

A surprise party, consisting of twenty of her girl friends in costumes, was given Mary Warfield Saturday night, at her home on Allegheny street.

The Maryland College for women at Lutherville, Md., was entirely destroyed by fire on Monday evening. All the students escaped with their lives but practically everything they possessed aside from the clothes they wore was destroyed. Among the students were Misses Alice Lowery and Mary Hicklen, of this place, and they were compelled to telegraph for money to bring them home.

Another new student was received at the Bellefonte Academy on Tuesday and another one is booked to arrive in the course of a week or two. The Academy now has the largest attendance of boarding students ever enrolled. In fact every room in the main building and the fraternity house is occupied, so that there is not room for another student, unless they be taken into Mr. Huges' residence.

PINE GROVE MENTION.

Farmer Elmer Louder has been seriously ill the past week with bronchial trouble.

Wm. McManus, of Manor Hill, came over to see his namesake on Water street Saturday.

Prof. Agee occupied his new residence on West College avenue, State College, on Wednesday.

Miss Ruth Wieland went to the Lumber city for a two weeks visit among her many friends.

Cal Riley was called to Altoona last week by the death of his sister, Mrs. Alex Everhart, who is quite ill.

Farmer George Johnson is nursing several broken ribs sustained by a fall on the ice last week.

John Deermitt, the popular Union Tea company man, is supplying his customers in the valley this week.

Yesterday that frisky little weather prophet made his forecast for the next six weeks to come.

Samuel Weber has been visiting his brother at Huntingdon the past week, mixing business with pleasure.

You don't want to miss the church supper to be held by the ladies tonight and tomorrow night in the L. O. O. F. hall.

S. H. Bailey with his friend Wm. M. Goheen, the well known auctioneer, spent last week among old friends at Baileyville.

Hon. J. Will Kepler is receiving congratulations over the arrival of a little daughter last week. Both baby and mother are doing well.

Rev. S. J. Pittinger is holding a protracted meeting at Meek's church which is quite well attended and much interest manifested.

John H. Nedich suffered a stroke of paralysis on Tuesday night which has effected his speech so that he can hardly make himself understood.

Deemer Pierce, of State College, passed through town Monday on his way home from Stone Valley. Deemer has a recorder bee buzzing in his ear.

James Dreese, of Adamsburg, joined his wife here last week and will be with her in rounding out a month's visit among their old Centre county neighbors and friends.

The venerable Samuel Markle came up from Tusseyville to replenish the wood pile for next year on the John Hamilton farm. He is long past eighty but swings an ax like a sixteen year old.

Miss Rose Woods, post mistress at Boalsburg, is visiting Prof. Bryson and family, at Derry, Miss Gussie Murray is her deputy and is handling Uncle Sam's mail matter very satisfactorily.

Jacob Meyer is building an addition to his home in Boalsburg, which he expects to have completed by April first where he and his good wife will move and enjoy a well deserved rest.

E. M. Krug, of Huntingdon, visited friends here last week. He was formerly associate editor of the State College Times but now is pushing his quill as associate editor of the New Era, of Huntingdon.

A jolly auto party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Wagner, Mrs. George Meek and Mrs. Emery Shriera, of Altoona, took a spin in Mr. Wagner's car and spent several days among friends on the Branch and at Boalsburg.

Dr. R. M. and H. M. Krebs, of our town, and C. D. Krebs, of State College, attended the Judge Krebs funeral at Clearfield last Saturday. In the previous death notice no mention was made of his military record. At the age of twenty he enlisted as a private in the 98th Penna. Regt. and was honorably discharged at the close of the war. He went as a substitute for his older brother Levi.

SPRING MILLS.

Harvey Rachau is engaged in selling trees and flower plants for a New York house.

W. B. Baum and J. U. Snyder, of Reading, made a business trip through the valley last week.

Mrs. Sue Hering and her daughter, Mrs. Maggie Donachy, were on the list last week, but are mending quite rapidly.

Some little building operations are underway here, notwithstanding the unfavorable weather conditions for the last month or two. Mr. Zettle has his residence well advanced. C. P. Long is sliding the eighth dwelling he has erected on the avenue, while others are patching up, etc.

Commercial agents stopping off here report spring business on the road, advanced dating to April 1st, as being very fair, although some say in most cases it requires considerable talking, but then talk is very inexpensive and as they all manage to carry a heavy stock of it, why there is very little trouble.

Mud, well I should say so. Last week we had it in beautiful quantities, over ankle deep, and we don't want any more of it either. In walking the slightest incline required skill and caution to remain erect, the mud was about as slippery as wet ice, and the party meeting with a mishap would present a very sorry sight.

J. C. Condo, of the Penn Hall carriage works, in the early fall had his salesroom stocked with a complete line of sleighs and sleds from the ordinary to the highest grade, and has disposed of the entire lot. Last week he sold the last one. The salesroom will now be rearranged for his usual display of spring and summer wheel stock.

SHAVER'S CREEK CULLINGS.

William O. Brooks, salesman and solicitor, is engaged at present taking orders for wall paper and paint.

The revival services will be opened in the M. E. church at Mooresville this week. Rev. E. E. Spousler will be in charge.

We learn the farm of Mr. Phillips, of near Charter Oak, is for sale. Would-be purchasers will do well to inspect these premises.

The question of a township high school is being brought to the front again, and local enthusiasts bid fair to make this the principal issue at the next local election.

Quite a number of real estate deals have been executed this winter, and Squire Henderson, our local justice of the peace, has had an unusual amount of legal business, examining titles and giving deeds clear of encumbrances.

RUNVILLE RIPPLINGS.

Mrs. Daniel Boyer, of Yarnell, tarried in our town a few days last week.

Reuben Lucas, of Bellefonte, spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs. Jane Lucas.

Rev. C. W. Winey, of Bellefonte, assisted Rev. Dean at the meeting Friday night.

Messrs. Martin and William Brower transacted business at this place this week.

Terrific Blast Rocks

New York.

Dynamite Cargo Blows Up at Jersey Central Dock.

Forty tons of dynamite exploded on the Jersey water front in the middle of 5,000,000 people and 5,000,000 things happened.

Radiating from the North river end of pier No. 7 in the Jersey Central's freight terminal in Communipaw, the concussion rocked Manhattan from end to end. Jersey trembled for many miles back of the marshes. Away out in Long Island people started up in trembling buildings and thought it was an earthquake. Everywhere the skyscrapers vibrated and spilled window glass into the streets.

In the immediate neighborhood of the explosion the destruction was so complete that it was next to impossible to determine the number of the killed or the precise reason a car load of dynamite and a quantity stored in two lighters let go. It is probable that thirty men lost their lives and that twenty-five of these were blown to pieces near the pier end.

A Deafening Roar. Suddenly there came a roar that overwhelmed all the little noises of New York harbor, a crushing, terrifying wave of sound like all of the great guns of all the forts letting off in company.

Then there was a slight interval of dead silence, in which people waited for something else to happen. And the momentary quiet was followed by a multitude of noises—the crashing of falling glass, the rattle and clang of iron girders swinging loose and battering the sides of piers, a squeaking and grinding of disturbed buildings settling back into place, and the shrieks and cries of hundreds of people who had been injured by the rain of missiles or who cried out in their fear.

It was several minutes before the railroad men in the terminal understood exactly what had occurred. After they had climbed out of the heaped up debris, their first business was to care for the commuters, who were running about aimlessly, with blood running from the glass cuts on cheek and head, and for their own men who had been injured in the upheaval of glass and iron and splinters.

A Scene of Devastation. Trainmen looked out toward the end of pier No. 7 and saw that 200 feet of the solid pile set pier had been bitten off short, so that the splintered edges of beams projected over black water; that a whole car of dynamite had vanished along with the pier end; that another car containing cases of dynamite in sticks had been ripped to pieces, spilling dynamite over the debris; that two big lighters, the Katherine W. and the Whistler, that had been taking on dynamite or the Dupont De Nemours company, were gone, and that the ships and lighters and barges laid up by the piers were piled with wreckage, and that wherever their eyes traveled along the water front of the terminal there was nothing but a mass of wreckage. There was not a spark of fire anywhere.

All the way up through the terminal from the riverside men were lying against box cars or sitting somewhere in the wreckage feeling out their own injuries. Nineteen out of twenty, possibly, were bleeding from gashes in the face or head caused by a shower of splintered glass from far on high. Some were bruised from being hurled against cars or thrown head first from their chairs in the pier offices or had been knocked down by driven planks.

Up in the train shed and waiting room of the glass denuded Jersey Central depot there was a wild scene of pandemonium. Imagine a steady rain of broken glass over an acre of ground for perhaps half a minute, and imagine 300 people running for cover over that acre, and you will have a faint idea of what took place in the depot.

Doctors grabbed men and women in bunches and gave them the antiseptic dabs and adhesive plaster bandages. But there were scores who were cut more deeply than others or groined from broken bones or lay weak and helpless from the shock that had come upon them so amazingly. And so the ambulances made trip after trip, carrying folks to the hospitals.

Aeroplane Rises From Water. The aeroplane has added another conquest to its long list of achievements on San Diego bay, Cal., when an aeroplane driven by Glenn Curtiss arose from the surface of the bay, flew two miles, returned to the starting place and alighted on the water as lightly as a gull.

Portugal to Pension Manuel. The Diario de Noticias, of Lisbon, announces that the Portuguese government has decided to pay $2300 as a monthly pension to the deposed King Manuel. A check for the months of October, November and December already has been sent to him.
