutes later.

When Charles D. Foster, attorney, banker and real estate owner of Wilkes-Barre, died about eight months ago his will disposing of a $500,000 estate was missing. On Monday a Wilkes-Barre bank received the missing will in a sealed package, postmarked New York city, but without any explanation of the mystery.

A big crop of fine apples was grown on the John Salmon farm, near Lock Haven, during the past season from an orchard that is sixty years old. J. Zimmerman had charge of gathering the crop and stored away for future sale 1,428 bushels of Northern Spies, Baldwins and other fall and winter varieties of apples.

Lying near a little pool of stagnant water in a swamp, where, evidently, he had crawled to quench his thirst before he died, Kenneth McCoy, a 13-year-old resident of Shannopin, Allegheny county, was found dead on Thursday morning. A hole had been torn through his abdomen by the contents of a double-barreled shotgun with which he had been hunting.

Charles M. Davis, a car inspector, was found dead at the side of the tracks of the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh railroad in Duloin, Pa. Friday night. It is supposed that he fell from a car. His body was without a scratch and death was caused by his neck being broken. No one witnessed the accident. Deceased was about thirty years of age and leaves a widow and one child.

Four energetic church women in Columbia county, members of Zion Reformed church at Forks, are hiring themselves out to the farmers as corn huskers, taking their pay in corn which they sell for the benefit of the church. In nine hours they husked 190 bushels of which their share was nineteen bushels of ears or nine and a half bushels of shelled corn. It is worth $7.50 at present prices.

Joseph Richardson, who a few weeks ago while confined in the Huntingdon county jail, pleaded guilty to making and passing counterfeit money, has been sentenced to two years in the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kansas. Richardson had his molds and other paraphernalia at a boarding house in Orbisania and had considerable bad money in circulation around the county before he was captured.

Judge Holland announced a decision in the United States circuit court Saturday overruling the motion for a nonsuit made by counsel for the Pennsylvania railroad, defendant in the $1,000,000 rebate discrimination suits brought by eleven coal mining companies. Legal points involved in the motion for the nonsuit, upon which rested the right of the jury to consider the cases, were practically all decided in favor of the plaintiffs.

The Tyrone Furnace company was recently incorporated in Delaware for the purpose of acquiring the patents known as the Locomotive and Water Appliance. The incorporators are D. B. Mingle, Wm. W. Lower and J. C. Templeton, of Tyrone. The capital stock is $200,000. The Miller patents are for coaling locomotives while going at the rate of from 30 to 50 miles per hour, as well as a new device for taking water.

It took an enterprising Lehigh business man to capture a government contract from among 300 competitors throughout the United States, when L. W. Strook, of West Bethlehem, landed the order for pick, shovel, sledge and ax handles for the Panama Canal Commission. The requirements are 1,200 dozen a month. They are made mostly of Tennessee hickory, and the government inspection is exceedingly strict.

William F. Markley, aged twenty-six, a machinist of Johnstown, Pa., was found dead in his room at the boarding house of Mrs. Mary O'Grady, in Youngstown, Ohio, on Sunday morning. The fumes from an open gas stove caused his death. Markley had evidently gotten up from his bed and was seized with a fit, falling close to the stove. He went there about six months ago and worked for the Republic Iron and Steel company and later for the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company.

Charles Maroon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Maroon, of near Osceola Mills, met with a narrow escape from death on Thursday morning. The lad is about eleven years of age. It is supposed he attempted to cross the track in front of a moving engine attached to six loaded cars. At any rate he was found between the rails after the engine and cars passed over him. He was taken home and Company Surgeon Reed summoned. Upon examination of the boy only a few scratches were found, otherwise the lad was unharmed.

An agreement between the Pennsylvania Railroad company and J. F. Whittaker and D. L. Diehl, owners of the Lewisburg, Milton and Watsonville Passenger Railway company, was reached a few days ago, whereby an electric trolley line into Lewisburg is assured. The agreement includes the right to electrify the Lewisburg and Tyrone railroad between Mifflinburg and Montandon, a distance of about fourteen miles. An extension of the trolley system in East Lewisburg will be made, connecting with the railroad and crossing the bridge into Lewisburg. Engineers from the local office have been sent to East Lewisburg by Superintendent Lincoln and are now at work surveying the route for the trolley track.

Two people were instantly killed and three others badly injured Saturday afternoon near Glen Hazel, about seven miles from St. Marys, when a big Stearns automobile became disabled by the bursting of a tire, turned turtle and then rolled down a twenty-foot embankment. The dead are Mrs. J. E. Jackson and five-year-old son. They were residents of St. Marys. Mrs. Jackson was the wife of J. E. Jackson, manager of the department stores of Hall, Kaul & Hyde at St. Marys and Ridgway. The injured are Mrs. Francis Hanlon Hyde-Kime, also of St. Marys, a sister of the dead woman, Miss Charlotte Wilmot, of New York, and Frank M.era, a chauffer, of Johnsonburg. Mrs. Hyde-Kime had her arm broken and was otherwise injured; Miss Wilmot was but slightly hurt, while the chauffer was injured about the head and side.
