

Democratic Watchman

Bellefonte, Pa., August 11, 1911.

P. GRAY MEEK, EDITOR

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.—Until further notice this paper will be furnished to subscribers at the following rates:
Paid strictly in advance $1.00
Paid before expiration of year 1.50
Paid after expiration of year 2.00

Democratic County Committee Meeting.

In compliance with the provisions of Rule five of the rules governing the Democratic party in Centre county, the annual meeting of the Democratic County Committee will be held in the grand jury room in the court house in Bellefonte, on in the forenoon, to transact such business as may be properly brought before the meeting. All members of the committee are desired to be in attendance.

TUESDAY, THE 15th OF AUGUST, 1911
AT 10 A. M.

A. B. KIMPORT,
Bellefonte, Pa., July 25th, 1911,
Chairman.

—Now that Mexico has gotten pretty well settled down, the hungry creditors are demanding that she settle up.

—Speaker CHAMP CLARK writes to a friend in Hazleton that he is not going to neglect present official obligations and work "in order to run around the country after another office." Wonder if he had any Presidential candidates in his mind's eye when he was writing that sentence.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

—The Brockerhoff house bus came out of the shop of Forest Bullock, on Monday, looking as much like a new one as paint and varnish can make it.

—A large delegation of young people held a moonlight picnic at Hecla park on Tuesday evening, and just missed being caught in that hard rain storm.

—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wray, of Harrisburg, are rejoicing over the arrival, on Wednesday, of a nine pound baby boy. Mrs. Wray was formerly Miss Bessie Brown, a daughter of Mrs. Sarah C. Brown, of this place.

—Owing to the early hour at which the excursion train to Gettysburg on Sunday morning next leaves the station, it would be well for those intending to join the excursion to purchase their tickets in advance. They are on sale now.

—Tuesday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. T. Clayton Brown got together the five little orphans at the Pruner orphanage and two visitors, and after treating them to ice cream took them all on an automobile ride. In the evening they had them as guests at the Scenic. Such acts of kindness will be much appreciated by these little people.

—During the past week the Bellefonte school board received a letter from Miss Ella Levy which contained her permanent resignation as a teacher in the Bellefonte High school. They also received word from Mr. Steidle, of Williamsport, that he would not accept the position to which he was elected at the salary named. This leaves three vacancies to fill.

—The porch party at Mrs. Allison's last night, was the inauguration of a series, to be given during the coming month, by a committee, composed of the vice presidents of the aid society of the Presbyterian church. The women having pledged themselves to raise five hundred dollars of the fund for the repairs of the church property, have planned for many little affairs that will cover the time from now until the early winter.

—Joe Palmer, the Monument man, who is in jail for larceny, made another unsuccessful attempt to dig out of jail last Saturday. Ever since his first attempt to escape about a month ago he has been closely watched and on Saturday when the sheriff made the rounds of the jail he found the plastering and mortar dug loose from the stone in one of the cells on the second floor. Palmer will from now on be kept close to the steel cells.

—On Wednesday morning a slight fire occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Witmer, of Reynolds avenue, which resulted in the calling out of the entire fire department. The fire started in the attic and undoubtedly originated from a defective flue. The family, however, were prompt in their use of a garden hose and this action kept the flames from spreading until the fire companies arrived. All told the loss will not exceed two hundred dollars, which is covered by insurance.

DELIGHTFULLY SURPRISED.—Last Friday evening twenty-three young friends of Miss Grace Lyon gave her a delightful surprise party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Lyon, on Penn street, in celebration of her nineteenth birthday anniversary. Games and various social diversions were indulged in until eleven o'clock when refreshments were served, and these were choice in character and ample in quantity. After the "eatins" were all disposed of there were more games, music, etc., until a reasonable hour after midnight when all departed for their homes, so happy over the evening's enjoyment that they wished Miss Lyon had a birthday once a week. The latter, by the way, received quite a number of pretty remembrances, among them being a gold watch from her parents.

WOODRING.—Jesse Woodring, one of the best known residents of Worth township, died at his home near Port Matilda at an early hour last Saturday morning. He had been an invalid for several years as a result of a complication of diseases and his death was not unexpected.

Deceased was born on a farm near Port Matilda, on February 23rd, 1837, hence was 74 years, 5 months and 12 days old. His ancestors came from Lehigh county and were among the sturdiest pioneer residents of the upper Bald Eagle valley. Like his forebears Mr. Woodring stuck to farming and in this vocation was quite successful, being one of the most substantial citizens of that part of the county. In religious faith he was a Presbyterian and a Republican in politics.

Surviving him are his wife, who before her marriage was Miss Elizabeth Conrad, of Warriorsmark; and the following children: H. C. and P. B. Woodring, and Mrs. Chester Pringle, of Port Matilda; Mrs. John S. Gray, of Halfmoon township; D. E. Woodring, station agent at Milesburg; W. W., of Janesville Wis.; Archey B., of Tyrone Z. I. and M. J., of Phillipsburg. His surviving brothers are Aaron and Jacob, of Worth township, the latter now serving as county commissioner, and Mrs. John Wining, of Port Matilda, is his only surviving sister. He also leaves forty grand children and seventeen great grand-children.

The funeral was held at two o'clock on Monday afternoon. Rev. Bergen, of Petersburg, conducted the services and burial was made in the Presbyterian cemetery at Port Matilda.

BARR.—Samuel Wilson Barr, one of the best known residents of Tyrone, died on Saturday evening after a very brief illness with kidney trouble which affected his heart. He was born near Lewistown and was seventy seven years old. When a young man he came to Centre county and taught school in the vicinity of Linden Hall. Later he went to McVeytown and clerked in a store a year or two then embarked in the hardware business in Williamsport. When the Civil war broke out he enlisted and served until its close when he returned to Centre county and lived at various places until 1868 when he went to Tyrone and went into the hardware business with James A. Crawford. In 1872 he retired from the firm and ever since has been book keeper at the McCamant & Co. planing mill.

In 1867 he was united in marriage to Miss Mary E. Stiver, of Boalsburg, who survives with two children, W. C. and Miss Elsie S., both of Tyrone. Funeral services were held in the First Presbyterian church of Tyrone on Tuesday afternoon, interment being made in Grandview cemetery.

KLEPPER.—Mrs. Ida Verdella Klepper, wife of sheriff W. H. Klepper, of Lock Haven, died on Wednesday evening of last week of cancer. She had been a sufferer with the dread disease for more than eight years and during the past year had spent considerable time in a private sanatorium at Corry.

She was born at Rebersburg, this county, September 18th, 1863, hence was not quite forty-eight years of age. Her girlhood days were spent in the locality of her birth but during her wedded life she lived in Clinton county. She was a member of the Lutheran church since girlhood and a conscientious christian woman. In addition to her husband she is survived by two sons and two daughters, namely: Leon, Paul, Anna and Dorothy, all at home. She also leaves her aged parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Kreamer, of Millheim.

Funeral services were held at her late home in Lock Haven last Friday evening and on Saturday morning the remains were taken to Millheim where burial was made in the Highland cemetery.

YOCUM.—One of Walker township's oldest and best known citizens in the person of Henry Yocum, of Hubsburg, passed into the Great Beyond last Saturday evening. He had been in good health up until several weeks ago when he suffered a collapse and his death was the result of general infirmities. He was eighty-seven years of age and unmarried. In early life he followed the vocation of a lumberman and being of a frugal nature saved a competence so that the latter years of his life were lived in retirement. His only surviving sister is Mrs. Caroline Dunkle, of Lock Haven. Funeral services were held at his late home in Hubsburg on Tuesday morning, after which burial was made in the cemetery at that place.

SAGER.—On Sunday evening George W. Sager died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Charles Ammerman, near the Union cemetery, after weeks of illness with kidney trouble. He was 63 years and 11 days old. He was a carpenter by trade and most of his life was spent in this vicinity. Surviving him are two children, John and Mrs. Charles Ammerman, both of Bellefonte. An only sister, Mrs. Harry Bowersox, lives in Nebraska. Revs. Winey and Shuey officiated at the funeral which was held on Tuesday afternoon, burial being made in the Sunny side cemetery.

HERMAN.—Wendell Herman, the three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wade Herman, of Lemont, died on Tuesday afternoon after a brief illness with inflammation of the bowels. Burial will be made this (Friday) afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

TANYER.—Shortly after mid-night Sunday night the venerable William A. Tanyer, one of Ferguson township's oldest citizens, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Milton Shuey, at State College. He had been in feeble health the past year and about a month ago suffered a stroke of paralysis which hastened his death.

He was born in Pennsylvally and had lived until Tuesday would have been eighty-eight years old. When a young man he went to Pine Grove Mills and engaged in the carpenter business which he followed a number of years then took to farming. He was an enterprising and progressive citizen and one who stood high in the estimation of everybody in that community. He was an ardent and life-long member of the Methodist church and always steadfast in his devotions thereto. During his earlier life he was a great hunter and had a record of forty deer and bear to his credit, something few men in this part of the State have accomplished.

His wife died a number of years ago but surviving him are the following children: James D. and Mrs. N. T. Krebs, of Pine Grove Mills; Mrs. Harry Imboden, Mrs. George Graham, Alex D. and Mrs. Milton Shuey, all of State College, and Mrs. Thomas J. Vaughn, of Windboro. He also leaves one brother, Capt. Alexander Tanyer, living in Kansas. Burial was made yesterday afternoon in the old cemetery at Pine Grove Mills, Rev. Samuel J. Pittinger officiating.

CRAIN.—Residents of Port Matilda were very much shocked last Friday evening by the sudden death of Mrs. W. Scott Crain, of that place. Although she had been a sufferer with kidney trouble for some time her condition was not considered at all alarming. On Friday morning she told her husband she was not feeling so well and she feared a serious illness, and an hour or so later he found her lying on the floor where she had fallen and was unable to get up. Her death followed at seven o'clock in the evening and was directly due to uræmic poisoning.

She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Williams and was about thirty-three years old. She was a devoted wife and mother and her untimely death is sincerely mourned by everybody in that community. Surviving her are her husband and three children, the eldest of whom is only eight years old. She also leaves her father and one brother, Quay Williams. The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon; Rev. Gilbert, of the Methodist church, officiated, and burial was made in the Presbyterian cemetery.

CAMBRIDGE.—A sudden death in Unionville, last Saturday afternoon, was that of Miss Margaret Cambridge, which occurred at the home of her sister, Mrs. Henry Eason. Mrs. Eason had gone on a trip to Lock Haven and when Mr. Eason returned from State College, where he is employed, he asked Miss Cambridge where his wife was. Before she could reply she gave a gasp and expired. She was born in Bellefonte, in a house which stood where the electric light plant is now located, and was 72 years, 3 months and 7 days old. The greater part of her life, however, was spent on the Cambridge farm on Muncy mountain. Several years ago she suffered a stroke of paralysis and last November had a second stroke, since which time she had been practically helpless and confined to bed all the time. Her death on Saturday was the result of a third stroke. She was a woman of most pleasing personality and charm and had a large circle of friends and acquaintances. She was a member of the Catholic church and the remains were brought to Bellefonte for burial in the Catholic cemetery on Tuesday morning.

GATES.—Harry Gates, tenant farmer on the John Porter Lyon farm at Pennsylvania Furnace, died quite suddenly on Tuesday morning. He was laid up for over a month with a serious attack of bowel trouble and had recovered sufficiently to be out and around when he suffered a relapse and died in a few days. He was about forty years old and is survived by his wife, who before her marriage was Miss Margaret Everhart; one son and an adopted daughter. He was a member of the Presbyterian church at Graysville, where burial was made on Thursday. Rev. R. M. Campbell had charge of the funeral services.

CRUST.—After almost a year's illness with heart disease, Mrs. Reuben Crust died at her home near Filmore last Friday evening. Her maiden name was Miss Jennie Shope and she was about fifty-two years of age. Surviving her are the following children: Harry, of Bellefonte; Jay, of Pleasant Gap; Roy, of State College; Earl and Walter, at home. Rev. A. L. Frank, of the Stormstown Methodist church, officiated at the funeral, which was held on Monday afternoon; interment being made in Meyer's cemetery.

GARNER.—Levi Garner, a well known resident of Gatesburg, died quite suddenly on Sunday evening, aged sixty years. He was a lumberman by occupation and a hard working, industrious gentleman. He was a member of the Lutheran church and a good citizen in every way. He is survived by his wife, who prior to her marriage was a Miss Strayer, but no children. Rev. J. S. Shultz officiated at the funeral which was held on Wednesday morning, burial being made in the Gatesburg cemetery.

CRONISTER.—Mrs. George Cronister, of the Cross Roads, Huntingdon county, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles R. Wertz, in Tyrone, on Monday morning. She went to Tyrone on July 1st and was taken so ill with a complication of diseases that she could not be taken home and her death was the result.

Her maiden name was Miss Barbara Elmyra Grazier, and she was born at Warriorsmark about fifty-nine years ago. On January 16th, 1873, she was married in Bellefonte to George Cronister, of Centre Line, and ever since the family has resided at the Cross Roads. In addition to her husband she is survived by the following children: Martin, of Cross Roads; Daisy, of Osceola Mills; John, Mrs. Charles R. Wertz, Mrs. B. W. Martz and Elmer, of Tyrone; Mrs. Luther Houser, of State College; Ralph, of Altoona, and Harry, of Petersburg. She also leaves a number of brothers and sisters, namely: Martin, of Altoona; Elmer and Mrs. David Ray, of Barnesboro; Oscar, of Penn station; Mrs. John R. Lemon, of Gatesburg; Mrs. David Lykens and Theodore, of Tyrone. Her religious faith was that of a Dunkard and her whole life was that of an exemplary Christian.

Brief funeral services were held at the home of her daughter in Tyrone on Tuesday evening and Wednesday morning the remains were taken to the Cross Roads, where final services were held in the Dunkard church, burial being made in the cemetery of that denomination.

JORDAN.—Irvin Dilling Jordan died quite suddenly, at his home in Howard, last Friday evening. He had recently recovered from a spell of sickness and was around as usual when he was taken sick on Thursday evening and died twenty-four hours later, from hemorrhages of the stomach. He was born at Fairmount, Neb., and was not quite twenty-eight years old. He went to Howard several years ago as a tower operator on the Bald Eagle Valley railroad and only last May was united in marriage to Miss Zelma Elizabeth Yearick, of that place. His family is now located at Fruitdale, Ala. Funeral services were held in the Reformed church at Howard at ten o'clock on Monday morning. Rev. E. F. Faust officiated and was assisted by Rev. H. I. Crow, of Hubsburg. Burial was made in the Reformed cemetery at Jacksonville under the auspices of the I. O. O. F.

WITMER.—At eight o'clock last Saturday evening Miss Catharine Witmer died at the home of her niece, Mrs. Catharine Brown, at Proserstown, in Spring township, of paralysis, after an illness of some weeks. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sebastian Witmer, and was born in Union county on August 5th, 1825, so that her age at death was eighty-six years and eight months. Most of her life, however was spent in Centre county. Surviving her are one brother and three sisters, namely: William Witmer, of Buffalo Run; Mrs. Susan Zimmerman, Mrs. Margaret Baney and Mrs. Daniel Eberhart, of Bellefonte. She was a member of the Reformed church, where the funeral services were held at ten o'clock on Tuesday morning. Dr. Ambrose M. Schmidt officiating. Burial was made in the Union cemetery.

HUNTER.—John Hunter, a veteran of the Civil war and a well known resident of Beech Creek, died on Wednesday after an illness of some weeks with a complication of diseases, aged seventy-seven years. He was a member of the Methodist church, of the G. A. R. and P. O. S. of A. He is survived by his wife, three sons, two daughters and four sisters. The funeral will be held today (Friday.)

ZIMMERMAN.—Mrs. Bertha Zimmerman died at her home in Johnstown on Tuesday of last week and on Wednesday the remains were taken to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lowrie Shope, at Curtin, from where the funeral was held on Friday. Deceased was aged thirty-one years and is survived by her husband, five small children, her parents and a number of brothers and sisters.

SNYDER.—JOHNSON.—Two weeks ago yesterday Charles Snyder, of State College, and Miss Tillie Johnson, of Pine Hall, were among the crowd at the picnic at Hunter's park of the State College camp, Modern Woodmen of America. But they evidently had planned a better picnic than that for themselves for, hiring a neighboring farmer's horse and buggy, they drove to Millheim where they boarded the train for parts unknown, after securing a man to return the rig to the owner. The two young people returned home last Saturday and announced the fact that they were married, but so far have kept the facts in connection therewith a secret, though it is believed the marriage took place at Atlantic City. They are now making arrangements to go to housekeeping at State College.

SPRAW.—BOWER.—On Sunday, August 6th, Jacob B. Spraw and Miss Sadie C. Bower, both of Boalsburg, were united in marriage at the Reformed parsonage in that place by the pastor, Rev. S. C. Stover. During the past four years or longer Miss Bower had been Mr. Spraw's housekeeper and now has made her residence with him permanent.

—Mrs. Huber, of Williamsport, who has been in Bellefonte for two months, visiting with her sister, Mrs. Tom Hamilton, is slowly convalescing from a two weeks illness.

CAPT. RUNKLE RESIGNS.—Monday's Philadelphia papers contained an announcement of the resignation of Captain George P. Runkle as commander of the Pennsylvania nautical schoolship Adams, which was sent to the board of directors on Tuesday of last week. In his resignation Captain Runkle asserts that because of the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, it has not been possible to maintain the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer, Captain Charles C. Platt, with the discipline aboard ship that should exist, and because of this fact the boys and the ship are dirty and the general condition degrading. Captain Runkle openly charges the opposition of the school ship's executive officer,