Bellefonte, Pa., December 23, 1910.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.—No communications published unless accompanied by the real name of the writer.

No Paper Next Week.

In order to allow everybody connected with this office an opportunity to fully enjoy the festivities of Christmas and the holiday week no paper will be issued from this office next week, and the next number of the WATCHMAN will appear on Friday morning, January 6th. In the meantime we wish for every reader of the WATCHMAN a very merry Christmas and a happy and prosperous New Year.

THINGS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY.

—Hon. J. C. Meyer has recovered from his illness of last week and is able to be around again.

—A new baby boy arrived in the family of Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Maybus, at the George Mallory home, on Tuesday morning.

—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Derstine, of Altoona, have another little son, who arrived in their household the latter part of last week.

—Dr. David Dale has placed an order with John Sebring Jr. for one of the new model Franklin automobiles for the coming season.

—The rector of St. John's Episcopal church requests all the members of his Sunday school to be at the church on Christmas day at 10:30 a. m. instead of 3:00 p. m.

—The Bellefonte High school basketball team played the State College High school team in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium last Friday evening and came off victorious by the score of 23 to 12.

—Harry Harvey, of State College, was brought to the Bellefonte hospital and operated on Tuesday, by Dr. Locke and Dr. Glenn for an abscess on his leg; the operation being very successful he is rapidly recovering.

—The final dance ending the first term of the children's dancing school was given by Miss Helen Ceader and Miss Jennie Harper, in the town hall, Wednesday evening. It was a delightful affair and largely attended.

—Invitations have been received in Bellefonte for the marriage of Miss Isabelle Batten and Mr. Arthur Yates McNeil, which will take place at Saint Luke's church, Montclair, New Jersey, on Wednesday, the eleventh of January.

—The list of those who are ill in Bellefonte includes Miss Collins and Mrs. Samuel Sheffer, of Curtin street; Mrs. Jane Tate, of Bishop street; Mrs. William Miller, of Allegheny street; Jared Harper and G. Ross Parker, of Thomas street.

—W. D. Zerby Esq., last week sold his property on Bishop street, and extending through to Logan street, with a house on each thoroughfare, to Edward Gehret. He has practically closed a deal for the Chambers property on East Lion street, with the intention of making that his future residence.

—Word was received Saturday by Mrs. Comerford and Mrs. Burnside, of the death of their nephew, Louis Wilhelm, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wilhelm, of Buffalo. The young man, who died very suddenly last Thursday, has been home but a short time from a stay of eight years in the Philippines.

—Christmas festival services will be held in the Reformed church Sunday at 10:30. The school and congregation will use the service "Songs of the Ages," with special music and recitations by the children. In the evening a Christmas Christian Endeavor service will be held at 6:30 and a service of praise at 7:30.

—The mail carriers have had unusually heavy burdens to bear this week, as the Christmas mail has so far been as large if not larger than in former years. Most of the trains have been late this week so that the delivery of mail has been late also and very irregular; a fact however that cannot be blamed upon the carriers.

BERT DELIGE SENTENCED.—Bert Delige, the colored man convicted of the murder of Mrs. Hulda Baudis, was on Saturday morning sentenced by Judge Ellis L. Orvis to be hung.

The fact had become pretty generally known that sentence was to be imposed that morning and when court convened at ten o'clock the court house was well filled with those interested in hearing the sentence pronounced. The prisoner was brought into court and throughout the entire ordeal maintained the same stoical indifference so marked during the three days he was on trial for his life, apparently less concerned than any man in the court room.

Before pronouncing sentence Judge Orvis called the prisoner to the bar and gave him a brief review of his life. He told him that he must have been born with all the instincts of an outlaw to have the notorious career he had in his short life. That from boyhood he had figured in every escapade and while only in his teens he had shot and wounded a boy in an attempt to shoot the lad's father. For this misdemeanor he was tried at a term of quarter sessions court, convicted and sent to the reformatory, where he was given every opportunity to learn to be a better man and useful citizen. But it seemed to be without avail.

He had not been out of the reformatory but a year or so until he carelessly and wantonly shot Ralph Williams, from the effect of which the boy died in less than ten hours. Again the law was lenient and gave him the benefit of the doubt, preferring to take his claim, and that of his attorneys, that the shooting was more the result of an accidental discharge of his gun than of deliberation. At that, however, he was convicted of murder in the second degree but the verdict was set aside by the court and a plea of guilty to voluntary manslaughter accepted instead. For this he was sentenced to the penitentiary for three years, but for good behavior was released in 1903 after serving about two years and six months. There again, the court continued, he had an opportunity to profit by his punishment and resolve to lead a better life.

But all the leniency shown him by the law in the past failed in consummating a reformation and on October 16th he committed his gravest and most dastardly crime. The court briefly reviewed the facts in connection with this case, which are so well known as to need no repetition here, then told the prisoner that notwithstanding the heinousness of his offense the law still safeguarded him well. Able counsel were assigned to defend him, he was tried before God and his country by a jury of his peers and was given every chance that it was possible to give him. Referring to his two confessions the court stated that while they revealed the motive of the crime and explained in all the horrible details how it was committed, they were not a necessary factor to his conviction. That he had written the story of his crime by his footprints in the clay and sands about Scotia and in the ineffable spots of human blood, the blood of his innocent and helpless victim.

The court then asked the prisoner if he had anything to say why the sentence of the court should not be pronounced upon him and Delige responded "Nesir," in a firm voice.

In a voice trembling with emotion and with his eyes wet with tears Judge Orvis then said:

"And now, Bert Delige, the sentence of the court is that you be taken hence to the Centre county jail, there you be kept in solitary confinement and closely guarded until such time as shall be named by the Governor of this Commonwealth; that you then be taken thence to the place of execution within the walls of said jail and there be hanged by the neck until you are dead, and may God Almighty have mercy upon your soul."

Delige was at once taken back to the jail and will be kept continually under close guard to see that no effort is made to escape or towards self-destruction. The findings and sentence of the Centre county court have already been certified to the Governor and it is now up to him to name the day of execution.

On the same morning William F. Kesinger, of Engleville, convicted of assault and battery, was sentenced by the court to pay a fine of twenty-five dollars and costs.

—P. J. McDonnell, of Unionville, was in town on Wednesday attending the meeting of the public school directors of Centre county. He liked it so well that he decided to stay all night and that was something wonderful for Pat, for it was the first night he has spent in Bellefonte for years.

—Mrs. Charles Smith and her daughter Miss Lula, closed their house on Bishop street, and left Bellefonte this week, expecting to spend the Christmas and make a short visit at Reading, with Mr. and Mrs. James Harris, before going to Philadelphia, where they will be until they return to Bellefonte in the spring.

—Charles D. Moore, of Boalsburg, once one of the best known of the men teachers in the county, was in town on Wednesday and Thursday, attending the meeting of the Directors Association. Charles is one of the Hart's township directors and if years of experience in the school room count for anything he ought to be a very useful one.

—O. P. McCord, of Philadelphia, was in town on Tuesday, having come over to attend to some business at the county seat and have a look in at the teachers institute sessions. His sister, Miss Bessie McCord, is a teacher at Philadelphia, and being in regular attendance herself was able to make the day a very pleasant one for him. He lives at the old homestead "McCords" one of the landmarks on the mountain near Philadelphia.

—Mrs. Matilda Dale left Bellefonte Monday for Katonsville, Md., where she will visit for a short time with her sister, Mrs. Buger, later going on to Sparta, N. C., she will spend the remainder of the winter with her daughter, Mrs. S. W. Wetmore.

—Jack Wurtz, of Pittsburgh, was in Bellefonte Tuesday night on his way to State College to enjoy the advantages of three days at the Farmer's Week exercises. Mr. Wurtz is a coal operator and quite wealthy but he recently purchased a farm for a summer home and in order to acquaint himself with up-to-date methods of agriculture he decided on this trip to the college.

—O. J. Stover, of Eagleville, was in town Tuesday evening looking after a little business that he could attend to between trains. For some unaccountable reason we had gotten it into our head that he had moved off to Tennessee again, hence the surprise at seeing him. He is keeping house alone now, his sister having moved away and expects to remain in Eagleville at least until spring.

—Among our callers on Tuesday afternoon were Charles Murray, of Tyrone, and Mrs. Ferd Bezer, of Spring Creek. Mr. Murray formerly lived at Julian where he was section boss on the Bald Eagle Valley railroad but when he was retired on a pension he moved to Tyrone. He was down here for a brief visit at the Ferd Bezer home. Mr. Bezer before his marriage having been an inmate of the Murray family for years.

—J. Willard Barnhart dropped in for a brief call Tuesday evening and just naturally we got to talking about teacher's institute. About the time we had arrived at the conclusion that institute doesn't make the stir in Bellefonte that it once did we both wakened up to realize that we are old married men now and that probably accounts for our thinking that the institutes are going stale. We never thought that it might be us and not the institutes.

—The assessors of Philadelphia were in town on Tuesday making report of their work to the County Commissioners and we want you to know that Philadelphia has a mighty distinguished looking trio of gentlemen holding down those jobs over there. They are what might truly be called well known old citizens, for when you take Sol Schmidt, Robert Kinkead and L. G. Dom together they are well known and old in their residence in our sister town. It seemed to us that they all looked decidedly placid to have gone through many of the vicissitudes that falls to the lot of the average assessor, but then, we presume, they are the kind of assessors who do everything so well that there are no such unpleasantnesses following their valuations. If so, we congratulate both Philadelphia and the gentlemen in question.

—Mrs. Harvey, of Philadelphia, and the Misses Margery and Anne Lyon, are in Bellefonte with Judge and Mrs. Ellis L. Orvis.

—Ira G. Burkett, of Stormtown, was a Bellefonte visitor on Monday; though not down to take any part in the teachers' institute.

—Mary Rhinesmith who has been visiting for the past ten days with her cousin, Lois Kirk, will return to her home at Clearfield today.

—Miss Eva Grove, of Shiloh, has been in Bellefonte this week, visiting Miss Margaret Lambert, attending institute and buying Christmas gifts.

—Mrs. John A. Woodcock will have as guests on Christmas day, Rev. J. A. Woodcock and Mrs. Woodcock with their daughter Anna, of Birmingham and Dr. Lee B. Woodcock, of Scranton.

—Miss Ida Wolf returned in the beginning of the week from Philadelphia, where she underwent an operation in one of the hospitals of that city, and is now very much improved in health.

—Miss Belle Snowden, of Philadelphia, with Clarence and Tom Hamilton, of New York, come to a party to be entertained during the Christmas by Mr. and Mrs. Thad Hamilton, of Howard street.

—Wm. Allison Jr. and Charles Allison, of New York, sons of William Allison, of Spring Mills, will be in Centre county to join the Allison Christmas party at Mrs. Alexander's at Centre Hall Monday.

—Miss Eloise Schuyler, assistant principal of the schools at Cape May, N. J., will come home tomorrow to spend her holiday vacation of ten days with her father, Dr. W. H. Schuyler, at Centre Hall.

—Witmer Smith and his son Russel, with Miss Elizabeth Kelley and Miss Kate McGowan, two of the operators in the Commercial exchange, attended the funeral of Miss Eva Archey at Mackeyville, Saturday.

—Miss Grace Marvin, head milliner in Joseph Bros. store, departed on Monday for her home in New York, where she will spend her holiday vacation and remain until the opening of the spring millinery season.

—Mrs. C. L. Gooding, of State College, was in Bellefonte Tuesday between trains, having come home with her mother who was returning to her home at Altoona, after a week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. Gooding, at State College.

—Dr. and Mrs. Edward Harris, with their two children, from Snow Shoe, and Mr. and Mrs. John P. Harris Jr., with their little daughter from Unionville, were here Monday night for the golden wedding reception to their parents.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. Harvey McClure, of Somerset, arrived in Bellefonte yesterday to remain until after Christmas with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James I. McClure. Charles McClure will come home from Philadelphia tomorrow for the holidays.
