The ceremony took place at the rectory of St. Peter and Paul's Roman Catholic church and was performed by Rev. Father F. P. Kumerant. The attendants were Miss Margaret Rowland, a sister of the bride as bridesmaid, and Dr. Wm. Hollenback, a brother of the bridegroom, as best man. The few guests present included the parents and brothers of the bride, the mother of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Herman, of Mt. Clemens, Mich., and Harry Barnes, of Phillipsburg. Immediately after the ceremony the young couple left on an extended wedding trip after which they will take up their residence in Philadelphia where Dr. Hollenback is engaged in the practice of dentistry.

The bride is well known among the younger set in Bellefonte from her frequent visits here as the guest of Mrs. H. N. Crider. She is an accomplished and vivacious young lady with a large circle of friends. The bridegroom is better known to the people of Centre county as "Jack" Hollenback, who last fall coached the State College foot ball team, and a brother of "Big Bill" Hollenback, who coached the 1909 State team.

GEN. JOHN IRVIN CURTIN.

CURTIN.—Following closely after the sudden deaths of Mr. Olewine and Mr. Rine that of Gen. John I. Curtin, at his home on Curtin street Sunday morning was the third in Bellefonte within ten days, and it also was so sudden as to almost stun the senses and create a feeling that Bellefonte must be ill-fated in some way or other. Several weeks ago Gen. Curtin had a bad fall on the ice and while he was not crippled in any way he suffered injuries which gave him some trouble and concern, though he bore it all very uncomplainingly. On Saturday, as was his usual custom, he was down town in the forenoon to get his mail and was again down in the afternoon and seemed to enjoy the Pleasant Gap Mummer's parade. For some reason or other, though not because he was feeling worse than usual, he did not come down town in the evening but retired early and so far as known slept well during the night. Sunday morning he got out of bed a few minutes after seven o'clock, closed the windows and turned on the radiator to heat up the room. He then went into the bath room and got a drink of water and returning sat down on the edge of the bed. Hardly had he done so until he fell over on his side on the bed. His wife got him entirely on the bed but he never spoke a word, expiring almost instantly. Heart failure was assigned as the cause.

John Irvin Curtin was the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Curtin and was born at Roland (now called Curtin) on June 17th, 1837, his father being a half-brother of the "Old War Governor," Andrew G. Curtin. He was educated in the public schools and the Williamsport Dickinson Seminary. His father was connected with the management of the furnace at Curtin and after quitting school the subject of this sketch went to clerking in the store at that place. Later he assisted in the survey of the Bald Eagle Valley railroad and worked at various things until the breaking out of the Civil war. At the first call for troops he enlisted in Company H, (Bellefonte Fencibles,) Second regiment, in April, 1861, for a term of three months. Returning to Bellefonte upon the expiration of his term of enlistment he recruited a company and with himself as captain was mustered into service in August, 1861, as Company A. Forty-fifth regiment, for a term of three years. This regiment was at once sent to the army of the Potomac where they participated in the campaign of 1862, taking part in the battles of South Mountain and Antietam, in both of which Major Curtin, he having been promoted to major on July 30th, 1862, displayed such bravery, daring and cool-headedness in action that he was commended in the reports of his superior officers and in September of the same year was promoted to lieutenant colonel.

In the fall of 1862 the Forty-fifth was sent to join the Army of Tennessee and fought with that organization during the campaign of 1863, returning to the Army of the Potomac early in 1864. In April of that year Maj. Curtin was promoted to a colonel and given charge of a brigade in Gen. Porter's division, though he always made the headquarters of the Forty-fifth in the Wilderness and other engagements in the Virginia campaign of that year he won high commendation for his bravery in action. On June 17th, 1864, in one of the engagements before Petersburg, Col. Curtin was shot through the right shoulder and severely injured that he was carried from the field. His wound was dressed in a hospital tent and in several days the colonel essayed to return to his command but became so sick and stiff from his wound that he had to abandon the attempt and it was several weeks before he was again in action. In October, 1864, he was brevetted a brigadier general in the United States volunteer service and as such fought to the close of the war. After the war was over he was offered a command in the United States army but after some consideration declined and was finally mustered out of service on July 17th, 1865.

During his service in the army he participated in over thirty engagements and was wounded twice. He was always uniformly kind and considerate of the men in his command and was always to be found leading his column and never directing or driving it from the rear.

At the close of the war he returned home and shortly afterwards went into the lumber business at Lock Haven where he remained until 1880 when he retired from business and moved to Bellefonte and this had been his home ever since. He was one of the leading men of Gregg Post, G. A. R. and always took a great interest in all Grand Army matters. He was a man who never spoke a harmful word about anyone and had the respect of all who knew him. In 1906 he accepted the office of burgess of Bellefonte in response to a general desire to have a distinguished Curtin in the post of honor at the dedication of the soldier's monument and Curtin memorial in June of that year.

In June, 1873, he was united in marriage to Miss Marjorie Isabelle Curtin, a daughter of John Curtin, who survives with two children, namely: Roland I. Curtin, a lieutenant commander in the United States navy, who served on the Wasp during the Spanish-American war and is now on duty at Annapolis; and Gregg, an electrician in the employ of the Pennsylvania railroad at New York. Of his father's family of seven sons and two daughters only two sons survive, Col. Austin Curtin, of Curtin, and James, of this place.

The funeral was held from his late home on Curtin street at 10:30 o'clock on Wednesday morning. Revs. Hewitt and Wilcox officiated and burial was made in the Union cemetery, the members of Gregg Post attending in a body, six of his old comrades acting as pall-bearers. A sad co-incidence in connection with Mr. Curtin's death is the fact that on Saturday evening his son, Lieut. Roland I. Curtin, gave a New Year's dinner at his home at Annapolis at which his father-in-law, Mr. Hammersley, was a guest. Shortly after the meal was completed the latter was stricken with apoplexy and died within an hour or two and the next morning Lieut. Curtin received word of his father's death.

RINE.—Samuel D. Rine, superintendent of the Bellefonte water works, died very suddenly on the morning of December 26th. As was his usual custom he got up about five o'clock and went to the pumping station at the spring to begin his day's work. Shortly afterwards he complained to his son William of a pain in his breast and walking out to the spring got a drink of water and went into the office. His son thought nothing of the matter until about six o'clock when, his father not coming back he went into the office to see what was wrong and was horrified to find him dead. Heart failure was the cause.

Deceased was a son of Abraham and Mary Rine and was born in Bellefonte, being 64 years and 3 months old. When a young man he learned the baker's trade but later studied engineering and about 1875 was elected superintendent of the water works. He was defeated for the position the following year but was again elected a year later. The next year he was elected and served in that capacity continuously ever since. The present water system in Bellefonte was all built up under his supervision and he knew every spigot and cut-off in town without any map for reference. He was a charter member of the Bellefonte Lodge of Moose and the Centre Social club, and was a man generally liked by all.

Surviving him are his wife, who before her marriage was Miss Anna Scott, and the following children: Harry, William, Charles and Mrs. Jack Norris, of this place, and Mrs. George W. Fisher, of Boalsburg. He also leaves four brothers and two sisters, namely: Harry, of Kane; John, Morris, James and Mrs. Frank Gehret, of this place, and Mrs. Amos Dry, of Tyrone.

Revs. Thomas S. Wilcox, John Hewitt and C. W. Winey officiated at the funeral which was held from his late home on Water street last Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock, burial being made in the Union cemetery.

ULRICH.—Michael Ulrich, an old-time resident of Millheim, died quite suddenly on Sunday night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. L. H. Gettig, on Thomas street. He came to Bellefonte to spend New Years and on Sunday was in good health. He ate a hearty supper and several hours later was taken sick and died at midnight. A blood clot on the brain was the cause of his death.

Deceased was seventy-seven years old and was born in Pennsylvania and spent practically all his life in Millheim, where he followed the occupation of a saddler until his retirement a number of years ago. Since the death of his wife he has been making his home among his children, four of whom survive, as follows: Samuel, of Penn Hall; William, of Wilkingsburg; Mrs. L. H. Gettig, of this place, and Hezra, of Spring Mills. Funeral services were held at the Gettig home yesterday evening and this morning the remains will be taken to Millheim for burial.

BARTLETT.—On Monday, December 26th, Mrs. Mary M. Bartlett, widow of the late Jacob Bartlett, died at the home of her son Jacob on Valentine street after an illness of some years with stomach trouble. She was 75 years, 3 months and 18 days old. Since early girlhood she had been a member of the United Brethren church and was a good christian woman, esteemed by all who knew her. Her husband died about twelve years ago but surviving her are the following children: Jacob, Richard and Mrs. Jacob Jury, of Bellefonte, and William, of Coleville. George Cox, a brother, also survives. The funeral was held on Wednesday of last week, Rev. C. W. Winey officiated and burial was made in the Union cemetery.

JOHN IRVIN OLEWINE.

OLEWINE.—Christmastide is always associated with cheer and happiness but this Christmas season was somewhat saddened in Bellefonte by an unusual number of sudden deaths, of people so well known throughout the town. The first was that of John I. Olewine, who died about twelve o'clock on the night of December 22nd. Mr. Olewine had been a sufferer with tuberculosis for several years but retired on the evening of the 22nd no worse than usual. In fact he had been feeling somewhat better that day and his wife and son Harris had gone to Williamsport to have the latter's eyes treated. It was shortly before twelve o'clock when Mr. Olewine was seized with a terrible fit of coughing which resulted in the rupturing of a blood vessel and a severe hemorrhage. He called to his daughter Adaline and she in turn called Will Bottorf, the only two other people in the house. As soon as the gravity of Mr. Olewine's condition was realized a physician was summoned but by the time he arrived life was practically extinct.

Mr. Olewine was twice married, his first wife being Miss Christina Gummo by whom he had one child, his daughter Adaline. About twenty years ago he was united in marriage to Miss Elizabeth Bottorf, a daughter of the late Jacob Bottorf, of Lemont, who survives with one child, J. Harris. He also leaves three sisters: Mrs. John Kline, of this place; Mrs. Walter Lilly, of Milton, and Miss Mary, on the old homestead near Axe Mann. Rev. Thomas S. Wilcox officiated at the funeral services which were held at the house at ten o'clock on the morning of December 26th, and the Masons had charge of the final services at the grave in the Union cemetery where interment was made.

John Irvin Olewine was a son of Samuel and Mary Olewine and was born at Laurelton, Union county, on July 26th, 1858, so that at death he was aged 52 years, 4 months and 26 days. In the spring of 1874 his parents moved to Bellefonte and Mr. Olewine received his final education in the Bellefonte Academy. When he was nineteen years old he entered the hardware store of James Harris & Co., then located in the Brockerhoff house block, as a clerk and was with the firm until it was reorganized into the Potter—Hoy Hardware company in 1901, when he continued with them one year. In 1902 he bought out the Irwin store in the Crider building and engaged in the hardware business for himself, continuing the same until his death.

Mr. Olewine's life is a good example of what an earnest, progressive man can do in a score or so of years. He leaves an estate, including life insurance, variously estimated at from sixty to one hundred thousand dollars. In addition to his hardware store he was one of the projectors and a stockholder in the Bellefonte Electric company. He was one of the projectors of the Commercial Telephone company and when that organization was absorbed by more extensive organizations his stock was transferred so that now his holdings are in the American Union Telephone and Telegraph company. He was one of the original projectors and stockholders in the Chemical Lime and Stone company, which is a very valuable holding, and one of the incorporators and stockholders of the Centre County Agricultural Exhibiting company. He was also a stockholder in the Bellefonte Trust Co. He was a man always ready to do all he could financially or otherwise in any movement that would be for the good of the town, and was progressive in all his business ideas and dealings.

He was a member of the Methodist church; of the Bellefonte Masons, the R. A. Chapter and Constans Commandery; a member of the Odd Fellows and the Bellefonte Club. Though he was assiduous in his attention to business he was a man who thoroughly enjoyed the social side of life and until the insidious disease of which he was a victim undermined his constitution he was one of the most companionable of men at all times. Mr. Olewine will be sadly missed by those with whom he was so closely associated in a business and social way but there is consolation in the thought that he is now at rest in a brighter home where suffering and death are unknown.

MATTERN.—Wilbur B. Matern died quite suddenly of heart failure at his home in Altoona on Saturday, December 24th. He was a son of the late Samuel Matern and was born and raised on the farm near the Friends church in Halfmoon Valley, at the time of his death being forty-four years old. For a number of years past he has been located in Altoona. Surviving him are his wife and one son, one brother and three sisters. The funeral was held on Tuesday, the remains being taken to his old home in Halfmoon for interment.

ALLEN.—Following a prolonged illness with kidney trouble John Allen, a well known resident of Curtin, died about two o'clock on Sunday afternoon. He was 89 years, 9 months and 5 days old and was born near Tusseyville, where he spent most of his life. He was a miller by occupation and for years worked at the old Red mill near Tusseyville and later at the mill at Centre Hill. He was a member of the Lutheran church and a deacon in the same for seventeen years. He was united in marriage to Miss Susan Straub who died sixteen years ago, but surviving him are the following children: G. W. Allen, of Curtin; Mrs. W. R. Shope, of Bellefonte, and Mrs. Emma Yarnell, of Nittany. The remains were brought to Bellefonte on Monday and taken to the Shope home and on Tuesday morning were taken to Tusseyville where funeral services were held and interment made.

In addition to her husband she is survived by five children, namely: Lila, Thelma, Frank, Charles and Clark. She also leaves her mother, Mrs. Sarah J. Struble, of Flemington, and four sisters: Mrs. William Callahan and Miss Emma, of Flemington; Mrs. William Boyer, of Bellefonte, and Mrs. Frank Johnson, of Pittsburg. Funeral services were held at her late home on Sunday afternoon and on Monday morning the remains were taken to Hubersburg for burial.

Surviving her are four children, namely: Mrs. Robert Sweetwood, of Centre Hall; Mrs. R. W. Bitner, of Avis; Miss Ida and Jerry, at home. Two brothers and one sister also survive, J. D. Runkle, of Tusseyville; Miss Lizzie and Samuel Runkle, of Centre Hall. The funeral was held yesterday morning, burial being made at Spring Mills.

She was born in Blair county and was ninety years old. Her husband died fifty-three years ago, leaving her with eight daughters and three sons. She was a member of the Lutheran church and a good christian woman. The funeral was held on Tuesday morning, burial being made at Pine Grove Mills.

The funeral was held on Saturday, burial being made in the Georges Valley cemetery.

She was 67 years old and is survived by her husband, Henry Gentzel, and the following children: Robert, of Beaver Falls; Elmer, of Bellefonte, and Miss Mamie at home. The remains were taken to Spring Mills last Wednesday for burial in the Georges Valley cemetery.
